Canada, drawn against Austria, Germany and Italy in preliminary play, is considered a certainty for a final berth. The United States and Czechoslovakia, playing with Poland in group B, also are expected to advance easily while Russia and Sweden figure to have little difficulty with Switzerland in group C.

Austria and Italy meet in Thursday's opening game with Canada and Germany taking over as soon as the first game ends. Canada meets Austria in one of four games set for Friday and will be one of three to be played Saturday.

Right winger George Schales, out Tuesday with a three-stitch skate cut, is expected to rejoin the Dutchmen for today's practice session. The rest of the Canadians are in top shape.

Russian Threat, Injury Jinx Shadow Olympics Opening

By TED SMITH

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The brightest winter Olympics yet opens Thursday in the shadow of an injury jinx and a surprising threat from a Russian powerhouse.

There is also a disturbing lack of snow.

The colorful opening-day spectacle, set for the $1,250,000 ice rink stadium, begins shortly before noon here in the Italian Alps—while most folks in North America are sleeping away the early morning hours.

Eight gold-medal winners from the 1952 Games at Oslo will be among the 1,100 athletes who will represent 32 countries.

The returning champions include Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., a double winner in skiing, and Norway's Hjalmar Andersen, a triple winner on speed skates.

Mrs. Lawrence said she believes this will be her last big international competition because "my family comes first." She intends to retire from the big meets to stay with her husband and three children on their Colorado ranch.

Shortly after the parade, the rink will be cleared and the first actual competition begins with Austria meeting Italy and Canada playing Germany in ice hockey.

Keen competition has aroused excitement among fans and sports-writers. Each night huddled groups discuss team and individual prospects, and 36 hours before the opening, this was the outlook.

The Russians, entering their first winter Games, will clean up in speed skating and will do well in cross-country skiing. They also will challenge in hockey.

Norway, entering the seventh winter Olympics with most of its strongest teams, probably will squeak out a team victory in the unofficial point standings.

The United States, with Mrs. Lawrence below par, will be content to win two gold medals—in the women's figure skating with Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., despite her gashed leg, and in the men's figure event with Hayes Allen Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Italy will take the two-man and four-man bobs, unless the U.S. team—or possibly the Germans or Swiss—can crowd in.

Few towns anywhere could have matched Cortina's preparation. Italy and this resort have spent $8,000,000 and set an example for the U.S. and Squaw Valley, Calif.—the 1960 site.

The Olympians have equalled their grand surroundings thus far, with as little friction as can be expected. They've managed record performances in practice. Italy's Eugenio Monti set a two-man bob record in 1:37.16 Tuesday with a total time of 2:44.54 for two runs. Waightman Washburn of East Hartford, Conn., was right behind in 2:46.83.

Mercurys Edge Bulldogs 3-2

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A goal by Johnny Lumley with one second left to play in the third period gave Owen Sound Mercurys a 3-2 win over Windsor Bulldogs Tuesday night, and a firmer grip on the fourth and last playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

The loss kept Windsor in third place, one point behind Stratford Indians and now just one point ahead of Owen Sound.

Jack Stoddard put Owen Sound ahead in the second period, but Gord Haidy tied the score for Windsor at 1-1 before the session ended. Bobby Brown gave Windsor a 2-1 edge at 12:59 of the third period, but the Mercs stormed right back and Buck Forslund tied the count at 2-2.

Jackie Robinson Will Fight For Position

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson, who swallowed his pride and agreed to a $4,500 slash in salary, served notice today that he is prepared to make "the fight of my life" to retain his regular third-base job with Brooklyn Dodgers.

The veteran infielder, now in the twilight of a brilliant nine-year major league career, said his weight, always a sore point, is down to a respectable 210 pounds.

"I know everybody, and maybe that includes the Brooklyn front office, too, has already conceded the third-base job to Randy Jackson," he said. "But, as far as I'm concerned, he's got to take it away from me. And that's not going to be easy because I have no intention of sitting on the bench. If I didn't think I could play regularly . . . I would have quit."

The 37-year-old Robinson, who signed for $53,000, said this wasn't meant to cast any reflection on Jackson, who came to the Dodgers last December in a trade involving Don Hoak, Russ Meyer and others.

Olympic Hosts' Video Rights Big Question

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Should Olympic hosts be permitted to sell television rights commercially?

The International Olympic Committee tackled that tricky question today and failed to reach a decision. The subject comes up again Thursday but odds are a decision is months, perhaps years, away.

Australia is reported putting a $500,000 price tag on North American rights for the 1956 summer Games at Melbourne.

American television networks hinted broadly they will boycott the coverage unless the Aussies reconsider. The networks did that in the London Games in 1948.

Sponsoring countries—with Australia the most insistent—say they need the TV monies to help pay expenses. The networks contend they deserve the same free coverage given newspapermen, radio and still photographers.

Three North American networks —Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Company and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—are insisting on a decision by the IOC before the Melbourne Games.

'Y' Basketball

The "Green Pirates" defeated the Red Skyrockets Saturday in a keen, well played game. Ralph Boomhower led his team scoring 24 points a league record. Tom Potter and Bob Anderson went well for the losers scoring 16 and 14 respectively.

The teams — "Green Pirates" Ralph Boomhower (Capt.) 24, John Sager, Doug Tulk, Alan Hitchen, Bill Tyrrell.

"Red Skyrockets" — Donald Skinner (Capt.) 6, Gary Mozam 2, Tom Potter 16, Bob Anderson 14, Art Taylor.

Larks to Play Twilight Games

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Workman, vice-president of Montreal Alouettes, said Tuesday that the Big Four football club will play some twilight games next season.

Workman said the 16-game schedule will necessitate mid - week games and it is planned to start these possibly around 5:30 p.m., although no definite time has yet been decided.

Mantle Signs Believes Yanks Will Repeat

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle, now the second highest salaried player of New York Yankees, believes the American League champions will repeat in 1956 if the young pitchers come through.

The 24-year-old centrefielder, fully recovered from the thigh injury that limited his world series action to two hits, made no predictions concerning his own work for next season but indicated he is due for the greatest year of his career.

After signing a contract for a reported $30,000, which represents a $5,000 increase over his 1955 salary, Mantle reported today that he had been given a clean bill of health by the Yankee club physician for the first time since he injured his right knee in the 1951 world series.

Mantle was rewarded for his fine work last year when he batted .306, drove in 97 runs and led the American League with 37 home runs.

The highest paid Yankee is catcher Yogi Berra, the most recent estimate placing his salary at about $35,000.

CHARLIE CHASE LOSES

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Veteran Artie Towne of New York picked up points in the early rounds Tuesday night and went on to win a unanimous 15-round decision over former Canadian middleweight titlist Charlie Chase of Montreal. Towne weighed 156½, Chase 157¾.

Dutchies Meet Three Canadian Service Teams

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's standard-bearer in the Olympic hockey tournament, have scheduled three games against Canadian service teams in West Germany next month.

Team manager Frank Gomm said Tuesday the Dutchmen expect to play an RCAF team at Wiesbaden and Solingen Feb. 6 and 7, and a Canadian Army team at Soest Feb. 8.

"It's a tight schedule and we'll have to keep our fingers crossed that weather conditions won't prevent the team from flying to Wiesbaden," Gomm said.

Hockey Referees At Olympics File Protest

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—The 15 Olympic hockey referees held an angry meeting today and approved a joint protest over living accommodations and failure to reimburse them for personal expenses.

Complaints have been few over arrangements at this elaborately staged Olympics, but the whistle-tooters were really unhappy at their informal session.

Some are reported planning to return to their homes before the games start Thursday unless better accommodation is found.

"Our rooms are terrible . . . the worst I've seen during 15 years of handling international matches," said veteran Swiss referee Kurt Knausser.

ABSENCE SURPRISED

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said he would try to straighten the trouble out at a formal meeting with the referees later today.

"I'm surprised at the complaints —will certainly look into them," said Ahearne. "The referees are getting a better deal this year from the Italian Olympic committee than they've ever had before."

In the room occupied by FO Louis Lecompte of Ottawa, an RCAF photographer stationed at the Canadian air division headquarters in France, clothes were piled on the one chair in the room because of inadequate cupboard space. Visitors had to step over luggage in the cramped quarters to find a seat on the bed.

"It isn't a room, it's a pigsty," said Bill Dwars of Amsterdam, who shares the room with the Canadian referee.

OLD STORY

"I've refereed two Olympic series and five world championships and this is the worst yet."

Lecompte, a member of the RCAF Flyers team that won the Olympic championship for Canada in 1948, declined direct comment on the situation, but indicated he would support the referees' protest "all the way."

"I guess it's the old story, nobody loves a referee," he said.

Dumont Counsel Admits Dealings With Guild

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Dreyer, general counsel for the Dumont Broadcasting Company, Tuesday testified he dealt with Charley Johnston, Joe Kearns and Bill Daly, top officials of the International Boxing Guild, to set up the Monday night television fight contracts on April 27, 1954.

Dreyer took the stand at a hearing by the state athletic commission into charges that Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, who ran the Monday TV fights from St. Nicholas Arena, associated with "persons convicted of crime, bookmakers, gamblers and persons of similar pursuits," in violation of the boxing law.

Before the hearing started, Gilzenberg surrendered his licence as treasurer of the London Sporting Club and announced he had sold his interest to Sullivan. The London B.C. has the license from the athletic commission to promote the Monday fights, telecast over the Dumont network.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the commission, refused to accept the tendered resignation pending an investigation of the circumstances leading to it.

Weightlifting

On January 21, The Belleville YMCA lifting team went to Toronto to participate in their first Ontario Weightlifting Championships, and gave a very good account of themselves.

Bill McMurter came home with a second place medal in the Featherweight Class. Out of a large field of light weight contestants Joe Cox finished fourth, followed closely by Bob Wesley. Don Cherry showed a light heavy division for fifth place and was followed closely by Ken Carr-Braint. The boys will go into serious training all summer with hopes of doing better at the next meet.

TO FIGHT FOR GC GAME

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toronto will have to fight for the Grey Cup football if they want it this year, Phil Webb, general manager of the B.C. Lions, said Tuesday.

Both Vancouver and Toronto will bid for the game next March, and Toronto will have to put up a pretty good campaign to win it back," said Webb, who attended the recent Western Interprovincial Football Union meeting in Winnipeg.

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's pass up the big television shows and take a look at a relatively obscure program which made its debut on the CBS-TV network at 11:30 a. m. Sunday.

"Camera Three" dramatized Fedor Dostoevsky's short story, "The Dream of a Ridiculous Man," for its network debut, with John Drainie, the Canadian radio actor.

The theme of the one-man drama was the conflict within individual mankind and how one "ridiculous man" came to the conclusion that good rather than evil is the normal condition of human nature. Drainie played superbly the role of the "ridiculous man."

"Camera Three" in the past has revealed the artistic adventures of TV in multi-part dramatizations of "Moby Dick," "The Red Badge of Courage," and "Crime and Punishment."

GOOD TELEVISION

It is not snobbery or an effort to be high-brow that makes one say "Camera Three" is good television. It's good because it's daring. It shuns the idea that a thing must be popular to be good and demands some intellectual effort from its viewers.

The CBS and NBC television networks are aware of the necessity for experimentation and corrections. If they ever cease trying to do different—and different—things, then everything said about the low level of television may quickly become absolutely true.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Avoid like a pestilence the exceptions to bridge rules you know to be sound. If exceptions seem frequent enough there will be a good rule to take care of that deficiency.

There came the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠ K 8 4 2
♥ Q 10 8 3
♣ A K 8 5

WEST
♠ 7 6 3
♥ A 9 5
♣ 9 7 3

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 6 4 2
♦ J 10 8 5
♣ 10 7 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 9 5
♥ K J
♣ J 8 4

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 Spade	3 Clubs
4 No-Trump	5 Spades
6 Clubs	6 Spades

In answer to four no-trump, five spades is Gordon convention for showing one ace and two kings. Having decided earlier that the club suit was satisfactory for trumps, south went to six clubs.

Rule is that the four no-trumper decides the final contract. In this case, however, north changed this decision to six spades and I am asked if this was not a worthy exception.

It is worthy, but it is not an exception. It is a combination of two rules. Another rule says that a partner should help decide the best trump suit for his pals.

When north bid clubs, south could not be blamed for assuming it to be satisfactory trump suit. So his desire to ask about aces and kings he prevents north from showing the good spade support.

Since it did not increase the final contract number, north was able to show that spade support. He knew it could not be a bad final bid in any form of clubs that south might hold.

North knows that south has at least four spades. Their total must be at least eight spades. If south has less or more than four clubs, the spade may be with spades as trump.

Bridge is sound where rules abound.

Gaels, Blues Open College Football Oct. 6

TORONTO (CP)—Queen's Golden Gaels who shellacked University of Toronto Blues 19-0 in Kingston last fall to win the 1953 senior intercollegiate football title, open the 1956 season Oct. 6 against the Blues in Toronto.

The playing schedule, released Tuesday, has McGill Redmen playing at London against the University of Western Ontario Mustangs the same day:

Oct. 6—London at Toronto, McGill at Western
Oct. 13—Toronto at McGill, Western at Queens
Oct. 20—McGill at Queens, Western at Toronto
Oct. 27—Queens at McGill, Toronto at Western
Nov. 3 — McGill at Toronto, Queens at Western
Nov. 10—Western at McGill, Toronto at Queens
Nov. 17—Play-off if required.

Injuries Toll Mounting In Olympics Camps

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The mounting toll of injuries has kept the doctors almost as busy as the athletes of more than 30 nations who are training here for the Winter Olympic Games which start Thursday.

More than 30 athletes have required hospital treatment since Olympic practice began here a fortnight ago. But only eight suffered fractures and some of these may get into the Games.

Leslie Streeter, American downhill skier from Northfield, Vt., who suffered torn ligaments and a fractured shoulder in a spill Monday, was permitted to leave the hospital Tuesday.

Tenley Albright, world figure skating champion from Newton Center, Mass., who gashed her leg with a skate a few days ago, has resumed practice and expects to be in good form for the Games.

Quinte Girls Lose 35-14 To Napanee

The girls' Junior A basketball team of Quinte Secondary school suffered its second setback in two league starts Tuesday afternoon when it was trounced 35-14 by Napanee collegiate at Napanee.

The homesters were models of consistency as they built a 17-5 half-time lead. They added 18 points in the second half.

Dorothy Droupe led the fast moving winners with 14 points.

The loss gave the Quinte girls a split in two games this week. In an exhibition game in Madoc on Monday night they downed Madoc girls 43-23 with guard Joan MacDonald scoring 23 points.

LINEUPS

Quinte: Carolyn Hatfield 4; Judy Aselstine 3; Annette Ducette 1; Lynda Canning; Joan MacDonald 3; Barbara Thrasher 4; Diane Wright, Dawn Denford, Lois MacDonald and Helen Ashley.

Napanee: Elaine Ross 6; Noreen Lees 4; Shirley Willard 9; Dorothy Droupe 14; Shirley Gibson 2; Irene Hagerman; Susanne Scarlett; Joan Hudgins, Margaret Pringle and Bessie Garrison.

Giambra's Hopes Rest on Fight With Andrews

"This is an important fight for me," said Giambra, the 24-year-old challenger from Buffalo, N.Y. "In fact, it will be my first fight since last Aug. 26 when I fought Bobo Olson."

"I'm sure I can beat Joey," Andrews, also 24, said.

Neither Giambra nor Andrews predicted a quick finish. Giambra has scored 24 knockouts and won 41 of 46. He has never been knocked out. Andrews' record includes 43 victories, 14 defeats and two draws. The only man to knock him out is Bobby Boyd.

Snowshoers Buck Winds, Storm

COLEBROOK, N.H. (AP)—Two Cornwall, Ont., snowshoers bucked a snowstorm and high winds Tuesday in a single 14½-hour, 53-mile trek that brought them almost a third of their way from Sherbrooke, Que., to the International Snowshoe Congress in Lewiston, Me.

Congress officials "grounded" Arthur Hamilton, 24, and Marcel Turemme, 28, Tuesday night at Colebrook for the night's rest. They had planned to make the 168-mile hike nonstop in 66 hours.

Blanchard and Turemme seemed in fine shape when they arrived here. They hope to reach Dover-Foxcroft, Me. today and ramble from there into Lewiston by Thursday night.

TABBIES SIGN END

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—All-America end Howard Schnellenberger has signed a football contract with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Big Four.

Neither coach Jim Trimble, who signed the University of Kentucky star here, nor Schnellenberger disclosed terms of the one-year pact.

By BOB THOMAS

The hero (Fess Parker) even gets to kiss the girl!

Trust Walt to do things differently. It seems incredible that the prolific producer hasn't tackled a western before, but it's true. He classifies his brief cartoon feature, "Pecos Bill," as legend. "Davy Crockett" was "historical," with some legend thrown in.

Now he's shooting "Westward Ho the Wagons," the story of a pioneer drive across the plains.

"There'll be no cavalry," Disney announced. "And the Indian fight comes in the middle, not at the end. But the settlers don't form a circle to fight the Indians off. They race toward a gap, where safety lies.

"The Indians aren't just killers; they want something. So Fess stampedes a herd of horses right into their charge. Each Indian scrambles to get a horse for himself, and the attack is broken.

EASY ON BLOOD-SHED

"We'll have to wound a few of them, but we aren't going overboard. Yakima Canutt (action adviser) wanted to explode one of the wagons for a spectacular scene. But I told him settlers wouldn't be carrying that much powder."

Disney said he planned the picture as a change of pace for Fess, himself kind of the wild frontier gets to play a doctor in this one, and he has some romance for the first time. He even gets a kiss from his lady love, pretty Kathy Nolan. Fess is contrary to the unwritten code for western heroes, who are supposed to kiss their horses only.

"But we're not going to have a lot of loving and smooching," Disney assured. "There's too darned much of that in pictures. The kids resent it."

The Disney studio is going at peak production. Just how much production astounded even Walt when he figured up the total number of film footage in a year. It came to about 750,000 feet of film. That's a lot of celluloid, when you consider that the average feature runs around 45,000 feet. It's doubtful if any other Hollywood studio is producing as much film as Disney.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the stars in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the signs.

For Thursday, January 26, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An in-between sort of day with good agencies intermixed with conflicting ones. So! Take time to select carefully the most urgent matters, attend to them, then the rest in order.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Some obstacles for you so far today but you have more generous aspects now for personal interests and the artistic items you like and need. Plus for matters requiring sturdy intelligence.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not many "don'ts" today but at same time you are advised to be alert and watchful for possible pitfalls as could occur with oversureness or speed. Be your keen self. Good benefits.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your natural talents plus your kindly, sympathetic disposition are in demand these days. Today will greatly benefit you and others through cheerful use of all fine traits.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Bright prospects for an ambitious you. Take time to think of others' rights as you hustle along with your affairs. There is always time for an encouraging word, and you can give that word.

August 24 to September 22 — (Virgo) — It is proper to attend to personal requirements as to self, family and others. Improved returns from now worthy efforts. Especially favored: your occupation, matters for which you are trained.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Among sponsored: Manufacturing, building, handling current supplies, military and other necessary services. This day urged ambition, initiative, creative talent, confidential issues.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Be direct, keenly alert, but not sharp or brusque. It will be helpful to heed sound advice and only best suggestions. Day can be profitable; you may need cooperation. Seek it.

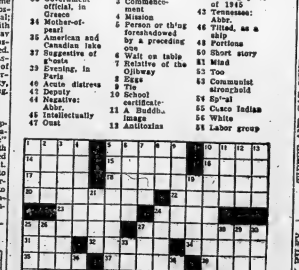
November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — The artistic and smart, added to everyday tasks as well as to the important ones will give whole day a general uplift. Don't strain but do get ahead.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Routine matters, intricate study and problems sponsored today but everything won't come easy, you may have to double your patience and be more gracious than usual.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Decency, dignity, freedom are our heritage in this and other free lands. Be grateful to God and country for these blessings; bravely support, guard them.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You are deft, clever and can produce as much good as the next person but may need to urge yourself at times. Do so, and you will advance as you deserve. Good aspects.

You born today are unassuming, kindly and talented. Usually an even temper but can become stubbornly adamant when opposed. Are inventive, logical, practical; can incorporate others' ideas with your own to great advantage. May tend to lose ambition if not occasionally urged forward, encouraged. May seek too much pleasure. Associate and work with persons of high ideals and intelligent determination. You have great ability. Develop it! Birthdate: Gen'l Douglas MacArthur; Joan Leslie, actress.



DEVELOP NEW X-RAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of a new dental x-ray machine that takes a "panoramic" x-ray picture of the whole mouth in about 40 seconds was announced Monday night by the government. It makes it possible to reduce to less than five minutes the overall time required for a dentist to make a "full mouth" survey—compared with 30 minutes required under present techniques.

EXECUTED BY GUILLOTINE
PARIS (CP)—Louis Mathieu, 24, was executed here Tuesday for murdering a taxi driver. He was the fourth Frenchman to die on the guillotine in three years. Most death sentences in France are commuted and few imprisoned, but the public prosecutor had stated that Mathieu should be executed in view of a wave of attacks on taxi drivers.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

DROP U. S. PLANS

WOLFSBURG, Germany (CP)— The Volkswagen Motor Works here announced Tuesday that it has dropped plans to manufacture Volkswagen cars in the United States. The management said investigations had revealed that production of Volkswagens in the U.S. would have meant either increasing the price or reducing quality because of the comparatively small number which could have been turned out.

KILLED BY CURTAIN ROD

CHICAGO (AP) — Milton Alexander, 13, was killed Tuesday when struck on the head by a 30-inch brass curtain rod thrown accidentally by a schoolmate while they were walking to school. The rod was being used by Thomas Carr, 12, as a bat for striking a tennis ball can. It flew out of his hand and struck young Alexander.

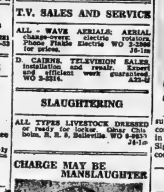
U.S. NAVY PLANS FIRST A-TOM-POWERED SURFACE SHIP



This is an artist's conception of the first atomic-powered vessel, a guided missile cruiser which is included in a $1,439,000,000 U.S. navy program calling for construction and modernization of 41 vessels. The newest ship is said to be equally effective against sea, air, land and undersea targets. The house armed services committee approved the authorization bill 31 to 0. (Central Press Canadian).

MONTY FAILS AS BAND LEADER

Taking the job very seriously, Viscount Montgomery, deputy supreme commander Allied powers in Europe, tries his hand at conducting the orchestra at the annual dinner of SHAPE officers in Paris, France. The director of music, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Capt. J. R. Lyon is beside the field marshal smiling encouragement. (Central Press Canadian.)

CHARGE MAY BE MANSLAUGHTER

In Brockville, Ont., the case of Mrs. Virginia Ricks is being considered and the result will decide if she is to go on trial for murder or for manslaughter. She is involved in the death of George Franklin Knapp, shot to death in her Rideau Lane summer home on December 30th. Mrs. Ricks is the daughter of the ex-mayor of Syracuse, N.Y. (Central Press Canadian).

Key witness in the preliminary trial is Francis Byrnes who was present in the cottage the night of the shooting. He said there was a scuffle during a drinking party and that he saw Mrs. Ricks and the deceased struggling for possession of a gun. (Central Press Canadian).

Will Warn Students About Sex Deviates

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Grantham township school board Tuesday night approved a program of sex education in township schools designed to warn students of the dangers of deviates.

LEAGUE PRESIDENTS MEET

Ralph Cooper (left) of Hamilton, president of the Big Four football league, and Jack Rowland, Regina, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, preside jointly over a meeting of Canadian football executives at Winnipeg. Delegates recommended formation of an over-all organization to deal with matters of common interest. (CP Photo).

NEWSMEN GIVE IKE REASON TO PONDER

Even a chief of state is not immune to pointed and difficult questions, at least, but when he is chief of state of a democratic country, President Eisenhower, in his press conferences, finds there is much to ponder as he tries to answer the questions directed at him by newsmen who put no punches even when their informant is the top man in the country.

Vatican Paper Protests French Revue's Visit

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano Tuesday night protested against planned performances by scantily-clad French dancing girls in Rome, which it called a city of "sacred character."

The newspaper said a Paris revue troupe, specializing in exciting "the basest instincts," is at present performing in Naples, despite protests by the Neapolitan archbishop's office.

The newspaper said the management of the troupe gave "each girl dancer three postage stamps, explaining they were clothes."

"Wearing nun - like hoods, the dancers pirouette to the rhythm of Gounod's Ave Maria," it said.

It added that those who arranged the tour "ignored precise rules laid down in the concordat (agreement concluded in 1929 between the Holy See and Italy) which impose respect for the sacred character of Rome."

Reformatory Inmate Dies of Blood Poisoning

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said today a Guelph reformatory prisoner died in hospital Tuesday because of the care he got at the reformatory.

Mr. MacDonald said the prisoner's relatives have demanded an inquest.

Ross Middlehurst, 22, of Orangeville, died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph, two days after he was admitted. Hospital doctors said he died of blood poisoning.

Coroner Dr. T. R. Pickard said Middlehurst died of blood poisoning after nicking his lip while shaving. He said it is "very rare" for anyone to die in this way because modern drugs are available.

Doctors said the infected drugs had been used, but without effect. Dr. Pickard said "possibly the infection had a head start before they began."

Mr. MacDonald said, "clearly the underlying cause arises from the care he got in the institution."

Middlehurst was sentenced to six months in the reformatory Sept. 12 for stealing 31 cows. He appeared before a parole board Jan. 18 and was to be paroled Feb. 14. He was described as a well-behaved prisoner.

A post-mortem is being conducted at St. Joseph's Hospital but no inquest has yet been planned, said Dr. Pickard.

Troops Battle Cypriot Pupils

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Troops and police charged with swinging clubs into a Cyprus student demonstration today, and also used tear gas in an effort to disperse the demonstrators.

Three students were taken to hospital and three were arrested.

The students had formed a procession in their school stadium while British security forces took up position nearby. Then, led by a girl carrying two flags, the students came streaming out, shouting "Long live Zeke," (anti-British terrorist organization) and began to stone the British troops.

Senator Defends Regulations for Unwed Mounties

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP's refusal to permit its men to marry until they have served five years in the force was defended Tuesday night in the Senate by Solicitor-General Macdonald.

Senator Macdonald, government leader in the Senate, was replying to previous suggestions by Senators John T. Haig, Opposition leader, and David Croll (L—Ontario) that the ban be lifted.

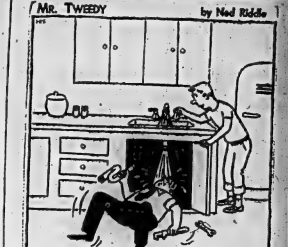
Senator Haig described as an outrage the discharge of six constables in Alberta for breaking marriage regulations. Senator Croll said the thinking behind the regulation is antiquated.

However, Senator Macdonald said no influence should be placed on the force to change the regulation. It was necessary because members of the force were moved many times during their first five years of service. He noted that constables are told three times before enlisting that they must remain single for a five-year period.

Gunsmith Shot While at Work

TORONTO (CP) — Russell Guy, 50-year-old Chatham gunsmith, was in only "fair" condition in Toronto Western Hospital, suffering spinal paralysis as a result of an accidental shooting in the Chatham workshop.

Police said Guy's father, Robert, was working on a stockless .22-calibre rifle Tuesday night when the gun discharged. The bullet struck Russell in the neck.



He was transported to Toronto in a police-escorted ambulance.

END CURRENT TESTS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission ended the current phase of its series of safety tests Tuesday at the southern Nevada proving grounds. In an experiment last week four men received over-normal doses of radioactivity, but none suffered ill effects.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop came down to breakfist singing, saying to me, My dear, do you realize that this is the best of all months? weirded

I suppose so, but just why, sudd'nma said, and pop said, Because I got up feeling like a lark. Statistics show that larks are the only animals who never have stiff backs, and this morning my back feels like a stainless steel spring. I think I'll have 13 cups of coffee to celebrate, he said.

Now William, if you're concerned about your back, it's no time to keep from the frying pan into the fire, ma said.

Meaning 2 cups of coffee are all that's supposed to be good for his health, and pop said, All right, then, I'll just have 2 unusually full cups.

Oh dear, we dont appricate our helth till the years start to pile up, ma said. Now in my own case, I feel like shouting for joy if I get a whole month without a twing in my shoulder, he said, and I said, G, that's right all right. You have to get old before you realize your helth might of lasted longer if you had took better care of it while you had lots of it, I said.

How would you know a thing like that for land sakes? ma said, and I said, I found out on the way home from school. Two little kids were splashing through puddles of water without their rubbers on, and warned them they would catch cold, but they didn't pay any attention. When they got to be my age I bet they'll wish they had listed to me, I said.

Yes gods, Benny will probably live to be a 100, pop said.

Which I probably will if I keep on feeling the way I do now.

Charge Negligence

TORONTO (CP)—A 85-mile-an-hour chase by three provincial police cruisers on the Queen Elizabeth way west of here Tuesday night ended in a charge of criminal negligence against Karle Schumbi, 32.

Police caught the car when it went out of control, spinning five times around before it stopped.

Expect Report Will Favor Toll Highways

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads has wound up its hearings and begun preparation of a report, it was reported today.

Queen's Park sources say the report will endorse the principle of toll-road construction within the province.

Most testimony before the committee, it is reported, has favored the self-liquidating system of financing.

Wednesday, however, the Ontario Good Roads Association said in a brief that there are not enough data to indicate the feasibility of Ontario toll roads. The association said independent engineering and economic surveys should be made to determine whether the province can support such roads.

'Almost Ideal' Control of Water Levels in 1958

TORONTO (CP)—The International Joint Commission said today the water level of Lake Ontario will be brought under "almost ideal" control by 1958.

Gen. G. A. Vanier, Canadian chairman of the Canadian section of the commission, said after a commission meeting today the beaches in Lake Ontario will be held between a minimum of 244 above sea level and a maximum of 248 feet during the navigation season.

This will prevent spring flooding in the lakes and save hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage now caulked by erosion.

The Lake Ontario level during the navigation season now varies between a minimum of 240 feet and a maximum of more than 250 feet.

Gen. McNaughton said the levels will be controlled by dams and channels now being constructed along the site of the St. Lawrence seaway.

FORT ENDRANGERED

NIAGARA-on-the-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. W. E. Theobald said Wednesday Fort Mississaugi, built 142 years ago, is in danger of sliding into the Niagara river. He told Niagara town council the bluff on which the fort stands is being undermined by the river.

ANNOUNCE AWARDS

LONDON (Reuters) —The Beaverbrook Foundation Wednesday night announced five awards which they will offer for one year from September, 1956, tenable at the University of New Brunswick, and worth a total of $8,500 plus expenses. The foundations were set up in September, 1954, by Lord Beaverbrook, as a British Empire educational trust.

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: While cloudy skies and some light snow were general over northern regions, most of southern Ontario remained clear during the night. Temperatures ranged from near 15 degrees to six below zero.

Little change in the weather is indicated for today and Friday and as a result, most of southern Ontario will remain mostly cloudy and cool, while some light snow conditions in northern sections.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev appear to be launching a new Russian peace offensive designed to revive the "spirit of Geneva" and regain a measure of Western goodwill.

The timing of their moves suggests, too, that they want to offset in advance any criticism of their current behavior during President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden may make following talks here next week.

The two governments may signal a renewed Soviet emphasis on peace:

1. Premier Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower, delivered with full diplomatic ceremony Wednesday. While the contents have not been officially disclosed, the letter was described by the White House as "friendly" in tone and containing "certain ideas" for Eisenhower to "study further in the interest of promoting world peace."

MOSCOW INTERVIEW

2. An interview which Khrushchev, the Communist party chief, gave in Moscow to Marshall MacDuffie, a New York lawyer who is a long-time acquaintance. MacDuffie quoted Khrushchev as saying he thinks American leaders including Eisenhower basically strive for peace and do not want war.

MacDuffie said he spent more than three hours with Khrushchev, whom he quoted as saying Soviet leaders believe there should be a further relaxation of international tensions.

He described all of Khrushchev's references to Eisenhower as "very friendly."

MacDuffie, now representing the International Trade Shows of New York, was chief of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in the Soviet Ukraine for a time after the Second World War. He first met Khrushchev then, and saw him again on trips to Russia in 1953 and 1954.

NAMED EDEN

He did not correspondents in Moscow that Khrushchev named Eden and French Premier Edgar Faure as among the Western leaders who in the opinion of Soviet officials do not want war.

Eden now is en route to the United States on the liner Queen Elizabeth. A dispatch from the ship said his party showed no surprise at the Bulganin letter to Eisenhower.

Washington sources familiar with the letter indicated it was a new approach to the problem of U.S.-Soviet relations and was not, as officials had thought likely in advance of its delivery, devoted primarily to disarmament.

One informant described it as "going beyond disarmament."

GOVT'S HANDLING OF COFFIN CASE IS CRITICIZED

Garson Accused Of Interference

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's handling of the much-publicized Wilbert Coffin murder case has come under sharp opposition criticism.

Davie Fulton, lawyer and Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops, charged Wednesday that it was "one of the most seriously bungled and mishandled cases in the history of the administration of justice in this country."

He accused Justice Minister Garson of flagrant interference in the judicial function of the Supreme Court of Canada in calling for its opinion on the case. The court, in a 3-to-2 opinion Tuesday, said it would have upheld Coffin's conviction if it had heard a formal appeal.

Last fall Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott rejected Coffin's application for leave to appeal his conviction for the slaying of Richard Lindsey, 19-year-old hunter from Holidaysburg, Pa., near the Canso Peninsula bush more than 2½ years ago.

Mr. Fulton said:

But the government then referred the case to the full court for its opinion, after Mr. Garson learned some of the court's members would have granted leave to appeal if they had heard the application.

"Chief Justice Abbott, former finance minister, in an impossible situation, if contacted, it could not help but bring the court into disrepute and lower its esteem in the eyes of the public.

Admittedly, the government was in a difficult position in having to decide whether to let the sentence stand Feb. 10, commute it to life imprisonment or order a new trial.

SUGGESTED SOLUTION

The solution, Mr. Fulton said, is to provide that "no application for leave to appeal in murder cases can be heard by the court unless the applications be granted automatically. Earlier, in the House question period, Mr. Garson declared the government is considering possible changes along this line.

Mr. Fulton's criticism was a highlight of the final day of the debate on speech debate, now in its 111 speeches in 10 sitting days. Conservative leader George Drew and Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that Prime Minister Eden of Britain will address a joint session of the Commons and the Senate Monday, during his visit to Ottawa.

George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) urged establishment of a special Commons committee to report on Canada's participation in export markets for Canadian products. The committee would examine better methods of production, packaging and a revision of industrial taxation policies.

Iroquois in Feathers, Buckskin And Paint Celebrate Thanksgiving

OHSWEKEN, Ont. (CP) — A conch-shell horn calls across the Six Nations reserve today and the Iroquois rise for another day of fervent chanting and prayer.

The ceremonies which include the Great Feather Dance, the Feast of the White Dog and the sacred gaming ceremony with peach stones, are held at the Onondaga longhouse. They have drawn Six Nations citizens from many parts of the United States and Canada.

By Iroquois legend, Handsome Lake was robbed of his land by the white man and degraded by his rum. For four years he suffered illness, meditated and died. He rose again after receiving a vision from the Four Messengers and he began to preach a religious revival that saved them from extinction. His ministry lasted 16 years.

During the daily services, chiefs and warriors, some in feathers, buckskin and paint, and their women in shawls and beaded dress with bowed heads as the blind preacher, Henry Lickteeper, David Thomas, chants.

Sacred tobacco is sprinkled on an outdoor fire.

The chanting drones on through the day, with words of hope for warmer weather, an early spring, a good flow of maple syrup, better hunting and fishing.

It asks that all animals, all birds, all people prosperous and happy and free of sin.

KETTLE SAVED THE DAY

Federal and Ontario Govts. Appear Split on Health Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Ontario governments appearing are split over cost-sharing of a national health insurance plan as the federal-provincial health conference goes into its fourth day.

Federal proposals on division of costs are not expected to be presented officially to the conference by Health Minister Martin until late today or possibly Friday.

But Provincial Treasurer Porter of Ontario has said he will oppose an unofficially-reported federal plan which would give provinces a sliding scale of percentage payments from the central government, based on the national average per capita cost of hospital care and diagnostic treatment.

In Toronto, Premier Frost of Ontario said he was "greatly concerned" about reports of the plan.

"The federal government must start thinking along the lines of the provinces that have to pull the load."

Mr. Porter said in an interview after Wednesday's meeting that Ontario is sticking to its original proposal of a 50-per-cent federal contribution to a plan which would start by providing comprehensive hospital coverage and diagnostic services.

Unofficially, it is reckoned that the federal plan would give Ontario a large number of the men under his command.

help with about half, or less, of its costs. Other provinces would receive higher or lower percentage contributions from Ottawa.

Any idea of Ontario letting them get away with 60 per cent of the nine provinces and 50 per cent to Ontario is a lot of nonsense," Mr. Porter said.

Mr. Martin declined in an interview to comment on Mr. Porter's statement. He said he is making all his comment at the closed meetings.

Meanwhile, further details were learned unofficially on the central government's reported 30-50 cost-sharing plan.

It was learned earlier this week that of several alternate formulas to be put forward by the federal government, it favors one calling for it to shoulder half the cost of a plan starting with diagnostic and hospital care.

Information Wednesday was that the federal 30-50 formula would be divided into 25-25 portions. To an individual province, one 25 per cent would be based on the national per capita cost of the services. The other 25 would be based on the province's own costs.

Federal informants said this plan would avoid big spreads in federal percentage payments to provinces with high costs and low costs, but still varying cost factors in each.

First Tupper Report Charges Police Fail to Enforce Laws

VICTORIA (CP)—Inadequate enforcement of criminal laws and lack of public cooperation in police draw extended criticism from R. H. Tupper in his first report on the problems of law enforcement in Vancouver.

The report, which also urged more money, more men and more training for Vancouver's police force, was tabled in the British Columbia legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner. Mr. Tupper was appointed a royal commissioner by Mr. Bonner last June to conduct an inquiry into Vancouver police affairs following reports of widespread corruption.

Mr. Tupper's 161-page report dealt solely with matters of administration and enforcement of the Criminal Code. A final report is expected to delve into the corruption charges which have featured many of the commission's hearings.

Throughout the 161 pages ran the theme that citizens of Vancouver can have protection against lawlessness only if they are willing to pay for it. They must have sufficient interest in the welfare of the force to see that it has a competent administration, good discipline and esprit de corps.

CHIEF "FRUSTRATED"

Walter Mulligan fired as police chief last October, drew only brief mention. Mr. Tupper found him lacking in the "essential element of leadership," saying he did not have the confidence and respect of Mr. Mulligan, who rose from detective sergeant in 1945 to chief in a 1955 police purge by the late Senator G. G. McGeer, then mayor, was frustrated by the lack of assistance of part of his duties by his failure to delegate authority.

In comparison with 9,444 cities in the United States, Vancouver was found to have the highest rate among the worst offenders for all crimes except murder. It "greatly exceeded" the rate of other Canadian cities on a per capita basis, the report said.

Among recommendations were: The police division be reorganized and enlarged to enable it to make a "planned attack upon major crime"; extension of the training program for recruits and the police training school; enlarging the three-man police commission to four members; and provision be taken to prevent disclosure of confidential information by members of the force.

Poison Gas Drum Stolen

TORONTO (CP)—Radio stations Wednesday night broadcast police warnings that a fifty-pound drum of gas stolen from a truck is lethal. They said the gas, sulphur dioxide used in refining oil, is a deadly poison if taken into the body in a closed room. Police said the drum carried only the chemical symbol SO2.

QUEBEC FIRE RAZES 2 HOTELS, STORE, 3 HOMES

60 Are Left Homeless In Three Rivers Area

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Sixty persons were forced into the street today when a six-hour fire destroyed two hotels, three homes and a store in Ste. Angele de Laval directly across the St. Lawrence river from here.

There were no injuries but Mayor Lucien Hellie estimated damage at $200,000.

Flames spread rapidly to an apartment above the store and from there to the nearby homes and the Aubert and Poirier hotels. The first hotel was empty except for Theodule Aubert and his family.

Two roomers and the family of Henri Poirier had time to dress and flee the other building.

Eight firemen carried into three destroyed homes. All had time to grab their clothes and set out but none of their belongings was saved.

'9 EQUIPMENT

Ste. Anne, a community of some 1,200, has no fire department and help had to be summoned from the neighboring town of Princeville, St. Gregoire, Gentilly and Pierreville.

Efforts to bring the blaze under control were further hampered by a lack of water and firemen had to string their hoses to the river and cut a hole through the ice.

All firemen were volunteers. The larger Trois-Rivieres brigade could not respond. Mayor Hellie apologized for connecting it with the south shore does not operate between 9 a. m. and 7 a. m.

While the Gentilly brigade was on its way, a garage in Gentilly was destroyed by fire. Three cars were destroyed.

Ontario Plans New Aid for Handicapped

WINDSOR (CP) — Welfare Minister Cecile said Wednesday the province is considering a plan to provide living allowances of up to $1,656 a year for handicapped persons taking rehabilitation treatment.

The program, he said, will make it possible for blind or otherwise physically handicapped citizens to afford lengthy courses required to become self-dependent once more.

He spoke at a dinner informally launching the Institute of Physical Medicine in Essex county. The institute, scheduled for 28 months, hospital, social, welfare and technical training organizations.

Mr. Cecile said the Ontario government will pay grants to handicapped persons undergoing rehab approved by local rehabilitation authorities according to the scale of payments: To unmarried persons $60 a month plus up to $15 extra when jobless; unmarried person with dependent child $90 a month; married man living in house but not receiving $105 a month; married living with spouse and with dependent child or children $115 a month.

The grants would be paid for a maximum of 18 months and approved by rehabilitation officials.

Eisenhower Requests 126 Million To Solve Cancer's 'Dark Mystery'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today for vote $126,250,000 for cancer research to penetrate the "dark mystery" of cancer and to combat other leading killers.

The request was made in a five-point program for a national campaign calling for "a renewed and reinvigorated attack on our health problems."

Eisenhower told Congress:

The nation in recent years has made notable advances in the unending struggle against mental disease and disability. Human suffering has been relieved, the span of man's years has been extended. But in the light of the human and economic toll still taken by disease in the light of the great opportunities open before us, the nation still has not summoned the resources it properly and usefully could to the conquest of the enemies of her health."

Eisenhower did not renew his request of last year for federal reinsurance of health insurance premiums which ran into opposition from the American Medical Association on grounds it might be an opening wedge to socialized medicine. He did, however, ask Congress.

Instead, Eisenhower said the administration is considering legislative proposals "looking at risks by private companies.

Ontario Will Need To Make Heavy Capital Outlays

Will Require 8 Billions In Decade for Expansion

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost predicted today that the next 10 years will bring unparalleled opportunities for Ontario, in power, production and population.

But he warned that the big advance will require huge outlays of public money and suggested there must be a reappraisal of the province's share of the direct tax field.

Ontario, he told the Gordon economic commission, must not be placed in a financial straitjacket by unsound tax policies.

He predicted that in the next two decades Ontario's population will increase by some 3,000,000 to 8,184,000 and this will bring great problems in providing sufficient schools, teachers, hospitals and other services that the population will require.

INCREASING DEMAND

During the next 10 years, he said, the increasing demand for public services will require sufficient capital outlays by the province and its municipalities of between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 for the extension and improvement of public services.

This would not include the vast sums required by industry to meet the need of economic expansion in a province that now produces half the country's manufactured goods and yields half the country's corporation and income taxes.

"Our living standards increased by over 30 per cent in the last 10 years," he told the federal commission.

"Personal and family security have been strengthened. There is no reason why, in the next decade and a half, those achievements cannot be surpassed. But if we are to do so, we will need to work out sound federal-provincial tax and other fiscal arrangements, designed to undertake the great public projects that will increase the efficiency and productivity of our workers and our industry.

"If we follow this course, those higher living standards can be achieved and the gap between prices made available in an ever-widening circle of people.

In his 184-page brief and in a press conference that preceded the submission, Mr. Frost set forward proposals to replace the current provincial-municipal tax rental agreements in 1957 with a more flexible plan are realistic and on the right track.

Ontario was in favor of distributing the wealth of the country more evenly among the provinces but there had to be some recognition that the province, that Ontario produces half the country's taxes. It has many services to the public and private projects to produce taxes.

STAGE SNOWBALL FIGHT

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A navy plane will leave the frozen country of St. Loud, Minn., Feb. 25 on an important mission of war: Bringing snowballs for a big snowball fight.

The mitten-guided missiles will be used in a snowball fight staged by the New Orleans recreation department for kids who have never seen snow.

NAVAL VETERANS TO HOLD MEET

The Naval Veterans Association, a newly-formed club, will hold a meeting this evening at the Sea Cadet headquarters and all ex-naval men are urgently requested to be on hand. This club is planning to assist the sea cadets in their work and also gather sufficient funds to have worthwhile entertainment for their members at the meetings each month. The club members are making plans for a dance in the early spring, when the wives and friends of the members will get together to have an old-fashioned lining bee on the war years.

Stamp Machine At Post Office For Late Comers

The salesman is a bright red metal box on the east side of the post office building—a dispensing machine manufactured by the Opal manufacturing company of Toronto.

Five cent stamps in handy five-stamp booklets are dispensed by this new service for the sum of 25 cents, one quarter of a dollar.

Other denominations may be added later but at present five centers reign alone.

The machine is just to the right of the Pinnacle St. letter and newspaper slots, easy of access, and ready for business 24 hours a day.

Introduction of the machines by the Post Office Department is part of a program to install stamp machines at airport terminals, in hotel lobbies, railway stations, and other points where busy letter writers usually discover that they are out of stamps.

Channel 11 Interference May Be Neighbor's Set

That peculiar netlike design which periodically fills across the screens of local television sets when they are tuned to Channel 11 may not be the fault of the set with which the pattern is appearing.

Rather, it is quite possible that it is the neighbor's set which is causing all the trouble. It is all a matter of interference.

It seems that certain sets when tuned to Channel 7 can raise vibrations with the neighbor's set when it is tuned in on Channel 11.

However, this peculiar type of interference occurs only when the neighbor's set has a "low I.F." That term means little to the layman but in the vernacular of a television expert "low I.F." means low intermediate frequency and sets with this particular type of equipment can cause interference on a neighbor's set as far as 300 feet away.

SEND SET BACK

But there is no need to get mad at the neighbor and neither is there any need for him to get rid of his TV. Mr. W. B. Doubleday, in charge of tele-communications for the Department of Transport, in Kingston area, says that the firm which manufactured the trouble-making set will straighten it. All that is required is to crate it up and ship it back to the manufacturer, express prepaid.

But at the same time, just to keep peace in the neighborhood which watches Channel 11 frequently, it might be well to check your own sent for "low IF." For maybe your set is interfering with the neighbor it.

All that is required is to turn your set in Channel 11 and call the neighbor and ask him to tune in Channel 11.

If the interference appears on his set then yours is in all likelihood is to blame.

Mr. Doubleday's department is constantly on the alert ferreting out causes of interference in TV and radio reception in the Belleville-Kingston area. And quite frequently the trouble is simple —when it is located.

For instance a defective thermostatic control on an ordinary heating pad or blanket can really raise hob with a TV or radio. The interference tears the picture to pieces and instead of restful music the set gives out with the sound of a pneumatic drill.

The interference here means over the hydro wires and will affect all homes served from the transformer which the defective unit is receiving its current.

Besides investigating the neighbors mad, the defective thermostat can also be a source of danger to life and limb. That it could possibly cause a fire. Here the remedy is a new thermostat.

What is known as adjacent channel interferences can also cause troubles for the TV set owner. Here shielding of antennae is the answer, but this is a job for the TV repairman.

William Coleman Wins Cribbage Tourney at Club

William Coleman, member of the Quinte Yacht Club, showed up a clean pair of heels to fellow club members at the cribbage tournament held at their club meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Coleman won all six games with a total score of 720.

As the night's top scorer, Mr. Coleman was the first prize with other prizes going to Fred Harper, Stu Bishop and Arthur Barker. Prizes for the tournament were donated by Mrs. Everett Smith, Mrs. Leslie Lennox and Stu Bishop.

President Les. Lennox presided over the brief business meeting during which the club members voted to assist families of the church in staging a lawn party next June. Dan Stewart thanked the club for financial assistance in staging the church Boy Scout father and son banquet.

Hog Producers Will Sponsor Yorkshire Sale

At the annual meeting in Picton, the Hastings-Prince Edward Yorkshire Breeders Club made tentative plans for a sale of advanced registry backed Yorkshires to be held during the month of October.

The guest speakers for the annual meeting were Mr. F. A. Stewart, senior livestock field-man for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, who discussed the A. R. Policy, and Mr. Harry Seymour, livestock grader for the Canada Department of Agriculture, who discussed marketing and finishing hogs.

Officers elected for 1956 were: President, Wesley Finch, Campbellford, R. R. 2; vice-president, Gordon Parks, Bloomfield; secretary-treasurer, A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling; directors: Hamilton Reid, Moorerift, Madoc. R. R. 2, Don Vardy, Stirling, R. R. 4, Vince Edward: Jim Anderson, Wellington, R. R. 2, John Dorenberg, Picton, R. R. 4; auditor, D. A. Tripp, Picton.

Some discussion was also held regarding the 1955 show at Picton and tentative plans were made for the 1956 club show.

High Average Attained by BCI Marksmen

With a team average considerably higher than last year, Belleville Collegiate Institute marksmen today awarded seventeen targets of the first shoot of the Dominion Rifle Association winter competition.

The high twelve scores of the 17 targets will be used. The average of the BCI team in this shoot was 94.66 as compared to 92.3 of a year ago. It exceeds the overall average of the three shoots of last year, 93.3.

Seventeen marksmen compose the team, with five being used as spares. The twelve high scores were; — Robert Owen, 97; John McMahon, 97; Bill Morris, 96; Don Wallbridge, 96; Don Wilson, 95; Alan Daniels, 95; Peter Hall, 94; Gerald Wallbridge, 94; Don Whitfield, 92; John Hunter, 89; Jim Uens, 93 and Bill Gardiner, 93.

If the five spares, Bob Hope, Bill Carter, Alan Wright, Harvey Wilson and Charlie Vandermulier were included, the average would be 93.0.

The competition is fire on marked targets at 50 yards range at schools. All must be returned to have a team quality.

According to officials of the BCI cadet rifle team, prospects appear good for the next two shoots. The school hopes to have the best team in this area. In the Department of Education fall competition, the Brockville CI team was the only one in the district to exceed BCI.

VON Secretary Gives Annual Report to Meet

Following is the secretarial report of the Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses as given at the annual dinner meeting last evening in the Sunday school assembly room of Bridge Street United church by the secretary, Mrs. S. E. Morton.

"The Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses held its first meeting of 1955 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark James. A large attendance combined business and pleasure, and got 1955 off to a good start. Eight other monthly meetings were held in the YMCA with an average attendance of 15. The annual meeting was held on January 27 in St. Thomas' parish house with a large attendance of members and friends present.

"Four of the members were guests of the Trenton branch's annual meeting. It was a pleasure to be present to hear their excellent report and program.

"The 5th annual National V.O.N. week was suitably observed in Belleville. Under the chairmanship of Publicity, Mrs. E. G. Finkle, the work of the V.O.N. nationally and locally, was brought to the attention of the public through the press, radio and clio.

"Miss Catherine Ross, national supervisor, visited our branch in January and November, and reported favorably on the work of our staff.

"Throughout the year, we had on our staff three full-time nurses, Miss Dorothy Connor, nurse-in-charge; Miss Connor, both Public Health, and Miss Theresa Callaghan, Red X. The part-time service of Mrs. Nell Cowan was also needed. We are fortunate to have at all times such an excellent care to all who call upon them for home care.

"Our branch started giving services to Holy Rosary in May.

"A most successful tea was held in the Club Commodore on May 2. Due to the fine co-operation of the members, under the excellent direction of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke James, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Morton and Mrs. Colling the financial results far exceeded anything previously known. It is hoped to make this an annual event.

"In December our branch decided to incorporate with the Ontario Provincial Act. We participated in the local Community Chest campaign under the auspices in October.

"The names of 91 canvassers were sent in by the branch. We subscribe to ten V.O.N. quarterlies."

Fire Destroys Toolshed, Tools On Foxboro Road

A $1 by 20 foot plywood toolshed, together with an assortment of tools, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon on the Foxboro highway at the site of the new cloverleaf which Dominion Contractors have started construction of the highway crossover.

Oil spilled by workmen as they were filling warming lanterns for the night, was believed to have been the cause of the blaze, which completely destroyed one building and damaged another close by.

The construction company's office was also endangered by the fire but a company bulldozer was used to haul it out of harm's way. Several drums of oil were in the building which burned.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said that three fire trucks were sent to the scene to bring the blaze under control.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Miller, she was born at Madoc and had lived there until she moved to Belleville 40 years ago. She had worked for the British Consulate and the T. Eaton Company for 30 years, retiring in 1944. She was a member of Bridge St. United church.

She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. William (Marjorie) Fotheringill, 286 McDonald Ave., with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Hilton (Frances) Wilson, of Edmonton, Alta.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett Street; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Believe Thief Not Interested In Sunfish

The work of what apparently was a disappointed thief was reported today by city police.

Earlier in the week, Ralph Collins, commercial fisherman reported the theft of a box containing 40 pounds of sunfish from the back of his truck.

Yesterday the broken box was discovered off the road of the government dock where it had been abandoned by the thief.

Police suggested that the thief very likely thought he was getting a box of fish and when he discovered sunfish had been stolen he was no longer interested.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved briskly in the first hour today but trading was selective and the overall picture showed little change. Industrials moved fractionally with only papers and financial institutions showing firmer tendencies.

The Loblaw issues won attention as details were announced of a proposed refinancing. Fractionally higher issues included Bank of Montreal, Fraser Canada Malting and Weston 'A.

Among mines, Temagami continued to stride ahead, adding 15 cents at $5.55 and touching a high of $5.70. Campbell Chibougamau gained almost a point. Merrill Island inched on 9 cents at $2.96. Profit-taking whittled premier from Coppercorp, Indian Lake and New Boyran.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — The unusually-steady trade prevailed in steers and feed yearlings at the Ontario stockyards today as the limited supply failed to offer sufficient numbers to put all classes through a reliable test.

Receipts: cattle 65 calves 10; hogs 1,456; sheep and lambs 15; carryover from Wednesday 600 cattle.

Prices: low-choice steers 19; goods 18-19; medians 15.50-18; commons 12-15; some medium heifers 14; commons 12-14; low-good dry-fed yearlings 20; medians 16-19; a few good cows 10-10.50.

The few good veal calves offered sold steady at 26-28. No choice calves offered. Commons and medians 12-25.

Hog prices not established.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate 99 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80 5-16, unchanged.

Great Ballerina Will Join Staff National Ballet

One of the world's great ballerinas and ballet instructors will join the staff of the National Ballet of Canada this summer.

It was announced today that Peggy Van Praagh, with Sadler's Wells Ballet for 15 years and until recently its ballet mistress, will be guest teacher at the National Ballet's summer school for teachers and dancers from June to August.

Miss Van Praagh was in charge of Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet during its North American tour in 1951. She will stage Ninette de Valois' "The Rake's Progress", in Munich in April before coming to Canada.

With her arrival in Canada the National Ballet summer school will have on its staff four of the leading ballet personalities associated with England's emergence as world leaders in this art form. They are Betty Oliphant, school principal and co-founder of the National Ballet, Margaret Saul, Miss Van Praagh and Celia Franca, artistic director of the National Ballet.

The summer school opens in Toronto June 18th. A teachers' course runs for 10 days. A junior school for younger students will be held daily at 6.00 p. m. Regular classes for professional and teenage dancers will continue until August.

Saudi Arabian Troops Massing Near Jordan

LONDON (AP)—The war office tonight noted Saudi Arabian troop movements near Akaba, only port of supply for British forces in Jordan.

The British government is closely watching the massing of the well-armed desert warriors at a moment of bitter feuding between the rival dynasties of King Saud and King Hussein of Jordan. Britain herself is involved in a territorial and political dispute with the Saudi Arabians in which oil is part of the stake.

Y's Men's Day Part of National Y.M.C.A. Week

Thursday, January 26 is Y's Men's Day in this year's National YMCA week. As the service club of the Belleville YMCA the local Y's Men's Club is observing the occasion in this, the 31st year since its chartering in 1925. Each Thursday evening over forty Young men gather for the club's weekly dinner meeting at the YMCA. These salesmen, dentists, lawyers, teachers, clerks, accountants and various others representing nearly every type of business endeavor in Belleville enjoy two hours of fun and fellowship around a lively dinner table. Interesting speakers are entertained as well as heard and many ambitious projects executed.

To finance its program of support of YMCA activities the club operates a number of fund-raising projects. Best known among these are the annual Radio Auction and the annual Christmas Tree Sale. These funds have been used to buy material with which the club has redecorated the YMCA dormitories, the halls and the pool. Funds are also used in sponsoring hockey and baseball teams and in high school scholarships.

MEMBER OF COUNCIL

As a member of the Belleville Inter-Service Club Council the Y's Men's Club participates with the Kiwanis, Rotary, Kinsmen, Lions and Soroptimist Clubs in affairs of the community demanding joint consideration. As a member of the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs the Belleville Club is part of a world-wide movement promoting understanding and world brotherhood. In this respect a club project has named the Bishops' Fund raises money for the assistance of Overseas Y's Men in travelling to the annual international convention. The collection and sale of cancelled postage stamps is the means whereby the Bishops' Fund is built up. And every member is expected to contribute stamps at each meeting.

The Belleville Y's Men's Club rates high among Canadian clubs, being the second largest in Canada, and in particular has been receiving widespread notice for its succesful So-Ed (Social Education) program. In the Eastern Ontario district a Belleville club member, Gerry Hyde, is District Governor.

With the motto, "Inspiration and Perspiration," the current president, Bill Hutchinson hopes to continue and improve the support given the Y's Men's Club of Belleville to the community through the YMCA.

Holstein Club Plans for 1956

The members of the Holstein club executive for Hastings County held their annual planning meeting in Stirling, commencing with a dinner meeting at the Stirling hotel. It was decided to have the president Allen McComb act as a delegate to the championship show committee.

A deputation was present from the Belleville Fair Board namely: Dr. Scott, J. A. McArthur, Don Spencer, and Carl Thompson, to invite the club to hold the 1956 Black and White Show at the Belleville Fair this year. Following some discussion it was decided to have a committee of former exhibitors meet with the executive to decide on the location.

The secretary reported that Mr. Nelson was confined to hospital and the secretary was asked to write a letter of sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson. It was decided to join with the Crop Improvement Association for the annual bus trip to Cornwall, and Ottawa on or about June 8th and 9th.

Plans were made for a barn meeting to be held at the farm of Bernard Hunt on March 8th. A grant of $25.00 was given to 4-H calf club work. Prizes were also completed for the annual meeting and annual banquet.

Campney Given Deed of Site For Armory

SUDBURY (CP)—Defence Minister Campney received the deed to a 5½-acre site for a new armory Wednesday night at a ceremony in a converted garage that has been military headquarters here 18 years.

Mr. Campney described as "unprecedented in my career" the reception by Saul Silverman, Sudbury businessman.

Ducks Show Decrease from Last Season

The mid-winter waterfowl inventory for 1956 has just been completed in that part of Lake Ontario fronting the Tweed Forestry District, namely from Presqu'ile to Howe Island.

The inventory consists of an actual count on the number of ducks present along the route mentioned as well as the identification of the various species counted.

The inventory is made through the use of aircraft. One man counts from each side of the craft as it flies over the area at approximately 200 feet, while the third man records the various species and the number of each as reported to him by the counters. The aerial method of counting is the most effective method found to date.

The ice conditions on Lake Ontario vary from year to year. This year there was approximately 10 per cent more ice than last year. When ice covers the shallow areas where normally ducks congregate and feed, their feeding grounds are reduced and therefore we can expect a reduction in the number of birds using the bait area.

During the month of January, 1955, 6,450 ducks were counted along the entire 117 miles of Lake Ontario fronting the Tweed District. This year 2,755 ducks were counted in the same area, a reduction of 3.65 per cent in the total number sighted.

This reduction is thought due to the increase in the amount of ice cover.

The goldeneye and scaup are the two most predominate ducks wintering in the open waters of Lake Ontario. The goldeneye rank third in number, with the blacks holding fourth place.

COVERED 50-MILE AREA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A rocket engine, fired for 40 seconds in a test at North American Aviation's nearby Santa Susana plant, produced a blast heard over a 50-mile area Wednesday. A company spokesman said the firing was ordered in line with a secret program under way. No other details were given.

Only 10 Years Of Life Term Served for Rape

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says two men who got a life term for raping a woman served only 10 years of their sentences.

The incident occurred in 1940. The woman was left barefoot in cold weather after an attack and robbery, described as "the most horrible case of its kind."

T e question of hanging the men arose at the time, but a judge sentenced the men to spend the rest of their natural lives in jail and to receive the lashes each.

A third man involved was sentenced to 15 years and 15 lashes. He and the two others were released at about the same time.

The men have been on parole for five years and have been reporting regularly to parole officials.

Accused Denies Harming Child

MONTREAL (CP) — Vladimir Nekrassoff Wednesday denied he ever harmed 18-month-old Susie Timm, for whose death in his Park Ave. apartment last May 22 he now is standing trial as a charge of murder.

Tuesday, Mrs. Honor Rogers, who had been living with the Russian doctor for 15 months before the death of her little daughter, testified Nekrassoff had beaten the child with a strap and with his fists, burned her with a heated fork and jumped up and down on her.

Nekrassoff said that a few days before Susie's death Mrs. Rogers entered the apartment with her arms filled with washing, stepped on the baby and it started to cry.

He also denied Mrs. Rogers' testimony of Tuesday.

"It's a lie," he said. "I have no explanation for her saying this."

REPORT 419 DEATHS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bureau of mines reports 410 workers were killed in coal mine accidents in the United States during 1955, an increase of 15 over the previous year.

AN UNWARRANTED CHARGE

A fortnight ago the Cartier and Portage Community Welfare Association in Montreal was called on the government that promises to impose curbs on what it termed the "Butterite octopus." Unless legal barriers were erected to the expansion of Butterite colonies, the association claimed, these would "envelop all Manitoba by 2050."

Now that statement is true, but it is also the type of statement which is almost certain to be misinterpreted and misinterpreted in such a manner as to be unjust to the Hutterites, but beneficial to the association's drive for legal controls on this religious group.

Last week Rev. Jacob D. Maundel of the New Rosedale Hutterite colony took issue with the association. Russian communism, he said, is "in principle and method the very reverse of Hutterianism." He admitted that his people were communists, but he added that it is "quite certain and clear" that they are not Russian Communists.

The Hutterites are a religious sect whose members believe that their practice of having all things in common is in accord with the teachings of Christ. To apply the term communism to such a belief is correct, but it is a communism with no sinister overtones. Communism of this type was commonplace in the early days of the Christian church. If Rev. Christian Maundel today believe in this type of communism it is not because there is anything unChristian about it but because most Christians believe that it is a form of society not suited to present-day conditions. The Hutterites differ in the latter view. They have a right to differ if they choose to do so. To seek legal curbs against the growth of their movement is suggested that they be right. We do not believe they are but we should be a little more staunch in this conviction if the Cartier and Portage Community Association, which is composed of businessmen, has devoted to the cause of free enterprise and competition, would show a little more readiness to leave the Hutterites free to indulge in their enterprise and would be a little more confident of their ability to meet this type of competition.

It would have been more sensible if the association had not tried to tie the Communist tag on the Hutterites. Communists they are, but in the present circumstances this tag is almost certain to be misinterpreted and we cannot escape the uncomfortable conviction that the association knew this and that it was primarily in the hopes that the misinterpretation would be widespread that the tag was pinned on the Hutterites.

No attempt is being made to prove a Communist of the Marxist-Leninist school when that person is merely a Christian with an ideology nearly 2,000 years old is unwarranted.

THE GORDON COMMISSION'S RESPONSIBILITY

Thoughtful Canadians, including members of the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that this country's development and prosperity in the next few years, while phenomenal, has been strikingly one-sided. The so-called resource industries, in response to world demand for minerals, wood, pulp and paper, fuel and other commodities, have undergone enormous expansion. Exports of manufactured goods, however, differ little in volume from prewar figures.

The growth that has occurred in manufacturing, it is clear, has been based not on exports of highly processed goods, which encounter all sorts of import restrictions in the world market, but rather on the increased size of the domestic market, attributable mainly to population growth.

Few will quarrel with the proposition that a mature and balanced Canadian economy cannot be achieved merely through expansion. Important as export markets may be, they are at best uncertain and subject to economic conditions abroad over which Canada has no control. Wheat is a case in point.

It follows, surely, that the economic policies best for Canada are those which will at once encourage domestic manufacturing, assure Canadian labor the stability of employment that derives from an assured and growing domestic market, and encourage immigration.

The imbalance apparent in Canada's economic growth, and the resultant necessity to correct that imbalance, must be a prime responsibility for the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects.

CONVENIENCE IS WHAT COUNTS

Customer convenience is a potent factor in modern merchandising.

Long since recognized by successful merchandisers is the fact that the things people want to buy must come in convenient form.

Convenience of time, so that customers may have fresh food the year round, has given rise to the vast frozen food industry, and to the use of vending machines to sell cigarets and soft drinks at any time of the day or night.

Working wives who cannot shop in business hours have brought evening shopping.

When it comes to sales, convenience is what makes the mare go. And when it comes to factory orders and jobs, retail sales are what keep the wheels of industry turning.

RECOVERY

Must be getting well again.
Saw a pretty girl go by.
Went to lunch with busy men.
Even ate a piece of pie
Ordered prune a bill-of-fare.
Tired of being women fed.
Wore once more my underwear.
Had a hat upon my head.

Wore a coat and shirt and tie.
Left off slippers; put on shoes.
Passed a store and thought I'd buy
Something I might never use.

Had a notion 'twould be fun
Stepping in to spend just then.
Long it seems since that I've done.
Must be getting well again.

Doctor says I mustn't stare
When a pretty girl goes by;
Mustn't daily want to wear
Hat and coat and shirt and tie.
Tells me not to overdo,
Idle he and don't complain.
But with this advice I'm through.
It must be I'm well again.

Argyll Regiment gets high rating. Rated third among eight other regiments from larger centres, the highest rating ever received by the local Argyll Light Infantry has been conferred upon it as a result of the recent Military District No. 3 Infantry Battalion Efficiency Competition, said competition, the standings in which have just been announced by headquarters. The local Argyll Regiment receives the highest possible score in the Efficiency Bearers' competitions. This corps is in command of Major W. C. Morgan. Highest marks were also obtained in the Machine Gun competition today at the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Second—Argyll Light Infantry, Belleville — third; Peterborough Rangers — fourth; Le Regt. de Hull, Quebec — fifth; Prince of Wales Own Regiment — sixth; Brockville Rifles — seventh; Victoria and Haliburton Regiment — 8th. Suitable congratulations have been extended from headquarters to Lieut. Col. E. K. Green, officer commanding the Argyll Regiment, and the officers of the regiment.

Mr. R. C. Sisler, manager of the Dominion Bank here, has received the appointment of Acting District Commissioner for the Boy Scouts in this city. Mr. Sisler is an experienced Scouter and will assume the duties of the office immediately.

Muff History Intriguing

(Montreal Gazette)

There is a rumor that the muff is coming back. The muff did come back before, about 30 years ago, but didn't stay long in popular favor. It is interesting to speculate on its past and future.

It is generally known, now, that the muff — a large, cozy affair — was first introduced by men, at the court of Versailles during the reign of Louis XIV. Soon bons there. They were undoubtedly made of "muff" and "muffle" with a advice," Let them eat cake," quite possibly referred to the luxurious habit of carrying a small lunch in the muff.

Long before it came about what the muff, heels which the monarchs had introduced, could make a man faint. The spirit of mystery about what goes into a muff, baulked the wearers' hands, however. In Grandmother's day, (when a lady, as contrasted with mere women), the muff was a bulky affair, possible that a chicken leg or a couple of boiled eggs found their way into the muff.

Smelling salts, too, could be conveniently carried in the way. At least, they are always referred to as a signalling device, used by dainty flasks for emergency purposes.

Today, Milady drives a car with a heater. She doesn't really need a double hand-warmer. Besides, when walking, the arms should swing for proper balance.

It is puzzling to remember, though, that Grandmother was very healthy person, despite the muff which didn't allow her to swing her arms. She was agile enough, too, to be able to skate while wearing a muff, a trick Milady would find difficult today.

All of which doesn't reveal what the muff is expected to be used for, if it really comes back this time.

Efficiency At Concert

(Musical America Magazine)

We salute an unknown critic in London by pulling the symphonic review written by an orchestra expert specializing in method efficiency. Here is a comment in the Royal Festival hall the specialist reported:

"For considerable periods the four oboe players had nothing to do. The number should be reduced and the work spread evenly over the whole of the concert thus eliminating peaks of activity.

"All the 12 violins were playing identical notes. This seems unnecessary duplication. The staff of this section should be drastically cut. If larger volume of sound is required, it could be obtained by electronic apparatus.

"Much effort was absorbed in the playing of demisemiquavers. This seems an unnecessary refinement. It is recommended that all notes should be rounded up to the nearest semiquaver. If this were done, it would be possible to use trainees and lower grade wood-wind was extensively.

"There seems to be much repetition of some musical passages. Scores should be drastically pruned. No useful purpose is served by repeating on the horns a passage which has already been handled by the strings. It is estimated that if all redundant passages were eliminated the whole concert time of two hours could be reduced to 20 minutes, and there would be no need for an intermission.

"The conductor agrees generally with these recommendations, but expressed the opinion that there might be some falling off at the box office. In that unlikely event it should be possible to build sections of the auditorium entirely, with a consequent saving in overhead expenses, lighting, attendance, etc.

Rabbit Rule Overthrown

Let me say a word about rabbits. No terrain offered such happy conditions to the rabbit as the vast open spaces of Australia. Its natural enemies—weasels, stoats and ferrets—are absent, its vegetation is good and the soil ideal for burrowing.

It is estimated that two rabbits are capable of producing 184 in a year. If in one district in the two years and the freighting total of 13,718, and in three years' the wonder of the rabbit multiplied mightily in the favored conditions of Australia. And defied all attacks on him.

Time does not permit of telling the full story of the rabbit in Australia, but a significant date may be mentioned.

This was Christmas Day, 1859, when a wealthy landowner landed a consignment of rabbits from England and released them on his property at Barwon Park near Geelong. The rabbits were to provide game for hunting parties, but the lush pastures of the estate provided ideal conditions for them to demonstrate their powers of procreation.

Barwon Park was soon eaten bare and the rabbits spread quickly over the countryside. By 1865 they had crossed the Murray river and entered the territory of Southern New South Wales. They were soon to occupy New South Wales and there set in efforts to exterminate them or to confine them to certain areas.

Altogether some 4,000 miles of rabbit-proof" fences were built and one of them, that in South West Australian Right in the south northeast direction to the south coast of the Indian Ocean, a distance of 1,154 miles and reputed to be the longest fence ever erected in the world, was completely "rabbit-proof" and for many years in Australia there that have not known the rabbit.

The rabbit pest was specially severe in the farmers sought to introduce pasture improvement and increase the carrying capacity of specialty of seeking the succulent young pastures, but he did them considerable harm.

Nobody knows how many rabbits there were in Australia, but there is little doubt that the increased wealth during World War II and after when they were shortages of men and materials. Estimates place the rabbit population at one time as high as 760,000,000. That is enough to eat as much pasture as one sheep, so that this number was the equivalent of over 100,000,000 sheep, a third of the commercial sheep population.

In many ways the rabbit was a factor impeding Australian rural development and impairing both the quantity and quality of pastures.

After much research the scientists at the Commonwealth Scientific and Research Organization discovered a virus, myxomatosis, which is spread by insects and rapidly infected rabbits over a wide area with a very high death rate. It has been operating for only three years and it is estimated that not less than 500 million rabbits have perished before the onslaught.

The virus operates in a "furplay". A furphy is a tall story, so named after the writer whose town cuss-word is "Such is Life!" contains many a tall story. Myxomatosis is the name for Joseph Furphy, hence the Australian expression. Back to the furphy, and myxomatosis may now be cursed by the rabbit farmers of Australia, but it is loved by the cocky (farmer) of Australia.

The effect on pastures and the carrying capacity of land is likely to be spectacular. Already in the late twenties, and aptly named after Sir Thomas Mitchell, the cascia blastus on the prickly pear infestations of Queensland and New South Wales larger than England, and that is a large country.

Fortunately both myxomatosis and the rabbit-proof fences have well behaved: their undivided attention is given to their victims, and others they are harmless, and that is almost too good to be true! Here is evocation of resources in the grand manner.

Could Use Old Railways

(Christian Science Monitor)

Proposals both in New York and Boston to make use of unused railroad rights-of-way to carry highways into cities raises the question why more of this has not been accomplished.

It is true the proposal in these two instances is to deck over railroad tracks and keep both railroad and motor traffic moving. But it should be recalled that the famous Pennsylvania Turnpike was built across the Alleghenies on the roadbed and through seven tunnels originally constructed for the 20th-century South Penn Railroad.

Thousands of tourists in Colorado have taken the thrilling drive from Colorado Springs to the old Cripple Creek mining district over the abandoned fills and trestles of a once-prosperous railroad passenger line. Or they have traversed the South Park, starting in Denver, with its trains and stations.

In fact, it might be said that much of the United States is crisscrossed by ruins of the railroad building boom of yesteryear. The pity is that they remain just ruins.

To be sure, the grading, most of it for single tracks, would not accommodate a four- or six-lane highway of today. But here is work done for at least one or two lanes. And the "land takings" have all been adjudicated and paid for!

Can One Live Too Long?

(Vancouver Sun)

How long do you want to live? Granny Burks of Los Angeles has just bit the century mark and celebrated her birthday. And she's "just as mess and cocery as ever." Which is what's meant by that much indiscreet for living to be 100 years old. Maybe she was living indecently.

Anyhow, when scientists promise mankind the Sparks of Los Angeles will be 500 or 1,000 years old, we shudder a bit on principle.

Living gluttonously for years, controversies and anxieties arising from unwanted immortality for Thers. Others we've met were so sunk in abysmal ignorance that you'd swear they were born yesterday. Lady's been told about it.

On the other hand, it depends on the point of view. Granny Burks said she's hit the hundred mark because she's "never lie. For me, I'm pess, turnip greens, salt pork, corn bread and buttermilk."

On that diet, the effort to live for ever doesn't seem worth it.

TRUE FRIENDSHIP

What is the basis of true friendship?

Certainly it is not self-interest. Self-satisfaction is not up for a person because he can do something for us is neither deep or genuine friendship goes much deeper than this. Old Jeremy Taylor once wrote that true friendship means "the greatest love, the greatest usefulness, most open communication, the noblest and the most severest truth, the heartiest counsels and the sweetest society" out of which brave men and women are capable."

Watch out for the man who has neither friends nor enemies. At best he is cipher. He has been called "one of the vulgar; without talents, powers, or merit."

Jesus once declared that the noblest thing a man could do was to lay down his life for his friends. He said that this was the measure of greatest love. The lives of true friends flow together, yet they always remain apart. True friendship always appreciates the personalities of one another. It does not want to be a friend by growing at his feet is not seeking a friend in the service. What is wanted above everything else in life is the building up of his spirit.

Friendship is love, and as St. Paul tells us, "Love never faileth." Friendship is the "art of not becoming strangers in spirit."

Personal Health Talks

May Your Baby Cry Lustily at Birth

He isn't mad at anything or anybody. The healthy newborn baby cries lustily with the first few breaths of air he takes. So he would you, if your lungs had not been solid and airless for weeks or months and you were suddenly pushed out of your cozy warm bed and showered with ice water.

If the newborn baby does not cry vigorously a few seconds after birth, as it is by cries only tentatively or politely, hold him up by the feet and spank him six or eight times on the buttocks, firmly but gently. Or hold him up by the feet and lay his spine with the finger tips at the level of the shoulders. This seldom fails to make the little guy howl.

The first cry must be lusty and loud, for it serves not only to open and expand every air-cell in the lungs, preventing atelactasis or collapse of any portion — which with a little inflammation would become pneumonia — but also to insure circulation of blood (oxygen) to the brain. If the blood supply to the brain is cut off for a few minutes some gray cells may be permanently impaired, with no need for any." Dr. at Colleen Bawn Home, Brockville, described the natural birth of her second baby: "Knowing that you have had a normal birth at any time you want it — you don't want it! At least I didn't. But the fact that it's available is insurance against being tense. You can

By GREGORY CLARK

The trouble with this modern furniture and modern architecture and modern art is that it is dated.

It is not dated in the long, comfortable way that other furniture and art are dated. It is dated only five or ten years.

And that is very humiliating. For example, if you converted your home to the modern style of furniture and decoration say in 1947, it looked fine and you were glad you had furnished it in your grandmother's old beat up walnut. I suppose you can console yourself with thinking that the style of your home is early modern.

But it does look sort of silly, doesn't it? In 1947, the furniture people and the diggers of dirt hadn't quite got the modern idea. They were groping for it. But they hadn't quite got it. So your home looks as if it were trying to be modern, but it had missed by about eight or ten years. Very humiliating.

What we ought to do, I suppose, is wait until this modern idea gets really settled in its own mind. Let's wait ten or twenty years, and see what modern style is. For so far, it hasn't made up its mind. It can't.

BACK SEAT FOLKS

We have heard endless expressions about the back seat drivers of an automobile. The same idea can apply to anyone who is always predicting grief and trouble ahead for those who are at the helm in the leadership—those folks who always have free advice for the one who has the responsibility but who have never demonstrated their ability to lead or take control.

There is something to think about in the line I read in a magazine many years ago. It was this: "The dog barks, but the caravan moves on!" We may well take it as a fact that there will always be snipers in our way through life, who will always be around to try and defeat any personal program on which we have set our mind and heart. Pay no attention to the barks, Carry on with the caravan.

I have noted that most so-called back seat drivers have never driven a car, and so would not appreciate such responsibility anyway. Nothing is so free and ready as advice. It's the unearned capital to apply to anyone who should be getting grief and trouble ahead for those who are at the helm in the leadership—those folks who always have free advice for the one who has the responsibility but who have never demonstrated their ability to lead or take control.

Music World Marks 200th Anniversary of Mozart's Birth

1956 Declared 'Mozart Year' To Honor 'Luminous Genius' As World's Greatest Composer

By EUGENE LANG

Tomorrow the world celebrates the 200th anniversary of the birth of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, "the most luminous genius in the history of music."

Tonight the windows in cities around the world, with one exception, will look out on familiar scenes in familiar ways. It is the one exception that is of such prime importance and the exception is Salzburg, Austria.

This city, which world travellers have referred to as the most beautiful city in the world, is nestled in one of the loveliest valleys of the Tyrolean Alps just north of the Italian border.

The lights of Salzburg houses won't look the same tonight as they have in the past, for in every window of each house one candle will be burning quietly and softly. The light of each small, wavering flame will fall on the glittering, snow-covered lawns and streets of this medieval provincial city half way between Innsbruck and Vienna.

You can imagine the effect of looking down on Belleville with every window in every house candle lit. Salzburg citizens can look down on their beloved city from the heights of the old castle that dominates the country-side and see the soft light of thousands and thousands of candles.

When dawn comes the candles will be extinguished and Salzburgers will solemnly wend their way to the Dome to attend High Mass.

CITY PAYS TRIBUTE

This is the tribute a city will pay to one of its most illustrious sons.

Mozart was born in Salzburg, on January 27, 1756, in a tiny, second-storey room of a five-storey house on a street called the Hagenauerstrasse, in the Getreidegasse district known as the Gitreidegasse. The time was eight o'clock in the evening.

Next morning in the old baroque cathedral on Kapitelplatz, Leopold Alamgrecht the town chaplain christened the infant Johannes Chrysostomus Wolfgangus Theophilus Mozart. Theophilus became Amadeus in Latin translation and was later changed to the Italian, Amadeus. In years the world's most prolific composer and one of its greatest musical geniuses signed his name Wolfgang Amade Mozart.

Tomorrow there will be a memorial celebration in the house in which Mozart was born. Owing to the condition of the building only 45 persons will be allowed inside at one time. Londregsehen through out Salzburg will broadcast speeches from within the house. Austria's president and numerous dignitaries will speak.

In the evening the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra will play a concert of Mozart's works in the Festpelhouse. In practically every opera house and concert hall or auditorium throughout Austria and the world, musicians will perform some of the immortal works of this master composer.

WORLD-WIDE CELEBRATION

The magnitude of the musical world's celebration of the Mozart bi-centenial seems unbelievable. Mozart Festivals will be held all over Europe throughout the entire year of 1956. Some will be on a vast scale, such as the Salzburg Festival which will last through out July and August, and some will be on a much smaller scale, in small Austrian towns and villages.

But the theme won't be the only way in which the musical world will pay homage to Mozart. Music publishers are issuing new, revised editions of Mozart's works. One publisher alone has that every seventh page he publishes is of a Mozart composition. Another publisher has already printed the musical score of 100 Mozart compositions. This project requires 7,000 pages of musical manuscript. How many pages of music then will the whole 626 works credited to him (and mostly authenticated) take?

All major record companies are vying with each other to see which can bring out the most Mozart music in 1956.

1956 DECLARED 'ete

Some companies started three years ago to prepare for this bicentennial and have been recording continuously in order that a deluge of Mozart music will be available to the record buyer this year. Such internationally-famed pianists as Lili Kraus and Walter Gieseking have undertaken to record the entire Mozart solo piano literature. The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra of London, England, is going to record all Mozart's symphonies. Many companies are bringing out new versions of the many Mozart operas. The Budapest String Quartet has just completed a recording of all 26 string quartets and there seems to be a race among pianists to record the most piano concertos.

PROLIFIC COMPOSER

Mozart wrote 27 piano concertos and two concert rondos, which supplement the last movements of two of the concerti, of which 23 have been recorded to date. In the present Long Playing Record Catalogue there are over 14 columns devoted to Mozart alone — this is just listing the recordings made of his music — as against five for Brahms, three for Handel, five for Tschaikowsky and four for Wagner. This alone shows the renewed interest record companies have taken in Mozart's works.

To top it all off one record company has announced it will record everything that Mozart ever wrote. Officials figure if they keep recording at the present rate, continuing from this month on they will have Mozart's entire output of 626 compositions recorded by the end of 1959.

At least half a dozen new biographies and critiques of Mozart have appeared in the past few months; volumes that have taken years of preparation and collation. Many magazines, including some not usually devoted to music are publishing articles about Mozart. Stories are appearing in magazines in all countries and in all languages.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

A special committee of local citizens has been at up to plan and supervise the Salzburg celebrations. They also authorize the use of the name Mozart on all merchandise, musical and non-musical.

This month there are four separate orchestras in Salzburg rehearsing and recording the works of Mozart. Because of the intense musical activity in Salzburg this month, with full orchestras and peasant bands, the Mozart committee has banned the sounding of automobile horns.

Any man who could create such a celebration 200 years after his birth must certainly have been a genius. And Mozart was a genius in the fullest sense of the word.

When Mozart's musical talents became apparent at a very early age, his father decided to take advantage of them by having him perform before the royal courts of Europe. To everyone from peasants to the crowned heads of Europe. At four years of age Mozart began to pick out tunes on the harpsichord, the forerunner of the modern piano, and to take notice of the structure of simple melodies.

His father wrote down the little tunes that Mozart composed. By the time he was five Mozart's father had taught him to read music. At the age of six Mozart, his father and sister, started on a musical tour that took them to Munich and Vienna where they performed with great success.

In 1763, at the age of seven, Mozart and his father and sister played in Paris and the following year visited London. The great interest declined they returned home via Holland and France.

TRAVEL HURT HEALTH

Travel in those days was difficult and most uncomfortable and not the best thing for two young children to be subjected to month after month. Travel about in rickety, old stage-coaches, staying in dirty, unheated hotels and lack of proper rest and care brought illnesses many times to both children but their tour took longer than was originally planned.

Even when travelling under these adverse conditions, young Mozart was composing and writing music. One of these, an opera called "La Finta Semplice," was performed in Vienna, but accepted for presentation in his native Salzburg. This brought him to the notice of the Archbishop of Salzburg who appointed him concertmaster in the orchestra at the Archbishop's palace, but without any remuneration attached.

Because there was no money coming in, Mozart applied for leave of absence from his duties and began an extended tour (with his father, as usual) which included Innsbruck, Verona, Cremona, Lodi, Bologna, Rome, Florence and Naples. His father exploited the young genius to the full during their long tour, making the most of every opportunity for financial gain.

They arrived home late in 1771,

W. A. MOZART

Mozart was seriously ill for a time. While at home, between February and October, he wrote seven symphonies, two divertisenti and two sacred works.

Milan was next on his new itinerary, and he took the Milanese by storm. His new opera, "Lucio Sella," was premiered there, with more than 20 performances to packed houses taking place. He then returned home for more study and composition.

GREAT PRODUCTIVE PERIOD

Many new works came into being during this period at home including a Mass, a Litany, an Offertory, four organ sonatas, and three Epistle concertos. One of these piano concertos was written for three piano instead of the customary one. He also wrote a concerto for piano and violin, a nocturne for four orchestras, a series of dances and some operatic music. Besides these and a few of the many works that poured forth from that most creative mind at this time.

In March of 1773 he set out again. He took leave of the Archbishop in whose service the young composer was still attached. This time he took his mother with him and together they went to Paris. He astounded all who heard him with his creative ingenuity, musical dexterity, and improvisatory flights of fancy, but he did not succeed in stitching any great wealth or even the prospect of an appointment at any of the many courts where he appeared.

He went to a composer's advantage to secure a post as a conductor or composer to one of the dozens of small kingdoms that dotted Europe at this time. Most reigning monarchs had to their credit employ a court composer and a musical director who, in turn, wrote music and performed music the musical director having an orchestra, sometimes small, sometimes large, at his command. All of this was necessary to the proper functioning of court life.

NO APPOINTMENTS

It was only natural that Mozart would be on the lookout for a position at one of the many courts that he had called. An appointment, would give him time to compose the leisure and not have to worry about a life of continual travel. He never did secure such an appointment.

In Paris his mother died. Shortly after Mozart returned to Salzburg and began work on one of his greatest operas, "Idomeneo", which had been commissioned by the Munich Opera House. This was fearfully exciting. Having at his disposal employees with the Archbishop, he left the service of the latter after the Archbishop had first ordered Mozart to Vienna, where he, the Archbishop, was at the time located. Mozart had been summoned by a common servant by his man, and finally he went and no more, so he and this dignitary parted for all time.

Mozart settled permanently in Vienna in 1782 and married a young singer named Constanze Weber. The years of poverty and hardship that were to plague him until his death began within a year of his marriage. They were always just one step ahead of the bailiff. They moved 12 times during the first year that followed.

Ahead of Mozart were years of great production, yet these years saw the creation of his greatest masterpieces in every form the Symphony, Mariage of Figaro" and "Don Giovanni" which were commissioned by the Prague opera his finest symphonies and concerto and a wealth of instrumental music of all kinds.

These years saw the composition of over 200 works. Often in these later years, Mozart wrote dozens of little dances and minuets for court balls in Vienna, where he was in rage at that time. To a man with fertile musical brain these short works were easy to compose and brought in much needed money to his ever-declining purse.

LAST OPERA

The last year of his life saw the production of "The Magic Flute", one of his greatest operas. It was during this time, the summer and fall of 1791, that he worked on his Requiem.

It was commissioned by a Count Walsegg, who sent a tall, darkclothed emissary to Mozart to make arrangements for the composition and payment of the work upon completion. Mozart never knew Walsegg's name. It was a habit of buying the works of other composers and then palming them off as his own.

Mozart worked feverishly on it, often stating that it would be his own requiem because he had many premonitions of his approaching death. The years of poverty and went in later life, combined with the nine tours that he had taken in childhood and adolescence, had sapped his strength considerably. Gradual his condition grew worse. He took his bed in early November, never to rise again.

Knowing that the Requiem would remain unfinished, he gave instructions to a devoted follower and pupil named Sussmayer to finish the work. The day before the spring composer was propped up in bed, and with three friends, tried to sing parts of the requiem. His voice faltered and he broke into tears saying that he would never sing again. His words were true.

Towards evening he became delirious and his friends knew the end was near. A doctor was summoned, but the destiny was at the opera seeing Mozart's "Magic Flute" and would not be disturbed until the opera was over. When he did arrive it was useless to do anything to save the composer's life.

Towards midnight Mozart sat up in bed, looked around the room with glazy, unseeing eyes, laid down, turned his head toward the wall and at five minutes to one on the morning of December 5th, 1791, the "most luminous genius in the history of music" died.

IN UNKNOWN GRAVE

The day of his funeral was so cold and miserable that only a few close friends ventured to St. Mark's church in Vienna to pay their last respects. The snow was blowing so fiercely and the winds howling so mournfully that one by one the mourners drifted away from the procession on the way to the cemetery, and by the time the cemetery was reached no one was with the coffin except the grave diggers and sexton.

To this day no one knows where Mozart was buried. When his widow returned to visit his grave (and that was not until a few years later) those who had interred this great body in the earth had all died. Strange gratitude, indeed, for a man who so enriched the lives of all who came after him with the imperishable beauties of his music!

He died penniless and was buried in a third-class pauper's grave. The services were more than plain five dollars.

Many of his 626 compositions could be gathered together in one large bundle all the money spent by all the citizens of Salzburg in one day would not be enough to purchase these priceless manuscripts. In monetary value they run into billions of dollars, but in intrinsic value the world is bankrupt in human comprehension.

Mozart bequeathed to posterity more beautiful music than ever flowed from the pen of any other composer. His exalted reputation in music has never been questioned and every great composer, musical artist and performer has, with unbounded enthusiasm, paid Mozart in the words so aptly spoken by his famed contemporary, Joseph Haydn, to Mozart's father, "I tell you, calling God to witness and speaking as a man of honor, that your son is the greatest composer I know."

NEVER BEEN EQUALLED

The purity of his music has never been equalled and his ability for writing indescribably lovely melodies has been the envy of every composer since. His craftsmanship was perfection itself in the building of his tonal edifices and the impeccable instrumentation and coloration of his compositions defy criticism.

Although the exact whereabouts of his body is forever a mystery, so is the sensual emotions of his immortal music, as mysterious to listeners today as in his own era. The mystery is simply how any one man could write so much beautiful music in the space of only 35 years.

And so the lights burn tonight in cities all over the world. All the illumination from all these lights cannot equal in beauty the light from even one window of one house in Salzburg on a tiny candle flickers softly and quietly in silent tribute to the man the whole world honors on the eve of the 200th anniversary of his birth — Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

ONTARIO WILL

Often it didn't pay the province to spend money on expansion because it got only a small return from corporation and income taxes.

"It is one of the anomalies of our tax system that the federal government derives by far the larger proportion of tax revenue from our natural resource industries though these resources are vested in the provinces which is committed to very large expenditures for their conservation and development."

SPENDING ESTIMATE

Mr. Frost estimated that in the next 25 years, the province may have to spend about $3,000,000,000 on highways and roads; some $500,000,000 for new elementary and secondary schools; perhaps about $425,000,000 for hospitals; $1,500,000,000 for developing new sources of electricity and $1,500,000,000 for water distribution systems and sewage.

In the next 20 years, based on an increase of 3,000,000 in population, the province's labor force likely will increase by about 1,100,000 to 3,100,000, Mr. Frost said.

There will be greater need, he suggested, to concentrate on education, particularly on higher education to provide greater skills for more intricate and diversified industrial life.

In a score of years, students in secondary and secondary school will rise by about 619,000 to 1,499,000, he estimated. Some 31,800 additional teachers would have to be recruited. And in universities, enrolments likely will rise in the 20 years to some 92,000, more than four times the 21,700 of 1955. New capital expenditure for universities would have to be about $85,000,000 for the next 20 years.

HIGHWAY EXPENSES

In the decade, volume of highway traffic would double; spending for highways and municipal roads would run between $2,500,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

New capital needed to expand mental hospital accommodation in the next 20 years was estimated at $284,000,000. Some $65,000,000 would be required just in the five years of 1957-60 for expansion of public general, convalescent and chronic hospitals.

Mr. Frost estimated that since 1940, some $10,000,000,000 has been spent by industry and governments in expanding the province's resources and production.

CAN EXCEED U. S.

"In the rapid growth that lies ahead, there is an opportunity to exceed the United States in the quality of living, because our cities and towns is guided and the disadvantages which the large cities of community living are provided.

"... It is the national interest that the governments of all provinces be assured revenues adequate to their several and great responsibilities and I trust that will this be of more importance in the deliberations of the government of the province Our national prosperity depends to a peculiar degree on the way in which these responsibilities are discharged."

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Bruin bantam Emerson handed the Picton bantams a 6-3 setback in an exhibition game in Picton last night.

Bruins were at full value for their victory, playing fast clean hockey on a good sheet of ice. Jack Boulter and MacLennis each tallied two goals to pace the winners with Keller and Lungton also scoring.

Weddings

MOTLEY—GOODFELLOW

Tall standards of white chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail of Tabernacle United church, Belleville, on Monday, December 26, 1953, at 3:00 p.m., for the marriage of Myrna Rae Goodfellow, Reg.N., of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Richard Goodfellow, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Goodfellow, to Kenneth Frederick Motley, of Belleville, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Motley. The Rev. Ray A. Rowley, pastor of the church, officiated. White satin bows designated the ...ewest pews.

Mrs. Phyllis Barclay rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ray Lamont, sister of the bridegroom, who sang before the ceremony, "I'll Walk Beside You", and "Such Lovely Things", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Richard Edgar Goodfellow, Belleville, the bride was a charming, floor-length gown of brocaded satin and lace, fashioned ...ith bertha having a flattering yoke of tulle illusion topped by ...ace. Anne collar trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. A ...ently pleated back of the same material was caught at the sides in bows, and the long, ...lowing sleeves ended in points at the wrists. She wore a matching Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and a flowing veil of tulle illusion. Her bouquet was of red roses mingled with baby's breath, tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Isabell Goodfellow, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in a ballerina length gown of mauve nylon net over taffeta with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of mauve 'mums tied with white satin streamers.

Mr. Harold Motley of Ameliasburg, Ontario, attended his brother, while Messrs. Jack Motley of Winnipeg, Manitoba, and Wilfred Motley of Belleville, No. 7, brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 96 guests was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, gowned in rose-wood mauve velvet, received in street length, with black accessories, matching hat and corsage of pink roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who also was attired in rose-wood with lace trimming, with navy accessories, matching hat, and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed and centred by a triple-tiered wedding cake, flanked by candles and bridal roses.

For travelling to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride chose a two-piece aqua brocaded taffeta dress with aqua accessories and topped by a princess style coat with black accessories and corsage of red roses.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom, an onyx initialled ring, and the bridegroom's gift to his bride, a sterling silver necklace, matching bracelet and earrings, set with aqua stones.

Guests were present from Toronto, Port Hope, Hastings, Brockville, Kingston and Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. Motley are residing in Mountain View, Ontario.

President and Nurses Report at VON Meeting

The following is the report of the Victorian Order of Nurses for the year 1955 as prepared by Miss Dorothy Connor, nurse-in-charge of the Belleville division, given at the yearly meeting in Bridge Street United church, last evening:

"The Victorian Order of Nurses, a nationally organized visiting nursing service. Which—provides nursing care and health instruction in the home, is a non-profit voluntary organization. Services are given under the direction of a family physician on a visit basis, and includes bedside nursing, pre-natal, post-natal and newborn instruction. Victorian Order service is designed to meet the needs of the patient who cannot or should not go to the hospital, and still requires nursing service, and is dressings, treatments, baths or other care.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

"The service is for everyone in the community, men and women, young and old, rich or poor and of every nationality and religion. Requests for service are received from every source. This includes family physician, hospital and other health and social agencies. All calls are answered, and care is continued only if a doctor is in attendance, and no treatment is given without his order.

"The fee for nursing care is based on the cost of a visit, which is computed annually. Families who are able to do so, pay the full cost of a visit. If the family is unable to pay the full fee, the fee is adjusted to suit their financial circumstances. Service is never refused because of inability to pay. According to V.O.N. policy, visits that are made for instruction only such as pre-natal, post-natal and newborn instruction where no nursing care is given are non-chargeable and therefore are free.

"The Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses has just completed 81 years of service to the citizens of Belleville and a three mile radius of the city limits.

An annual meeting is a time to review the aims and policies of an organization, and to analyze the past year's activities. Long and uninteresting as statistics often can be, it undoubtedly is the measuring stick we have to determine the trend of our service, and the needs of the future. So now as we come to the end of another year, let us pause a moment to summarize our efforts and achievements of the year just completed.

In 1955 a total of 4,645 home visits were made to 459 patients by 1,856 Eighty-three per cent of the total visits were nursing care and 17 per cent were health instructive visits.

BRINGS COMFORT, SECURITY

When a nurse visits a home she not only brings knowledge and skill, but a feeling of comfort and security. Under the direction of the family physician, she cares for all types of illnesses, including poliomyelitis, diabetes, anemia, hemiplegia, tuberculosis, arthritis, cancer, post operative surgery and others. Although 17 per cent of the cases cared for 1955 were medical and surgical, 76 per cent of the total visits were to these patients which is an increase of 341 visits over 1954 to the medical-surgical category.

The care of the mother and baby is of utmost importance to the V.O.N. In 1955, 45 per cent of the caseload and only 30 per cent of the visits were to the maternity and newborn. You will note there has been a decrease both in the caseload and visits to the maternity and newborn. The reason for the decrease in this service is as follows:

HOME MAKERS' SERVICE

"First of all, because of the modern trend in the care of the maternity patient the need for nursing care is growing less. In most cases only the baby needs care. However, although the mother does not need care, she is of equal importance as the baby, and so is admitted to the service as a post-natal for health instruction. Then there is the efficient and reliable visiting Home Maker service, which is available in the community to relieve the mother of household responsibilities, allowing her to spend her time with her baby. Also the Public Health nurses provide a health teaching program for new mothers and babies in the city of Belleville.

"Nine per cent of the caseload and four per cent of the visits were to patients admitted to the service for health instruction only. These were infants and children with health problems who lived within a three mile radius of the city, and therefore did not come under the supervision of the Belleville Department of Health.

ASSIST LOCAL HEALTH DEPARTMENT

"In Belleville the Victorian Order of Nurses assist the local Department of Health in clinics which is an increase of 83 visits and 18 patients in comparison to 1954. Child Conferences and give a school nursing service to Holy Rosary and Cannifton-Corbyville schools. This part of our work is called 'Special Activities' because it is not a bedside nursing program.

"One of the functions of the Victorian Order of Nurses is to assist in training nurses in Public Health Nursing. In 1955 the Belleville branch provided one month's field experience for three post graduate students, one from Ottawa, and two from Queen's University.

"We wish to express our sincere thanks to the Children's Aid Society, the Visiting Home Maker Service, and the Ontario School for the Deaf, for their assistance in this educational program.

"Last spring, as part of their studies on community resources, 16 senior students of the Belleville General Hospital each spent one day with the V.O.N The value of such a program is shown in the following quotation from a student nurse's essay on her day with the Victorian Order, quote, "This experience left me a better understanding of one of our important community agencies. The co-operation among Public Health, V.O.N. and visiting Home Makers was illustrated. This experience also demonstrated the close link that should exist between hospital and community organizations." unquote.

"In 1955 the nurse in charge gave a talk on "The Victorian Order of Nurses" to the senior student nurses of the Belleville General Hospital and Kiwanis Club.

TELEPHONE MOST IMPORTANT

"A most important instrument in the set-up of Victorian Order service is the telephone. To the Community Nurses' Registry which so efficiently take all our calls we wish to extend our sincere thanks.

"The Victorian Order of Nurses operates on a national and local basis. A branch could not exist were it not for the interest of men and women in the community who make up the local board. To the board members of the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order I wish to express our sincere appreciation for giving so generously of your time and effort in the interests of V.O.N

"Before concluding, I would also like to pay tribute to my co-workers, Miss Theresa Callaghan; to our reliable relief nurse, Mrs. Ethel Neil, and to my assistant, Miss Grace Connor, for loyalty and devotion to your work which is often far beyond the call of duty.

"The service of the Victorian Order is affected by the changes and trend of the times. Each year our statistics have shown that we are giving increased service in the home, hospital and clinic, and in spite of the changes in the need for Victorian Nurses, the original policy of the order remains the same, that of providing nursing care to the sick in their homes."

"Respectfully submitted,

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

"The local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses is one of 118 branches in Canada. It is one of the objectives of the Order that our program should be adapted to fit local conditions and in the case of our branch, public needs in their own homes. These people require not only nursing care, but also the counselling service of members of the family and this latter service can be made possible only by an educational program on the part of our nurses. This means that a nurse goes into the home of a patient during her regular visit, but she must also spend considerable time on her first visit instructing members of the household concerning the care of the sick patient. These extra educational services are a great time consumer, and, as a result, fewer visits are made each day resulting in increased cost of operation. It is therefore evident that if we are to meet this new challenge brought about by changing conditions we must use every means possible to obtain increased financial support.

EVERY TYPE OF DISEASE

"The services of the Victorian Order of Nurses are available for every type of illness and during the maternity cycle. These services are available to everyone regardless of age, race, creed or financial ability to pay. The only limitation on these is the fact that they must be performed under the direction of a doctor.

"Since the Victorian Order of Nurses is a voluntary agency, it is dependent, at least to a degree, on the financial support of the public. While some patients can and do pay for services rendered, the larger percentage are unable to do so and we therefore rely on contributions from the Community Chest, City and Township grants, and private donations to enable us to continue with our work. Now that the Provincial Order has been incorporated, each branch will receive a Government grant.

"Our nursing staff has continued to perform its duties not only efficiently, but with the same magnificent sense of devotion and loyalty that has always characterized the work of O. N. nurses. May I extend our sincere thanks to the nurse in charge, Miss Dorothy Connor, her assistants, Miss Grace Connor, Miss Theresa Callaghan and our part-time nurse, Mrs. Ethel Neil.

"It has been a privilege and pleasure to serve as president of the Belleville branch for the past two years. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the members of the Board who elected me to this office; to the chairman and members of committees for their understanding and support, and to those who, with the help of relatives and friends, have made our V. O. N. such an outstanding success. I would also like to express our appreciation to the Kiwanis Club which organized the Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses over 30 years ago and which for some years past, has donated office space to us in the Kiwanis Centre.

"May I take this opportunity of expressing my best wishes to the incoming Executive and I know that the affairs of this branch will be in most capable hands".

"Respectfully submitted,
(Mrs. M. E. Bulger)

CARE OF THE HAIR DURING AND AFTER ILLNESS

When suffering from a cold or any other illness, dry shampoos will keep hair clean until your next visit to the hairdresser.

Colds, viruses and all the other "bugs" which conspire to make winter a pretty miserable period for most of us have a devastating effect on the hair. Locks which before hurtlessly shining, suddenly go dead and lifeless, and it seems as though, no matter how thoroughly one shampoos and how carefully one brushes, they're still unmanageable. Then is the time for a hot oil treatment.

Give yourself one the night before your shampoo. It's a simple treatment but it will work wonders. Just pour a small quantity of olive oil or baby oil into the top of a double boiler and when it is comfortably warm to the touch, take a small bit of cotton, dip it into the oil and, sectioning off the hair into one-inch parts, massage the oil thoroughly all through the scalp. Once the entire scalp had been saturated with the oil, massage it vigorously with the tips of your fingers.

Once this process has been completed, wring out a turkish towel in the hottest water you can stand and wrap it around your head like a turban. This steams the oil into your scalp and hair. When the towel cools, repeat the process and keep on for a minimum of a half hour. If you can keep it on all night, so much the better. In the morning, have your shampoo and see the difference in the condition of your hair.

If your illness is a long one (and we certainly hope it isn't) regular shampoos may be out of the question for a time. But, if you feel the way it is any longer, you might try one of the dry shampoos. These come in powder form and are simple to use. Here, too, you part the hair in one-inch sections and rub a bit of the powder all along the parts When the scalp has been completely covered with the antiseptic powder, take your hairbrush in hand and brush every bit of it out. What wave you have will not be lost and your hair will be as fresh and clean as ever. Brush vigorously, however, as that all traces of the shampoo are removed.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A firecracker plant exploded Tuesday, killing the owner, a young woman employee and the owner's four-year-old son. Six employees were critically injured.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW MUCH IS AN ALCOHOLIC'S PROMISE WORTH?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 37 years old and have been married six years. The first of those years was the only happy one I have had with my husband, except for the period he was in service. Then I wasn't exactly happy, even while he was away, but at least it was a relief not to have him coming home drunk, quarreling and abusive four or five nights a week.

When I married Bill, I knew he spent a lot of time running around with the other boys, but I thought that when he had a nice home of his own to come to from work and nights, he would be content. Was! Oh, he did seem to like to come home nights that first year. But after that, little by little he drifted back to his old companions. Every so often, we'd have a big blow-up over it, and he'd promise to stop drinking and to stay home nights, swearing it was for good. But it never was. Always, sooner or later, he started again.

Then I thought when the army took him, for by that time I was a nervous wreck. Then, when he was discharged from service, he came home with more promises. He told me that he knew he had been a miserable excuse for a husband, but that if I would trust him, and forgive everything he had done in the past, he'd never touch another drop of liquor and he would make everything up to me.

That promise lasted just three months, and now I am really at the breaking point. When he came home the other night, he found me packed up and ready to leave. I should have been gone when he came, but somehow I just couldn't leave without seeing him again. Maybe I didn't really want to go at all. How do I know? Can I put any trust in still another promise, when he has already broken so many? Or must I just give up and not even try again? Perhaps if you told me what to do, I might get up courage to do it. — Mrs. R.W.

Dear Mrs. R.W.:

Tragically enough, a trail of broken promises all along the way is one of the most characteristic marks of an alcoholic's career, for the simple reason that he is completely incapable of keeping such promises. At the time he makes them, he sincerely means to keep them. Moreover, he honestly believes he can, for at that moment—such promises are usually made at the end of a drinking bout—his periodic craving for alcohol is satisfied and he is sure the desire for it is gone for good. Then it comes again, and the desire is stronger than the will to keep the promise.

Without aid of some sort, an alcoholic cannot keep a promise to stop drinking. If he will seek help—from a doctor, from a psychiatrist, from that remarkable group of reformed alcoholics known as Alcoholics Anonymous—the odds are greatly in favor of his learning to control his disease, for disease it is in most certainly is. But if he relies on his own will power alone, that, you may yet be able to turn your unhappy marriage into a happy one. You might help this along by getting in touch yourself with the Alcoholics Anonymous group in your town and asking their advice on how to go about trying to persuade him, If he will not listen to reason, however, and he fails to come to the decision himself, then I am afraid it would be better for you to live apart from him until he takes a different attitude.

Exotic Vegetable Cookery

By Mary Moore

My cousin Dottie is still visiting me and besides being a good companion, she is a good cook.

Hailing from California she's chockful of new ideas and has made them richer for us that are so different; they will give our cooking a lift and our menus a needed change—especially at this time of year.

Her delectable cookery is reminiscent of the way vegetables were served in France—cooked but served cold—at a sort of salad-relish idea. Ideal for buffet service because they may be made in advance and are full of interesting flavors.

Her way of stuffing green peppers is entirely new to me—for it is a Russian recipe.

DOTTIE'S VEGETABLE-STUFFED PEPPERS

For a modest start do only three peppers. Select large peppers that will stand up. Wash and cut a slice from the top of three of them and remove ribs and seeds. Put in cold water and bring to boil, then pour off water and allow to stand to cool. You will need 1 medium parsnip, 3 medium carrots, 1-3 Spanish onion, 1 8-oz. tin tomato sauce, 3 tablespoons cooking oil (or a little more) some salt, pepper and MSG. Put the parsnip, carrots, and onion through coarsest knife of grinder, and saute them in hot oil on a frying pan, stirring frequently until saturated with the oil and a little bit tender. This must not fry. Shake on seasonings. Add 3-4 of the can of tomato sauce, mix, simmer for 5 minutes. Make sure the peppers are well-drained and stand them in steamer. (Lacking a steamer stand them in top of large double-boiler.) Fill with vegetable mixture. It's remaining sauce in the add hot water to half fill tin. Stir and pour over and around peppers. Cover and steam 1 hour. Carefully lift out and chill. Serve cold. An enthusiast will eat a whole one, but for a beginner half of one of these is a good portion.

EGGAU

If you shop hard you can find a medium sized imported eggplant. Puncture the skin, after washing, 7 or 8 places with point of knife. Bake until tender at 375 deg. Fahr.—about 2-4 hour. Carefully lift to cutting board, peel off skin and chop pulp fine-ly. While eggplant is baking chop finely 1 medium large onion, 2 tablespoons green pepper. (We used slices from top of pepper-leftover from above recipe.) Saute the onion and pepper gently in 5 tablespoons cooking oil until limp and tender, but not at all brown. Add the chopped eggplant, mix, simmer for five minutes. Drain liquid from a 10-oz tin of canned tomatoes and add pulp—about 1 1-2 cups. Season with salt and pepper and a shake of MSG. Simmer gently until some of the liquid evaporates and the mix is mushy—about 20 minutes with frequent stirring.

NOTE—This may be baked after tomatoes are added if preferred, but must be stirred frequently.

Chill. Serve cold in a bowl as a vegetable or relish or on bread or cocktail crackers.

GOOD MANNERS

HOW BRIDE-TO-BE SIGNS ALL THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My groom-to-be has quite a few out-of-town relatives and friends whom I have not yet had the opportunity to meet. Some of these have already sent me wedding presents. Since the givers are strangers to me, don't you think it would be a good idea for me to sign both our names to these particular thank-you notes? — M.T.

No. You sign only your name to these thank-you notes as you do to all your other thank-you notes. Then, as in the others, you include the thanks of your prospective groom. For example: "You and your husband made Bill and me so very happy by your goodness to us and we both thank you most heartily. Bill and I are thrilled with the handsome casserole dish you sent us for our home-to-be. (How did you know that I've been trying to make myself an expert on making casseroles? It is a beauty—just the kind we had dreamed of having! Just the right size. We hope that very soon after we are settled you will come to dine with us and see how handsome and how useful your gift is.

We hope that surely you can come to our wedding on the tenth.

Our best wishes and again our appreciation.

Sincerely,

COURTESY TO NEWCOMER-TO-GROUP

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A few evenings ago my sister and I were attending a social meeting at our church, and a group of us were talking together when a young lady we don't know very well (but like very much) joined the group. We were in the midst of a serious discussion and we continued it as she took a seat with our group. My sister told me afterward that I was very discourteous. And since I was the one speaking at the time) should have stopped the discussion for the moment and explained to the newcomer what we were discussing. I thought this unnecessary. Who is right? — Sisters

Your sister is right. When another person joins a group who are having a discussion, it is indeed the way of courtesy for the person speaking to explain to the newcomer the subject of the discussion. This can be done briefly, graciously: "It is so nice to have you join us. We were just speaking about the idea of . . ."

SHE NEEDN'T BE SELF-CONSCIOUS, CONSEQUENTLY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I do not drink alcoholic beverages of any kind. My friends all know this, and so it is no problem when I am with them or when I go to informal parties. But now I have been invited to a large, formal wedding and reception. I very much want to go, but my problem is how I can refuse to drink when the toast is proposed to the bride and groom. I don't want to be conspicuous by not drinking. — M.R.

This is really no problem, unless you make it one. Remember that today many, many people don't drink alcoholic beverages, and they are so inconspicuous about it that no one pays any attention. When the wine is poured for the toast, let the pourer pour a little bit in your glass, just lift the glass to (or toward) your lips when the toast is proposed, and of course you don't have to drink even a sip if you don't want to. If you follow this procedure you needn't be self-conscious, and you won't be conspicuous. The chances are, moreover, that everyone will be too occupied with the gala details of the wedding reception to notice . . . the guests will all be looking toward the bride and groom or whoever is being toasted.

Women's Activities

BETHANY WMS-WA

The January meeting of the Bethany Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. David Martin with 17 in attendance.

The WMS president, Mrs. Clare Sills, opened the meeting with a New Year's message.

"Our High Calling", was the theme of the worship service and Mrs. Clare Sills, was the leader. This was based on the Call to the Mission of the Church, Through One's Vocation." "It is through our vocation more than in any other way, that we can share in the purposes of God."

The Scripture Lessons were to show what Jesus expected of His disciples in the everyday world. These were read and commented upon by Mrs. Douglas Martin, Mrs. David Martin, Mrs. Bert Martin and Mrs. Russell Bitz. Mrs. Herb Howes led in prayer.

Mrs. Walter Easton was in charge of the program and opened with the Hymn "Standing at the Portal of Another Year."

Mrs. Ruckstuhl gave a reading "A New Year's Wish" and "For the New Year," by Mrs. Reichhuren. Mrs. C. Eggleton favored with a lovely piano solo and also was pianist for the meeting.

Readings were given by Mrs. C. Hiscox, "Blessings for the Day"; "The Little New Year", by Mrs. Douglas Martin; "Bring in the New Year", by Mrs. Gerald Eggleton, a stewardship reading by Mrs. R. Bitz and one on temperance by Mrs. H. Walker.

The president, Mrs. C. Sills, was in charge of the business for the WMS. A letter of thanks from Mrs. Harry McPherson was read. The treasurer, Mrs. C. Sills, reported having paid $150 to the branch treasurer, which was a little more than the year's allocation.

Refreshments for the congregational meeting were discussed.

WA MEETING

The president, Mrs. W. Easton, was in charge of the business for the WA. The treasurer, Mrs. David Martin, reported that $393.33 had been raised during the year. It was decided to have a quilting and a dinner the first Wednesday in February at the church hall.

Members paid their membership dues for WMS and WA, and entered their "Upper Room" for 1956.

A social half hour was much enjoyed with the hostess and the Life Line ladies, serving refreshments.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The January W.M.S. meeting of the United Church of Frankford was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel. There was a good attendance of members.

The president Mrs. Fred Charlesworth opened the meeting with a welcome to all and read that most fitting poem, "Standing at the Portal of the Opening Year," and trusted that she would be given guidance and wisdom to carry on successfully in her office of being president.

Mrs. H. J. Madill, treasurer, gave the financial report, which showed that $383.55 had been raised in the past year.

Various committees reported on their work and business was completed.

The Presbyterial was held in Nest Hope January 25th. The Rev. C. E. Clarke was present and conducted the installation of officers for the new year.

Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel took charge of the program and gave a reading on "New Year's Opportunities."

Mrs. J. Bleecker gave the Scripture lesson which was followed with prayer by Mrs. Carscadden. A brief talk on "Discipleship" was given by Mrs. George Spencer. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Grills, followed by a chapter from the study book dealing with "Indian Missions at Norway House, Manitoba," given by Mrs. J. M. Dafoe.

CLAIMS PAYMENT

HELSINKI (Reuters)—The Finnish government is claiming repayment—at 300 per cent interest of compensation it paid to the inhabitants of Porkkala who lost their homes when the area was leased to Russia as a naval base in 1944. The claim was disclosed Friday by Torgny Stenholm, chairman of the Porkkala Residents Association, as Russia continued preparations for returning the area to Finland next week.

Congregational Meeting

WEST HUNTINGDON ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN

IVANHOE — The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, was held in the S.S. rooms last Friday evening with a fair attendance.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker conducted devotions. A brief prepratory service was held. Mr. Harry Thompson, chairman of the Board of Managers, acted as chairman.

The minutes of last year's meeting were read by the secretary, Sam Dornan, and adopted.

REPORTS READ

Reports were given as follows: Auditor's, John McInroy; Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Lindsay Sills; W.M.S., Mrs. J. McInroy; Mission Band, David Fleming; birthday secretary, Mrs. John Wright; choir, Mrs. Harold Thompson; St. Andrew's Club, David Fargey; Sunday School, William Dornan.

All reports were well and favorably received, all organizations in good financial condition.

OFFICERS APPOINTED

During the business period the following officers were appointed:

Treasurer, Mrs. Harold Thompson; secretary, Sam Dornan; auditors, David Fargey, John McInroy; organist, Miss B. Fleming; assistant, Mrs. M. Shaw; ushers, A. Hassall, B. Dornan, W. Fleming, M. Shaw and J. McInroy; S.S. Supt., Barton Haggerty; organist, Mrs. Mrs. Shaw.

Teachers—Bible class, Mrs. J. Wallace, Miss M. Wright. Intermediate, Mrs. J. McInroy. Mrs. Harold Thompson. Junior, Mrs. B. Benson, Mrs. Dave Fargey, Mrs. Lindsay Sills, Mrs. Barton Haggerty.

It was decided to separate the juniors into two classes and order supplies, also to change the date of anniversary to an earlier date to avoid conflict with anniversaries of neighboring churches.

A discussion followed in regard to a memorial window. More information to be obtained before any further action is taken.

Mrs. Harold Thompson moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. and Mrs. Walker for their splendid leadership and guidance through the past year. Mr. Walker replied and closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served.

Massey Sends Eskimo Woman A New Kettle

OTTAWA (CP) — An Eskimo woman whose cherished copper kettle went into a mace for the north country's Parliament has had a modern replacement dispatched to her by plane and parachute from Governor - General Massey.

The new copper kettle was for Udluriak whose generosity made possible the completion of the Eskimo-carved mace for the Northwest Territories Council as it could be presented to the North's legislators at their session here last week.

An RCAF aircraft on a regular supply-dropping flight in the Arctic dropped the kettle by parachute two weeks ago in the Cape Dorset area of Baffin Island, a Government House statement said today. It was in a bundle containing mail, medicine, and other supplies.

GIFT TO QUEEN

In giving up her old kettle so it could be fashioned into the four arches of a crown topping the mace, Udluriak asked that it be accepted as her gift to the Queen Mr. Massey conceived the idea of presenting the council with a mace about a year ago.

The work went ahead smoothly until Pitaluk, chief craftsman, began forming the arches of the mace's copper crown. He worked carefully pounding strips of native copper on a stone mold, but the metal was brittle and snapped.

The mace was completed on time and delivered to Mr. Massey.

The governor-general heard of the Eskimo woman's contribution to the mace and decided to send her a new kettle from an Ottawa department store.

Holloway W.A. Elects 1956 Executive

The W.A. of Holloway Street United church met for its January meeting in the church parlors. Mrs. G. Dobbs presided and opened the meeting with a lovely poem a thought for 1956, "Try a Little Kindness".

"Try a little kindness when you
Want to get things done;
Try a little sympathy for that's How hearts are won.
Try a little laughter when the Skies are turning grey;
Try a little courage when you're Tempted to turn back;
Try a little confidence when Things are looking black.
A little ray of sunshine can light
The way above,
And life itself can be transformed
By just a little love."

The business period followed with gratifying reports given by the secretaries. Mrs. Symons reported on the work of the past year; also the treasurer's report showing a balance on hand of $872. Mrs. Alves read cards and letters of thanks from members, who had been remembered during bereavement and illness. A letter was read from Mrs. Clark, a resident of the Home for the Aged, who although blind, sent a lovely poem, "Kindness" and a donation.

Mrs. Scott reported for the flowers; Mrs. Oliphant for the buying committee and Mrs. Bowden gave a fine report of the work of the W.O.N.

Mrs. Andrew reported for the "United Church Observer".

Mrs. Post showed one of the new chairs for the Sunday school room. It was decided to purchase 150 of these chairs at $4.95 each.

Mrs. Dobbs on behalf of the W.A., thanked Mrs. Symons for her faithful services as recording secretary for the last eight years, having missed only two meetings. A wonderful record.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Coulter had charge of the devotional period. "Joy is a Christian grace with its source in love", extracts from Dr. Pidgeon's new book in the "Globe and Mail."

"Christ never intended the lives of His followers to be drab and dull. It is literally true that He dwells in our hearts by faith and where He abides there is always fullness of joy and pleasures forever more.

"Those who hear and heed suffer the joy of Christ's salvation. The happiness of human beings who have found their place and destiny. The joy of those who have formed a union with the Divine Lover, that nothing in life can break. In human life, love is the well-spring of song. love takes possession of the heart and all the world twinkles with the lover." Mrs. Cooke closed with prayer.

Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Daniels favored with two lovely duets, "Open My Eyes That I May See" and "God Will Take Care of You".

Mrs. Dobbs thanked all for their help and co-operation during her year as president.

Mrs. Smith brought in the slate of officers for 1956.

The Rev. S. E. Larman spoke words of encouragement and conducted the installation service.

Mrs. Noble Brown, the new president, took charge and asked for the same co-operation and help of each member. She likened the W.A. as a chain of service with each member a link. "Our W.A. will be as strong as each member makes her individual link."

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Past president, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs; president, Mrs. Noble Brown; 1st vice-president, Mrs. L. Alves; secretary, Mrs. H. Townsend; organist, Mrs. E. Hubbs; assistant, Mrs. T. Townsend; flower committee, Mrs. F. Scott; associate, Mrs. G. Denyer; convener, Mrs. G. Smith; visiting convener, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs; banquet and wedding convener, Mrs. E. Hick; house convener, Mrs. H. Oliphant, associate, Mrs. F. Rayfield; press reporter, Mrs. S. Westover; V.O.N. representative, Mrs. Taylor; "Observer" representative, Mrs. W. Andrews.

Group conveners: Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mrs. L. Alves, Mrs. H. Outingdyke, Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Coulter.

Convener of Sewing Group, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs; co-conveners, Jean Hairsman, Elizabeth Deline, Margaret Hutt and Thelma Rogers; committee of nomination, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, Mrs. G. Coulter, and Mrs. H. Outingdyke.

H. A. Parker New President Of Victorian Order of Nurses

The annual dinner meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held last evening in the Sunday school assembly room of Bridge Street United church with approximately 75 in attendance.

The "U" shaped tables were pleasingly appointed with white damask, exemplifying the colors of the order by a lengthwise fluted band of blue. The head table was graced by a blue bowl of yellow daffodils, white and yellow pom mums mingled with wine-colored stocks, lovely spikes of pink snapdragons, sprays of British Columbia huckleberry and asparagus fern, while tall crystal holders with blue and white candles flickered a gracious welcome.

HEAD TABLE

Those at the head table included: Mrs. M. E. Bulger, president of the V.O.N.; Mr. H. A. Parker, vice-president; Alderman Effie McCabe, elected city representative to the V.O.N. Board; Mr. H. Whitley, president of Trenton V.O.N.; Mr. G. Tripp, V.O.N. treasurer; Miss Dorothy Conner, nurse-in-charge of Belleville V.O.N.; Mrs. S. E. Morton, V.O.N. secretary; Mrs. H. A. Parker, Mrs. Burton of Trenton, and Miss M. Wearry, V.O.N. supervisor.

Following the fine dinner, which was provided by the women of Bridge Street United church, reports from the various departments of the V.O.N. were read by the following: the president's, Mrs. M. E. Bulger; the secretary's, Mrs. S. E. Morton; (both of which appear elsewhere in this edition); the treasurer's by G. L. Tripp; publicity, by Mrs. E. D. Finkle, and the nurse's, by the nurse-in-charge, Miss Dorothy Conner (which also appears elsewhere in this edition).

MUSICAL TREAT

A most enjoyable portion of the meeting was the exceptionally fine musical treat provided by Captain W. Bessant, of the Trenton corps of the Salvation Army, who rendered three splendid instrumental selections, the first, a cornet and piano duet, entitled "On The Cross"; the second "Solo Mio" with cornet and piano accordion and the third, "The Old Rugged Cross", a request number with cornet and piano accordion.

Mrs. Ralph Mordon favored with a delightful Irish reading, entitled "Get Yourself Clinicked" a sure cure for the doldums. Both these artists were thanked by the vice-president, Mr. H. A. Parker for their contributions, to which the appreciation of the assembly was added by a round of applause. Appreciation to the W.A. was also voiced for the splendid repast all had enjoyed.

Miss M. Wearry, V.O.N. supervisor, spoke briefly, expressing her pleasure in being present, and extending greetings from the head office. The reports she had heard were most gratifying, and she felt greatly indebted to the Belleville V.O.N. Board for its fine work as the V.O.N. could not manage without such public spirited men and women.

REPORT OF NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Following is the report of the nominating committee of the V.O.N. for 1956 which was read by Mr. E. E. Follwell: honorary president, Mrs. M. E. Bulger; president, H. A. Parker; 1st vice-president, C. E. James; 2nd vice-president, E. E. Follwell; secretary, Mrs.K. Hogg; treasurer, G. Tripp; committee chairmen: Dr. Bonnee, G. Tripp; automobile, D. Burr; publicity, Myles Morton supply, Mrs. J. Ray Grant; church representatives: Victoria Avenue Baptist, Mrs. J. R. Maull; Bridge Street United, Mrs. A. E. Miles and Mrs. H. Seldon; Christ church, Mrs. Newman; Holloway Street United; Mrs. K. Parks; St. Andrew's, Mrs. N. Williamson; St. Thomas', Mrs. S. E. Morton; St. Michael's, Mrs. C. Lynch; Tabernacle, Mrs. K. Hogg; Holy Rosary, Mrs. H. A. Glen: Board of Health, H. R. Varcoe; City of Belleville, Mrs. H. McCabe; Hospital Board, K. Box; Thurlow S. Section, Rotary C. Pound; medical adviser, Dr. H. Allore.

Members at large: Mrs. Robert Brain, Miss M. S. Byers, Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Mrs. R. Bowden Mrs. H. M. Francis, Mrs. W. Fox Mrs. R. Collins, Miss B. Corbett, Mrs. H. Quinsey, W. L. Slovin and N. E. Edwards.

BCI Drama Club Gives Fine Performance in 'Ghost Road'

Several months of "blood, sweat and tears" were brought to a successful culmination recently when the B.C.I.V.S. Drama Club presented the three-act melodrama "Ghost Road." The play deals with an exciting night of adventure in a picturesque setting — a long deserted stagecoach station on the Arizona-Mexican border. It was once the scene of a violent Indian massacre, and ever since that day has had the reputation of being haunted. All who know shun it. But during a wild sandstorm a bus load of tourists is stranded and seeks shelter there, not knowing its evil history. But "it isn't long before the ghosts start their manifestations. It seems every night at midnight a haunted stage-coach gallops by, and whoever looks upon it, dies. Two men do look and die during the course of the play, but courageous Matt Walters (the lovable lad) proves in the end that there is a good logical explanation for everything.

Frank Marchand, a newcomer himself, is to be commended for a fine job of directing since he was faced with two major difficulties: a group of new actors and actresses only one or two of whom had ever been on the stage before, and a play that poses particular problems for the amateur. A minimum amount of furniture and props raises the mountainous difficulty of how to keep several people busy when only two are talking. The creation and maintenance of tension demands histrionic talents that few novices possess. Despite these handicaps, however, the play did move along at an acceptable tempo and with only a few drops in interest and suspense.

CONSISTENT PERFORMANCES

Paula Freeman and Janet Salz are most deserving of praise since their performances were consistently good and at times outstanding. As Hattie, an outspoken indignant curmudgeon-type middle-aged lady, Paula stomped and huffed through her role with thoroughly admirable and unrelinquished vigor. She, alone, at times lifted the action from the frankly amateur to the near professional. Janet Salz, too, contributed much to the production. With perspicacity, if sometimes too obviously studied, nonchalance she interpreted the role of Cleo Patra, a night club entertainer with highly questionable motives and morals. Her acting was generally and certainly relatively, first-rate.

Even so hoary a melodrama as this must have its young lovers — Matt Walters and Millie Barry, played by David James and Judy Anderson. David had a big part and moved through it with satisfactory attractiveness and mysterious aloofness. Although at times he, (along with nearly all the others) tended to be somewhat wooden in both speech and action, still as the play progressed he did assume the heroic stature necessary. As Millie, the sweet young thing, Judy Anderson made a pretty and romantic contrast to the often dark and heavy mood of the play.

Bob Anderson, the Mexican bus driver Manuel, added greatly to the success of Act. 1. Although he preferred to walk himself constantly into the background his humor and happy unconcern rendered him an excellent scene stealer. It was too bad he died so soon; we would have welcomed him in other parts of the play.

Another person whose part was well taken was Joe Jewels as the old maid, Petunia Potter. Despite the inaccuracies of her lines she was often a pleasant relief in moments of stress and melodrama. Joan did a good job.

GAINS CONFIDENCE

Ian Darling progressively rose to the demands of his role, Old Bones. A little uncertain, nervous and hesitant at first, eventually his sympathetic interpretation of the sly old prospector was thoroughly enjoyable to watch.

Warren Frid performed his role of Elmer Barry, small town businessman, with a fair degree of fluency and pomposity. He showed hard and has a potentially good stage presence which he never quite brought out in this performance.

The three other cast members were Neil Smith, Marilyn Elliot and Lynne Roberts. All three turned in praiseworthy performances as the pseudo - archeologist, Pocante, the Indian squaw and Lola, the Mexican cowgirl respectively. Neil, as the genially unworldly specialist was excellent; as the member of a bandit gang, he was brilliantly disarming. Since Miss Marilyn played her part with such unwavering stolidity and since we readily forgot the red blouse which showed so obviously through her Indian costume.

Lynne's part as a kind of deus ex machina left the ending somewhat of the play was an oddly difficult one but she did well.

The technical staff, as always, deserves a word of praise. The scenic flats were well constructed and painted. The lighting and sound affects although puzzling at times added much to the realism of the scene. The names of the technical crew are as follows: stage, sound, lighting, Neil Smith; costumes, Joan Kemp, Barbara Bush; and properties, Lynne Roberts.

All in all, while one can easily find weaknesses in any amateur production, these young members of the Drama Club can rest assured that they provided a fine evening's entertainment. They should realize at the same time that they have a long way to go before they can expect very much more than polite applause and a big "E" for gallant effort.

Growing Demand for Canadian Materials Seen

TORONTO (CP)—Thayer Lindsley, veteran mining industrialist, has predicted that for a generation or more Canada will be the mecca to which all the world will turn for an enormous and increasing amount of raw materials.

The board chairman of Ventures Limited said, however, that to encourage production expansion Canada must cherish and foster those conditions and principles that made possible the growth of the mineral industries.

He spoke to the royal commission on Canada's economic future.

To expand the economy, Canada must also encourage processing of materials at home to develop skills and industries, and finally "we must have the vision to conquer the barriers of the North and create new enterprises wherever minerals may be found."

The long range outlook for mineral discovery in Canada was one of great promise, providing Canadian governments remain stable, free enterprise is encouraged and the vigor of the people continues to contribute to the health of investment climate.

Record Sales and Production Cause High Demand for Coins And More Profit for Govt.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — "Change, please!"

Those words probably were spoken more often in 1955 than in any previous year.

Good times for most of Canada, record sales and production caused a high demand for coins—and a boost in government profits in coin production.

Bank of Canada figures show the number of newly-produced silver, nickel and copper coins poured into Canada's economic life stream in 1955 more than doubled to some 80,000,000 from 37,000,000 in 1954.

PROFIT HIGH

In 1954 government profits from coin production totalled more than $1,000,000. They probably doubled in 1955.

Federal officials say the big rise in coin production in 1955 may not all be a reflection of good times. Higher demand may have resulted from increased use of coin vending machines and changes in streetcar and bus fares, prices of goods and taxes.

But there is no doubt, they say, that prosperity played a big part in the boost. There may have been more coins lingering in more pockets in 1955 than in any previous year.

Coins are produced by the Royal Canadian Mint under requisition from the Bank of Canada which plays the middleman in filling orders from the chartered banks.

The mint can turn out about 100,000,000 coins a year. It seldom is required to produce that amount. In 1953 it came close. It produced about 97,000,000. That also was considered a good year for Canada.

Compare that with 37,000,000 coins in 1954—a year that will go down in history as one of mild recession.

PROFITS TO TREASURY

The Bank of Canada pays the mint the face value of minted coins and the mint turns over the profits —the difference between cost of production and face value—to the federal treasury.

On total shipments of $2,488,000 worth of coins in 1954, profits amounted to about $1,100,000. Shipments in 1955 increased to more than $5,000,000 and profits will be much higher.

Shipments showed continuing coin preferences. In volume, the one-cent piece was still king. Deliveries from the mint rose to 56,289,000 from 26,289,000 in 1954, though still below the 65,512,000 of 1952.

The 10-cent piece came second with 12,148,000, up from 8,200,000 in 1954, though again down from the 17,037,000 of 1953.

Trailing far to the rear, behind the 25-cent and 50-cent pieces, was the silver dollar, not too popular except with collectors.

When the new ones bearing the effigy of the Queen were produced in 1953, they went like hot cakes with more than 1,000,000 being shipped from the mint. Shipments dropped to 382,494 in 1954 and to 266,000 in 1955.

15 Cars Derailed

BLACKSTONE, Ont. (CP)—Fifteen freight cars were hurled off the tracks Wednesday when a southbound Canadian National Railways freight train was derailed near this village, 40 miles north of Orillia.

The accident happened on the main line between Toronto and Sudbury. Officials said 10 box-cars were tumbled down a steep embankment. No one was injured.

REPORTS NEGOTIATIONS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Enquirer said Wednesday night the Green Watch Company is negotiating for the multi-million dollar purchase of the Waterman Pen Company, Ltd., of Montreal, and its United States and foreign subsidiaries.

Family Tells How Money Will Be Spent

LONDON (CP)—Three of the five children and one grandchild of Sir James Dunn reported in line to share in the late financier's wealth told today how they plan to spend part of their legacies.

Sir James died in New Brunswick Jan. 1, leaving an estate that has been estimated unofficially at $40,000,000 after death duties.

According to Montreal reports published in London newspapers, 50 per cent of the estate will go to Sir James' widow and the rest to:

Sir Philip Dunn, successor to his father's title who now is in Canada; Mrs. Kathleen Adrane; Lady Sherborne; Mrs. Bridget Bromovsky; Mrs. Anne Wishart and Mrs. Sheila Graham. Mrs. Graham is a granddaughter whose mother died in 1928.

WILL TRAVEL

"It's a fantastic amount of money," Mrs. Bromovsky, 36-year-old wife of a travel agent, told reporters. "A million pounds. You just cannot realize it. I shall travel and travel."

Mrs. Graham, 26-year-old wife of a London car salesman and mother of a 18-month-old daughter, was thrilled. She said the windfall is not going to change her life. There will be no diamonds, pearls or minks for her but perhaps a racehorse.

"I owned one once when I was working in a stable, but it was too expensive to keep."

"We have always wanted to buy an olive farm in France," said Mrs. Wishart, also 26, wife of an artist. "Now we may do it with the money father left."

FAMILY AMAZED

Lady Sherborne, whose husband is a prominent British landowner, said the family here was a "little amazed" at the amount of money left by Sir James. At Aler, Lady Sherborne was the first woman to take out a pilot's licence for an autogyro.

Mrs. Adrane, wife of a director of 23 companies, said the money will not change her life.

Hog Marketing Agency Claims Packers Tried to Break Price

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario Hog Producers Marketing Agency said Wednesday a group of Ontario meat packers made an unsuccessful joint effort this week to break the hog price established on the open market by the agency.

Charles McInnis, agency president, said in a statement released to the press that in spite of the efforts by five packers, hogs were sold for 24 cents a pound or more. "Despite the refusal to pay this week's open market price of 24 to 24.5 cents a pound, Mr. Jake Kohler and his sales staff have succeeded in holding the price at that level," Mr. McInnis said.

"After the open market price was established to the 24-to-24.5 cent level, one of Canada's top meat packers contacted us and told us they would not pay the established price. These packers have been accepting hogs from the truckers but rather than pay the established price they have been transporting them to our yards."

He said the packers returned about 2,000 hogs to agency yards but all had been disposed of to other buyers. The price paid by consumers for pork cuts justified the 24-cent price.

A spokesman for Canada Packers Ltd., reported to be one of the firms referred to in the statement, said:

"Hog marketings (deliveries) are very heavy and we have been doing our best to move them into consumption at the best price possible.

"Despite our efforts, pork products have not been going into consumption as rapidly as hogs have come to market. Under these circumstances, our company does not feel that we can pay extra above last week's price of 23 cents."

Believe Israel Unwilling to Release Details

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said in the Commons Wednesday that Canada is trying to obtain agreement from a foreign government for release of full details on Canada's arms shipments to the Middle East.

Mr. Pearson, who said Tuesday that Canada shipped about $3,000,000 worth of arms to Egypt and Israel in the last two years, did not identify the government.

But on the basis of the statement Tuesday he was apparently referring to Israel.

Mr. Pearson said he was withheld from giving full details Tuesday the reluctance of one government to have them disclosed for security reasons.

He added that Canada is trying to convince this government that security precautions are not as important as "considerations which indicate that all details should be released." Canada was not reluctant to make them public.

Opposition leader Drew asked Prime Minister St. Laurent whether his assurance last week still stands—that no arms shipments will be made to non-NATO countries until the whole matter is debated.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that it does.

LOST HIS BOOTS

STOWMARKET, Eng. (Reuters) — Mrs. Bird was lying ill in bed here Wednesday when suddenly a pair of airman's flying boots came through her bedroom ceiling. The airman himself, Fit. Lt. Henry Merriman, was wedged in the upper framework of the roof after bailing out of his RAF jet fighter, which crashed in a nearby field. Neighbors helped him down with a ladder.

KILLED NEGRO

EUFAULA, Ala. (AP)—A white man was convicted of first degree murder Wednesday and sentenced to life in prison for killing a Negro less than three weeks ago. O. B. Mann had pleaded innocent in the pistol slaying of William King early Jan. 6.

Insurance Pay For 30,000 Workers Restored

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor chiefs today welcomed federal government loosening of unemployment insurance restrictions that have temporarily cut off thousands from jobless benefit payments.

President Claude Jodoin of the Trades and Labor Congress and president A.R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor expressed pleasure after Labor Minister Gregg told the Commons Wednesday that the insurance regulations are to be interpreted more broadly.

Officials said the effect of Mr. Gregg's announcement on a complex point is that between 30,000 and 35,000 workers will get more than $3,000,000 in retroactive insurance benefits from which they were temporarily disqualified in the last three months of 1955.

"We're happy about this change which was asked by our congress," Mr. Jodoin said. "When last year's amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act were passed by Parliament, it was certainly not the intent of Parliament to diminish coverage."

TOOK NARROW VIEW

Mr. Gregg conceded in the Commons that the commission had taken a "narrow" view of part of a 1955 legislative rewriting of the insurance act, with the result that some jobless workers had been disqualified from collecting insurance benefits in October, November and December of last year.

They were left out under a commission interpretation of a legislative shift in the basis of benefit qualification. The change from daily to a weekly contributions basis, the government-employee-employer fund left loopholes for interpretation.

Mr. Gregg's announced new interpretation will give temporarily to persons who became unemployed after Oct. 2 the same right to benefits they might have enjoyed under the old law. It will be retroactive to that date, when the revision went into effect.

However, officials said, not all those who were passed up initially will collect full retroactive benefits.

Tunisian Terrorists Resume Activities After 18 Months' Progress Towards Self Rule

Question Parried

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday that Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan has suggested that last October's federal-provincial tax conference be recalled.

He parried Commons questions, however, on whether he will call another meeting with provincial premiers on further discussions on the tax-sharing proposal he sent the provinces earlier this month.

TO BUILD TUNNEL

WOODFORD, England (Reuters) — The A. V. Roe Company, British aircraft manufacturer, announced today it will build a wind tunnel designed for testing its models at up to 3½ times the speed of sound. The announcement increased speculation about the machine the company is building for the British government which, it is believed, will travel at a sensational speed.

TUNIS (AP) — Isolated rebel bands and grenade-hurling terrorists have begun to reappear in Tunisia after 18 months of faltering progress toward self-government.

Most of the outbreaks, which began two weeks ago, have been small. But they underline the political and economic difficulties of the French North African protectorate.

Nationalist violence all but ceased after Pierre Mendes-France while France's premier, flew here in July, 1954, to offer Tunisians a large measure of autonomy.

Habib Bourguiba, popular leader of the nationalist Neo - Destour party, returned from exile to a tumultuous welcome. Moderate nationalist Tahar Ben Ammar was named premier, and the two began negotiations with the French and working at home to improve Tunisia's lot.

WAS APPROVED

Mendes-France's regime toppled before he was able to attain his goal, but his successor, Edgar Faure, carried through to parliamentary approval a program of partial home rule last August.

Friction arose when Bourguiba's once-close friend in the Neo-Destour, Salah Ben Youssef, refused to go along with anything less than full independence. Ben Youssef began denouncing the agreements with France.

Thus far, Bourguiba and his moderates appear to be winning over the extremists. But in its year and a half of life, the new government has only begun to deal with the poverty and unemployment besetting too many of Tunisia's 3,500,000 people.

For months there have been terrorists along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier. Mostly they were Algerian rebels who ducked across the border into Tunisia. Recently, however, they have begun to recruit Tunisians.

Mining Recorder Unwittingly Had Key to Field in Office

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — For thirty mining recorder W. Nelson Miller of Sault Ste. Marie unwittingly had in his office the key to the billion-dollar Blind River uranium field.

In discovery helped make the closing years of his 41-year career as Ontario mining recorder in the Sault Ste. Marie mining district the busiest of his life.

When he took office June 18, 1915, mine-hunters followed the lure of gold. Now aged 70, he retires Jan. 30 with uranium beckoning the prospector.

STAKING CLAIMS IN 1948

The magic metal of the new atomic age first attracted attention in this area in October, 1948, when prospector Bob Campbell staked claims at Theano point near Montreal river, some 90 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie. In the rush that followed, 5,000 claims were staked. So far, none has become a mine.

The Montreal river rush faded into little more than a memory with the Blind River staking boom of 1952 when Mr. Miller recorded 7,000 of the claims filed for the 600 square mile area, part of which lies in the adjoining Sudbury mining district.

The clue to the Blind River discovery was a piece of ore in Mr. Miller's office, labelled "iong." He doesn't know who brought it there, or when.

Hotelman - prospector Aime Breton found the sample was radioactive and traced it to Long township near Blind River but was disappointed when assays showed only traces of uranium. The boom started in 1952 after geologist Franc R. Joubin, acting on a theory that chemical action of surface water had leached out surface uranium, found seres deposits underground.

RECALLS GOLD RUSHES

Many of Mr. Miller's memories are of gold. He talks about the Michipicoten rush, which brought five mines, now all closed; the Goodfish rush of 1910; and the Minishibeis flurry of 1894 when 1,029 claims were staked.

In his 40 years and seven months in office, he has recorded 49,577 claims.

A native of the Soo, he was Ontario's youngest mining recorder at his appointment, aged 29. At his retirement, he has the longest service of any.

He spent two years in a mining course at the University of Toronto and then spent 10 hunting a fortune as a prospector in the Cobalt, Elk Lake and Gowganda areas of Ontario.

A slight man, standing five-foot-seven, Mr. Miller says modern Canadian prospectors are well educated and well organized. Established mining companies were providing the most modern equipment and flying their prospecting crews to remote areas. The Ontario government offered instruction courses held at various centres throughout the province.

W. Nelson Miller, who retires this month at 70 after 41 years as recorder in the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., mining district, holds the big piece of ore which sparked the staking boom in the Blind River uranium camp. The ore lay unnoticed in his office for years until geologist Franc R. Joubin traced the piece of ore to Long township, near Blind River. Joubin found large deposits of uranium underground. A boom followed and now the camp is the centre of the billion-dollar uranium field. (CP Photo).

Combines Probe Machinery Is Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Toronto's professor suggests that federal anti-combines officials should attempt to tame the wolves of business rather than eliminate them.

Prof. Vincent Bladen, head of the university's political economy department, criticized the work of the federal restrictive trade practices commission as inadequate, in a brief before the Gordon economic commission.

It was up to the combines commission to appraise the evidence before reporting to the justice minister. To make a thorough appraisal, the commission had to be concerned with economic, market processes and performance, with the realities of dynamic competition.

But commission officials were concerned only with a search for collusion and the arrangement of evidence for prosecution in court, Prof. Bladen said.

In cases where doubt exists as to whether public interest had been hurt by the alleged combine, the justice minister should confer with the firms concerned and determine what changes should be necessary to make competition more effective.

Breaks Record

MELBOURNE (CP) — Dave Stephens, Australia's barefoot "flying milkman," ran six miles in 37 minutes, 34 seconds in a strong wind here to eclipse Emil Zatopek's world record by 5.2 seconds.

Stephens gained world fame last year when he ran without shoes because his salary as a milkman didn't permit such luxuries. He now wears shoes in all races and trials.

RAWDON

Young Couple Honored by Presentation

RAWDON — On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. James Carrithers, Corbyville (nee Marlene Armstrong), were tendered a presentation shower in Carmel Jubilee hall by the bride's neighbors and friends.

Mr. Harry Brown was master of ceremonies and the program opened with a sing-song. Readings of interest were read by Mrs. Gerald Fryer, Miss Dawn Hubel, Mrs. Lorne Brooks, Messrs. Jim Hubel and Jim Grills. Miss Dorothy Johnson contributed a piano solo; Mrs. Gerald Clancy gave two vocal solos; Mrs. Arthur Fryer and Miss Doris Grills rendered a piano duet and Donnie Armstrong gave a cornet solo.

The newlyweds were given seats of honor and Miss Dorothy Johnston read an address of appreciation. The presentation of two walnut lamp tables was made by Messrs. Jim Hubel and Gerald Grills for which both Marlene and Jim voiced thanks for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments and a social hour followed.

40,000 Indians Jam Grounds To Hear Graham

MADRAS, India (AP) — About 40,000 Indians, including some caste Hindus, jammed the convention grounds Tuesday night and heard American evangelist Billy Graham at his second night service here.

Hundreds filed in front of the rostrum to greet Graham after he urged them to "receive Christ into your bosoms and be born again." They included men bent with age and women carrying babies in their arms.

The presence of caste Hindus in the throng was surprising since, according to caste belief, persons in the higher orders can be defiled by any contact with untouchables. Such discrimination has been outlawed in India but still exists.

Graham, who is making an Asian revival tour, spoke in the morning to a gathering of about 10,000 pastors—"the record number I have ever addressed so far," the evangelist said.

Good Roads Body Requests Study Of Toll Highways

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Good Roads Association has recommended that independent engineering and economic studies be started to determine if construction of toll roads in Ontario is financially sound.

In a six-page brief to the Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads, the association said the province should appoint the best men available to make the studies and give them a free hand.

It made no recommendations about actual building of toll roads.

Studies undertaken by the association showed traffic on Ontario roads has doubled from 1942 to 1954, throwing an increasing load on already crowded highway facilities. Toll roads might be the best way to provide new highways quickly, the brief suggested.

Severely-Burned Boy Awarded $1,882 Damages

TORONTO (CP)—An eight-year-old boy, severely burned in a 1952 operating-room explosion at Stratford, Tuesday was awarded $1,882 damages by the Ontario Appeal Court.

The court also awarded $7,500 to John Crits' father, Nell Crits.

Mr. Crits appealed a 1953 decision by Mr. Justice F. E. F. Smily, who dismissed his action against Stratford General Hospital and two of its doctors, C. Edward Sylvester, anaesthetist, and Lloyd Mackild, surgeon.

The appeal against Dr. Macklin was dismissed and the Appeal Court found Mr. Crits had no legal case against the hospital. The appeal against Dr. Sylvester, however, was allowed with costs.

John Crits suffered second- and third-degree burns to the face and neck Feb. 5, 1952 when an explosion rocked the operating room where he lay waiting to have his tonsils removed.

John Arnup, counsel for the Crits argued that Dr. Sylvester should have kept the ether container far from the patient's head and that proper precautions should have been taken against static electricity.

Mother Thanks Fifty Donors For Rare Blood

TORONTO (CP)—A young Maritimes mother, who says she prefers anonymity, Tuesday said Thank You for an overwhelming response to her plea for blood donors for her little girl.

She said Monday in the Varsity, the University of Toronto daily, asking for donors of a rare O1h-negative group—she received 30 volunteers.

Her three-year-old daughter has congenital disease that destroys red blood corpuscles. Doctors say only transfusions can save her life.

An operation, lasting eight hours, is to be performed in which all her blood is to be replaced. Simultaneous transfusions will make it necessary for the donors to stand by throughout the operation.

Mayer Good Not Sensational In Leafs' 3-1 Victory Over Chicago Hawks

Sport Slices

Rare, Medium, Well-Done

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIN DIMES

Over there in the shadow of the Italian mountains, where there is little snow but plenty of ice and optimism, a green-and-white jerseyed band of Canadian hockey warriors start battle today in defence of the world amateur hockey championship.

They are the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, one of the best crusads of its kind to leave Canadian shores to bowl in ice combat for The Lady of the Snows. Her honor is in good hands.

The hopes of a nation rest on the sturdy shoulders of these puckmen, while a hockey world in general seems secured they will conquer the European foemen and retain the bauble won last year by the fighting V's from Penticton.

Meanwhile hockey teams travelling abroad in quest of world honors are skin somewhat to the foot-slogging mare of provential history. It takes money to make 'em both "go."

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has been obligated to the tune of some $35,000 to pay the shot for the Dutchies on their honor-seeking safari. 'Tis quite a bundle in itself but if it is split up here and there the burden won't be so heavy.

It has been surprised that all amateur clubs in the country help contribute to the costs through the medium of the box office, and, of course, fandom. Quite a sum has been raised already and no doubt a large portion of the required quarter-grand will be made available through this source.

The eastern Ontario senior "B" group has signified its willingness to co-operate and already some of these "benefit" games have been played. The Whitby Dunlops started their "Dutchies" quota week ago and garnered nearly $100. Last Saturday night the Kingston Goodyears and a 3337 "house" contributed to the cause.

The Belleville TPTs will stage their "Dutchies" night tomorrow when they entertain the Brockville Magedomas in Memorial Arena.

The usual custom as suggested by the CAHA is to add a dime to the admission tickets. In some cases a silver collection has been taken, although this entails a lot of extra work.

The TPTs have adopted the add-a-dime idea, and this will be done Friday night. Season ticket holders will be able to contribute their dime through the medium of receptacles placed in the arena entrances.

So how about it? Take along an extra dime, or forego a sixth drink Friday night and put it in the Dutchies' kitty. You and I are going to do a lot of justifiable crowing if the Kitchener gang comes through with the world title—and that should be worth a dime of any man's dimeo.

So don't let this "Dutch treat" down. The fact that the boys at home are behind them in more than a moral sense won't do the krautics any harm. They'll be out there battling all the harder and the roar "Go-Dutchies-Go" will have an additional meaning.

So don't raise a surprised eyelid Friday night when the ticket-taker charges you an additional ten cents. After all it isn't so much and think of the kick you'll get in helping the Dutchies bring back that world crown to the country to which it rightly belongs and where the great winter pastime was spawned.

ATTENTION, ANGLERS

Anglers will be interested to know that the chart showing Ontario's sport fishes in full natural colors, first of its kind ever produced by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, in collaboration with the Royal Ontario Museum, is available to the public at a nominal charge of $1. The chart was inspired by the need expressed by many sportsmen for an authentic visual aid for use in identification and conservation. Requests will be sent to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, with remittance attached payable to the Ontario Provincial Treasurer.

BATTER UP!

Spring can't be far away. The National Baseball League schedule arrived at this desk yesterday afternoon. The highlight is the fact that Brooklyn Dodgers will play seven of their home games in "Baltimore City." All eight clubs get under way on April 17 with the Phillies at Brooklyn; Giants at the Pirates; the Cards at the Redlegs and the Cubs at the Braves. The second "opening" day falls on April 20 with the Giants at Philadelphia; Dodgers at Pirates; Redlegs at the Cubs and the Braves visiting the Cards. The schedule calls for 340 games, same as last year.

Squaw Valley Must Prove Ability Or Innsbruck Gets 1960 Olympics

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (Sacchiero Pass) — International Olympic Committee has given the Squaw Valley, Calif., organizing committee until April 3 to prove its financial and technical ability to hold the eighth winter Olympic Games.

Avery Brundage, president of the IOC, said that if the necessary guarantees are not received, the 1960 Games will go to Innsbruck, Austria.

The 56-man Squaw Valley delegation told the IOC Wednesday it had applied to the California legislature for a further $4,000,000 in addition to the $1,000,000 already guaranteed.

Brundage said it remains to be seen whether $5,000,000 would be enough to run the games to the satisfaction of the IOC and the respective international federations of the sports involved.

Brundage added that Squaw Valley's general arrangements for the Games, received in a written report Tuesday, had been satisfactorily approved.

Innsbruck, second in the IOC voting in Paris last May for the 1960 Games, would be able to provide the necessary winter sports facilities, Brundage said.

U.S. GETS PLAYER

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation Wednesday night granted the United States Olympic hockey team permission to use defenceman Jack Petrooke as a substitute for Frankel O'Grady who was injured during the team's pre-Olympic exhibition tour. Petrooke is a 22-year-old co-captain of the University of Minnesota hockey team.

7 Years--What Does He Get? Little to Do, Single in Net; Sloan Registers Goal No. 28

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gil Mayer walked seven years to "declare squatter's rights in the National Hockey League. Now he has his chance.

Mayer, a stitt-stead goaltender who seemed destined for near-obscurity in the minors until big Harry Lumley pulled a thigh muscle, stepped into the nets for Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

He was good but not sensational. That's because he didn't have too much work as Leafs battled to a 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in a far from spine-tingling engagement.

Mayer was the only game of the night and was the start of Mayer's big chance in the NHL. He should stay in NHL company and not with Pittsburgh Hornets in the American League.

WANTS NHL JOB

"This is my first real chance to show some people I can play in the NHL," said the 25-year-old Mayer said before the game. "I'm no different from any other player in the American League. I want to stay up. I've waited almost seven years for this chance."

The one that got past him came in the first period when Chicago's Red Sullivan tipped in a goalmouth pass from left winger Harry Watson at 19:54.

Leafs broke out in the third period for their goals. First it was George Armstrong, then Ted Sloan —who got his 28th of the season— and then Rod Stewart.

LEAFS PULL AWAY

The victory extended Leafs' fourth-place lead over the Hawks to four points.

Actually, it was the third time Mayer, who started learning hockey in his native city of Ottawa, had been over the threshold reminding chores. He played one game in the 1948-49 campaign and another in the 1953-54 season.

Mayer hopes to pull the same deal with Leafs as Hank Bassen did with Chicago three weeks ago. Hank was used to the jittery Al Rollins and ended up kicking Rollins into the minors with Buffalo Bisons.

Bassen was hot Wednesday night. He handled 34 Leaf shots, 13 in the third period when Toronto started rolling.

Greenberg, Cronin Elected to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Greenberg and Joe Cronin, two of the best righthanded hitters of the modern age, Wednesday were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., by the five year members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Greenberg is general manager of Cleveland Indians and Cronin general manager of Boston Red Sox, both in the American League, where they spent most of their brilliant major league careers.

A total of 183 ballots were received from the eligible writers, with Greenberg earning 164 votes and Cronin 152. A total of 145, three-fourths of those cast, was necessary for election. Only players active in the 1936-56 period were eligible for recognition and they could not be active as a coach or manager within the last five years.

THE ONLY TWO

The two new members were the only players close to election. Red Ruffing, a key pitcher on many New York Yankee pennant winners, was third with 97 votes. Then came Ed Roush, former Cincinnati outfielder with 91.

Others among the 31 of 10 in vote getters were: Lefty Gomez, Hack Wilson, Tony Lazzeri, Kiki Cuyler, Hank Gowdy and Sam Rice.

Greenberg, now 45, had a lifetime batting average of .313 in 1,394 big league games, most of them with Detroit Tigers. The first baseman - outfielder hit 58 homers for the Tigers in 1938 and is ninth on the list of 42-slam Home run hitters with 331.

Cronin, now 49, is a member of the exclusive 2,000-hit club with a total of 2,285 hits in 2,124 big league games over a 20-year span. His lifetime average was .302 and he hit 171 homers.

Helfand Decides Fate of Fights Video

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The fate of the Monday night televised fights is in the hands of Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

Helfand reserved decision Wednesday after a two-day hearing on charges against matchmaker Tex Sullivan and the London Sporting Club on violations of commission rules. The penalty could be revocation of the club and matchmaking licenses.

Willie Gilzenberg, corporation treasurer, who had been charged, with Sullivan, of "consorting with persons convicted of crime, bookmakers, gamblers and persons of similar pursuits" surrendered his license in a surprise move Tuesday. Helfand, however, refused to accept the resignation.

DENIES CHARGES

After refusing several motions by Adams to dismiss all counts, Helfand said he was reserving decision, pending review of the testimony. His ruling is not expected before Friday.

In the meantime, Helfand appointed Dr. Vincent J. Nardiello as Boxing Commissioner to take over the London Sporting Club at St. Nicholas Arena in New York between Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., and Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico. Helfand said the commissioner would be pending his decision on the hearing.

Sullivan told the commission Charlie Johnston, Bill Daly and Dick Kearns, all officials of the International Boxing Guild, had no interest, direct or indirect, in the boxing club.

He said the three IBG officials had been called in for TV negotiations with Dumont in 1954 only to assure the network "name" figures of TV caliber would be available.

Football Peace Contingent on Argonaut Action

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says peace between the National Football League and the Canadian Football Council may be contingent on Toronto Argonauts dropping three import stars to American clubs.

The players are quarterback Jackie Parker, quarter of Detroit Lions, and linemen Billy Shipp and Ron Stewart, formerly of New York Giants.

The newspaper says a demand for such action was made in a telephone conversation from Philadelphia Wednesday with Bert Bell, NFL commissioner. It adds:

"Asked if he would be willing to approve a peace pact with CFC chairman Ralph Cooper of Hamilton on the basis that they were bygones, Bell answered with an explosive 'yes.'

"Cooper is scheduled to meet with Bell soon to talk over peace plans with the CFC.

The newspaper quotes Bell as saying:

"Naturally I'm not going to sit down with Mr. Cooper and say 'Let's forget right away. I expect we'll sit down and discuss all matters thoroughly. I want to see football prosper in both Canada and the United States."

Rocky's Manager Will Consider $350,000 Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, said Wednesday he has received an offer of $350,000 for a Marciano-Nino Valdes title fight in Havana in May and will give it "every consideration."

Brilliant Spectacle

Athletes from 32 Countries Open Winter Olympic Games

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—A parade of 1,120 brilliantly uniformed athletes from 32 countries today opened the seventh winter Olympic Games.

President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy, facing the athletes, officially proclaimed the opening of the Games and Italian ski champion Zeno Colo and Simoun, the first woman ever to perform the role, took the Olympic oath of fair play on behalf of her fellow-competitors to complete the opening ceremonies.

Blue was the predominant color in the uniforms of the competitors, massed along three sides of the open square in Cortina d'Ampezzo's new 12,000-seat ice stadium for the inaugural rites. But flashes of green, white and red appeared in the throngs.

OPENING ACTION

The Canadians were among the few competing countries to see action on opening day. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, favored to win Canada's sixth hockey title in seven tries, opposed West Germany in their opening game after Austria and Italy met in the curtain-raiser.

Skiers, speed skaters, figure-skaters and bobsledders were also scheduled to begin their events until Friday or Saturday.

Today's impressive opening ceremonies began with the playing of the Italian national anthem. President Gronchi took his place on the platform as the flags of the competing countries were raised. This was the signal for the competing athletes to march in.

Guido Caroli, Italian speed-skating champion, brought the torch lit Sunday at the Temple of Jupiter in Rome and ignited the Olympic flame to open the Games day and night until the Games end Feb. 5.

Bowden and the other flag-bearers were grouped in a semicircle inside the ring of athletes.

STUDY IN CONTRASTS

The big mixed States seem were sparkling white jackets, blue pants and red fez caps. The Russians, competing in their first olympics, appeared in brown fur caps and powder blue coats. The Swedes were in white ski caps, blue overcoats and trousers and yellow scarves while the Norwegians' predominantly blue attire was set off with black and white patterned stockings.

The skiers still prayed for snow, although Olympic officials had work covers ready to whisk it away from slopes in the upper reaches of the Dolomites to pave the dangerously sparse Olympic runs. Skaters and hockey players looked forward to ideal weather conditions.

Meanwhile Olympic officials were coping with another headache, promising to take remedial action to meet a complaint by the hockey referees that their expense money and living quarters were inadequate. All in all, there appeared to be no major controversy to mar the opening ceremonies.

"I think this is the finest group of athletes we've ever sent to the Olympics," said Frank Shaughnessy, Jr., of Montreal, head of the Canadian delegation. "This is team Canada can really be proud of."

The entire team ran through light workouts Wednesday, tapering off their long training grind. Team managers said their charges are in top shape and ready to go.

Teeps Fade in Third Period Bow to Whitby Dunlops 12-6; Kingston Defeats Brockville

Whitby Dunlops' high-scoring machine ticked off another milestone on its coast to the eastern senior "B" group top-spot honors last night, defeating the Belleville TPT's by a 12-6 score.

The Kingston Goodyears kept pace with their "throwback of the tire" handing the Brockville Magedomas a decisive 7-3 setback in the Limestone City to further consolidate their hold on second place.

Minus the Jones brothers and Sammy Mulholland, the TPT's put up a gallant fight against their powerful opponents, fading in the third period when the Dunnies threw a quintet of goals after the Belleville crew had whittled the score to 5-4.

The Dunlops led 3-1 at the end of the first period with the Teeps holding them three goals even in the second frame. Belleville tied home a pair to open return early in the third heat, then the Dunlops went on their five-goal scoring splurge to fend off the Moira threat.

Whitby's high-scoring potential was again manifested by the Dunlop line crew racking up 36 goals in their two outings. The Dagmar-Bobby Attersley - O'Connor line swelled its scoring average with five goals and seven assists. O'Connor was good for three markers and six assists, Attersley four and three and Gagnon one and three.

Freddie Richer stole the point-scoring spotlight for the Dunlops with two goals and four assists. Bonello was also good for two goals with Redmond, Air and Tovey getting singles.

Chuck Tryla was the sparkplug for the shorthanded Teeps, scoring twice and getting four assists. The Peterborough mates Toodie Greenlaw and Gus Leonard each scored a goal with Pat Stone and Hill and McMaster getting the remaining pair.

Fence was wonderful between three unsuitable working forces as hitting crews with the referees assessing but slight minor penalties. Five were for the Dunlops.

Turk Barclay was in the nets for the TPT's and put up with some sparkling saves on not a few occasions when the Dunlops' sharpshooters were in the clear.

The Dunlops took a two - goal lead midway through the first half on markers by Bonello and O'Connor before Chum Tryla took Leonard's pass to whittle the count to 2-1. Bonello scored his second goal on the night with Air and Richer before the period ended.

Tryla racked up goal number two with the second period a minute old but O'Connor and Redmond scored to give the Dunnies a 5-1 lead. Bill McMaster scored unassisted at 11:33 and five minutes later Greenlaw counted to bring the count to 5—Tovey hit the hemp to end the period 6-4.

Pat Gilmour raised Belleville hopes with a goal after a minute in the third frame but Air got that one back a minute later. Gus Leonard brought the count to 7-6 then the Dunlops unleashed their usual third-period scoring punch. The Gagnon - Attersley - O'Connor line raced through for three goals with Freddie Richer notching the remaining pair.

The final Whitby goal which was scored with five seconds to go was a pass-out from behind the Belleville net which struck Terry Goyer and deflected into the hemp behind a surprised Barclay.

The TPT's clash with the Brockville Magedomas here tomorrow night in what is an important battle for both clubs.

The teams:

Whitby—Goal, Donlevy; Sinden, Tovey; B. Attersley, O'Connor, Gagnon, Bonello, Air, Richer, N. Attersley, Roberts, Redmond, McBeth, Hawse.

Belleville—Goal, Barclay; Wade, Wilson; Leonard, Tryla, Greenlaw, Hill, Gilmour, Goyer, McDonald, McMaster.

CUBS SHOW PROFIT

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cub baseball organization showed a $60,000 profit for 1955, its first in-the-black season since 1952, it was announced Wednesday at the annual stockholders' meeting.

Belair Stud Re-Sale Brings Huge Profits

Sixty-one head, bought in two separate deals for $618,000, brought a total of $1,236,600 when 59 of them were sold in public auctions.

John E. Koresz, a Teaneck, N.J., businessman who owns a stable, sold 19 Belair horses for $301,500 Wednesday. He had originally bought 21 head for $205,000 but kept two fillies for breeding. His profit of $96,500 however, was far short of that made by Miss Mildred Woolwine, Lexington, Ky., and her associates.

They bought 34 broodmares and 16 yearlings for $400,000, auctioning them at Lexington in January for a record price of $1,361,800 in a separate deal. The four-year-old son of Nasrullah now is at Hialeah Park here, capturing the $100,000 Widener Handicap on Feb. 18. He was bought by a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs II of Lexington.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lunn, Llangollen farms, Upperville, Va., paid Koresz the sale's top price of $85,000 for Nashville, a two-year-old bay colt by Nasrullah out of Bonnie Beryl. Hector Bielak, operating for O.T. and J. R. Hogan of Chicago, paid $80,000 for Premier, a four-year-old bay filly.

Doug Hepburn Retires from Pro Wrestling

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Hepburn, who won the world heavyweight weightlifting title in 1953, is giving up "the big money" of wrestling.

"Professional wrestling is too tough for me," he said in an interview here Wednesday.

The 370-pound muscle man, who won the weightlifting title for Canada at Stockholm five years ago, has been appearing on the professional wrestling circuit in both Canada and the United States for the last year.

"I made about $35,000 and netted $15,000 the first year and Frank Tunney said I'd hit $40,000 to $60,000 next year and $100,000 within about three years."

Hepburn said of wrestling: "It's a rough business and it's not for me. I just haven't the temperament for it. I've had my nose smashed, my leg hurt and the boys have been just beginning to turn it on. "Right now I'm going to sit tight for a while and maybe get together a touring show troupe featuring a strong man act."

Joey Giambra Wins Decision Over Andrews

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Joey Giambra is nearer a crack at the world middleweight boxing championship after a fast finish Wednesday night gave him a unanimous 10-round decision over Al Andrews.

Giambra, from Buffalo, N.Y., swept the last three rounds on the cards of referee Elder Craft and judges John Brandt and Charles Ford. He weighed 158 to 161½ for his Fall opponent. There were no knockdowns.

Mike Scanlan, Joey's manager, said Giambra was "very sharp." It was his first fight since he lost a close decision to Bobo Olson last August.

Giambra, who was discharged from the Army Dec. 9, fights next on Feb. 17 in New York's Madison Square Garden. It was Giambra's 42nd victory in 47 fights. Andrews' loss was his 15th against 43 victories and two draws.

Indians Wallop Maroons 9-4

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford Indians whipped Chatham Maroons 9-4 Wednesday night to increase to three points their second-place margin over Windsor Bulldogs in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A standings.

The Indians are seven points behind the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, now in Italy for the Olympic Games, but have played one game more than Stratford.

Billy Flick and Lou Bendo each scored three goals for the Indians, who roared back after allowing the Maroons a two-goal lead early in the first period. Mickey Roth, Pete Kowalchuk and Doug McKay fired the other Stratford markers.

Canada Has Excellent Chance To Get 1964 Olympic Games

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Sydney Dawes, president of the Canadian Olympic Committee, says Canada "has an excellent chance" to get the Olympic Games for Toronto—or 1964 if she really goes after them.

"Delegates are continually coming up to me and asking why Canada doesn't bid for the Games," Dawes said in an interview Wednesday night.

He suggested Toronto or Vancouver as possible sites.

"Toronto made a bid for the Games when Mayor Allan Lampert was in office but I haven't heard much from the city since. It would be the ideal site if the city is fully behind the Games.

"Vancouver is another excellent site. The people in British Columbia did a magnificent job for the British Empire Games in 1954 and I know they would be fully capable of duplicating the job for the Olympics."

Should the 1960 Games already slotted to Rome, Dawes was confident European countries would welcome a bid from Canada.

"But Canada would have to convince the International officials she really would buckle down to the job," he added. "It would have to be an all-out effort."

The Canadian Olympic chief said Vancouver would be the most likely site should the winter Games ever be staged in Canada.

"Vancouver has both population and ski sites," he said. "All they need is to build up an interest in staging the Games."

Dawes added that the selection of Scaw Valley, Calif., for the 1960 winter Olympics was a "wonderful" choice. "It has the snow. It will cut down travelling expenses and we have to send a bigger team."

Good Pass, No Shoot

'Louey' Doesn't Think Much of Russ 'Lucky to Finish in First 3 Teams'

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—An Olympic hockey referee who jumped on a Canadian championship team in the 1948 Games says Russia will be lucky to finish in the first three in this year's tournament.

FO Louis Lecompte of Ottawa, one of 25 referees selected to handle this year's Games, said in an interview Wednesday that he picks Canada's Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen to win the title with Czechoslovakia and the United States finishing ahead of Russia.

"I don't think the Russians are as strong as last year and a number of other teams are much stronger," said the RCAF photographer, who obtained two weeks leave from Canadian 1st Air Division headquarters in Metz, France, to undertake his Olympic whistle-tooting chores.

WATCHED RUSSIANS

Lecompte, a member of the Ottawa RCAF Flyers who won the 1948 title, had ample opportunity to watch the Russians in action. He was a referee at the world hockey championships in Germany last year when Canada's Penticton Vs defeated Russia 5-0 to win the crown and Lecompte refereed a three-game series between the Russians and Switzerland's national team.

The former Ontario Hockey Association and Quebec Senior league referee said the Dutchmen look "far stronger" than Penticton.

"The Canadians look like a happy group of kids out on the ice," he said. "And can they ever go!"

The former defenceman, whose crushing bodychecks played a big part in Canada's 1948 Olympic victory, said one weakness of the European clubs "is that they don't shoot enough."

Dave Stephens Cracks Six-Mile World Record

MELBOURNE (AP—Australia's Dave Stephens, who copies the training methods of Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek, performed a miracle of pacing Wednesday to wipe out the 6-mile world record for the six-mile run.

Running virtually by himself on the Olympic Park track, the 21-year-old "Barefoot Milkman" put together a blistering 6-mile effort to finish in 27 minutes, 54 seconds. That is 12 seconds faster than the record set by triple Olympic champion Zatopek at Brussels in 1954. It also gave the Czech a world record for the six-mile run.

Stephens, who delivers milk—on the dead run—in Melbourne suburb and who has occasionally raced Zatopek over distances that afford new track shoes, looks upon Zatopek as his teacher.

Showing amazing judgment of pace, he ran the six miles in 4:38, 9:33, 4:43, 4:41, 4:42.2 and 4:31.8. His speed on the final mile indicated that he would have had a good chance of breaking Zatopek's record for 10,000 metres if he had continued to that distance.

Campy's Salary Makes Comeback, Now $42,500

BROOKLYN (AP)—Roy Campanella, who two years ago feared his baseball career was over, now is the highest-priced player in Brooklyn baseball history.

The catcher, whose comeback in 1955 perhaps was the biggest single factor in bringing Brooklyn its first world championship, signed Wednesday for an estimated $42,500. No other Brook player ever has cracked the $40,000 mark.

In mid-season 1954, Campy was almost convinced that season would be his last because of a broken bone in his left hand. He finished with a very .207 batting average, batted .318, hit 32 home runs, drove in 107 runs, and won the National League's most - valuable - player award for the third time.

Campy, at 34 and entering his ninth major league season, feels he "can go on catching 100 or more games a year six more years and I'm not kidding, either."

Campy's comeback gives him a 12-per-cent pay boost. He received about $38,000 in 1954 and 1955. With Campanella on the club, Brooks now have most of their big names under contract. Among the missing, however, are Duke Snider and Carl Furillo.

Louis Cardinals top all the other clubs, with only outfielder Russell Sherman Sullivan their 41-man winter roster.

Boston Red Sox signed pitcher Tom Brewer while giving manager Mike Higgins a three-year contract calling for from $35,000 to $40,000 a year.

Chicago White Sox signed pitcher Bob Keegan.

MOSS GETS COACHING JOB

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Joe Moss, who played professional football with Cleveland Browns of the Big Four last season, Wednesday was appointed an assistant coach at the University of Maryland.

Sarton Clear In Fight With Basilio

CHICAGO (AP) — An Illinois state athletic commission member conferred Wednesday with boxer Johnny Saxton who still said he is satisfied with the conditions under which Saxton will fight champion Carmen Basilio in a welterweight title bout at Chicago Stadium Feb. 15.

Saxton's manager, Frank (Hinkey) Palermo, is under suspension in Illinois and the Philadelphia challenger is serving as his own manager for the bout with Basilio.

The Illinois commissioner, Lou Raddenda, also president of the National Boxing Association said Illinois is just as dissatisfied as New York in admitting Palermo, but that it was illegal to deprive Saxton of his right to earn a living. The New York state athletic commission had rejected the bout originally scheduled for Syracuse, N.Y.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In the play by declarer, bridge beginners should first attempt to form two important habits. One is the study of their combined hands before touching a card in the dummy.

Oddly enough the purpose of this is not to remember something, but to forget what is unnecessary to remember. This is done by mere comparison in each suit to see what they cannot lose.

Another is to watch what cards are discarded by opponents. One simple example will be seen in this deal:

NORTH
♠ K 8 4 2
♥ Q 10 6 3
♣ A K 5 5

WEST
♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ A 9 8 5
♦ K J 6 4 2

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 8 7 4 2
♦ Q J 10 8 5
♣ 10 7 2

SOUTH
♥ K J
♣ Q J 8 4

South was declarer at a contract of six spades and the opening lead from west was heart ace. This took a trick and west switched to a diamond when east asked for a change with heart deuce.

The second trick went to the south diamond ace and the trump ace was cashed. Seeing the ten drop in east, declarer next cashed his trump queen and confirmed his assumption that the jack was in west.

West had hoped to get a trump trick and might have done so if his seven could have traded places with the nine at eight spot. As it was, his jack was caught in a lock and fell to the dummy king.

There is not much excitement to the play of this hand and you may consider the time wasted. But there are beginners who might have carelessly taken the second trump trick with dummy king.

This is merely a gentle reminder to them that the fall of the opponent cards are very important aspects to declarer. Some one card may be the key to success in the play of any hand.

When this deal was played a kibitzer remarked that the small slam was safer if played in clubs instead of spades. When asked why, he announced that the opponent trumps were better divided.

This is typical of some kibitzers. They expect you to have a long neck, too.

Joe King Gets Franchise Kitchener Club

KITCHENER (CP) — A Toronto promoter and concessions operator Wednesday was leased the Intercounty Senior Baseball League franchise of Kitchener.

The Kitchener branch of the Canadian Legion agreed to turn over the franchise to Joe King who must assume the balance of owner Don Gallinger's contract over a six-year period.

Alex Kvasnak confirmed a report he had been appointed manager of the Kitchener team for the 1956 season.

Kvasnak said he agreed to run the ball club on a share-the-wealth basis with the players. "I will be with the boys on a share-the-wealth basis, but I plan to divide the split into three categories—A, B and C—depending on the player's ability and experience."

Rudy Vallee's Home in Hills One of Finest in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You have not seen anything until you've seen Rudy Vallee's house.

You drive up, up, up into the Hollywood hills to find Pyramid Place on which Rudy lives. You pass through an auto gate—"caution—this gate closes 20 seconds after you enter"—and climb to the top of the peak, stopping your car on a turntable as per instructions on a sign.

The master of the house is there to greet you, picturesquely dressed in knee-length yellow socks, walking shorts, yellow sport shirt and checked coat. He is smoking a long cigar and instructs you to follow him for the "40-cent tour."

"When I was looking for a house in 1941 I gave my real estate man an impossible order," Rudy explains. "I told him I wanted a house that was close to Hollywood —because I was sure then that radio would go on forever. I wanted him to find a place which had a hilltop location, plenty of space to entertain, a swimming pool, a tennis court, a place to show movies and owners in trouble."

THEME SONG CHIMES

Miraculously, Rudy adds, he found this place. It was built by Ann Harding and Harry Bannister in 1930, then passed into other hands. Rudy remarks that he has added many features himself, including the door chimes that play his theme song, "My Time Is Your Time."

He displays the living part of the house, which is ornate in the Southern California tradition of the '20s and '30s. At the head of the stairs is a hidden passageway which leads to a sun deck, where a hidden bed slides out at the press of a button.

He takes you into the large bedroom with seven-foot-square bed and dozens of Vallee's favorite tuba bottles on the dressing table. Then you go down a long hallway, past his spacious office and outdoors. End of the tour No. 1's just starting.

He leads you down a steep path, past a sign saying only thoughtless people discard cigaret butts ("Find and use ash trays"). At one level is a large barbecue and swimming pool—okay, Liberace, so it's only rectangular.

CAREER SOUVENIRS

On the next level is a tennis court, championship size. Rudy leads you to a door under the court. Inside, you find yourself in a long hallway, about the length of two pullman cars. On the walls are photographs, clippings and posters covering Vallee's long career.

Back to the turntable, he tells about his joy in playing a 70-year-old priest in "Jenny Kissed Me" at the Pasadena Playhouse. He plans to take it to San Francisco and hopes to tour with it indefinitely. He would like to escape the night club circuit, which he hates.

"I've worked like a dog these past six years. It tears my heart out to leave this place. I'd just like to enjoy it." Perhaps he can after July, when his fabulous annuities mature.

AT THE CAPITOL — Robert Wagner stars with Terry Moore and Gilbert Roland in "Beneath the 12-Mile Reef" (Cinemascope-Color) his first motion films in CinemaScope with Technicolor, as a tough young deep-sea diver. Film opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program in CinemaScope "Soldier of Fortune", starring Clarke Gable and Susan Hayward.

Marlene Wins Florida Honors

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Marlene Stewart of Penhill, Ont., three times Canadian amateur champion, won medalist honors Wednesday in the 24th annual Helen Lee Doherty Challenge Cup golf tournament.

Miss Stewart, a senior at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., had a 73, three-under-women's par over the 6,046-yard Coral Ridge course.

Miss Stewart had two eagles, on the fourth and 19th holes, and three-putted only the 16th where she took a four. She won the British amateur in 1953 and with Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, who shot an 82, was a pre-tournament favorite. Both have won this event in past seasons.

TV Dramatic Programs Show Increased Interest in 'Fact'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television dramatic programs are showing an increasing interest in "fact" rather than "fiction."

A general public interest in "fact" over "fiction" is revealed in the book trade. In recent years, too, leading national magazines have greatly increased the proportion of factual articles over fiction in their pages.

TV producers are well aware of this, of course, but it's doubtful that their interest in matters of historic fact is based merely on what is happening in other communication media.

It can be argued, I believe, that one can be more controversial—and so more dramatic—with "factual" drama than with "fictional" drama while still maintaining one of the curse of controversy which television in general fears.

Of 19 prize-winning TV dramatic scripts in a national contest on the theme of tolerance and civil liberties, only one has been purchased by a commercial sponsor—and now comes word that that one will not be produced.

The world of television is filled with personally tolerant and civil-liberty-minded individuals. But it's also scared of the bogeyman as it imagines him in all sorts of areas in American society: politics, the armed forces, religion, business, labor, the north, south, east and west.

Now an odd thing a bogeyman is that he'll attack "fiction" because in it he's always seeing himself or his interests held up to ridicule. But a bogeyman laughs off "fact."

It's an odd world where "fiction" is attacked as "fact" and "fact" is dismissed as if it were "fiction."

AT THE BELLE — Silvana Mangano stars in the oral role of the enchantress Circe, and the faithful Penelope Parasmanti in Paramount's magnificent Technicolor epic "Ulysses" now playing at the Belle Theatre. Kirk Douglas co-stars as Homer's great Greek warrior and adventurer.

Changed Attitude To Monopolies Seen Necessary

TORONTO (CP)—James Stewart, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, believes traditional attitudes towards competition and big business will have to be re-examined in the light of changing economic patterns.

Touching on the issues of business competition and monopolies, Mr. Stewart told the Gordon economic commission some concentration of power already existed in many industries. What had to be decided was whether this was good or bad.

Mr. Stewart said it is possible to establish a model of perfect market competition where no single producer or consumer can bring about a change in price, but he wondered whether this would be in the public interest.

"We must concentrate on developing our resources and improving our standards of living," he said.

"The economic development which will accomplish these objectives ought not to be frustrated by a system of ideas some of which may be no longer relevant to the real world.

Newsprint Bill Given Approval In Principle

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec legislative assembly Wednesday approved the principle of government legislation to control the production, distribution and sale of newsprint in Quebec province. The vote was 81 to 17.

The Liberal opposition, claiming the legislation was the germ of press control in the province, voted as a group against the measure. The assembly's single independent member voted with the government.

Effect of the measure, when adopted is the customary Duplessis's legislature, will be to freeze the price of newsprint at the Sept. 1, 1955 level until March 1, 1957. Newsprint manufacturers also will be required to supply monthly to all newspapers the volume of newsprint delivered during November, 1955—peak month of the year.

Later the provincial cabinet will set up a five-member tribunal to whose task it will be to fix newsprint supply quotas for each newspaper on the basis of circulation and size.

Liberal Leader Georges Lapalme said he agreed substantially with Mr. Duplessis that the province for Quebec in the use of the province's natural resources but disagreed with the government's methods.

Mr. Lapalme said what the government should have proposed was a forestry development program which would have increased provincial revenues, perhaps through increased stumpage dues in timber cutting operations.

He said the proposed legislation will not put any pressure on the newsprint companies. They would continue to reap huge profits on their newsprint exports to the United States.

Mr. Lapalme said the newspapers in Quebec province would benefit by the control measure because of a fixed price and an assured supply of paper at last stated under the law. They would save a few dollars at the cost of placing themselves under the protection of a government board.

He said last-minute changes to the legislation leaving it up to the Quebec publishers to accept or disregard its provisions did not change his impression that freedom of the press is still at stake.

Mr. Lapalme said:

"I know the premier will say the newspapers are free to avail themselves or not avail themselves of this law. That is true . . .

"But, because there is a newsprint shortage and because there will be a fixed price in Quebec the rules of economics will enter into play and the newspapers will have to go to the newsprint board.

"Their freedom will be hypothetical.

The measure goes into committee stage this week and third reading—final approval—will be proposed.

When it passes the assembly the legislation will go before the appointed legislative council where it must be approved before taking effect.

Steel Supply Is Still Tight

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutbacks in automobile production have brought little or no relief to the steel shortage in the United States, eye Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

Consumers still find it difficult to get enough steel to meet their production schedules, the weekly says, reporting as follows:

No relief will be forthcoming for several months, if then. The news of the auto cutbacks brought to the surface the underlying truth about the steel industry—that it is based on demand from virtually all industry.

No real relief in the tightness of steel is expected until mid-1956. Despite increased capacity, orders continue to run ahead of production and backlogs are still heavy.

The demand continues to be bolstered by the uncertain outlook regarding steel labor, the probability of price increases and the realization that business looks good for the immediate future.

Thatcher Again Votes With Govt. On Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Ross Thatcher, Independent Commons member, voted with the government for the third time in two days on a confidence motion as the throne speech debate ended.

The Commons voted 149 to 79 to adopt the formal motion of confidence in the government's legislative program outlined in the throne speech from the throne.

Mr. Thatcher, member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, voted with the Liberal majority. Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit members and two Independents, Paul Gagnon, Chicoutimi, voted against the motion.

The debate, presented by Mrs. Ann Shipley (L—Trinitakaming) at the start of the 10-day debate Jan. 16, was the customary formal seconding for an address of thanks to Governor-General Massey for the throne speech. The speech is a statement of government legislative policy.

Mr. Thatcher supported the government Tuesday night on two non-confidence motions by the Conservative and Social Credit parties. They were defeated by identical votes of 153 to 82.

MURDERED WOMAN

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Arthur Ross Brown was sentenced to death in the gas chamber Wednesday for murdering Mrs. Wilma Allen, pretty wife of a Kansas City motor car dealer. A Federal Court jury took just 35 minutes to recommend death for the kidnap-killing which netted him less than $50 last August.

DEATH TOLL NOW 28

Up to Officials To Apply Law Says Garson

OTTAWA (CP) — The Criminal Code provides adequate means to put sex deviates away indefinitely if it is properly enforced, Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday.

He explained it is up to provincial prosecuting officials to see that the laws against sex crimes—a number of which have occurred recently in Toronto, Hamilton and other Ontario cities—are fully applied.

Once put away in federal penitentiaries, he said, such persons have proper treatment available—if they accepted it. Not all did and it could not be forced on them.

CHALLENGED BY MP

The minister's remarks were immediately challenged by a British Columbia lawyer, David Fulton (PC—Kamloops). He said Mr. Garson was again taking the attitude that Parliament is only required to pass the law and has no further responsibility.

He was saying Parliament could wash its hands of responsibility because it was up to the provinces to administer the law. That was a shirking of duty by Parliament.

There was room to suggest that provisions of the law dealing with sex deviates were inadequate.

The definition of a criminal sexual psychopath in the Criminal Code, Fulton said, should be declared."(Mr. Fulton said. Because of this there was deep concern in Canada whether the present law is adequate.

CODE PROVISIONS

Mr. Garson said once a person is convicted of any sex offence under the code, the court may be advised under evidence as to whether the person is a criminal sexual psychopath. If such a hearing is granted, he added, the law requires that the court "shall" have evidence from at least two psychiatrists — one of them appointed by the attorney-general of the province in which the crime was committed.

Once a person was found to be a criminal sexual psychopath, the court was empowered to sentence him to not less than two years on the original charge and impose a further sentence of "preventive detention."

For all practical purposes this meant a life term, subject to review by the minister of justice, Mr. Garson said 20 persons are currently serving such sentences in Canadian federal penitentiaries except the one at Dorchester, N.B., have the part-time services of a psychiatrist to treat sexual psychopaths.

PICKED UP PILLOW

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Otis Roper, half asleep and frantic with anxiety over the safety of her baby, grabbed a small bundle from a bed and rushed from her burning home Tuesday. Outside, she discovered she had picked up a pillow instead of the child. The baby perished in the flames.

MARSH HILL

Tweedsmuir History' Book Plan for W.I.

MARSH HILL — The January meeting of Pine Grove W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Allyn Inkle with 14 members and seven sisters present.

Mrs. Grace Bartindale, the president, opened the meeting with the reading of a New Year's poem.

The roll call was answered with the handing in a 'photo of young-er days', which was used later in the meeting as a contest.

During the business, it was decided to lend the card tables, chairs and dishes for the Folk School which is to be held the latter part of February at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Huglin.

During the reports of the standing committees, Mrs. Charlie Ross gave a paper on the "Care and planting of dahlias".

It was reported if butter was used instead of margarine, there would be no surplus of butter.

Current Events were given by Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater.

Mrs. Alex Tanner, historical research and Current Events convener was in charge of the program which included a reading by Mrs. Charlie Ross, "Grandpa's Wood Stove."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Vanderwater introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ayiworth of Madoc, who spoke on the "Compiling of a Tweedsmuir History" and had on display the Tweedsmuir History of the Madoc W.I.

She said the material go in the history should be of general interest, and of course a loose leaf book, which can be added to from time to time.

Mrs. Aylsworth said she had her prints made of old pictures which were treasured by the people. The pages should be indexed.

39TH ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Tanner gave a paper on the "50th Anniversary of Saskatchewan and Alberta". We find great changes in the prairies such as oil wells and huge cattle and hog ranches, mountain sheep and goats will still be found.

"It took the people who came to that country a long time to size up the land and get the best how to live with it. They knew very little of what to expect from the climate or what the soil would reach or what lay secreted beneath the soil.

"The ancient land proved alternately hospitable and cranky, kind and savage. Drought, hail and autumn frost were unheard of to say nothing of grasshoppers, rust, weeds and prairie fires.

"At first much of the soil was broken slowly and laboriously, but after several revolutions in machines and methods, the people worked part of the time and lived well.

"Although the oil companies are spending millions of dollars and provide thousands with jobs and have given business a general lift, yearly farm production is still worth twice as much as its oil production with wheat being their main industry.

Mrs. Tanner then asked a few riddles.

Refreshments were served and some enjoyed looking at the Madoc W. I. Tweedsmuir History.

Mumps are still prevalent on the third line. Shirley Pascoe is reported to be quite ill with them.

Hastings County Farm Forum

FRANKFORD — Three forums reported on January 16. Melrose at the home of Arthur English; Hazzards at the home of Stan Moorcroft, and Brookdale at the home of George Pollard.

(1) The same theme ran through all the reports—for individuals to support their farm organizations by attendance and constructive criticism. The farmer must study and get the facts; bring his problems to the meetings and discuss them. The Federation of Agriculture, as the agent of the farm organizations, should be able to approach the member and state the farmer's side.

(2) As to being a pressure group, Brookdale says: "We do not advocate a pressure group, but we think the farmer's side of the agricultural problems should be presented by the member and dealt with in fair manner."

Melrose says: "Our forum feels that we have our members of parliament to represent us and if we approach them with our problems it would be their duty to put it across to the government, which would be as effective as a pressure group."

Hazzards says: "The planned approach to local members of parliaments to acquaint them thoroughly of conditions and what is needed is necessary before pressure tactics can be successful. We think that pressure won't be necessary if a well organized campaign is made to get the facts to the members of parliament. Pressure should not be used unless absolutely necessary.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rosche, Oshawa, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Rosche.

PUNISHMENT SAID NO CURE FOR SEX CRIMES

Experts Say Surgery's Benefits Not Proven

TORONTO (CP)—A panel of four authorities on sex deviation agreed Thursday night that the threat of punishment by law is an ineffective deterent to sex crimes.

They opposed resorting to surgery on the grounds its beneficial effects have not been established positively.

"There is little likelihood of a sex criminal being reformed in an ordinary penal institution," Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, told a large audience in Massey Hall.

"The philosophy of punishment in the corrective field is undergoing an evolution," Dr. Nadeh Brancale, director of the New Jersey state diagnostic centre, told the Toronto Star-sponsored meeting.

IN ALL WALKS

"Sex deviates are found in all walks of life," said Dr. Frederick Van Nostrand, director of services director for Ontario reform institutions.

"The vast majority are only exposed when charged and arraigned in court. These are no generally accepted tests to determine such tendencies."

Dr. Kenneth Gray, of the Toronto Child Guidance Clinic, said parents against rushing into a radical plan for educating their children until they are sure enough of sex deviation to be able to answer all the child's questions.

The experts said the average deviate shows little inclination toward acts of violence and he usually does not progress. A Peeping Tom did not necessarily become a rapist.

BLAMES NEWSPAPERS

KITCHENER (CP)—A Waterloo College professor charged here last night that newspapers are "creating our crime by running full accounts of the indecencies of crime."

Dr. G. E. Reaman, professor of English and dean of men at the college, told members of the K-W and North Waterloo Humane Society that "we all have temporary insanity. We are prepared to commit crimes—even murder."

Dr. Reaman, former superintendent of the Ontario training school for boys at Bowmanville, said: "There are persons, he said, who have loose urges in excess and who are on the verge of committing indecent offences or murder when they become the blaring writeups and set off the trigger.

"That is why crimes of various types become in waves" he said.

"Sooner or later we will wake up and stop reporting full accounts of the lurid and indecent aspects of our crimes. We will only mention that has happened in short, concise accounts."

Injuries Fatal To Stewardess

QUEBEC (CP)—Denise Jobidon, stewardess in a Quebec DC-3 that crashed near the Lac Saint-Jean village of northern Quebec, died today in hospital.

Miss Jobidon, 23, of Quebec City was critically injured in the crash that killed the pilot, the co-pilot and one passenger. One other passenger suffered broken legs, but 13 passengers escaped uninjured.

The plane, en route to flight from Knob Lake, Que., to Sept-Iles, an ore-mining terminal about 150 miles northeast of Quebec City, crashed on Lake Jacquet, about 186 miles north of Sept-Iles.

Puck Avalanche Hits Austria Dutchies Waltz to 23-0 Win

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, goalless almost at will, overwhelmed a helpless Austrian team 23-0 today for Canada's second straight victory in the elimination round of the winter Olympic hockey competition.

The victory, one of the most one-sided in Olympic and world championship hockey, virtually assured Canada of advancement to the final six-team round beginning Monday.

This was a foregone conclusion since the Dutchmen are favored to retain the championship they added won last year by Penticton Vs, but today's win added an element of mathematical certainty.

The worst Canada can do now is tie for second place in the quality-ing round and the lopsided victory today would, in the event of that unlikely situation, assure the Canadians of entry to the finals on the basis of goal average.

TEN SCORE GOALS

Ten players took part in today's onslaught on Alfred Pusta, agile Austrian goalie, who managed to stop 51 of the Canadians' 76 shots on goal.

Forwards Bob White, Jim Logan, Charlie Brewer and George Scholes and defenceman Art Hurst scored two goals apiece and identicalities were registered by defenceman Howie Leg and centre Ken Laufman.

Canada led 6-0 at the end of the first period, added six more in the second and then scored six more in the third.

Knox, in addition to his five goals assisted on two others, while Laufman, starting on a pair of defensive jobs at centre ice, helped on six goals.

WOODALL IN NETS

Keith Woodall, 29-year-old goalie from Kimiira, Ont., made his first appearance in the nets for the Dutchmen in Europe and had a quiet time, handling only 14 shots.

Denis Brodeur, the other Canadian goalie, was in the nets Thurs-

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: A ridge of high pressure still dominates the weather picture over most of the province, but cloud has spread into all sections and some light snow was general during the night. The cloudy skies will break up by southern Ontario during the day, but return once again tonight, resulting in variable cloudiness with little change to temperature across southern Ontario. In northern sections, skies will remain mostly cloudy with some light snow.

Saturday, skies will be mostly cloudy across the province with a few light snowflurries.

African Bush Drums Beat Farewell As Queen and Duke Leave for Nigeria

LONDON (AP) — The Queen blessed her children goodbye at London airport today and then set off into the gathering dusk for a three-week royal tour of Nigeria.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh left on a 3,500-mile flight to Britain's largest colony on the tropical west coast of Africa at 6:00 p.m. GMT (11:00 a.m. EST).

African bush drums beat out a farewell to the Queen amid the fore and scream of planes at London airport. They were played by Nigerians in London who had gathered at the airport to sing a parting calypso for the royal couple.

It was a drab winter's day, with visibility less than a mile, as the "Atalanta" — a British Overseas Airways Argonaut airliner — took off for the great palm-tree and jungle country where millions of Africans still believe in witchcraft.

Bulganin Proposes Friendship Treaty Between Russia, U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The heart of Premier Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower is reported to be a proposal for a treaty of friendship between Russia and the United States coupled with the suggestion that this would promote world peace.

American officials are studying this latest Soviet move seriously but skeptically, in the feeling that it is almost certainly a propaganda manoeuvre.

Bulganin is understood to have proposed a pact pledging the U. S. and the Soviet Union to settle their differences within the framework of the United Nations charter and to avoid interference in each other's internal affairs.

This latest Moscow initiative is puzzling to diplomats. Just last year Russia rejected somewhat similar treaties with Britain and France in angry protest over formation of the Western European Union. The WEU is part of the arrangement under which West Germany is being rearmed as a member both of WEU and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bulganin's letter was delivered to Eisenhower Wednesday by Soviet Ambassador George K. Zarubin. It seems unlikely its contents will be revealed before Eisenhower talks here next week with Prime Minister Eden.

The Russian proposition appears to confront Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles with problems of both policy and propaganda. They are known to be interested in taking advantage of every Soviet move which offers a hope of making some real, basic improvement in relations between the Communist bloc and the Western allies.

This latest Moscow move has made it clear in the past that they are opposing particularly is any kind of agreement which would simply raise surface hopes about peace and create an illusion of greater security.

Reduce Murder Charge to Manslaughter

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Mrs. Virginia Ricks, 42, today was committed for trial on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the shooting death of George (Tommy) Knapp, a 45-year-old fishing guide.

Magistrate Gordon Jermyn, who conducted a preliminary hearing into a murder charge against Mrs. Ricks, announced his decision today. The hearing was postponed a week ago with magistrate Jermyn reserving decision.

"I believe the shooting stand trial for manslaughter," he said in announcing his decision.

Mrs. Ricks, daughter of a former mayor of Syracuse, N. Y., was charged with murder after the Dec. 29 shooting of Mr. Knapp in her island home on Newboro Lake, 45 miles northwest of here.

She will appear here on the manslaughter charge at the winter assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario Feb. 13, Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven will preside.

Montreal Man Convicted of Baby Slaying

MONTREAL (CP) — Vladimir Nekrasaf, 33, today was found guilty of the torture-slaying of 10-month-old Susy Timm. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The jury, which resumed deliberations this afternoon after an adjournment Thursday night, recommended clemency for the accused. The death sentence is mandatory however, in murder convictions.

The sentence was handed down in passing sentence, Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure told Nekrasaf: "I still have before my eyes a picture of the tortured body of the baby who suffered death in such a sadistic manner."

The little girl had been left in Nekrassaf's care by 20-year-old Rita Timm, her unwed mother.

One of the principal witnesses at the trial was Mrs. Honor Rogers, Nekrassoff's common-law wife, who testified she had seen the accused beat and kick the child.

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec medico-legal expert, testified the baby died of a ruptured liver and severe hemorrhage.

PEACETIME PEAK EXPECTED IN FEDERAL OUTLAY

Ordinary Operations Will Boost Spending

OTTAWA (CP)—Ordinary peacetime operations of government—not defence outlays—will push federal spending to an expected peacetime peak in the 1956-57 fiscal year.

Defence department appropriations for the year starting April 1 are almost level with those of the current year in Finance Minister Harris' last spending program tabled in the Commons Thursday.

He called, however, for budget allocations $117,100,000 higher than those of 1955-56—a total of $4,328,100,000 in main estimates.

That amount is subject to a boost by later supplementary estimates, which in recent years have run about above $100,000,000. Yet it is just under the peacetime record for a full year's budgetary spending of $4,564,600,000 set in 1954-55.

The all-time peak was $5,322,000,000 in the war year of 1943-44.

The main 1956-57 estimates are almost certain to be increased by the $75,000,000 old age pension fund, which is financed by special taxation. The fund's receipts are not counted as budget spending, but its outlays are charged up. The current fiscal year's $63,300,000 deficit was added to the initial estimates.

Also omitted from the budgetary spending program are the $127,500,000 in various types of government loans and advances. These are regarded as investments.

A year ago when Mr. Harris presented his last set of main estimates after becoming finance minister he charted the first spending peak at $4,328,100,000 for 1955-56 of $4,360,200,000. Supplementary estimates have since used that to $4,474,300,000 and further supplementaries are likely before the year ends March 31.

Defence department allocations for the coming year total $1,774,963,713, representing a rise of $280 from this year's appropriation. There were cuts of $6,000,000 for the air force and $23,500,000 for the army, and of $1,500,000 in the vote for the navy and $62,500,000 for the defence research board.

Spending plans of the defence production department are down by $1,749,000 to $72,250,000. Failure to reduced capital assistance aid to defence industries by $17,000,000 for defence appropriations are up by only $9,000 to $7,010,000.

The department for all defence purposes would be down $1,740,000 to a total $1,804,500,000.

Mr. Harris said defence spending would jump by $118,900,000 over the current year's estimates if expenditure parison which does not include the $63,300,000 old age pension deficit financing for the year and allowance for civil departments amounts to $7,717,700.

The big increases are in spending fields where government operations are not subject to wide fluctuations and economic conditions.

Old age pensioners' rates are expected to boost public drift charges by $32,000,000 in addition to payments to the provinces, geared to productivity and population, will be pushed up to $334,200,000 from $320,250,000.

Larger hospitalization groups at both ends of the life seale are expected to increase family allowances by $12,000,000 to $253,000,000 and veteral old age pensions by $11,-$15,000 to $79,511,000.

LCBO Will Recommend Advertising In Magazines and Newspapers

TORONTO (CP) — The liquor control board of Ontario said today it will present a report containing recommendations for establishing responsible liquor advertising in Ontario magazines and newspapers within a month.

The board would not pay whether its report will make recommendations dealing with the possibility of allowing beer and wine advertising over radio and television outlets.

"We have absolutely nothing formulated on radio and television advertising," a spokesman said.

J. C. E. Wedgwood, board solicitor, said it will be some time after the report is handed down before any action is taken to permit liquor advertising in publications or by other media, if the report is favorable, he said.

The report would be based on a survey, started several months ago, by liquor and wine advertising new entering the province in publications printed in Quebec, the United States and England.

Televising advertising from Buffalo, Detroit and other U. S. centres received in Ontario also is being studied, he said.

The board had not made any recommendations to the government to date, solicitor-general Leitch confirmed.

Provinces Will Consider Ottawa Insurance Offer

Sliding Scale of Treasury Payments Basis of Plan

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial cabinets will consider a federal government offer to pick up half the bill for the initial parts of a national health insurance program, the federal government proposed to the federal-provincial health insurance conference Thursday to throw in up to $180,000,000 a year for hospital and diagnostic services but got no immediate acceptances or rejections.

The Thursday conference ended with provincial health and finance ministers saying they will lay the federal plan before their governments. No deadline for replies was set.

Basis of the federal offer, announced simultaneously by Prime Minister St. Laurent in the Commons and by Health Minister Martin in the conference, is a sliding scale of treasury payments to provinces geared partly to the individual province's costs and partly to the national average of costs for the services covered.

PAYMENT SCHEDULE

Under it, the treasury would pay $30 per head of age of an individual province's expenses and as low as 45 per cent, depending how that province's costs relate to the across-the-country average. The high figure is for Newfoundland, the low for British Columbia.

Under the proposal, the federal government's general 50-per-cent payment would be made up this way for each province:

1. Twenty-five per cent based on the national per capita costs.

2. The remaining 25 per cent based on the national per capita costs.

The formula, federal officials said, was designed to avoid great swings in percentage payments between provinces and also to encourage them to cut down costs.

But the general effect, Mr. St. Laurent said, is that the Dominion's treasury would take up about half the cost. Mr. Martin told reporters at Ottawa—$3,451,000 to Iraq; $1,-496,000 to Egypt, $728,000 to Syria, $728,000 to Lebanon and nothing to Saudi Arabia.

UN Summarizes Arms Shipments To Middle East

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United Nations today published figures showing a total of 10 Western powers have shipped $22,-000,000 worth of arms to Israel and her Arab enemies since 1951.

The survey, published in the UN periodical, Commodity Trade Statistics, says Israel got $8,986,000 of the arms and the five Arab states—Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Syria got $13,-529,000 worth.

The figures, however, did not include (1) Aircraft shipments; (2) Britain's $25,000,000 annual subsidy to Jordan's Arab Legion; (3) Any arms from the U.S.

The survey, ending with mid-1953, also made no mention of Communist Czechoslovakia's agreement to sell Egypt $30,000,000 worth of arms. It did list massive arms sales to the United States and Britain for $63,000,000 worth of arms to keep her in balance with the Red-supplied Arabs.

SHIPMENTS REPORTED

The survey says the countries involved reported only "ordnance" shipments — "Records of war tanks, self-propelled guns, revolvers, pistols, projectiles and ammunition."

The shipments to Israel and the five Arab states were reported at only $350,000 for the 6½-year period—$13,000 to Israel, $240,000 Lebanon, $86,000 Iraq, $11,000 Saudi Arabia and nothing to Egypt or Syria.

Britain said she sent $1,750,000 to Israel, $8,250,000 to the Arabs—$3,451,000 to Iraq; $1,-496,000 to Egypt, $728,000 to Syria, $728,000 to Lebanon and nothing to Saudi Arabia.

Hugh Murray was the unanimous choice of the meeting for chairman of finance and board member, Orland Foster was the secretary treasurer will assist in this important committee. Mark Curzon was elected chairman of Property and Planning with Alderman Grandame and Keegan and Harry Smith as members. The chairman of the board, Mr. Devine will act on both committees.

A lengthy discussion was held on Park Board matters the meeting adjourning near the midnight hour. No final decision was made on the several questions before the board and the next meeting will be held shortly to finalize their action.

$400,000 Put In Estimates for Public Building

Indicating that the Federal government expects to commence construction this year of the proposed new post office at Belleville, an amount of $400,000 for a public building here was included in the public works appropriations in the 1955-56 estimates.

The new public building is to be erected on the Station and Pinnacle streets and will house the post office and other federal government offices. Completed cost of the two-storey structure will be well over a million dollars.

The public works estimates also include an amount of $50,000 for a new post office at Madoc. The site survey has been completed and the new post office will be built south of the plant and to the west of the present recreational building.

A third appropriation of $25,000 appearing in the estimates is for a new post office at Madoc. It is expected the post office would be constructed on a site adjacent to the library and north of the United Church.

Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen Formed by Men of St. Thomas' Parish

A large number of men of the parish of St. Thomas' has formed a chapter of the Brotherhood of Anglican Churchmen.

The chapter came into being at an enthusiastic meeting of the Men's Club held in the parish hall with president Orsin Hales in the chair.

The new chapter will take the place of the men's club and will take over the sponsorship of the Belleville Scout Troop. Following the report and financial statement of the club presented by Archie Lewis, Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of the church, announced the sponsorship would be forthcoming.

Mr. Stan Smith is the first president of the brotherhood with Jim Stanley named treasurer. Archie Lewis is the secretary with Tom Smith heading the program committee. Some 30 members joined the brotherhood at the meeting.

POINTS ENUMERATED

Mr. Powell outlined the five points of the brotherhood. These are: to show by a living example belief in God; to pray for the common effort Anglican churchmen throughout the diocese, to encouraging an appreciation and a loyalty toward the whole church; to pledge selves to regular church attendance and to active participation in the life and work of the church; to aid and encourage all the youth of the church to play their full part in the church's life; to render all possible assistance to the church extension by bringing the Cross of Christ to unchurched hearts and places.

Canon McConnell presented various projects which he and the new chapter will be asked by the brotherhood's immediate future.

INVITE MAYOR TO SPEAK

The next meeting of the chapter was set for February 8 at 6.30 p.m. in the parish hall. It is hoped that Mayor Jane Forsyter will be the guest speaker at a future meeting. The meeting will be preceded by a turkey dinner provided by the ladies of the Parish Guild. Air Commodore L. R. Harvey, D.F.C., will be the guest speaker and will address the boys' group on "My Impressions of England."

On Sunday evening, January 29, the brotherhood is sponsoring the evening service at St. Thomas' Church. Men's choir will be in the chancel and members will take part in the service. Families of the parish are specially invited to attend.

Prior to the meeting the men enjoyed a tasty dinner provided by the ladies of Group "E" under the supervision of group president Mrs. K. Bray.

Delegates from 20 Fair Boards Hold District Meeting in City

It was fair day in Belleville yesterday for delegates of close to 20 fall fairs in the Central Ontario district who convened to set fair dates and to discuss matters pertaining to agricultural societies.

It was the most largely attended fairs association convention in the district's history with a high interest being shown by all delegates.

Without exception delegates reported good fairs last year.

Guest speaker at the meeting was F. A. Lashley, superintendent of Ontario Agricultural Societies, who stated that much good had done more than anything else to foster cooperation between rural and urban people.

This co-operation between rural and urban people was well worthwhile and was also a great asset to better farm and better city-country relations.

Many fairs in Ontario during the next five years will celebrate their centennials, according to Mr. Lashley, the period of 1850 to 1860 saw the organization of many agricultural societies. Belleville and Napanee fairs had celebrated their centennials recently.

SEPARATE MEETINGS HELD

Men's and women's sections held separate meetings during the morning then combined for the afternoon session which saw Mr. Lashley's address, and talks by Miss Charlotte McCullough of Georgetown, chairman of the women's section of the Ontario Fairs Association and by Sid Fitzgerald as district director.

The meeting moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Fitzgerald for the keen interest taken in Central Ontario fairs during the past year.

At their morning meeting the women had a discussion on women's fair exhibits and how to attract the interest of more high school students. A day's work to be expected of a judge and Women's Institute displays also came up for discussion.

DISCUSS FINANCING

"Fair Financing" was the topic of a panel discussion by the men held under the leadership of H. Ashton of Kingston. Fair secretaries was taken on a suggestion that the office of a paid fair secretary be dispensed with, or on a big section that membership fees be increased by one dollar for all classes of fairs.

John Thompson of Queensboro was named Central Ontario Fairs Association president and district director succeeding Sid Fitzgerald of Shannonville. Ernest Henderson of Picton was named associate district director and C. W. Vanluven of Belleville returned as secretary treasurer.

Mrs. R. J. Penny of Kingston was named president of the women's section, succeeding Mrs. Spencer Craig of Brighton who remains on the executive as past president. Mrs. Penny's vice-presidents are A. Fred Wilson of Belleville and Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald of Shannonville. Mrs. W. H. Mikel of Belleville is secretary.

Mayor Jane Forsyter welcomed fair delegates to the city, being introduced to the meeting by Mrs. J. Gordon Scott, Prince Edward Scott, president of the Belleville Fair, introduced Mr. Lashley.

Bill Designed To Cut Interest Rates Defeated

OTTAWA (CP)—By a vote of 123 to 74, the Liberals Thursday in effect killed a CCF member's bill designed to cut maximum interest rates charged by small loans companies to 12 from 24 per cent annually.

The act limits the interest rate to 24 per cent annually on loans up to $500.

There has been speculation interest rates may be raised on a sliding scale and that federal jurisdiction over control of interest rates may be extended to loans between $500 and $1,000.

Farmers' Union Holds Meeting At Marysville

The regular monthly meeting of Marysville Local 181 of the Farmers' Union was held at the hall on Thursday night in the parish hall.

The meeting was chaired by the president, Mr. Harold Mumby.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. Orland Foster.

Following the adoption of the minutes the secretary gave an account of the delegation to the Ontario Government of the Ontario Farmers' Union to present their brief on Farmers' Union policy and resolutions.

The president also spoke on some of the highlights of the recent banquet held by the executive of the Ontario Farmers' Union executive and county directors.

During the business period a lengthy discussion was held on some of the issues. One of the main items was the euchre and Forty-five social evening to be held in February.

The grand speaker, Mr. William Edwards, reforestation supervisor for the surrounding counties gave a very interesting and educational talk, on preservation of wood lots and reforestation in the district.

Mr. Edwards answered questions from the audience following his address and at the conclusion of his talk, he showed slides some of the projects of his department's work in the district.

After the adjournment, the women served refreshments.

Youth Freed Of Assault Count By Magistrate

Robt. Day, 18-year-old Pine St. youth, was acquitted today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Ethel Day, proprietor of the Diana Grill, last December 29th.

Evidence of Mr. Taichias was that Day had been noisy, had bothered female customers and had used foul language in the restaurant. The witness said he had ordered the accused to leave the restaurant and had been struck in the stomach.

The accused, along with another defence witness gave the charge. Day said he had been sitting quietly at a table when the restaurant manager approached and asked him to leave. He was about to do so when another customer objected, he called by the manager and he was escorted to the door.

Although denying the charge, Day admitted he 'did not get along with him', but said his had been the first time he had been ordered out of the restaurant.

Russell Hambrook, 17, Montreal and Lionel Maynard, 18, Toronto, members of the R.C.N., appearing as witness following conviction on a charge of car theft were remanded until Monday.

Hambrook faces an additional charge of wilful damage following a fire which occured over the weekend at the Hastings county jail.

Also appearing on a wilful damage charge in connection with the jail fire was George McFarland, 24, Rosamore. He was also remanded until Tuesday on the same charge.

trial's report. Bail for the accused was fixed at $500.

The accused's father complained to the court that his son had been "in the hole" at the jail since the trouble last weekend. "It isn't fair" he said.

Magistrate Wills interrupted by saying that he had no authority over jail matters.

McFarland, along with three other prisoners, was committed to solitary confinement as unruly prisoners after a disturbance during the Saturday evening meal.

Citizens Plan 'Old Home Week'

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford's Old Home Week plans got off to a good start on Tuesday night, when a meeting was held in the parish hall to discuss the event.

Representatives from service clubs and organizations as well as business men and citizens from both the town and Seymour Township, were on hand, when Mayor Ralph Locke, who acted as chairman for the meeting, said he was pleased and impressed at the interest shown in the venture.

The main business of the evening was to appoint chairmen to head the various committees that will actually be responsible for organizing and co-ordinating the scores of events and activities that will go to make up the celebration.

CARNIVAL - MIDWAY

A discussion regarding a carnival and midway occupied a good deal of time, as many present felt that a deal which was outlined by one committee in which everything, except bingo games through the town, be let to one agency, would not be in the best interests of the town. It was decided to have about ten rides and side shows as well as other attractions. The committee stated that carnival would take 80 per cent of the proceeds, the remainder to be divided by the operate refreshment booths on the grounds, and bingo games throughout the town. It was agreed that the Fair Grounds would be the only place large enough to accommodate the midway, but it was felt that there should be another business district, which would probable be the centre of activity.

The fundamental activities chairmen were elected. They will pick their committees and start work in the coming week, and each will hold a committee meeting. On February 2nd, the chairmen of the committees will meet in the Council Chamber to outline their programs, and at that time will set a date for the next general meeting, which will be held some time in February.

COMMITTEES

Honorary chairman: — Counties Warden D. A. Maybee (Reeve of Campbellford); general chairman, Ralph H. Locke; assistants, D. McDonald and Ray Fetzer; vice-chairman, Sam Diamond. Reeve of Seymour Township; finance committee, Eldon Iler; publicity and advertising, William Reid; decoration committee, Reg. Outwin; music committee, George Nicholls; traffic committee, William R. Nicholas, to work with the Ontario Provincial Police; invitation and registration, Josh Smith; accommodation, Mrs. Jos. H. Smith; amusements, Hector Macmillan; sports, Leo Doherty; war and services, Lawrence, F. G. DeCarrol; recording secretary, Mrs. Lorne Bowen; memorial booklet committee, W. A. Kingston; agricultural day committee, F. J. McRutherford; refreshment committee, Mrs. J. O. Benor; co-chairmen, Mrs. A. Wallace and Mrs. G. McCulloch.

Mayor Locke, in closing the meeting, asked everyone to get behind the 'Old Home Week' celebrations which will be held in July.

The committee chairmen will meet tonight to receive suggestions from everyone in the district. He expressed thanks to the Belleville Citizens' for their offer to assist the many organizations taking part, and also thanked the fire department of the town for the work they have been doing in arranging for what will probably be the largest display of fire fighting equipment that has ever been in the town has ever seen. From all indications, Old Home Week is going to rival any production the town has ever undertaken.

PUCK AVALANCHE

Austrian netminder. Knox got his fifth goal at 12:10 and Theberge tallied 21 seconds later, then Hurst wound up with the final goal at 19:10.

CZECHS EDGE U.S.

In another game today, Czechoslovakia, rated with Canada and Russia as the top three teams in the tournament, defeated the United States 4-3. However, despite the loss the Americans are reasonably certain to reach the finals since the other team in their pool is the weak Polish squad.

Today's performances by Fuela, the Austrian goalie, was in contrast to Thursday's game in which he played a major part in the 3-2 tie with Italy.

Some of the Austrian's tactics were strongly reminiscent of the hair-raising exploits of Jacques Plante, goalie for Montreal Canadiens, although there is, of course, no comparison between the skills of the two.

AFRICAN BUSH

When they emerged, Prince Charles, 7, flicked a tear from his eye and walked away from the plane with his head turned round to catch a last glimpse of his mother and father.

WAVE GOODBYE

Then, as it taxied off, Charles stood beside Queen Mother alternately waving and wiping tears from his eyes. Princess Anne, 5, stood by her father.

The Queen wore a fur coat and hat for her departure.

Big crowds who had come to see the royal departure stood silently as RAF band played the national anthem. Then a group of Nigerians on the roof of an airport beat out cross-rhythm on their drums and sang:

"Nineteen-fifty six January

"Unique in Nigerian history,

"Elizabeth and Philip graced our shores

"Welcomed by handsome Duke of Edinburgh that is sure."

Police Blotter

Suspected smash and grab thieves were believed thwarted by the prompt action of an eye witness early today when a window at the Stephen Licence store on Front Street, had been broken in the night.

Hearing the crash of glass from a building across the street, the witness telephoned police then watched as the two men fled from the scene in a car parked down a nearby alley. Police searched the area but were unable to locate any suspicious characters.

A minor break-in was reported at Reid's Dairy where a small amount of money was taken. Entry to the premises was gained through a window in the boiler room and the cash box was rounded up by police.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were generally unchanged at the Ontario public stockyards this week. Calves were steady. Hogs were $1 a hundredweight higher until Wednesday and closed unsettled. Sheep and lambs were mostly steady.

Cattle receipts were slightly less than last week. Western cattle receipts were 394 head compared with 743 last week. Western stock calves totalled 57 head.

The vealer trade was mostly replacement cattle. Seven loads of slaughter cattle were shipped to eastern killers. There were no exports to the United States.

Demand was up and trade active in good and choice steers and dry-fed yearlings.

Prices

Choice Steers $19-19.50, sales to $19.75; good steers $18-19; mediums $15.50-18; commons $12-15; good heifers mainly $16-17; medium $14-16; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers, choice $16-17; good dry-fed yearlings $21-22; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums $17-20; good cows $10-10.50; light $9-10; cows to $12; canner and cutter cows down; top for good grade bologna bulls $13-13.50; common and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement Cattle: Shipments back to the country continued to be light; the few sales made falled to test prices with good stockers selling at $16-17 with a few small lots of good stock calves to $18; mediums were $14-16 with commons down to $12.

Calves saw better action this week with the top grades selling fully steady and the in-between kinds moving up 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight; low quality continued to dominate the receipts. Good vealers were $26-28 with the few choice selling to $29 and slightly higher; mediums were $18-26 with commons at $12-18; grass calves and lights under were $8-12.

Grade A hogs opened $1 a hundredweight higher and sold generally at $24 with some sales at $24.50. Shipments were all direct receipts diverted to the public market on Wednesday and Thursday. hogs were unsettled at the close of Thursday's trading. Sows were $16 dressed and stags $13 dressed.

Lambs were fairly steady and sold at $21.50-25 for good handyweight ewes and wethers. They closed with most of them at $21.50. common and medium lambs sold from $13-18; good light sheep sold up to $19 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Low-priced mines took the spotlight in active first-hour trading on the stock exchange today. On the heels of Thursday's big session and stimulated by new underwritings, sales at 11 a.m. totalled 2,403,000 shares, highest in seven months.

Selected Chibougamau area issues were in demand, led by Campbell Chibougamau, up $1.62. Termagami eased 10 cents in profit taking.

Senior issues were mostly dull. Consolidated Smelters dipped $1.50. Hudson Bay tacked on 75 cents.

Lake Nordin and Nesbitt Labine each added a dime among uranium. Golds were narrowly mixed, mostly small, but went to several points in some instances. Lobaw B regained all but 2½ cents Thursday's loss, selling at 97. The A stock moved up 50 cents to $5.

A 50-share block of MacLaren Power and Paper was down $3 at 86. Canada Life dipped $4.50 to 150 on 10 shares, Chrysler was off $1.75 and Ford A $1.50.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

New Canadian Wheat Agreement May Be Reached

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal trade officials are expected to explore the possibilities of a new market for Canadian wheat along Russia's Pacific coast when they get together here next week with a Soviet trade delegation.

Trade Minister Howe announced Thursday in the Commons that the Russian delegation will arrive in the capital Tuesday. It is expected to number about six men headed by S. A. Borisov, first deputy minister of foreign trade.

Signing of a most favored nation agreement would mean that Canada would reduce tariffs on the relatively small amount of imports from Russia to make them equal to tariffs prevailing on similar goods from the United States, Britain and other big exporting countries.

Other members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade have accepted most favored nation treatment.

BY THE STATE

However, a government official said the talks will be different to be conducted by the state and most favored nation tariffs do not mean much when trade is by barter. Canada would ask for something additional from Russia under any treaty.

The official did not elaborate but it is believed Canada will propose that Russia buy certain quantities of wheat. Russia now Russia has said it cannot make substantial purchases for cash but may use its dollars through sales to this country.

A possibility exists, however, that the Soviet Union may find it more profitable to buy Canadian wheat for the Russian population along its Pacific coast. Grain for this area now must be shipped across Asiatic Siberia.

The negotiations are expected to continue for some time before any trade agreement can be worked out. They are a follow-up of talks initiated in Moscow last October by External Affairs Minister Pearson during his visit there.

Signing of an agreement would increase to five the number of Communist countries which have most favored nation trade relations with Canada. The others are Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

Italians Lead Bobsledders

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Italy's steel-nerved pilots, Roberto Dalla Costa and Eugenio Monti, grabbed commanding leads today at the halfway mark of the five-man bobsled championship of the seventh winter Olympic Games.

Dalla Costa, a 35-year-old jet pilot in the Italian air force, drove Italy's No. 1 sled into first place with runs of 1:22 and 1:22.45 for a total time of 2:44.45. Two more heats will be raced Saturday with the total time for the four trips deciding the championship.

Monti, a pint-sized former Italian ski champion, was right behind with a total of 2:45.25 in his two journeys of 1:22.73 and 1:22.52.

Distance of the ice run is 1,700 metres—109 yards more than a mile.

Max Angst, at the wheel of the first Swiss sled, was third with 2:48.52 on runs of 1:24.71 and 1:23.81.

Denies Report

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs minister Pearson Thursday denied a report from Jordan that Canada is ready to support creation of an international police force to protect the border between Israel and the Arab states.

He informed the Commons that the question has not yet arisen.

High Demand For Waterworks Says Frost

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost Thursday told the Gordon economic commission that southwestern Ontario communities are turning to the Great Lakes with an unprecedented thirst for water.

Demand for municipal waterworks, he said, is at a record high and during the next 25 years is estimated at $1,100,000,000 will be spent on such installations.

The demand was fostered by record population growth and industrial expansion.

Capital expenditure on municipal waterworks for the next 20 years would mean water distribution systems, purification plants and supply works of all kinds.

Premier Frost said no community can attain modern standards of living or offer attractions for growth and advancement unless it can be assured of an adequate supply of water.

Ontario had 160 municipalities which were supplied with water for domestic or fire service.

Vancouver Police Probe Nearing Its Conclusion

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — After six months of sensational developments, Mr. Justice Wilfred Bird's royal commission inquiry into Vancouver police affairs is drawing to a close.

Two witnesses, expected to be the last, were scheduled to appear today. After that, counsel will sum up and the public hearings are expected to end next Tuesday.

Leo Bancroft, president of a small trucking company, testified under questioning Thursday that he had been a bookmaker "for 20 years" but had never been convicted.

Ray Munro, former Vancouver Province reporter and west coast representative of the Toronto Telegram, engaged in a verbal battle with lawyers who will lawyer Nick Mussallem. Mr. Munro now operates Tab, a weekly publication.

Gordon Towne, president of the Quadra Club, testified that Mr. Munro, while a Province reporter, working on a lottery expose, offered to keep his name out of it for $3,000.

DIFFERENT STORY

Mr. Towne said he told Mr Munro:

"I wouldn't give you $2."

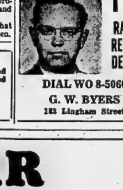
"I'm tired of wearing $9 shoes I want to wear $20 ones."

Earlier in the hearings, Mr Munro testified that he had seen $60 received by order for the club man's name out of it for $1,000 so he "would give himself away."



The exchange between the reporter and Mr. Mussallem came when the lawyer questioned accuracies of Mr. Munro's war service.

"I suggest to you that you were discharged as psychologically unsuited," a Mussallem said.

Savage Killer Dies in Chair

Roche, one of the most savage killers in the crime history of New York City, spread terror in the Yorkville section of New York in the spring of 1954 when he raped and murdered two teen-aged girls within two months in a two-block radius. In between he murdered a cab driver.

Minor Hockey

Belleville Team One juveniles won their first game of the year last night by trouncing Picton 17-3 at Memorial Arena. The midget games saw Team Three defeat Team Two 6-3, Team Five whip Team Four 5-0 and Team One lick Team Six 6-2. Red Wings blanked Maple Leafs 2-0 to gain the only squirt victory while Canadiens and Rangers tied 3-3 and Bruins battled to a 2-2 deadlock with the Black Hawks.

Leo St. Louis and Gord St. Louis had a field day for the juveniles, St. Denis coach Jim Anderson and four assists while St. Louis had five goals and a pair of assists. Ab Wright netted three goals with one each for Don Wood, Stan Hagerman, Bruce Wallace and Malcolm Heffernan had two for Picton with Keller getting the other.

Gord Fuller starred in midget action for Team One, scoring three goals and one assist. Gary Howbotham and Doyle each had one and one each for Meintzner Five who scoring and Cook drawing an assist. Hook and Davis tallied for Team Six with Davis getting the lone one.

Bern Boutlier scored a pair for Team Five while John Brennan had one and one and Earl Mac-Donald a pair of assists. Howes also had a goal with Jack Elliott getting an assist.

A spate of goals by Peter Carver, including the tying marker, allowed Candiens to tie the Rangers 3-3. Tommy Dolan also scored. Bobby Graydon, Allen Mott and Don Carrigan were the other marksmen.

Tonight's games wind up the regular schedule with playoffs commencing next week. Standings and scorers will appear next week in the Ontario Intelligencer.

Heavy Rains Cause Flood In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the heaviest rains in this city's history—more than seven inches—Thursday forced 1,500 persons from their homes, closed schools and disrupted traffic and business.

It wasn't until late Thursday night that the storm abated and the weather bureau predicted "moderate to showery" rainfall today.

The county flood control district reassured jittery citizens who recalled the recent deaths and destruction in northern California floods, saying that debris basins were equipped to handle most runoff from the mountains.

Vast areas of Los Angeles county were covered with water during the height of the storm. The rush-ing racing to the sea, posed a serious threat to Long Beach, 25 miles south of the downtown area.

Between 2 p. m. Wednesday and 2 p. m. Thursday the rainfall was measured at 6.05 inches. The weather bureau said this was the third heaviest rainfall in southern California history.

Stratford Players Get Slight Praise

By RUSSELL ELMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — The Stratford Players, heartily applauded on the daily newspaper accounts of "Tamburlaine the Great," have been panned in the weekly review columns.

Nearly all the weekly drama critics find some words of praise for the Ontario company's acting and Yvonne Guthrie's directing. But with one exception that is as far as the plaudits go.

Wolcott Gibbs in The New Yorker writes: "The offering at the Winter Garden is not much more than a dramatic and literary curiosity."

Newsweek says: "Although the Broadway critics were loud in their admiration, there is little to be said for putting the folio back on the shelves."

LAY SUB KEEL

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The keel of the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus was laid Wednesday in ceremonies at the Portsmouth naval shipyard. When finished in 1959, the 337-foot submarine will carry a crew of eight officers and 75 men. The Swordfish is the first nuclear sub to be built at a government-owned shipyard.

The number of deaths per million inhabitants of exposure-declined, however, to 1.01 from 1.04 in 1954. The latest rate of record was 0.34 in 1353.

Mrs. W. Hanna at 96 Recalls Indians Inhabiting Birthplace

TRENTON. (Special.) — Mrs. William Hanna, formerly Sarah Anderson, celebrated her 96th birthday yesterday and recalled the pioneer days, when Anderson's island located in the Trent river north of Glen Ross was inhabited by Indians. She has a remarkable memory for happenings in the past- and vividly recalled how she spent many parts of her childhood playing with children of a friendly Iroquois band. She related a story about an Iroquois woman who tapped her lying mother on the head with a stick "to help her along a little." She also heard her people tell of many hardships endured by the early white settlers.

Mrs. Hanna, the mother of four children, is the oldest living person born on Anderson's island named after her ancestor, Alexander, Joshua, Anderson, reached the ripe old age of 104 before he died. His son, Alexander Anderson living in the house built by their father, in Mrs. Hanna's native home at the Hastings county homestead.

Yesterday all members of the River Valley Women's Institute honored their oldest member. They presented her with a beautiful bouquet of flowers and supplied the cake. Mrs. Hanna, an honorary member of the group, sent her birthday cake bearing the figures "96". An invalid since suffering a bad fall four years ago she received many guests cheerfully from a wheel chair. A book presented her by the women of Mount Carmel church carried a story telling of her cooking prowess in 1873.

Recalling the early days Mrs Hanna remembers when the bush in the family only went to school in the winter, in the summer she had to help their people on the farm, she explained. She now that it was not unusual to see boys in the school rooms wearing long beards.

Mrs. Hanna delights in talking about the days when pioneers made their own candles and the women in the family weaved material by hand for clothing. She said a woman 25 cents to wash all day and the women was glad to get the work.

Other than being incapacitated from her disability, Mrs. Hanna is in exceptionally good health. She reads without the aid of glasses and is hopeful she will get the sight she lost her father did before he died. She reads without glasses.

Mrs. Hanna is an advocate of early marriage. She was 16 when she married in Brighton 80 years ago. Her husband died in 1916 celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary.

The three Hanna children living are David-of Madoc and Bert and Jared of Stirling. She has 20 grandchildren.

CITY MOURNS LEO RIGGS

The city this week mourns one of her favorite sons pce word was received from St. Petersburg, Florida, of sudden death of Leo Riggs. His passing removes a ttizen who was held in the highest esteem and affection by everyone who knew him. His ready smile and friendly ord of greeting endeared him to all with whom he came contact.

This friendliness carried over into his business and usical careers. It might be stated that he lived to serve and we think that that thought can be associated with e interest closest to his heart—music. Despite the act that he was master of the piano and organ he was ever too highhanded to pass up the simple piano accompaniment to the familiar songs heard at nearly every meeting there men gather. It was when others enjoyed music that he was inspired and he did what he could to promote that love in the breasts of others.

Even if he could not attend some special social gathering at which he was expected to play the piano, them he arranged for some one else to act in his place. He was a man of his word, to use a phrase, and a man of honor in all his dealings with others.

No one can doubt that if Mr. Riggs had been able to remain in New York City, he would have attained international fame as a musician. He was director of music of the well-known Alvin Hotel in New York and played the largest pipe organ in the world there as well. He gave many recitals in the city and was in demand as accompanist by leading singers. However, when his father died he returned to Belleville in 1924 to take over his father's garage business.

Despite an absence from business in recent years through illness, the memory of Mr. Riggs and the unselfish life he led is still fresh in the minds of all who knew and loved him. Belleville is a better place to dwell in for the reason he dwelt here and did strive to make life more attractive and interesting. And he did it through his music and Christian living.

No greater tribute can be paid to any man we think than that he followed former business associate and friend Harry Moorman, who said, "He was the finest living man I ever knew." That in its essence epitomized the life of Leo Riggs—good citizen and good friend to all.

WEEK OF THE RED TRIANGLE

No need to feel alarmed. The Red Triangle is not the symbol for some diabolic Communist plot; nor is it the headline writer's phrase coined to describe some particularly nasty domestic squabble. Instead it is a symbol held in world-wide esteem, the sign under which the YMCA has extended its unique services to eighty lands.

The YMCA is in its 112th year. It was founded in London, England, on June 6, 1844, by a committee led by two dry-goods clerks, George Williams and Edward Beaumont. Forty-nine years later the Y arrived in Belleville. During the past 63 years it has served this city well.

The Young Men's Christian Association, from the beginning, has been strongly Christian in purpose and closely related to the churches. Yet of the four words which make up its name only the last is strictly accurate today. Not all its members are young. Not all its benefits from its services are, and not all Christians. Almost 90 per cent of India's 30,000 members are Hindus. In the troubled Holy Land of today the YMCA is the only place where Arab and Jew meet. In Japan and Ceylon many members are Buddhists. The leaders of the YMCA do not consider that these facts deprive the YMCA of the right to consider itself a Christian institution. Neither do we.

The best way in which every Canadian community can pay deserved homage to the YMCA during "Y Week" is to see that its work and needs are organization does locally. Because its objectives are large, its claims to achievement are often modest. Here in Belleville, for example, YMCA work not confined to any one given outstanding service during all of its 63 years in this city. Instead they say that "right now it is regaining its important role of Christian service in our community."

For an organization which is merely in the process of "regaining" a role the local "Y" is extraordinarily active. It has been on Coniphers Island since it built in 1911, it now offers programs for every member of the family, from seven years up. Every week 22 gymnasium and swimming classes for both boys and girls meet. There are classes for youths, for men and for women. The "Y" has sponsored boys' and girls' Hi-Y Clubs, the Y's Men's Club, the Forerunners Club, the Y's Menettes Club. Its association (Co-Ed) programs are well known. During 1955 total attendance at different clubs was close to 45,000.

Besides serving its own organizations, the "Y" building also serves as a community meeting place. Sixty different organizations held 288 meetings in the "Y" building last year.

It costs about $40 per year per member to maintain the "Y" here. Membership share in this expense; the fee is nominal so that every one can afford the services the "Y" offers. This is why Belleville residents are asked to contribute towards the cost of maintaining the YMCA through the Community Chest.

Taxes Can Be Lighter

(Atlanta Constitution)

The Christmas gifts to our children of toys, of clothing, of books, of luxuries — all these are tangible evidences of our love for them. In a sense we are trying to buy happiness for our children for them. It is difficult.

Each of us is awkward at expressing love, and the child is even more self-conscious. Now and then we pick up a parent and child, has a try at expressing what we call our "feelings." The abyss is too great. And yet, in fact, it is not wide at all. It simply is that we are generations apart. Our backgrounds, our values, our present are different.

One of the trite, commonplace encounters is the father and mother who say, "We want our child to have a better opportunity than we had — we want our child to avoid the hardships which we endured."

Fulton County is asking us to vote for a tiny increase, a small part of one cent, on our school taxes. Many who were generous in dollars with their children at Christmas will object to this fraction of a cent increase.

Love and economics do not go well together.

But even the United States there is the problem of increased educational cost. It is real. It is genuine because a material thing has happened. Instead of dying out, this nation is growing. The birth rate — the number of babies — is increasing. The acceleration of population is great.

A 50 per cent increase in the number of schoolchildren will be necessary across the next 15 years.

The big "bump" in cost is just five years ahead of us. The immediate need is far ahead of all present budgets.

So, we come to this question. How much do we love our children?

The question is, of course, academic. We love them. We wouldn't "take a million dollars for any one of them."

But children are taxes. And when we face taxes we somehow forget the children.

It will cost more money.

In this period after Christmas, we need more and more citizens who will say, "I love my children enough to sacrifice some of my own comfort to vote for whatever bonds or tax increases are needed to give my child or children the gift of education."

For those of us in Fulton County the choice is just ahead of us in a special election. Let's give our children a lasting gift.

What Should Truckers Pay?

(Christian Science Monitor)

In endeavoring to chart the congressional road ahead of expected federal highway taxes a year ago or so ago we closed with the question: "What is an all-fairness which means in the light of the facts should trucks pay for better roads?"

Not both experts either in taxation or in highway construction and maintenance we wouldn't presume to name a dollars-and-cents answer. But there are certain fair factors in the problem which must be considered in writing the tax approval and judging the result.

"Fairness" here is most pertinent as it relates to the use of public roads.

Spokesmen for the truckers say trucks already are taxed some 36 times more than the average passenger car. That is not precisely but it's per cent of the vehicles, over-all, but 18 per cent of the miles, yet pay 23 per cent of the taxes. They quote Joseph B. Eastman, once wartime coordinator of transportation, that after study he believed trucks' contribution to highways, already pay more than their share.

An average passenger car is about 16 feet long; a tractor-trailer combination 55 plus up 60 feet of highway. More significant, a passenger car weighs around a ton and a half; state laws set truck limits, varying from 20 to 33 tons. The Public Roads Bureau of Oregon quotes a New York State study which found that a truck is nearly as heavy as 7291 miles of road for heavy trucks as 8,000 miles for passenger cars. Also that an 11-state cooperative test had shown that a mere 22 per cent increase in truck weight caused more six times the damage to pavement.

Figures such as these pose a problem which the technical expert should answer first, not the congressman.

West Should Expand

(Montreal Gazette)

The U.S. State Department has published a White Paper containing that Russian strategy has turned from using threats of force to providing economic and social aid to the large unconsidered areas of the world. This battle the statement declares is quite as vital as the military one. The West must win it. President Eisenhower has endorsed the State Department declaration. Belleville's 63 years of service to the principle that the unity and the strength of the free world rest on more than arms might. Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson have emphasized that the political, economic and social aspects of NATO are as important as its military alliance which was its first object. The Colombo Plan for the application of this principle is being exhibited daily. Belleville's Rotary Club, and the United States, provides huge sums for food, machinery and technical aid, but Canada needs friends by exporting ideas. Russian ideas are spread through special groups, exhibitions, film units, are sent into such vital areas as Asia. Western ideas are spread for sale at prices the Asian can pay, but Russian ideas are subsidized by the Soviet Government.

As Mr. Pearson said in one of his lectures: "Communism in itself is paradoxical that in relations between governments it is not the democracies of the West but the Communists professed materialists who emphasize freely reactionary and enslaving goals, while Communists who profess to live by bread alone, nor defend it'self solely by arms."

The Christian Science Monitor has a spiritual message, exports which direct the spirit, exports mostly ideas."

The strict things we send these countries are badly needed. There is no suggestion that we should not continue to provide them. But we have more to share than mere things. We have a world struggle for the minds of men, it must be shared.

Drama of Mighty Sea

(Sidney Post-Record)

One who was there said you should have been at Louisbourg last Easter Monday to see Flying Point — to see the Atlantic in the teeth of the storm, moaning against the rocks, the seemingly steadfast rocks gradually being worn down by the ceaseless action of the sea.

One can imagine it, but it's a pity not although it is the nature of man to see to be heard it. In the sea of the spectacle, amid the fury, the uplifted voice is no more than an unheard murmur against the thunderous clangour of the ocean.

An inspiring but bumbling drama, the salt of the flying spume stinging the face. After that, please, on the way home, a cozy corner, a warm fire and gratitude for ground beneath the feet, after witnessing the most ancient pageantry of this planet.

What Was End Of 3 Stories?

(Hamilton Spectator)

A burning curiosity grips us. We are wondering what sort of endings were written to three good newspaper stories which blossomed on the eve of Christmas. They were intriguing stories, with all the ingredients of humour, pathos and human interest — but they left us with an inquisitiveness, the more exciting by having its gratification deferred.

There was the item about the New York lawyer, whom we could imagine pacing his room and chain - smoking as he worried whether his estranged wife would go along with a gag he pulled concerning a $75,000 cheque. He had, during the course of supreme jubilation during Christmas, 1945, drawn a blank cheque in her name for $75,000 and dated it December 25, 1945. What is he to do now cash it? It might be too much to speculate that she returned it with a Christmas card to how, we hope the lawyer had a happy Christmas.

Then the many little girls received a dainty doll which, instead of saying "mama" when tipped, said a fire prevention theme with a bearlike voice.

We wonder about this because of a mixup at an Atlanta, Georgia, department store when a pair of Smokey, the bear used by the United States Forestry Service in its fire prevention campaign, are displayed. The plant also manufactured a doll with a sweet voice-box.

The South Carolina Forestry Commission received 96 Smokey bears which, when put to the test, failed to say "no" nor down.

"We wonder again, if any dolls on Christmas morning said: 'I'm Smokey the bear . . . running to look for smoke in the attic.' The last week of Christmas was spent by the porter of a New York store with South Carolina Smokey parcels in the further chagrin of

We will excuse our inquisitiveness in the words of G. K. Chesterton, who wrote: The world will never starve for want of wonders; but only for want of wonder.

But Who Wants A Green Egg?

(Providence (RI) Bulletin)

There is, in all the range of culinary experimentation, no dish to the eye as well as to the taste buds, more appetizing than eggs for breakfast egg, whether it be a golden sunburst surrounded by a halo of white or a delicately tinted job more delicately shaded.

Which is why we uplift the heart bowed down by things that haven't happened yet or depressed by things that have happened. Encompassing such an egg is merely a matter of what is put in behind which the soul of man rallies for the daily battle with life's ills, bills, wills and backlash. Me, where the Knox County Poultry Association recently conducted a show that a certain Mr. Kendall Orff of Cushing has shown a blue egg which emerged from the pan colored green, red or some other unappetizing hue. In testifying his hen fed used shell spread dyes, this man gets yolks and whites to his breakfast, but according to his whim.

Well, he's right, is not only blasphemous but an insovation endangering the culinary art. Next thing you know he'll start his day with a green egg, or possibly one fried in sabra dressing of different color!

Disastrous consequences will ensue if Mr. Orff's multicolored eggs become popular with wives and restaurants. But drivers will be in the clear. Courts started at, boss es defied, jobs lost. May we never live to see the day when the cry of the waitress will be, "Fry two violets!" or "Soft boil one and let it come blue!"

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE HORRIFYING GIFT OF FREEDOM

Freedom is at one and the same time the most precious and the most onerous responsibility. Most of us, with the salvation of our souls in mind, would gladly settle for that complete obedience to the will of God which the angels appear to have. We would give up the worry, would be glad to have something better? But we are not angels.

What God gave men the right of choice, no one knows—save that without choice there could be responsibility without the opportunity to choose. The angels do as they are told. They have no responsibility. When He says go, they go; when He says come, they come. But we lives are different. He can say Go to us and we are at liberty to say No to Him.

Responsibility to be able to talk back to the Almighty. It is a horrifying concession God has granted us. Yet in the very ability to say Yes or No to everything—including God Himself—lies the power by which the human soul has become great. God is preparing us for eternal fellowship with him. He could have no fellowship at all with mere automatons. Fellowship means consorting with persons, not with mere personalities that he permits us to choose evil instead of good—that we choose God, or refuse to do so.

A man has an inherent right to be wrong—to be damned if he wants it that way.

Personal Health Talks

The Head of A Normal Baby

The head of a normal baby may be out of shape right after birth — alarmingly so in the untutored parent. But in the course of a month it gets back into fairly good shape — never perfectly symmetrical, of course, but so nearly so that there's no point in worrying about it any more.

In a normal child more than a month old the greatest side-to-side measurement of the head is about 4/8ths of the greatest front-to-back measurement.

If the baby's head is flattened at the back (occiput) it may be from lying too much upon the back. If the head is oblique, correction of this, too, may be hastened by change in the habitual position during nursing or sleeping. For instance, by turning the baby's crib in relation to door or window. Obliquity of the head usually disappears in the course of two or three years.

The soft spots (fontanelles), one at the back, one on top of the head, become quite hard (filled in with bone) by the third month and the eighteenth month respectively. A normal baby a year old has a soft spot on top of the head about the size of a nickle. If it seems larger than that, or if the spot is filled in with hard bone, call it to your doctor's attention.

I didn't intend to mention it, but after a conference with the Father, the Father of Medicine, that is — who might have been a Disciple but for the fact that he lived 450 B.C. — I'll say that physicians formerly regarded worrying about it as "inherited" and based many a wrong diagnosis on that concept. Since Wasserman gave the world his famous test for syphilis (in 1906), physicians have learned that syphilis is not inherited; the disease is transmitted to the child directly, if at all. In other words, the child may have syphilis at birth (congenital), if the Wasserman test of the newborn infant is negative, the infant has no syphilis. The Wasserman or similar reactions may prevent that syphilis is seldom a factor of feeble-mindedness.

Here's a bit of advice for every potential mother who is not herself feeble-minded. Regardless of your age, what determines whether you will have an easy or difficult childbirth is your physical fitness, and there is no better way to keep physically fit than by taking a daily walk of from one to six miles.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Speaking the other day of Billy Rose's plea for the conversion of Central Park, New York, into playgrounds, the Packsack overlooked the fact that in nearly all our larger Canadian cities there are fairly strong representations of the same movement which are being made these days for the conversion of our natural parks into recreational areas if not amusement parks.

Already, in several Canadian cities, existing parks are being used for more or less natural surroundings such as trees, meadows, hills and valleys for the kind of sport or pond, have already had their natural beauty spoiled by playgrounds such as baseball or football fields. In Toronto, there is a trend towards filling in some of the wooded park gullies, flattening out the hillsides and valleys.

There is no doubt whatever of the need of playgrounds and recreational areas in modern cities. But there is one aspect of the discussion which seems to be underplayed. Natural parks are of use to the whole community, irrespective of age. They are of value to a baby in the pram and to the most doddering of old men and women. People of all ages enjoy the fresh air, the sense of rest, escape from the city and the natural surroundings of a true park afford. To convert these parks into baseball diamonds, football fields and other such recreational areas is in favor of one section of the city, of one ages and those little if anything beyond twenty years of age. That all interests of a given community, from infancy right on up through the years should be considered in the establishment of recreational areas is a proposition that will require a little serious study. This special group—those from say 16 to 24 years of age—may perhaps a special problem. But they are hardly so special as to require the conversion of what cities all over the world have discovered to be their most valuable possessions, their parks. It might be agreed that this special group and special interest is entitled to warrant a city buying up some costly real estate for playground areas, even down residential blocks, or suburban and fringe lots not up in the high price bracket yet already within the reach of the expanding city's development, and setting them up as recreational and playground parks. But to change the character of natural park recreation grounds is to make less of what we have, instead of improving on what we have. It is trading something priceless for a small price. When the 14 to 24 year olds grow up to 40 and 50, what will be their opinion of the deal?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LOVE OF BEAUTY

A love of beauty should be taught to the child at the earliest age. Everything beautiful should be impressed upon the child's mind, and explained to him. Beautiful birds, how it happened to be so. Tell him, or her, all about this world, with its birds, animals, rivers, mountains, and trees, as well as every flower, and how God created each one all.

What a drab world this would be without beauty. Nature is our great storehouse. Every variety possible, in scenes. This beauty has a wonderful influence on our thoughts and manner of life. It all is so akin to the Creator of this colorful creations in our homes, our paintings and reproduced pictures, our books, gardens, and windows.

Our art galleries and museums are a great asset to the happiness of us all. We would be lonely without them. A person cannot be very bad inside who loves all beauty outside. I can understand why it is that naturalists are such inspirited people. They are in touch with and learn new things about a rare every day.

I note an increasing number of books being written about this interesting earth, its age, its changes, and its contribution of flowers, plants, gems, and essential substances to be converted into use for the benefit and comfort of this earth. These books are fascinating reading, and highly instructive.

Men have tapped the intelligence of animals, from the elephant to the active squirrel. There is beauty to them all. And take the sea. Why should its shells not be used so beautifully? They are works of art. And the simplest bird from a hovering, shrub, or tree—each a miracle in itself! Can you think of a better color for the sky than God never created an unbeautiful thing!

Six Offers Made To Buy Star Say Trustees

TORONTO (CP)—Trustees of the J. E. Atkinson estate said today six offers to buy the Toronto Star have been turned down. They announced that they are not considering at present any sale of The Star to "outside interests."

They denied Wednesday's report in Variety, the New York weekly of the entertainment world, which said it was thought the Star could be sold to Toronto industrialist T. P. Taylor for $20,000,000.

Star directors acknowledged an offer from Mr. Taylor, Harry C. Hindpiatch, president of The Star, said five other offers also had been turned down but did not say who made them.

"We don't think anything will happen to it," he said, adding that the Ontario Charitable Gifts Act had not yet been "invoked."

The act, given royal assent April 8, 1949, contains a requirement that no charitable foundation may hold more than 10 per cent of the capital of any company.

SPECULATE ON BIDS

The Atkinson charitable foundation, set up in 1940, received six years later the assets of the Toronto Star and Star Weekly through the will of the late J. E. Atkinson. The act requires that at least 90 per cent of these assets be sold by April 8, 1956.

The Toronto Telegram, The Star's chief evening competitor in the field here, said refusal of offers to buy The Star has caused speculation that the Atkinson foundation will put up a stiff legal battle against selling 90 per cent interest in The Star properties.

It said Mr. Taylor's offer was $20,000,000 and that other reported offers involved $21,000,000 and $23,000,000. The Telegram said an unnamed Star director's offer of $21,000,000 was rejected.

House Shelves Proposal to Aid Students

OTTAWA (CP)—A government supporter's proposal that the federal treasury be used to help needy university students financially than education only provoked a lot of talk in the Commons.

A resolution offered Thursday by A. H. Hollingworth (L — York Centre) requested the government to consider setting up a system of national bursaries and scholarships.

It won support from members of all parties, including Opposition leader Drew. But no cabinet ministers spoke on the resolution.

After 17 members discussed it, the debate was adjourned without a vote being taken. That moved the suggestion to the bottom of a long list of private members' resolutions and it likely will not come up again this session.

NEED ASSISTANCE

Mr. Hollingworth said an estimated 30,000 Canadian students need financial assistance if they are to get a university education.

His plan would help those without the money for a university education, which he estimated to cost $1,000 to $1,200 each academic year.

Mr. Hollingworth, a lawyer and former school trustee in suburban Toronto, mentioned no specific amounts, but said bursaries might range from $200 to $300.

Mr. Hollingworth said federal assistance to universities for capital works such as libraries, laboratories and other buildings is "woefully inadequate" for present and future needs.

NUMBER WILL GROW

He estimated there are between 55,000 and 65,000 university students in Canada now. The number would grow to 135,000 in 10 years.

After the Second World War the veterans department had spent $520,000,000 in helping veterans obtain university training. But the revenue department probably had earned the amount back in higher income tax returns from better-paid, university-trained veterans.

Mr. Drew said the proposed legislation should provide a "very substantial extension" of bursaries and scholarships. Such a plan could be implemented without interfering in any way with provincial rights on education administration.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) said he supports assistance to students but warned that "we don't want to graduate a lot of sissies." Students with a strong purpose in life would attain it whether they got assistance or not.

C. L. Burton Gives $350,000 To Four Funds

By FORBES RHUDE

TORONTO (CP)—Canada now and in the next 25 years needs educated men and women who will deal with her problems with intelligence and foresight, C. L. Burton, chairman of Simpsons Ltd., said today.

Technical education isn't enough, he said. "We should turn out students with fresh minds who can write a poem—make a clear statement—bring an objective intelligence on issues of the day.

"You may use electronics and all the gadgetry to substitute for muscles and even for people—but not for the human brain.

"I'd like to think we are doing all possible to develop well educated and well-read people with liberal attitudes. It may be that the great final solution of what we ought to do will come from one of these folk rather than from some one steeped in the intricacies of science."

DOESN'T AGREE

"Some people say our problems can be solved by engineers, accountants and specialists. I don't agree. They can't be solved without the intervention of men who can think without self-interest."

Saying this, Mr. Burton confirmed in questioning newspaper men that he had backed up his views with a personal gift to a number of institutions worth about $350,000.

The gift is in the form of 20,000 shares of Simpsons Ltd.—with a current market value of $18 each—which, at the current dividend rate of 50 cents a share, will yield $10,000 yearly. Mr. Burton commented: "I hope the dividend rate won't be less than that."

FOUR FUNDS

The gift is in four separate trust funds, each of which receives 5,000 shares.

One fund is for the Ontario Heart Association, another for Women's College Hospital, Toronto, a third for St. Michael's College, Toronto, while a fourth will be divided into two parts.

One part of the latter will be for scholarships in the "humanities" at University College, University of Toronto, and the other will be added to scholarships which Mr. Burton had earlier established in memory of his brother, the late E. F. Burton, former director of University of Toronto's physics laboratory.

The gift to Women's College Hospital is intended to help young women doctors become established.

Millard Urges Price Probe in Steel Industry

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Steel union chief Charles Millard urged the Gordon economic commission today to launch a price investigation of the steel industry.

The Canadian director of the 70,000-member United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) charged that the industry, which recently boosted basic steel prices by an average of $4 a ton, is trying to make labor the "scapegoat" for the rise.

The union soon will be negotiating with segments of the industry for new labor contracts incorporating bids for "substantial" wage boosts, Mr. Millard said.

However, he maintained there was no justification for the steel price increase which, he declared, likely will be followed by another soon. The industry did not increase prices because of labor costs, but only because it wanted to boost profits by charging all the traffic would bear, he said.

PRICES DETRIMENTAL

Higher prices and higher profits were detrimental to the Canadian people and to the future of the country, he said. That was why a full price investigation was essential "to ferret out hidden price lists and disguised earnings and make all facts on the price of steel available to the public."

Another labor body, the left-wing United Electrical Workers of America, urged the commission to consider steps to reduce United States control of Canadian industry and, among other things, increase trade with Russia, Communist China and the Soviet satellites of eastern Europe.

Mr. Millard maintained that a monopoly exists in Canada's primary steel industry and that that was a milestone "around our national economic neck."

"Although steel production costs are generally lower in Canada than in the U. S., steel prices are generally higher, chiefly because of the market protection afforded by transportation costs and custom tariffs. . . ."

Canada's Timmy Is Chris Martin

TORONTO (CP)—Chris Martin of nearby Markham, a bright-eyed 12-year-old who walks with two canes, is Canada's Timmy for 1956—symbol of all Canada's crippled children who benefit from the sale of Easter seals.

Chris, who spent months in a wheel chair and has had three operations, makes his first public appearance here in his special role on Thursday, Feb. 2, at the sports celebrities dinner for crippled children sponsored by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association. It officially opens the annual Easter seals campaign.

The crew-cut youngster expects to achieve one of his ambitions at the dinner — to meet celebrity Johnny Podres, southpaw pitching star of the Brooklyn Dodgers "because Brooklyn is my team." The roster of 18 celebrities includes another Dodger, Jackie Robinson.

Born with a spina bifida condition, Chris had his first operation when he was three weeks old. Last year he had two more. He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin. His father is a telephone company engineer.

WILL VISIT RUSSIA

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government Wednesday said Vincent Auriol, ex-president of France, will arrive in Moscow Feb. 28 at the invitation of Klementi Voroshilov. The announcement said Auriol will be the personal guest of Voroshilov. As chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the Soviet Union, Voroshilov is some times referred to by foreigners as the president of the U.S.S.R.

Canadian Legion LA. Plans Rally

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, held its first executive meeting in the club room on Pinnacle Street, on Tuesday evening.

Various topics were discussed, and all unpaid bills were paid. Letters were read from the Toronto branch, also the Wellington branch. An invitation was received from the Wellington branch inviting the Belleville branch to a Valentine party to be held in their hall on February 14. The invitation was accepted. Cars are to be arranged for. Bridge rooms on the day designated at 8.00 p.m. Please all who wish to go. The fee for transportation will be 50 cents.

The meeting rally was also discussed and plans are already under way to make this rally a success. It will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall, Front Street on May 18. Branches from Deseronto, Napanee, Picton, Wellington, Centenon, Bloomfield and Marmora will be in attendance.

The committee in charge is working hard to give all visitors a day to remember.

The regular meeting will be held on February 21st..

Women's Activities

BETHEL-ZION W.M.S.

The January meeting of Bethel-Zion W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Murney Simmons with an attendance of 11 members and three children.

The president, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson, presided and opened the meeting.

Business was dealt with. The World's Day of Prayer is on February 17.

Mrs. Earle Sayers was in charge of the devotional with Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson taking the Scripture reading. A reading "Scripture Text for the New Year", was given by Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. Ralph Sills took charge of the remainder of the meeting, assisted by several women.

An explanation of the United church crest was given by Mrs. Sills, which was most interesting. Mrs. Middleton gave a reading "A New Year's Cake Recipe".

After the meeting closed, a social half hour followed.

Harmony Studio Club Pupils Render Many Memory Numbers

On Wednesday evening, the Harmony Studio club held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Maraskas, 171 Victoria Avenue, Trenton. Corinlda, who was chairman, opened the meeting with a cordial welcome to a large number of members, pupils and parents.

The program consisted mainly of work which was played by memory from grades four to seven.

At the beginning of the program, the following pupils from grade four and six played a number of studies: Marina Bongard, Marilyn Huntley, Roberta Button, Sharon McDonald, Diane Irvine, Jan Bailey, Roger Ling.

During the evening a number of selections were played by the following pupils: Grade four, Marilyn Huntley, "Scherzo" by Haydn; Sandra Burns, "Sonatina" by Clementi; Roberta Button, "Allegro" by Haydn; Marina Bongard, "Allegro" by Kuhlau.

Grade five: Karen Findall, "Minuet" by W. Bach; Wayne Findall, "Rondo" by W. A. Mozart; Jeanette Horton, "Waltz" by Kabalevsky; Cecilia Chisholm, "Sonatina" by Beethoven; Karen Findall, "Scherzino" by Haydn; Doreen Rush, "Curious Story" by S. Heller.

Grade six: Lois Bailey, "Fifth Dance", by Grieg; "Rondo", by Clementi; Sharon McDonald, "Toccato" by J. S. Bach; "Dence" by Beethoven; Diane Irvine "Peasant Dance" by J. Blow; Roger Ling, "Sonatina" by J. Dussek.

Grade seven: Eileen Hancock, "Fugue" by J. Blow, "Sonatina" by M. Clementi; Sharon Findall, "Waltz" by Schubert; Barbara Smith "Waltz" by Brahms.

Two pupils who were passing from one grade to another played the following pieces: from Grade one to two: Robert Roe, "Bourree" by Bach, "Oranges and Lemons" by Berlin; From Grade three to five: Jim Jones, "Study No. 1" by Berens, "Rustic Song" by E. Booth, "Minuet in G Minor" by Bach.

DUETS PLAYED

The following duets were played by "Mrs. F. Veley, RMT), and Miss Lois Bradshaw, "Flute of the Flowers" by Tschaikowsky, and "Funeral March" by Chopin.

In commemoration of Mozart's bi-centennial, Mrs. M. Hancock spoke briefly on the life of Mozart. Mrs. Hancock told the children that Mozart composed music at the age of four and gave successful concerts at the age of six; although Mozart's short life, he was able to give the world a great collection of music in the form of operas; symphonies, concertos and sonatas.

Little is also known exactly where his body lies, it does not matter, the best of him is still living.

This was followed by the playing of Mozart's "Sonata in C Major" (in three movements) by Miss Grace Preston.

It was announced that next month's meeting would be "Boys' Night".

Crystal Chapter Installs 1956 Officers

The regular meeting of Crystal Chapter No. 34 was held at the Orange Hall on Monday evening with Senior Preceptress Keitha Ferguson, presiding.

When the order of general business was reached the Senior Preceptress asked the Deaconess Preceptress Mary Cebgler, to conduct Past Senior Preceptress Mable Kent to the altar where she was welcomed and asked to take charge of the election of officers. The Deaconess conducted Preceptress Kent to the dias where she took over as presiding officer.

Following the election the officers were installed with Past Senior Preceptress Mable Kent presiding, assisted by Acting Junior Preceptress Minnie Dougherty; Acting Chaplain Preceptress Keitha Ferguson; Acting Deaconess, Mrs. M. Dougherty; Deaconess Escorts, Prec. Lue Lucas and Prec. Annie Akey.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The following officers were installed: Senior Preceptress, Mary Cebgler; Immediate Past Senior Preceptress, Keitha Ferguson; Junior Preceptress, Mary Cebgler; Recording Treasurer, Preceptress Hazel Maracle; Financial Registrar, Preceptress Edith Allin; Treasurer, Preceptress Mabel Asselstine; Chaplain, Preceptress Dorothea Barr; Deaconess, Preceptress Rita Foster; 1st Lecturer, Preceptress Gertrude Gist; 2nd Lecturer, Preceptress Annie Akey; 1st Escort, Preceptress Lue Lucas, 2nd Escort, Preceptress Annie Akey; Censors, Preceptresses Melissa Thompson, Clara Bentley, Ruth Bateman, Myra Mabel Moon, Mabel Adams, Eva Juby, Vera Hass, Lucy Phillips, Henrietta Adams, Elizabeth Adams; Inner Sentinel, Preceptress Edith Woodhouse; Outer Sentinel, Preceptress Alma Whittle; Musical Director, Preceptress Flora Bell; Auditor, Past Senior Preceptress Mabel Kent.

Following the installation ceremony some pleasing remarks were heard from several of the members.

Past Senior Preceptress Ferguson was escorted to the altar by Deaconess Rita Foster. Senior Preceptress Mabel Kent presented her with her jewel, on behalf of the members of the chapter. Preceptress Ferguson thanked the members for their support and cooperation in the past two years and said she would wear her Past Senior Preceptress jewel with pride and she extended to the new officers her best wishes for their success.

Past Senior Preceptress Kent was escorted to the altar and presented with a gift by Past Senior Preceptress Ferguson on behalf of the members, for the efficient manner in which she had conducted the election and installation ceremonies. Preceptress Kent made a suitable reply and congratulated the new officers.

The regular order of business was then resumed.

Before the meeting the members had assembled at Latimer's Town Room and partook of a most delicious supper.

TRAPPERS AGAIN SEEK A QUEEN

With the Ontario Trappers' association convention just around the corner, it's time for out door girls to start thinking of how to capture the title of queen and the prizes that go with it. Janet Bice, 16, of Kearney, Ont., has it figured out. Fur trimmed cap, fox collar and ridle will help her chances in the contest at Huntsville on January 30. (Central Press Canadian.)

Work of Medical College In India Outlined by Dean

Women of the district were given a rare privilege Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Kalyani Bhanot, dean of the Christian Medical College of Ludhiana, India, spoke in the Baptist church; not asking for money but telling what has been and what will be done with money forwarded to the Ludhiana Christian Medical College, only two of such colleges in all India. The other is at Vellore, South India.

Dr. Bhanot was born of Christian parents. They were converted to Christianity from Brahmanism (Hindu). She went to the Alexandra High School for girls, run by the Church Missionary Society, in 1903, and when she passed her matriculation in 1913 was sent to the Women's Christian College, Ludhiana, graduating in 1918.

WORKED IN HOSPITAL

As she took a scholarship from the Canadian Mission she was sent to work in the Canadian hospitals in Kangra and Jullundur and worked in those districts. In 1921 she returned to Ludhiana as a house surgeon and later she took up maternity and dissection as an assistant. After about ten years, she went to the United Kingdom to take an English qualification course to enable her to be on the senior staff of this college. She returned and worked as a lecturer in anatomy until 1932. She went to the United Kingdom again to take a post-graduate diploma, and during the war years, 1940-1947, she worked in the villages under the Punjab government, inspected the Village Uplift Workers, trained by this government.

After partition (the partition of India and Pakistan) she returned to the Christian Medical College, Ludhiana, and has worked since as dean of students as well as being in the obstetrical and gynaecological department of the Memorial Hospital in connection with this college. As there are a number of Americans on the staff of this college and hospital, it was thought good to bring Dr. Bhanot to America and meet with American Christians, telling them of the work in Ludhiana to strengthen still further the strong links with one another through a common purpose of serving Christ in different countries.

FIRST HOSPITAL

Dr. Edith Brown established the first hospital in Ludhiana in 1891. Working under severe handicaps, she had a vision of training Indian women for the work. She began it was not "the thing" for girls and women to become professionals, especially in the medical field. In time the government recognized the value of the work of the college and a small grant was made in addition to aid from Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Australia.

In 1918 the college was able to accommodate 300 students and non-Christian girls were accepted. Many of these Hindus and Sikhs became Christians through their training because Bible study and lectures on evangelism are part of the curriculum of the college.

NEW HOSPITAL

A new hospital is in process of erection at Ludhiana. All the Canadian boards are being asked to co-operate. The new hospital must be completed by the Founder's birthday, March 24th, 1956 (when Dr. Edith Brown would be 92 years of age). There will be six wards of 30 beds each. Twety men and 30 women are being trained along with the Christian, studies. It is a great challenge for these people to leave their home ties, many are threatened with curses and are cut off completely from their home contacts but when they become Christians some are able to return to their homes and declare their progress, they prove they have learned to read and often are able to help their families over hardships and difficult problems.

CANADIAN STAFF MEMBERS

Dr. Bhanot mentioned Dr. and Mrs. Virgin, Canadian members of the Ludhiana Staff. Many of the congregation knew Dr. Virgin and were pleased to hear the speaker pay tribute to him as a great surgeon and Mrs. Virgin a wonderful help in the college. All Canadian boards contribute to the support of Dr. and Mrs. Virgin.

She closed with the challenge that Dr. Edith Brown always has given her training class — I Chronicles 21: 3; "So- David waxed greater and greater: for the Lord of hosts was with him". The work has grown, increased and expanded all because this college has remembered to acknowledge the "Lord of hosts". Dr. Brown always said "That is the best age in the place to be; that is what I want my girls to do — grow and grow in the strength of the Lord".

Dr. Bhanot said Canada has an aged Christian religion; India is comparatively young in Christianity. She asked for the prayerful support of Canadians that the Indian Christians may rise and take a lead — that they may keep on growing and wax greater. "He who has helped us all these years, we know He will not forsake us".

Little Theatre Group Formed At Deseronto

DESERONTO—A Little Theatre group is being formed in Deseronto, under the direction of Mr. Vincent Mc Watters, who already the co-producer of the International Theatre Guild, a successful drama group in Kingston. He is assisted in Deseronto by Mr. Richard Thomas, also a teacher in the local public school.

The newly-formed club hopes to produce three or four one-act plays each year, and casting has already begun for the two opening one-act plays, "Sorry Wrong Number," a drama, and "Fumed Oak", a Noel Coward comedy.

These two plays will be staged in Deseronto towards the end of February.

Rehearsals are at present being held at the home of Mr. Watters at Brant and Thomas Streets. It is hoped that this group will attract talent, not only from Deseronto but also from all surrounding areas.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, January 30th, where classes in acting over stage, radio and television, will also commence.

Recent Bride Feted With Fine Gifts

Friends of Mrs. Mary Strickland, of Peterborough, honored her on several occasions prior to her marriage to Mr. Ross Burris, of Hillier, last Saturday in St. Thomas' Anglican church, Belleville. A personal shower was given by friends who gathered at her home, 84 Victoria Avenue. A presentation and party were held at the RCAF Association. Associates of the Dept. of Lands and Forest by Jack Gaver for an electric fry pan and small gifts at a party, and friends in Lindsay presented a fitted vanity makeup bag in cream leather when she was entertained by Mrs. Edith Stewart and Miss Harriett Bate.

So-Ed Club Sponsors 'Bug Party'

Last Wednesday evening, the So-Ed club of Belleville and district held a mid-session get-together at the YMCA. Many members and their friends enjoyed a highly successful and entertaining evening.

The So-Ed Club is affiliated with the YMCA and since this was the "YMCA Week", a film on the growth and development of YMCA was introduced by Mr. John Luscombe, chairman of the club and presented by Mr. D. G. Diamantides, secretary of the YMCA.

Everyone participated in the "Bug" event, a well-organized game which consisted of rolling dice and sketching a bug. Helena Moravcik and Pat Murphy were the prize winners. Consolation prizes went to Grace Preston, and Neville Davies.

Arrangements are now in progress for another get-together on February 22nd entitled "Spinsters' Spree". Sounds fun don't you think?

Registered Music Teachers Enjoy 'Mozart' Paper

The regular meeting of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. William Conner, with Mrs. Houston, guest, in the chair.

After a short business session, the teachers were entertained by David James, a pupil of Mrs. Houston's. His piano solos were "Gavotte and Minuet" by Bach and "Contra Dance", Beethoven. Two readings by him, rendered, one by Burns, and one, a Negro version of the Parable of the Lost Sheep, were much enjoyed.

A brief and most timely paper on the life of Mozart was given by Mrs. Houston and a number of records concluded the program.

After the meeting, tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. Northcott.

Women's Study Guild Discusses Natural Resources, Conservation

"The Conservation of Our Natural Resources" was the topic discussed at the January meeting of the Women's Study Guild, held Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Buck, 32 Chatham Street.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Seldon, the vice-president, Mrs. Orr, presided over the meeting. Plans were made for the celebration in June of the Guide's 25th anniversary. A letter was read from Renalto Semonatra, the Italian child cared for by the Guild through the "Save the Children Fund", thanking the members for the money sent to him for his educational expenses. The proceeds of a special collection taken in January was sent to the Unitarian Service committee.

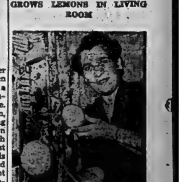
The worship service, conducted by Mrs. Wishart, was on the subject "God's Gifts", and the resources of the Earth," and included readings from Psalms 65 and 104 and from the first chapter of Genesis.

Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Archibald and Mrs. Coulter, who were in charge of the program, outlined the history of the exploitation of our resources and the constructive steps that are being taken to remedy this neglect.

BEEF—RESTORE RESOURCES

Mrs. Wilson stated that "conservation is the biggest project necessary in Canada at this time. We must learn not to waste our resources, to protect those we still have and to restore as many as possible of those we have destroyed.

Mrs. Archibald discussed the exploitation of the soil and forests by early settlers and by present day farmers and lumbermen. Soil minerals have been consumed in the growing of cash crops and have been eroded by improper cultivation. Forests have been cut off and burned off in a reckless attempt to secure lumber and new land to cultivate. Proper methods of fertilization, conserving and wind farming are being practiced today in an attempt to preserve as much arable land as possible. Forest management and reforestation is employed by the government and by private corporations to prevent destruction of the lumber resources.



CONSERVATION OF FISH, WATER, WILD LIFE

Mrs. Coulter discussed the conservation of water, fish and wild life and the establishment of national parks. The threat of drought, due to a lowered water-table, is one of the greatest problems. Polluted rivers and streams cannot support fish; depleted forests cannot support wild life; national parks, some scenic, some historical, some recreational and some devoted to the protection of wild life act both as a conservation measure and as a tourist attraction.

Mrs. Wilson summed up the discussion by outlining the steps advocated by the government to conserve, protect and restore resources. She stressed the important part played by education; both of children, and adults, in promoting a reverence for the wealth of the priceless asset in the soil, water, minerals and forests of Canada.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Maybee and Mrs. Hunter.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MUST SEE A LAWYER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

When my husband and I got married two years ago, he said he was 25 years old, and his passport even did an affidavit before a magistrate swearing to this. However, I just found out six months ago that he was only 16 when we were married, not 23 as he had said.

Can a marriage be annulled for something like this? I would never have married him if I had known his real age, as I am 21. — Mrs. E.L.

Dear Mrs. E.L.:

Your only course is to get in touch with a lawyer and talk this whole matter over, then decide what you want to do.

I am quite sure that your marriage can be annulled by reason of the fact that your husband and his mother swore to a false statement, but of course you would require a lawyer to take any steps in this direction.

POPULARITY IS FAR MORE THAN APPEARANCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am almost 17 years old, and I'm not popular with the boys. I'm tall and skinny, and that's why boys do not like me.

Could you please give me some advice? I want to gain weight so be more attractive to boys? — S. C.

Dear S.C.:

First let me tell you that height and weight have very little to do with popularity, providing you take pains always to look as attractive as you can. If you make sure that you have a becoming hair cut—one that just suits your type of face—clothes that are just right, in color and style, for your particular figure; if you are always neat and well-groomed, that's all that matters.

Of course, if you are really much too thin, it is perfectly possible to put on weight to fill out your figure pleasingly. But in order to do that wisely, you should ask your doctor what would be the best routine for you to follow in both diet and exercise, to increase your weight.

What is really important, so far as popularity goes, is the sort of personality you have. If you are always friendly to everyone; if you are good at sports and other activities teenagers enjoy, so that you can always be counted upon to join enthusiastically in such activities; if you are thoughtful of others and a good sport; most of all, if you have a sunny disposition so that it's always fun to be with you, no one is going to care whether you are tall or short, thin or plump.

I have a sheet of suggestions on how to be popular which might help you by giving you some ideas that perhaps haven't so far occurred to you. If you would like to have this, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope and I will be glad to send it to you.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

EACH CLEANSING AGENT HAS ITS PROPER PLACE

A reader inquires: "Just what is the proper cleansing agent to use for the skin? One says the beauty c[illegible] recommend soap and w[illegible] advise creams and [illegible] say that lotion's the thing. I'm confused."

Well, dear reader, you need not be con used any longer. All of these cleansing agents are good but each should be used at the proper time and place, depending upon the condition of your skin. We must emphasize the fact, however, that no matter what the condition of your skin, soap and water is an absolute necessity. If you happen to be a teen-ager with a normal skin, you need use nothing but soap and water for it will give you that fresh, radiant complexion which is the envy of every woman who does not possess one.

If your skin happens to be dry, use cream after your soap-and-water routine and leave it on for a while, then remove with tissues and apply a skin lotion.

There are a number of cleansing lotions on the market at present which may confuse the user because, considering them as cleansers, a woman may think she needs no other agent. However, even the manufacturers of these lotions usually recommend that the user wash thoroughly with soap and water and then use the lotion as a supplementary cleanser.

Lotions should always be used after creaming. This may come as a surprise to many women who have been led to believe, over the years, that it is good idea to leave cleansing cream on the skin overnight. Actually, this is not so for, in such a case, the skin is not completely cleansed. Lotion should be used to remove the last bit of cleansing cream. If you have to use any kind of a night cream to clear up some particular condition, apply it lightly after you have used the lotion. Special attention should be given to the removal of cream about the nostrils and the chin before retiring, since it is in these areas that blackheads are most likely to make their appearance. Pores clogged with any substance will increase the incidence of blackheads. The regular use of lotion after creaming will remove the possibility of such clogging.

Ready for Spring

By TRACY ADRIAN

Spring may not seem just around the corner with all the cold weather now prevalent but it won't be long before you'll see all the pretty, colorful hats on parade and they certainly add a bright note to winter coats and furs.

This model achieves a wonderfully fresh effect in the draping of rainbow organza on straw. The color of the straw is deep gold and the organza overlay is in shades from yellow to apricot. It's a truly flattering choice for a first spring bonnet.

Three Princesses, Nieces Of Duke, Enjoy London

LONDON (Reuters)—Three serious-minded young German princesses are fast becoming the toast of high society here although they prefer work to play.

The princesses are the nieces of the Duke of Edinburgh and descendants of Queen Victoria—Princess Margarita of Baden, whose home is in a German castle, Princess Beatrix of Hohenlohe-Langenburg and Princess Christina of Hesse.

All three are blonde, attractive and vivacious—and strictly informal in dress and manners. Wherever they go they cause a stir, but most of the time they are studying and staying at home.

SHARE APARTMENT

Princess Beatrix and Christina arrived two weeks ago to share a luxurious pink and green apartment chosen for them by their uncle Philip, and furnished with some of his own pieces from Windsor Castle.

The apartment is on the fifth floor of Dolphin Square, Europe's largest block of apartments.

"And all we want to do most nights is come home here and just relax," said Princess Christina, 20-year-old daughter of Princess Sophie, the duke's sunniest sister.

Princess Christina, whose first newspaper picture in Piccadilly was taken as she powdered her nose in a taxi at the station—ordered her to be photographed in the privacy of relating under Prof. Adrian Bonny, F.R.S., surveyor of the Queen's pictures.

"We both work eight hours a day and we just feel terrible tired by the evenings. We come home and heat up a few tins and then go straight to bed," said the princess, who came to the front door from the kitchen carrying mustard and a knife.

STUDIES DRESSMAKING

The slender princess, in drainpipe slacks, added: "But that is the way we both like it. I do not want anything to interfere with my work, although I like going out to the theatre and parties some times."

Princess Beatrix, a curly-haired blonde with bright brown eyes, is here to study dressmaking at the Royal College of Art. "If it goes successfully I may take it up professionally," she said.

The 20-year - old princess was taught dressmaking and cooking at a Windsor finishing school in 1954.

"I do not know whether I would like to set up here or at home. Everyone has been very kind to us here. We have been to some theatres and to a charity ball."

Asked about suitors, the princesses smiled rather shyly and said they have not any yet.

Then they said: "We must not say any more—Uncle Philip would not like it. He has been so kind to us, we would not like to offend him."

SOCIETY BEAUTY

The two princesses have so far been little of Princess Margarita of Baden, who has been in England four years and is regarded as a society beauty.

"She is even busier than we are," Princess Christina said.

Two years ago, "nurse" von Baden took time off to cruise around the isles of Greece with Europe's kings, queens, princes and princesses. During the trip, organized by King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece and backed by the Greek government, she was voted "prettiest princess" on board.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FORM FOR MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT ISSUED BY BRIDE AND GROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father died about ten years ago. My mother is in a state hospital for insane patients. I have a brother who lives at a great distance from here, whom I haven't seen for years and whom I seldom hear from, and whose wife I have never met. The wedding is to be very small, in the chapel of our church, with only the groom's parents, our attendants, and a few close friends present. But I want to send out quite a number of formal announcements. Under the circumstances how in the world could this be done? — Reader

Under all these circumstances, the very best way would be for you and the bridegroom to issue announcements yourselves:

Miss Mary Reader and Mr. Thomas Worthy announce their marriage on Tuesday, the sixth of March Nineteen hundred and fifty - six Haven, New York

If you wish, you may include the name of your church.

SHE SHOULDN'T GIVE MONEY-GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have received an invitation to a wedding. The groom-to-be being a co-worker of mine in a small office, As I have no bridesmaid gift from having met her two or three times, I have decided to give her a money-gift. Should I hand her the envelope containing the money-gift when she is among the guests, or must I send it to her at her home, before the wedding? — Wondering

I would like to persuade you that, since you are not a relative or family friend, you should spend the bride - to - be a gift for the couple's new home, instead of giving her money-gift. It would definitely not be in good taste for you to give or send a gift of money. But, whatever you give, send it to the bride-to-be at her home, some time before the wedding.

WEDDING CAKE AT SECOND WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a widow in my middle forties, and am remarrying again, my first wedding was a large, formal church wedding, but because of certain circumstances there was no reception. And so, of course, no wedding cake. I'd so much like to have a wedding cake at our small, informal reception, but I've been told by several people that this isn't proper for a second wedding. What about this, Mrs. Beeckman? —Wilson-Bride-to-be

Indeed it is entirely proper for you to have a wedding cake . . . so please plan on it. Your reception, being and festive (and memorable!) feature of a wedding reception.

NAME FORM ON WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our problem concerns abbreviations. My mother and I are preparing the form for my wedding invitations for my June wedding. My father is a clergyman, there is a D.D. degree . . . uses the form The Reverend John Smith). My prospective father-in-law is a medical doctor. What about this, May the abbreviations "Dr." and "The Rev."? — B.B.

QUESTION:

I would like to know where I can get a Diabetic Cook Book and how much it costs? Which store can you buy diabetic candy? — Leda G.

ANSWER:

There are several diabetic cookbooks but I will mention three: "Diabetic Manual" by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin ($3.50); "A Primer for Diabetic Patients" by Dr. Russell M. Wilder; "Eating Together" by Camille Macauley. The latter two are listed in a 1953 catalogue as $2.25 and $4.50 respectively but may be more or less now. In your area I do not know names of stores but large grocery chains often have sections called "Dietetic Foods" in which foods for diabetic patients are sold.

QUESTION:

I hope that the information that we would like will not cause you too much inconvenience. Our daughter is to be married in February. Have read the dainty column . . . never thinking I would need help for a while and did not clip them. Would like to know about serving a buffet supper for 50 guests with turkey and ham and also how to arrange bride's table.—Helen McC.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you a copy of a column that appeared here on buffet service and wedding receptions. In addition I would like to say that two 10-lb. turkeys weighed undrawn and with head and feet on will serve 60 people adequately when dressed and stuffed and roasted at 325 deg. Fahr. For ham you'll would advise using the 2 25-lb. birds even though you have only 50 guests. For potato salad 6 quarts cooked and diced potatoes when mixed with 8 cups finely chopped celery 2 tablespoons salt, 1 cup chopped parsley, 1 cup chopped chives and about 2 1-2 cups mayonnaise will serve 50. Since you are planning on having both ham and turkey I think I 12-lb. ham are in far better taste, and if possible do use these titles spelled in full. However, if either name is unusually long, then the abbreviations would probably have, to be

DRAPED DRESS

By VERA WINSTON

Chiffon is enjoying a brisk revival, as is red. Put 'em together and you come up with a devastating dress, as, for example, this charmer. It is draped over the bosom to the snug midriff which is done in zigzag tucking. The skirt is pleated in narrow pleats from the waist and released into graceful folds for a full skirt. A most useful and attractive dinner dress, simple but most effective.

Sunday School Lesson

God Is Searching for Man

By ROY L. SMITH

American book sellers are to be commended, of course, for the number of publications they are producing which deal in one way or another with man's search for God. It is an indication of their recognition of a wide popular interest, but it also a great service they are rendering to a thoughtful public. But there is another side of the case which deserves even greater attention — God's search for man.

PROFESSIONALISM IN RELIGION

It is true, of course, that theology is a highly complicated subject that calls for careful thinking, close reasoning, candid appraisals, and scientific judgment. And all these very commendable virtues can hardly be found outside the ranks of those who make it a major interest in their lives. But such interests degenerate so easily into the superficial professionalism which exhausts itself in forms, ceremonies and status.

The Pharisees and scribes of Jesus' day were men of the highest moral character who had lost their sense of perspective and judged life on the basis of a mistaken scale of values. They had become so involved in the techniques of religion and worship that they had lost their sense of reverence for man and their understanding of God's generous nature as expressed in his concern for man.

It is so easy to lose sight of the rights of the prisoner at the bar while we uphold the dignity of the court; it is equally easy to lose sight of the needs of individuals as we contend for the orthodoxy of the church. Professionalism is a bit stuffy wherever we find it, but never more offensively so than when we encounter it in the field of religion

YOU AND I COUNT

It is one of the essential doctrines of good religion that the individual is the supreme unit of value in God's opinion. Yet the whole of modern life seems to be organized for the purpose of overpowering and overwhelming the individual.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 29: God's Concern for Sinners," Luke 15:1-32.

A few TV performers furnish the entertainment for the nation; a small committee which constitutes itself a book club picks out the reading matter for tens of millions; the decisions of a congressional committee of no more than half a dozen men determine the destinies of all our military eligible young men; political bosses choose our candidates; and half a dozen editors shape our opinions. In the face of it all we whimper and say, "What can one man do?"

Well, for one thing, we can keep ourselves convinced that in the mind of God, each one of us counts!

SAVED BY SELF-RESPECT

As if such self-respect were not important! It is true, of course, that it seems like a futile weapon against a political machine or an international alliance. But every victory that has ever been won in behalf of the common man has been won by those who have saved their self-respect.

The salvation of self-respect, like charity, begins at home. No one can be expected to respect us if we do not respect ourselves. And the beginning of such self-saving is a solemn declaration of our own importance as men and women made in the image of God.

The man who becomes intoxicated is guilty of a terrible assault upon his own self-respect. He has deliberately and willingly surrendered to the impulse to be less than a man. He has consented within his own soul to become, for at least a brief period of time, an object of pity, contempt, and shame. He has even agreed within himself to be a public nuisance, and nothing is more tragic than that.

PROVINCES WILL

6. The individual province has complete freedom to determine when and how it will participate within the federal limitations.

7. The federal government reiterated its previously-announced stand that a majority of the provinces with a majority of the population must enter before Ottawa participates. This demands one of the big provinces of Ontario and Quebec signing up.

ONTARIO VIEWPOINT

Health Minister Martin told reporters after the closed four-day conference he wouldn't try a guess at how many provinces might accept the federal offer, or when the government here might start getting firm replies.

Ontario provincial Treasurer Porter, whose province has called for a 50-per-cent federal contribution on a wider basis than the federal government agreed to, said he thinks the federal plan will cost Ontario taxpayers more than the provincial government had counted on.

"We are going to have to study its conditions and its implications" he said. "Some elements of the proposal are not quite as we contemplated. We are going to have to make some recalculations as to what it adds up to financially."

Because Ontario's per capita costs are above the national average, he said, the province would get somewhat less than 39 per tario's share at 42 per cent.

In Ottawa, Mr. Porter said Ontario also does not favor the federal idea of excluding mental and tuberculosis patients from the federal contributions.

But he added he does not know whether that alone would be a complete obstacle to Ontario's entry into a scheme. The federal government did include convalescent and chronic hospital cases, two types which Ontario has stressed should be covered.

PEACETIME PEAK

An extra $9,000,000 is allocated in foreign aid under the Colombo Plan and the United Nations technical assistance program.

Although proposed increases in payments to provinces for the trans-Canada highway are not reflected in the initial spending program—they have not yet been formally approved—the government plans to spend $11,600,000 on its own, double this year's amount, for the highway in national parks, chiefly Banff and Yoho in the Rockies.

The five-year census next June 1 will cost $4,380,000. Expenditures by the northern affairs department will increase by $5,520,000 to expand northern educational facilities parks and continue the relocation build roads there and in national

OMHA Names Playdowns Draw

Doug Patterson, Ontario Minor Hockey Association executive member for this district, has released the drawings for the playdowns of district teams.

In the "A" series with Belleville having Juvenile, midget and bantam teams, it has not been decided who they will meet but likely Kingston will provide the opposition.

The "A-Minor" series pits Trenton juveniles against Lindsay while Trenton midgets will see action against Port Hope.

Picton has entered teams in all of the "B" series with the juveniles meeting Gananoque, the midgets drawing a bye into the next round and the bantams clashing with Ajax.

The Juvenile "C" series has a very large grouping. Marmora and Madoc are now battling with the winners meeting Wellington or Brighton. Campbellford, Norwood, Stirling and Hastings will also send a winner against the winner of Cannington, Blackstock and Stouffville.

Midget "C" action will see the winner of the Brighton, Norwood, Campbellford, Havelock and Marmora group draw a bye into the next round.

Bantam "C" action has Wellington meeting the winners of Stirling, Marmora, Havelock and Campbellford.

Halloway and Cooper meet in a Juvenile "D" series with Hastings and Coboconk providing the action in bantam "D".

Mr. Patterson of Stirling who donates a tremendous amount of time and effort to the OMHA said in his latest report, "Each year we have a few boys who think they can ignore the rules or show disrespect for our officials. Again this year we have had four players suspended in this area for two or more games. In general, however, we have had a very successful season to date and the kids have been enjoying every minute of it."

CHATHAM GETS GOALIE

Snowshoers Reach Lewiston After 168-Mile Hike

LEWISTON, Me. (AP)—Two well blistered Canadian snowshoers hobbled into Lewiston Thursday night after a 168-mile hike from Sherbrooke, Que.

Arthur Blanchard, 24, and Marcel "Goldie" Turenne, 25, both of Cornwall, Ont, laughed and wept in excitement as International Snowshoe Union officials greeted them.

Arriving at the Lewiston Ice palace at the end of their three-day trek with only a few hours rest, the Canadians were examined by a physician and were fed before being taken to a reception.

The trek was undertaken to enliven the ISU's congress opening here, and also as an effort to win Olympic recognition for snowshoeing.

ORDERED TO BED

Blanchard and Turenne were ordered to bed by Dr. Frederick Caron, who said that their 61-hour hike apparently produced nothing worse than blisters, sore muscles ad fatigue.

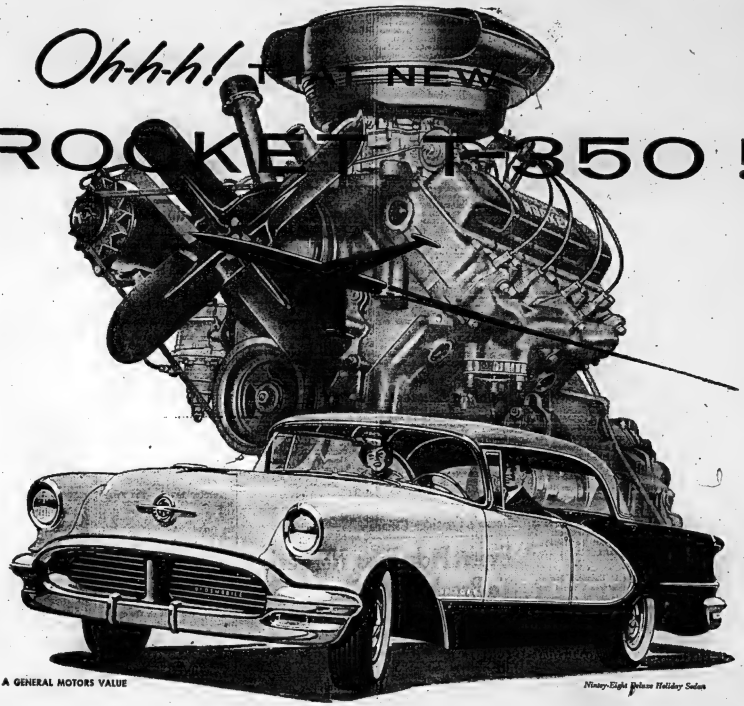
Before retiring, however, the pair made a brief reception appearance and telephoned Blanchard's mother Mrs. Philomene Blanchard, and Turenne's wife, Dorothy, at Cornwall.

"I didn't know what mountains were until I tried this trip," Blanchard said. He added that he felt more than once like quitting.

"Thank goodness, it's over," said Turenne. Then he added, in obvious understatement, "We like to walk."

The Canadians had hoped to make the trip non-stop from Sherbrooke in 66 hours. Their elapsed time of 61 hours didn't count four or five hours rest Tuesday in Colebrook, N.H., and a brief rubdown early today at Bethel.

LANDS IN SUBURBS



ST. LOUIS (AP)—The pilot of a navy F-9F jet plane made a forced landing late Wednesday in the only "open patch" of a heavily populated suburban area and skidded into the corner of a house. Miraculously, there were no serious injuries. Maj. Roy H. Mcdonald, 31, a marine air reserve pilot, said his engine had flamed out and he realized he couldn't land at the municipal airport.

Now is the time to arrange through a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY for the little it will take to brighten the days when you cannot work. You can purchase an Annuity NOW to come due at age 50, 55, 60 or 65, or other ages.

HERE IS AN EXAMPLE—Suppose you are a man of 30 and want an Annuity of $100 a month, beginning at 65. Your monthly premium would be $16.44.

AT AGE 65 the Government will begin paying you $100 a month as long as you live! If you die within 10 years after age 65, the monthly payments will continue to your heirs for the balance of that 10 years. Thus, you will have paid $7,200.56 for a minimum return of $12,000.00 which will be even greater if you live past 75!

IF YOU DIE BEFORE 65 the Government will pay your heirs the total sum paid up to the date of your death, plus 4% compound interest.

There are several plans to choose from. For detailed information, consult your DISTRICT ANNUITIES REPRESENTATIVE, or mail the coupon below, postage free.

MAGGIES TONIGHT

Tonight is "Dutchmen" night at Memorial Arena with the main attraction the senior "B" battle between Danny Cox's TPT's and the Brockville Magedomas. The faithful will be tabbed an extra dime at the box-office while season ticket holders are requested to drop a thin dime, or a thick one, into special receptacles placed at the arena entrance.

The injury-riddled TPT's who battled valiantly against the powerful Dunlops Wednesday night and at one time tossed a posh-almighty scare into the Blairville faithful when they drew within striking distance of the high-scoring Dunnies, will be a desperate mood tonight. They have to be. From here in every game is important if they want a seat in the playoff circle, and a victory tonight would do a world of good.

The Brockville Magedomas, whose hopes for second place faded more into the distance with their 7-5 shellacking at the hands of the Kingston Goodyears (that was a four-point-er, so to speak), should be in equally desperate mood. The up-and-coming Colts are beginning to draw dangerously near to that third place spot and at the moment are only five points in arrears of the Kitch Stanford crew. The Goodies' win placed them 11 points ahead of the faltering Maggies.

So tonight should see two desperate point-hungry teams joust for all-important points. A win for our side will put them even-stephen with the Cornwall crew—and like them—just five points behind the Maggies. Incidentally the Colts will be guests of the Teeps in Memorial Arena next Tuesday night in what should be another thrilling battle.

A ROUGH ROAD

Apparently Bobby Hull is finding the junior "A" travelling a lot tougher than the junior "B" trail. Bobby is finding it rather hard to find the farmer's daughter with his club, the St. Catharines Teepees, travelling at top speed and holding down the top berth in the junior derby.

Clayton Browne in his St. Catharines' Standard sports column says: "Coach Rocky Pilous of the Teeps, possibly figures Bobby Hull as a repeat Buddy Boone in another season, since they look alike and have other similar characteristics, as to build, hustle and stick ability. It requires about a season to properly deflate a touted junior from the outside and then have him come back and change in the best way known to the hockey coach. It may be hard for rookies to learn that individual plays they used in minors are outmoded in junior class. Their value in a club increases when they learn to pass, instead of soloing."

BOSS UP AGAIN

See where Louis LeCompte has drawn one of the refereeing assignments at the Olympics hockey tournament. The last time we saw Looey he looked quite different from the day he was flitting at top speed with the grand RCAF squad that was provincial honors nearly two decades ago. He had apparently taken the fullest advantage of the RCAF chow and had proved it by exhibiting a marked increase in mid and around the equatorial regions.

Looey is a flight-loocy with the flyboys assigned to the photography section of the public relations department. He made the headlines yesterday when he called the Ruskys to finish no better than third, with the Czechs and Yanks favored for the next-to-the-Dutchies spots.

He has had plenty of experience in European hockey, having played with the RCAF team that won a world title a few years ago and seeing and officiating in continental hockey frays while serving over there. He worked many games here while with the OHA, officiating in Junior "A", senior "A" and senior "B" tussles.

ONE UP!

Our side won its first game over there in the shadow of the Italian Rockies, but they didn't look too hot in blanking the Germans 4-0. However, Coach Bobby Rauer may have something up his sleeve in his failing to give the open-air peepers the expected lop-sided score. thrill.

Meanwhile a diminutive Austrian goalie, whose acrobatics made Jacques Plante look like a rookie, stole the spectator show. This Tyrolean pretzel on skates not only saved the day for his mates but given the chance might have scored the winner. He hopped, skipped and jumped like a jackrabbit on a spree, checking incoming foemen at his own blue line.

He faces the Dutchmen today and the Bauer boys had better come up with a better display than yesterday or the Austrian one-man team might give them a gosh-almighty scare. Wonder what he's doing next season?

Demote Rangers to 3rd Place With Howe-Led 3-2 Victory; Bruins Wallop Canadiens 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jolly Jack Adams is looking more like a contender every day.

It was Adams who prophesied a couple of months ago his Detroit Red Wings would be up around the top of the National Hockey League in no time at all. There were scoffers, naturally. Particularly among the bullyboys of Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers.

Since then the Wings, league champions for the last seven seasons, have been picking up steam. Thursday night they kicked Rangers into third place with a 3-2 victory over the Blueshirts at Detroit and now are only 12 points behind the league-pacing Habs.

In another engagement, Boston Bruins surprised everybody with a 5-1 win over Montreal. It was the second straight Boston triumph against Canadiens.

HOWE ROLLS ON

Wings clobbered a commanding 3-0 lead and then stood off a Ranger rally.

Gordie Howe, Wings' great right winger, scored a goal and an assist in the second period. It was his individual scoring race to three points. The other Detroit scorers were Bill Dineen, Glen Skov and Andy Bathgate and Andy Hebenton tallied for Rangers.

At Boston, the last-place Bruins delighted a crowd of 11,069 fans by subduing the powerful Montreal power against the Montrealers.

Two goals by Jerry Toppazzini, returned to Boston in a trade with the Wings, Real Chevrefils and Leo Labine provided much much of the punch. Chevrefils scored twice and Toppazzini once.

Johnny Peirson, the dependable forward who left retirement to aid the floundering Bruins, set up and an assist. Vic Stasiuk fired the other Boston goal.

Bernie Geoffrion accounted for Canadiens' lone goal.

The Boston Garden customers were so worked up by the end of the game that they gave Bruins a standing ovation for two minutes.

Doesn't Consider Canada

Expert Picks Russ, Norwegians To Break World Skate Marks

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—An observer of 44 years of Olympic speedskating says three world records are likely to fall in the current games—two of them to Russians.

Per Christian Andersen, news editor of one of Oslo's largest evening papers, who doubles as a sports columnist and has covered all but one of the seven winter Olympics since 1912, made his pre-race predictions today for the speed-skating events which begin Saturday and end four days later.

He calls Russia's speedsters to win the two shorter races—the 500 and 1,500-metres—and picks a Norwegian to take the gruelling 10,000-metre event. He rates the 5,000 metres a toss-up between the two countries.

Yury Sergeyev, holder of the current recognized 500-metre record of 40.8, is Andersen's choice although Evgeniy Grischin defeated his teammate Yuri Sondej for the disputed title of 40.2. Competitors claimed Grischin got away before the starting gun.

Canada's three contenders—Ralph Olin of Calgary, Johnny Sands of Saskatoon and Gordon Audley of Winnipeg—are entered in the 500 but all three finished far behind the Russians in last Sunday's trials and are not expected to be serious threats.

BEST CANUCK

Sands, the 22-year-old Canadian champion who was tied with 1952 Olympic titlist Ken Henry of Chicago for eighth place in last winter's event, figures to make the best Canadian showing. His time of 42.8 was the fastest ever set by a Canadian skater. Olin and Audley were 13th and 15th respectively.

Andersen expects another world mark to fall in Sunday's 1,500-metre test with Russian record-holder Boris Shilkov battling Norwegian champion Roald Aas for top honors. Defending Olympic champion Knut Johannesen rates no better than third.

All three Canadians are entered in Monday's 1,500 metres with Sands again ruling top considerations as a threat to birdseye ice in a 1,000-metre test last Sunday. Shilkov is Andersen's choice even though Grischin holds the world record at 2:08.3.

Olin, whose 18:22 at Oslo in 1952 stands as the best Canadian Olympic time, will be Canada's entry in the 10,000 metres Tuesday. Andersen picks Norway's Johannesen to win this one over Helmut Kuhnert of East Germany and Knut Hakon Haug of The Netherlands, though he does not expect any threat to the world record.

SIGNS WITH LIONS

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western International Football Union have announced the signing of wingback Jack Cook to a 1956 contract.

Cook, an end for Queen's University in 1954, played with the Lions last year.

Finn Wins First Olympics Gold Medal

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Veikko Hauulinen, a 31-year-old Finnish lumberman, today became the first champion of the seventh winter Olympic Games when he won the gruelling 30-kilometre ski race in one hour, 44 minutes, six seconds.

The durable Finn won the 50-kilometre championship in the 1952 games at Oslo.

The 30-kilometre race (18 miles, 1,128 yards) was on the Olympic program this year for the first time.

Sweden's Sixten Jernberg was second in 1:44:30 with Russia's Pavel Kolchin third in 1:45.45.

Canada's only entry in the race, Clarence Servold of Camrose, Alta., placed 37th with a time of 2:00.01.

Russia's favored Vladimir Kuzin finished well down the list, making room for revenge for the winning Finn. Two years ago he was beaten by Kuzin in the world championship.

Canada at Olympics

By KEN METHERAL

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Canada's hockey team starts 4-0 victory over Germany by Canada's defending hockey champions and some spectacular acrobatics by an underdog Austrian goaltender as his team held Italy to a 2-2 tie served as a prelude to today's first full-scale activity in the seventh winter Olympics.

Bobsledders and skiers, idle Thursday except for participation in the official opening ceremonies, take part in their first events today when five members of Canada's ski team make their first bid for an Olympic medal.

And eight of the 10 competitors for the hockey title go into action in the second day of preliminary competition which will whittle the field down to six for next week's final round-robin series.

Canada's first shot for individual hooors comes in the 30-kilometre cross-country ski event as Clarence Servold of Camrose, Alta., hits the well-broken trail as the last of 56 contestants.

The 28-year-old fire lookout observer is given a good chance of finishing among the leaders but he faces stern competition from Russia's Vladimir Kuzin and a number of other Russians, Finns and Swedes who have dominated previous races over the 18-mile, 1,128-yard distance.

Canada's chances look brighter in the women's giant slalom. Switzerland's Madeline Berthod ranks as the favorite but Canada's speedy freckle-faced 21-year-old from St. Jovite, Que., is rated as one of the top contenders.

The Canadian combined champion has been in top form, taking second place in the international combined competition at Kitzbuhel Austria, two weeks ago.

Another Canadian with an international record is 17-year-old Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa, who scored an upset victory in the Holmenkol ten giant slalom in Norway two years ago. Recovered from a broken leg last winter, she finished far back in the Kitzbuhel meet, her first big test since the accident.

Carlyn Kruger, 19, of St. Sauveur Que., and Gigi Fontaine, 20, of Quebec City round out the Canadian entry. Carlyn is the Canadian downhill champion while Gigi finished second in this year's Canadian slalom competition and fourth in the North American combined.

Two clusters of highly rated contenders feature today's hockey schedule with Czechoslovakia meeting the United States in the opening game and Russia tangling with Sweden tonight. Canada is drawn against Austria while Italy oppposes Germany in the other games.

Jimmy Demaret Leads Pro Golf Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The main topics of interest in this unusually sunny desert resort the day were Jimmy Demaret and the weather.

Demaret led a field of 42 invited professional golfers into the second round of the $15,000 Thunderbird tournament, thanks to a seven-under-par 64 in the opening circ.

The weather was just as impressive. It rained so hard Thursday night that the pro-amateur sideshow was postponed until Saturday.

Demaret held a lead of two strokes going into today's play over the 6,845-yard, par 36-35—71 Thunderbird Country Club course. He did it with his 33-31 Thursday on a card that showed seven birdies.

Ben Hogan, Windsor, all with 66.

GIVEN TOP WEIGHTS

LONDON (AP) —The French horse Bremontier and Early Mist, 1933 winner, were upweighted Thursday for the 110th running of the Grand National Steeplechase. Both were assigned 170 pounds in the gruelling four miles, 856 yards test over 30 fences, hedges and water barriers at Aintree, March 24.

CANADIAN CLOSE

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—With a five-under-par 68 on the opening day, Jack Hamrick of Fremont, Ohio, held a none-too-secure hold on first place today in the $3,000 Imperial Valley Open golf tournament.

Just one stroke back entering the second 18 of the 72-hole tournament were eight pros—including Jack Kay of Montreal.

Czechs Bounce Back in Last Minutes To Edge United States by 4-3 Count

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Czechoslovakia today upset the United States 4-3 on a disappointing opening for the Americans in the winter Olympic hockey competition.

Czechoslovakia scored in the last two minutes of play to win.

The loss was a letdown for the plucky Americans, who three times came from behind to tie the score.

The victory almost assured Czechoslovakia of a first-place finish in the B pool of the three pool elimination tournament.

However, the U. S. showing indicated the Americans should have little difficulty advancing into the final round by defeating the weak Polish team Saturday. Czechoslovakia and Poland play Sunday.

The more experienced Czechs got the jump on the Americans in the opening minutes, and only sparkling work by goalie Willard Ikola of Eveleth, Minn., kept them from winning by a one-sided margin.

Czechoslovakia ranks with Russia and Canada as favorites in the tournament.

The game was played at a fast pace, with the Americans gaining confidence towards the end and winning loud cheers from the 2,000 fans for their clean spirited play.

Only two penalties were handed out, each club having a man off in the opening period. At no time were there any of the incidents that marred the appearance of the American team in the 1952 Olympics at Oslo.

Dutchies Whip Germans In Games Opener; Austrian Goalie Steals Show

Blank European Foemen 4-0 In Thrill-Lacking Exhibition; Italy, Austria Battle to Tie

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—An Austrian-model Jacques Plante confronts Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen today as they take their second step toward the Olympic hockey title after Thursday's 4-0 opening-day victory over West Germany.

Probably even Italy's frustrated Canadian-bred sufers would hesitate to put Austrian goalie Alfred Puelz in a class with the National Hockey League's rangling netminder, but he was chiefly responsible for Thursday's 3-3 tie between the two countries.

And some of the Austrian's tactics were strongly reminiscent of Plante's hair-raising exploits in the Montreal Canadiens net.

Twice he skated halfway to the blue line to break up Italian attacks—and got away with it. He dove to the ice, leaped into the air and did the splits to earn the greatest individual ovation of the night.

DULL CANADA GAME

There were few exciting moments in the Canada - Germany game. The Dutchmen, obviously off form from a week's layoff since their last exhibition game, flashed an early burst of speed and were rewarded with the first of three goals by left winger Gerry Theberge.

But they skated listlessly thereafter. Their passes went astray and they appeared to be bothered by the German defence.

The Dutchmen showed their only real burst of speed before some of the 8,000 fans had found their way into the big open-air rink.

Pulsating off a pretty passing play with Ken Laufman and George Scholes, Theberge outgussed German goaltender Ulli Jansen at 2:04 for the game's first goal.

ODD GOAL

Nine minutes later, Theberge grabbed a loose puck near the blue line, evaded two defencemen and beat Jansen again with a low drive.

His third goal, at 4:44 of the second period, was a weird one. Just as Laufman took a pass from Scholes and fired at the upper right-hand corner, Theberge fell over Jansen and into the net. Although the left winger did not appear to touch the puck, the goal was officially credited to him.

Less than a half-minute after the third goal, Martin drew his penalty for kneeing and within 35 seconds the Dutchmen had scored again as Jim Logan intercepted a pass near the German blue line and found the top corner.

GET ALL PENALTIES

The Germans never stopped trying but they found the Canadian defence hard to solve, even when they held a manpower advantage. The Dutchmen took all four penalties but twice they prevented the losers from getting a shot on goal while they were shorthanded. The Dutchmen outshot Germany 30-17.

The Italian-Austrian game was a rouser. Despite six Canadian-trained players in their lineup, the Italians found themselves two goals down at the end of the first period with Puelz performing incredible feats to defy their efforts to catch up.

Bernardo Tonel, a 20-year-old Italian repatriate who learned his hockey at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., got one of the goals back in the second period. But it took a bad bounce on a blooper fired from outside the blue line by Aldo Pedrici in the third period to give the Italians their tie.

The 10 competing countries are divided into three groups for this week's round robin preliminaries, with the top two teams from each group advancing to next week's final round. The team with the top point standing in the final series wins the title, with goal averages deciding the winner in the event of a tie.

The Dutchmen drew scattered boos from the crowd Thursday night for what they considered rough play. But Russian coach Arkady Tscherov, watching in the stands with his team, commented afterwards that the Canadians played "a very nice, clean game."

Tscherov declined to predict the outcome of the rubber series between the two countries—Russia won the world title from Toronto-East York in 1954 but lost to Penticton Vs last winter—saying only that he is "not conceding anything" to the favored Dutchmen.

Floor Hockey Title Won By 'Black Burls'

Denny Farnsworth's "Black Burls" defeated Cameron Buskard's "Lonesome Polecats" 10 to 7 in the sixth annual All-Star Floor Hockey game played in the Collegiate gymnasium at 12.30 p.m. on Thursday.

The game was closely contested with the "Burls" taking a 6 to 4 lead in the first period, and going on to outscore the "Polecats" 4 to 3 in the final period for the win.

Captain Farnsworth, Fred Hagerman, Glenn Marcelle and Don Bishop each scored a brace of goals in the winning cause with single markers going to Dalrymple and Rowbotham. Gerd Irwin led the "Polecat" attack with a trio of goals, while Cam Buskard notched a pair with Bill Foster and Jack O'Neil adding the others.

Charles Kingston, Hagerman, Marcelle, Buskard, Bedell, Foster, O'Neil and Farnsworth all turned in terrific performances in making this 1955-56 All-Star game a success.

Line-ups:

"Burls"—Farnsworth, Kingston, Kennedy, Hagerman, Dalrymple, Rowbotham, Smith, Marcelle, Bishop, Morris, Anderson. Coach: Arlen Burleigh.

"Polecats" — Buskard, Carr, Irwin, Jones, Bedell, O'Neil, Foster, Walker, Ross, Wright, Duvall. Coach: Bob Vaughan.

Cameron Buskard was yesterday named "Mr. Floor Hockey" of the Belleville Collegiate Institute for the second time in as many years. "Cam," the league's leading point scorer was elected following the sixth annual All-Star Floor Hockey game.

Hamilton Edges Barrie 8-7

HAMILTON (CP) — Led by Cummie Burton, who scored two goals and assisted on four others, last-place Hamilton Cubs kept alive their slim Ontario Hockey Association junior A playoff hopes by defeating Barrie Flyers 8-7 Thursday night.

Max Sthurm with two goals, Bob Robinson, Vic Rosser, Murray Oliver and Brian Smith were the other Cub marksmen. Arnold Smith and Roy Partridge scored two each for the Flyers while George Ranieri, Blake Ball and Bill Forhan tallied singles.

Cubs now are six points behind Toronto Marlboros and Barrie Flyers and a playoff berth. The victory broke a six-game losing streak for Cubs who have won only three of their last 18 games.

16 Rinks Left In Major Curl Contests

TORONTO (CP) — Two Orillia clubs were among 16 entries which Thursday advanced to today's semi final play in Ontario's two major Silver Tankard and Governor-General's Trophy and their consolation events.

Oshawa, Welland and Galt were the other three surviving clubs left after Thursday's play in the double rink competition for the Ontario Tankard today. Kingston, Guelph and Hamilton Victorias battled with Orillia for the Governor-General's Trophy, also a double-rink series.

Kingston, Wingham, London and Collingwood vied for honors in Burden Trophy play while Toronto Granites, Walkerton, Ottawa or Elmvale will win the Globe and Mail Trophy.

CANADIAN TITLE BOUT

EDMONTON (CP)—Tony Percy of Drummondville, Que., Canadian welterweight boxing champion, will meet Al Moretti of Edmonton in a title fight here about March 5, promoter Pat Glannone announced Thursday.

Triple Golf Winner Seeks More Glory

NEW YORK (AP) — Harvie Ward, Jr., has made the "big triple" of amateur golf—the United States, British and Canadian championships—but he's not satisfied.

"I won't be entirely happy until I've beaten the pros in one of their big tournaments, such as the Open or the Master," said the 30-year-old San Francisco car salesman, honored by the Golf Writers Association here Thursday night.

The present U.S. Amateur champion said he has no desire to turn professional "because I'm afraid it would spoil my love for the game."

Ward received the Metropolitan Golf Writers' Gold Tee award for his outstanding competitive record Writers' Association here Thursday of 1955.

President Eisenhower was awarded the Ben Hogan Trophy for his "inspiration in recovery from a physical ailment." The trophy was accepted for him by Congressman Jack Westland of Washington, a former U.S. Amateur champion.

Eight Thoroughbreds Die in Blaze That Consumes Tropical Park Barns

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Workmen cleared away the charred ruins of Barn 3 at Tropical Park race track today in the wake of a fire that killed eight thoroughbreds.

Only five have been positively identified and horsemen swatted a final check of survivors to determine which animals were lost in the blaze Thursday afternoon.

About 40 panic-stricken horses charged out of the barn and galloped up heavily-travelled 33rd road which parallels the track. Traffic was snarled and two minor automobile accidents resulted.

No one was injured but grooms and other stable help lost clothing and personal effects in the flames that quickly consumed the 150-foot 60-stall barn where about 80 horses were stabled. Tropical Park closed its meeting on Jan. 16. No estimate of damage was available immediately but value of the horses lost was placed at $50,000 to $75,000.

Nancy Berg of 'Count Sheep' Fame Getting Break in TV

BY CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of several nice things about Nancy Berg is that she says things like this: "If I ever get on Hollywood I owe it to the American people to bathe in my hot tub every while I hold a conch shell to my ear."

Miss Berg is a handsomely built blonde with a flair for both dark hair, blue eyes and alabaster skin. It cost her $100 to get lunch with me, because that was the amount of money she'd have been paid for "modelling" during the time we whiled away at a restaurant table.

Though a leading fashion and magazine cover model, she is better known locally to the bargain-basement trade as the heroine of an unusual TV program called "Count Sheep" at 1 a. m. Soon a NBC-TV will place this five-minute program on its network. Then nearly everybody who's up that late—or, watch Miss Berg wearing a nightgown, brush her hair, recite poetry, kiss her dog goodnight, lie down and go to sleep. The theory is that this puts everybody to sleep.

HOLLYWOOD DREAMS

Now Miss Berg is going to have her first TV dramatic role—on "Appointment with Adventure" (CBS-TV) on Feb. 5. She's pleased about it because it's her opportunity to grow from a model into a dramatic actress. While I was back in the show she's arresting Berg quotation about honey and conch shells.

"There is much conformity these days," she says, "That includes the way we make the movies. The American people like to hear that their actresses are bathing in milk and doing eccentric things like that. If I ever get to Hollywood . . . I . . .

Canadians Sign Four Redskins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Word reaching Washington Redskins this Thursday was that four of the National Football League club's draft choices already have signed up with Canadian teams and a few others are considering a move up north.

Coach Joe Kuharich said he has heard that guard Francis Machinsky of Olde State, guard Pat Biegello of Notre Dame, back Vince Costales of Louisiana State and back Eagle Day of Mississippi have signed contracts with Canadian clubs.

"Of course we hate to lose them" Kuharich said, "but we figure on losing two-thirds of our draft choices, anyway, either into the service or Canadian football or failure to play pro ball."

'Look Ma No Pants!'

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (AP)—The house shook with laughter when Curtis School, Sioux Falls featherweight, took off his robe for his Golden Gloves boxing match Wednesday night.

School had forgotten to wear his boxing trunks into the ring. The match was held up while School returned to the dressing room.

He lost the bout but won the Sportsmanship Trophy.

Ottawa Signs New Line Coach

OTTAWA (CP) — William K. Smyth, former line coach at Xavier College, Cincinnati, was expected to sign a contract today as assistant and line coach of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four.

A club official said Smyth, who arrived in the capital Thursday night, has been negotiating with Xavier and agreed to terms with Ottawa.

Like coach at Xavier since 1952, and coach of a Cincinnati high school team in 1951, Smyth, a tackle, played his college football with Notre Dame and University of Cincinnati. After a hitch in the marine corps from 1942 to 1943, he returned to Cincinnati in 1946 and was with Los Angeles Rams from 1947 to 1950.

Marlene Wins First Round

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (CP) Medalist Marlene Stewart of Fort Hill, Ont., Thursday easily defeated Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., 5 and 4 in the first round of the Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament.

Miss Stewart, low-scorer in the qualifying rounds, was one over women's par for the 18 holes.

Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., a pre-tournament favorite went with Miss Stewart, defeated Helen Cotinell of Birmingham, Mich., 6 and 4.

AT THE CAPITOL — New Star —Gene Barry, who also came to attention on Broadway is busy building a career in films these days, currently starring with Clark Gable in "Betrayed" and "Soldier of Fortune," now at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is Cinemascope "Beneath the 12-Mile Reef", starring Robert Wagner, Terry Moore and Gilbert Roland. Continuous show Saturday from 1.30.

AT THE BELLE — Love slave to the enchantress Circe, Kirk Douglas as Homer's mighty Greek Warrior in "Ulysses" ponders Silvana Mangano's offer of immortality if he stays with her. Miss Mangano is ravishingly cast in the dual role of Circe and Ulysses' faithful wife Penelope. Ulysses is now playing at the Belle theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gilbert Roland is a delicious diver in the Cinemascope film in Technicolor, "Beneath the 12-Mile Reef", which is now at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is "Soldier of Fortune", starring Clark Gable and Susan Hayward. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

Martin and Lewis Want World To Know Partnership Solid

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis want the world to know that their partnership is in even better shape than it before their recent split.

Jerry states this in no uncertain terms, and Dean agrees. He is modest to let Jerry do the expounding for the team; the only time Lewis ever did much talking was during their split.

Jerry sounded off while dressed in a cowboy suit for their current film, appropriately entitled "pardners." The hilarity comic—he has gained 20 pounds—had this to say:

"The team is better off than it ever was. We have a perfect arrangement: We know exactly where we stand with each other. There are no misunderstandings, no jealousies. We couldn't be happier."

WORK APART NOW

The cause of their contentment, he said, was an understanding on how much work they would do together and separately.

"Before, we never appeared separately on any occasions," Jerry remarked. "Once in a while I would be called on to perform when Dean wasn't around. But I always felt guilty about it.

"Now we agree that it can do anything it want as long as it isn't a coast-to-coast TV show or something like that. I've placed about 20 benefits in the past month—things nobody ever hears about. I got out and have a ball. That's my life's blood, making people laugh."

Martin said he made it clear that he, being older and not as stage-struck, is not the eager beaver Jerry is. So while Jerry cuts capers for the boy scouts and the PTAs, Dean quietly sharpens up his golf.

NEW JOY FOR DEAN

Helping to cement their current harmony is the fact that Dean has another movie—"Artists and Models" will probably beat his "That's Amore." It's the title song whose lyrics Are Made of This," now tops on many of the popularity polls.

The salvaging of their partnership preserves an enterprise that earned $4,000,000 last year. Yes, you read that figure correctly. Their earnings from movies, TV and appearances probably make them the most successful performers in show-business history.

"We'll make as much this year," Jerry said calmly.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Jan. 28, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Compliments and a bit of flattery may be evident today. Mind how you accept or shun things, your attitude generally will influence results.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Here is a day for strictly minding those Ps and Qs, for not speaking "out of turn," or antagonizing anyone needlessly. No needless rushing or anxiety.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — How you start this day will greatly affect returns and the substantiality of next week's activities. No time like now for present obligations, but don't force.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Know who are your real friends, (those who will sub-flatter for your favor, nor will pleasant things for the profit it may have). Don't waste time on affairs not suited to you.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Only do the things you think are pertinent to today's needs, or that are necessary for rightful plans. Matters that would overcrowd your day should be avoided.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Don't lean over backwards for the things you especially like to do, or those you wish to do to please. Note Taurus, your aspects similar now.

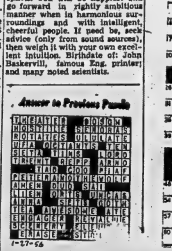
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Observe 311 rules properly laid down to benefit all, and that make affairs run smoothly generally. You may have a better reason for changes but you may also have to bow to others' wishes.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Don't try to do too many things at one time, for no matter how well you accomplish, you are straining your health, and eventually it may have bad effects. Use today for some reviewing.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — If at all possible enjoy time with children, old folks; both refresh mind and body. Give some time to worthy interests.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Sometimes we hurry when we cannot avoid it, but many times we can avoid it by getting matters attended to earlier and how nice to be when the deadline hour comes. Aim for better system.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Look for the little things that can please and do good to soul, mind and heart. Enjoy whatever you must do and it will seem easier. Be cheerful and unrushed.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Isn't it a wonderful feeling to do your best and know that it helps both you and those about you? Today begs all your kindness (plus sagacity) and tolerance (while protecting principles).

You born today: A versatile mind, and a logical one. Natural leanings for high success, and if living true to your many abilities will achieve, sometimes against surprising odds. Never let fear of criticism or defeatism down your spirits. You can be happiest and go forward in rightly ambitious manner when in harmonious surroundings and with intelligent, cheerful people. If pad be seek advice (only from sound sources), then weigh it with your own excellent intuition. Birthdate of: John Baskerville, famous Eng. printer; and many noted scientists.

RIVER VALLE W.I. EUCHRE
STIRLING — On Friday evening Mrs. Rose Doan convened another euchre party at River Valley School House for River Valley Women's Institute. There were eight tables in play. Four guests were in attendance from Toronto and Wellman's.

The prizes were donated by Mrs. and Mrs. J. A. Donohoe and were won as follows:

Ladies' first, Mrs. John Kane, second Mrs. Ed. Heaman; men's high, Billy Conley, second John Kane.

Refreshments were served by Institute members and a social half hour enjoyed.

"Happy Birthday" was sung at midnight for Mrs. John Kane, as Saturday, January 21st, was her birthday.

Another party will be held on Friday evening.

RIVER VALLEY
"SOCIETY GALS"

River Valley 4-H Club "Society Gals" convened recently in the school house under the leadership of Mrs. George Brownell and Mrs. Phil Conley, for their first meeting in 1956.

The girls repeated in unison, "I pledge—My head to clearer thinking, My heart to greater loyalty; my hands to larger service; my health to better living, for my club, my community and my country."

The leader discussed "Introductions Made Properly," and a practice meeting was held in order for the girls to understand right procedure in such matters.

Plans were made for "Achievement Day" in Stirling Community Hall on Saturday, February 25th.

Miss Phylis David of Toronto spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. H. C. David.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bush, Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bush and other relatives and attended River Valley euchre party Friday evening.

Mrs. Frank Keagle of Hoards, spent a few days with her father, Mr. C. M. Sine.

Mr. Jas. Hilton, Lindsay, renewed acquaintances in Stirling on Saturday.

Mrs. A. E. Good and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Good recently enterained at tea at the home of Mrs. Lewis, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewis, North Gower.

The King George, Stirling, High School students recently enjoyed a delightful dance in the school auditorium, Jack Rose and his Melody Aires provided the music.

Tom Patterson, a medical student at Queen's University, Kingston, was a dinner guest on a recent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker, Toronto. Rev. Baker has been supply minister at St. Enid's United Church, Toronto, on two Sundays recently.

Miss Mary Montgomery, of Frankford, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher.

Mr. J. B. Belshaw has been appointed chairman of Centre Hastings High School Area.

Bethel United Church S.S. Re-organizes

RAWDON—The re-organization of Bethel United church Sunday school took place on Sunday morning with the following slate of officers: superintendent, Mrs. Donald Heath; assistant superintendent, Mrs. John Mulhern and Robert Trenear; secretary-treasurer, Miss Donalda Heath; Missionary convener, Miss Ellen Trenear; temperance convener, Mrs. Edgar McKeown; pianist, Miss Donalda Heath; assistant, for alternate Sundays, Ronald Heath and Barbara Heath.

Teachers—Primary, Mrs. Edgar McKeown; Beginners, Mrs. W. N. Heath; Juniors, Mrs. Francis Reid; Boys' Intermediates, Miss Joyce Reid; Girls' Intermediates, Mrs. Stewart Hoover; Adult Bible Class, Mrs. John Mulhern. "floating" teachers, Misses Barbara Hadley, and Shirley Cooney; Mr. Robert Trenear, and Mrs. Thomas Laycock.

West Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON. — The Royal Weaver Chapter of L.O.L. No. 3, Central Hastings, met for the annual meeting in lodge of L.O.L. No. 300, West Huntingdon on Wednesday evening. W. C. Russell Bills presided. There was a good attendance from each of the five lodges in the district.

Following the routine business P.C. Milton Reid, conducted the election and installation of officers. The 1955 officers were re-appointed for 1956.

CHEESE MANUFACTURING CO.

The annual meeting for the West Huntingdon Cheese Manufacturing Company, was held on Friday afternoon in the auditorium of L.O.L. No. 300, with a good attendance of stockholders and a number of visitors present.

Mr. Arthur Wilson was chairman for the meeting and Mr. Vincent Farrell secretary. In minutes of the past year's activities.

Mr. Russell Bills gave the auditor's report, which revealed that due to the short season, not quite as much milk was received as the past year.

Mr. Greg Pollard, local inspector for this area, was present and gave an informative address, stressing the need of farmers staying with the cheese industry. He predicted that this coming year would be much better than some of the previous years, like all other industries, the cheese industry will be facing some acute problems.

Mr. Ted Pollock, president of the Beulah Cheese Company; Mr. Hazard Gardiner, director of the Evergreen Cheese Company, and Mr. Clifford Hagerman, each gave short addresses. The last year's directors were re-appointed for 1956 by the auditor elected. It was decided to leave the price of the milk routes till the spring meeting.

ENDEAVORS CLASS

The Endeavors Class held its regular meeting on Thursday evening at Sarah and Arthur Wilson's home. The new president, Mrs. Norman Bird, presided and was assisted in the worship period by Mrs. Russell Sills, reading of the Scripture lesson and Mr. Philip Carr, offering prayer. Following the business period, the Rev. C. R. Chapman, presided and was chairman for the congregational meeting of the church.

Reports from all the various departments were received and revealed that each was functioning successfully.

Officers were elected for the coming year with few changes from last year.

At the close refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett and Marilyn, attended the Burris-Strickland wedding at St. Thomas' church, Belleville, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Arthur Wilson attended an agency meeting of Zurich Insurance Company at Peterborough on Tuesday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sarles, Ross and David, of Picton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles.

Mrs. Russell Danford of Belleville, spent a few days this week with her sister, Mrs. Philip Carr.

Mrs. Frank Hammond and Doreen Bennett, spent a few days last week with friends at Madoc.

Congratulations to Mr. Elmer Wood, popular reeve, on being elected warden of Hastings County.

Mr. Philip Carr attended the Michigan Gun Club meeting on Saturday and spent Sunday with his daughter, William Carr, of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McInroy were Sunday guests of Mr. Harry Campion of Marmora.

Mr. Frank Hammond was on jury duty at Belleville, a few days recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett called to see Mr. and Mrs. William Irvine and Mrs. Peter McInroy of Tweed, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott and Connie of Frankford, were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a walk with pop for his appetite, and on the way back we were passing the market, and pop said, That reminds me, your mother wants a loaf of bread.

And we went in, and there was 30 different kinds of bread spread out in the bakery department, and pop said, I dont seem to recall just which loaf your mother mentioned, so this is my chance to do my good deed for the day. I'll take some poor little neglected bread that nobody ever sings about on the radio. I'll take that there Be Kind to Bread Week. I think I'll take a loaf of this Mother Johnson bread. That's a brand I never heard of, he said.

Aw now pop, they sing about that every day, I said. I know all the singing commercials, I'm always singing them.

And I sang him the commercial for Mother Johnson bread, being, Mother Johnson's bread is pure, Enough and more than enough, Because Ma Johnson bakes it just for you and you and you.

That's too bad, pop said. Well, maybe Dottie Dimple bread needs a helping hand, he said, and I said, No sir, I'll sing you about it.

Which I did, being, Sister Sue and Dottie Dimple and Uncle Fred Wont eat their toast unless it's made with Dottie Dimple bread.

For Pete sake, isn't there any bread on this assembly line you cant sing about? pop said, and I said, Well, I dont remember anything about Sweetheart bread.

He take a loaf, pop said, and he paid for it at the checking counter, and the man said, Dottie Dimple bread, heh heh heh, and he cackled. That just shows the value of advertising, he said.

Proving it's not always easy to do a good deed.

CAMPBELLFORD

Small Town Industrial Expansion' Topic at Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD. — The Rotary club members of the Campbellford club listened with interest to Mayor J. Burnett Osbourg, on Monday at the noon luncheon, when he discussed the problem of the small town and industrial expansion.

He said that "first and foremost we must consider whether or not we want a new industry, and why. There are many who take the attitude that we have a beautiful town, we don't want to be more concerned with business than with friendship, or with money more than community spirit?" he said. He pointed out that the friendship angle is perhaps more apparent than real and although the quiet life has its points, it leads to stagnation.

COMMUNITY EXPANSION

Community expansion is said to make it hard for the small merchant. Actually, if he is efficient, the reverse is more often true. It brings more chain stores, keener competition, but it also brings more buyers. The big reason for expansion is a personal one. It encourages our young folk to make names in their own community, by reason of the fact that there is room created for them.

"Securing industry is a highly competitive business. The natural question is what does industry require and by what factors are representatives of industry attracted?" the speaker enquired. "The obvious ones are, a good site; a competent and adequate labor supply; essential services; shipping and transport facilities; churches and cultural activities, and what is so often under estimated—planned recreational facilities for the young and old." The speaker made particular mention of a golf course.

"In trying to sell your community to a prospective industry, there should be not more than one or two men represent the corporation. Adequate brochures should be designed to answer all the questions a prospective might wish to ask.

SITE IMPORTANT

"Important, too, is the question of site. Industrial sites should be grouped in an area designed for industry, not scattered all over the community. The community may purchase land for this purpose under new regulations."

The new Regional Development Board may help, but the speaker did not count too much on it. The onus of expansion will still be on the municipality itself. Contacts with existing agencies such as the railways, banks, provincial and federal governments, must be steadily pursued.

"Industrial expansion," concluded the speaker, "need not mean confusion. We can have a growing, thriving community that's happy, comfortable, Christian homes if we plan wisely and work assiduously for industrial expansion."

Mayor R. J. Locke introduced the speaker, who was thanked by Rotarian George Fren.

CAMPBELLFORD

Grand Old Lady Reaches 99th Milestone

CAMPBELLFORD — Mrs Phoebe Bedford, one of the oldest residents of this district, celebrated her 99th birthday on Saturday.

Mrs. Bedford has been a patient at Mrs. F. E. Peters' Rest Home for the past 12 years, and although she is confined to her bed most of the time because of an amputation, her health is remarkably good. Although she is nearly blind, and her hearing is failing, her mind is active and alert. She can remember and discuss intelligently events which took place over half a century ago.

ALWAYS CHEERFUL

Mrs. Peters, nursing and rest home proprietress, says the elderly lady is a model patient, and much less trouble than most. She explained that she is always bright and cheerful and does not appear to know the meaning of pain. "She has never had an ache or a pain by since I've known her—not even a headache", said Mrs. Peters.

Mrs. Bedford was born in England on January 21, 1857. Her maiden name was Phoebe Soar. She came to Canada with her parents at the age of 12 and settled in Rawdon, after which she moved to Seymour Township. In 1878 she married the late Thomas Bedford, who died in 1912. Mrs. Bedford then went to live with one of her two sons, Bert, of Stirling, for more than 40 years, before moving to the Campbellford rest home. Her other son, William, lives in Montreal.

DRIVES TEAM OF OXEN

Mrs. Bedford can remember driving a team of oxen to Belleville to obtain supplies shortly after she settled in Seymour. She also remembers "Winters that would make this look like Spring", and although she was somewhat excited over her 99th birthday, she is looking forward to her 100th birthday next year. "We should wait until next year to celebrate", she said, "I'm only 99 now".

Scores of friends called to see the old lady during the week, and each year Mrs. Peters has a birthday cake for her.

She received many cards and messages of congratulations.

MARSH HILL

Community Friends Honor Bride-to-Be

MARSH HILL — On Saturday evening Mrs. Ila Brown was hostess with Mrs. Berson Mitts, as co-hostess, when the ladies of the Marsh Hill community met at Mrs. Brown's home to honor Miss Gena Vanderwater, bride-to-be.

The bride-to-be was seated in a chair beautifully decorated in pink and white.

Miss Barbara Brown read an appropriate verse to Miss Vanderwater and then asked each guest to give Gena advice on how to be happily married.

Miss Mary Lou Reid read "Wedding Creations," by Edgar Guest.

Two contests were also enjoyed by the guests, after which Mrs. Berson Mitts spoke briefly and a presentation of two lovely woollen blankets was made to the guest of honor, who thanked all for the beautiful gifts.

After the singing of "For She Is a Jolly Good Fellow", refreshments were served.

Farmers Best Short-Range Weather Experts

TORONTO (CP)—A professional weatherman said Wednesday that farmers are the best short-range experts in the business.

Fred Turnbull, chief weather forecaster for the Toronto area, told the annual Ontario Crop and Soil Improvement Association convention that farmers, depending on natural ability and experience, have no peers when it comes to predicting weather for short periods.

Official forecasters, he said, have developed the science of long-range predicting to a high degree but there is no immediate indication that weather can be controlled.

Surveys in areas where seeding of clouds produced rain showed there was no proof that rain-makers had increased the natural fall. In some cases the fall was less than in areas where seeding methods were not used.

NEED PROTECTION

In a companion-convention of the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers Association, a United States implement dealer said every segment of a country's economy should have some form of protection. John A. Burton, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Implement Dealers Association, said this does not always mean the protection should be supplied through government subsidies.

Farmers today must be businessmen and their protection should result from adopting economic methods to cut production costs and boost profit margins.

More than $1,000,000 worth of machinery is on display here. Among new devices shown are: The mechanical squirrel, a mobile elevator which travels at three miles an hour and which can lift fruit pickers 18 feet high.

FRANKFORD

Lions' Governor, Whitney Martin, Visits Club

FRANKFORD — Last Wednesday evening, a good attendance of members and visitors welcomed the visit of District Governor Lion Whitney Martin, of Bancroft, Ontario. Five visiting Lions from the Belleville Club assisted in this welcome of the District Governor on his official visit, also to be hosted to Secretary General of Lions International, Lion Melvin Jones, the founder of Lionism.

The month of January is known as "Founder's Birthday month," and it is one month in the year, when all Lions clubs are asked to increase membership, thereby doing honor to the Founder. Five new members were added to the rolls for the local club. The new members, Jack Hughes, Jerry Foster, Norman Ackles, and two representatives of the C. N. R., Mr. Hill and Boyd Williamson will be inducted at the next meeting.

The travelling Lion which has been in the local club for a few months was retrieved by the member Lion Bentley Club. Second vice-president, Lion Tom Golden, presented the Lion, on behalf of the Bellevville members from Lion President Roy Moran.

Lion Vice President, Art Duncan, conducted the usual sing-song with Lion Hoit Madill at the piano.

INTRODUCES D. G.

Lion Deputy District Governor, Jim Johns, in introducing the District Governor, spoke of the excellent work being done by the 38 clubs which the Governor visits officially in Regions 10 and 11. Lion Whitney Martin, spoke of the great lumbering industry, of which he is a part, in opening his address to the club. "Lionism," he said, "is well known through the Commonwealth. This is particularly interesting when you get and meet representatives of nearly all the countries in the world attending International Conventions. The last one being at Atlantic City, where the local club was represented by our own member and Deputy District Governor, Lion Jim Johns. These conventions are creating better international relations throughout the world."

Lion Past President, Ed Loucks, expressed the thanks of the club to the guest speaker.

The century club winners for the month of January were Lions Art Wynne and Frank Cleveland. Lion Leonard Reid, previously appointed captain of the rifle team, spoke of the approaching inter-club shooting match to be held in Belleville on Wednesday night, February 22, between all the clubs in region 11E and 11W.

Lion Cecil Farrer gave a resume of the club financial standings.

Several of members were obliged to leave the meeting early to work at the rink during the hockey match.

The Lions Arena is being patronized by large numbers who enjoy the hockey and skating. The local club is preparing for an ice carnival to be held some time in February.

Archbishop Roy Named Primate

OTTAWA (CP) — Most Rev. Maurice Roy, archbishop of Quebec, has been named Primate of Canada by Pope Pius XII.

The new status for Archbishop Roy and the raising of the metropolitan see of Quebec to primatial see of Canada were announced Thurs. by Most Rev. Giovanni Panico, apostolic delegate to Canada, at a meeting of administrative board of the Canadian Catholic Conference, the organization of Catholic archbishops and bishops in Canada.

Archbishop Roy has headed the Quebec see, mother see in North America of the Roman Catholic Church, since 1947. He celebrated his 51st birthday Wednesday.

He now ranks as senior Catholic archbishop in Canada behind James Cardinal McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto, James Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, and the apostolic delegate.

Archbishop Roy, decorated by the British, French, Belgian and Netherlands governments for his wartime service, was the first Canadian chaplain to be overseas during the Second World War. He sailed as chaplain of the Royal 22nd Regiment four days after war was declared.

SECOND SESSION 25TH LEGISLATURE OPENS TUESDAY

Two Issues May Cause Lively Sittings

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The second session of Ontario's 25th legislature opens Tuesday with Premier Frost backed by the second largest majority in the body's history.

Progressive Conservative members in the 98-seat House number 84; there are 11 Liberals and one CCF party members. The only Ontario government with more supporters was the Mr. Howard Ferguson Conservative regime, which in 1929 elected 89 members.

At least two issues—reform in assistance and toll roads—may cause lively sittings this session.

Among important legislation mentioned in Premier Frost's speech to introduce are the setting up of a crown company to build a natural gas pipeline through northern Ontario and the start of a health insurance plan.

IRRIGATION POSSIBILITY

Some observers say action also will be taken to begin a large-scale irrigation program in southwestern Ontario.

A record number of private members' bills, 23, has been prefiled for consideration at the legislature. Many have been presented on behalf of municipalities.

A select committee appointed last year to look into the possibility of banning strikes against by tolls is expected to make an interim report.

The government's highway program, a prime opposition target in years, may be criticized again this year. Some observers predict a highway budget of $200,000,000. $25,000,000 more than last year.

CCF charges levelled at the reforms Institutional department are expected to be aired. Provincial CCF leader Donald C. Macdonald has said prisoners in some institutions are injured and long neglect has accused department officials of intervening politically in staff matters.

HAS DENIED CHARGES

Reforms Minister Foote has denied the charges.

It is expected the Liberal Opposition may question the government about the cost of the Hydro changeover in some southern Ontario districts from 25 cycles to 60 cycles.

Earl Wintermeyer, Liberal member for Waterloo North who was elected to the legislature for the first time in last year's election, will be a key figure for the Opposition as the lone opposition financial critic for the party, and will lead the debate on the government's budget.

There has been one by-election since the legislature's opening June 9. James A. Maloney won the Dufferin-Simcoe seat for the Conservatives three weeks ago. The seat was left vacant by the death of James L. Simpson, an Independent Conservative.

The session met once last summer in what was one of the shortest sessions on record. It met for only 11 days, including committee.

There are 30 new members in the legislature, 23 Conservative, five Liberal and two CCF.

PLAN CD TESTS

EDMONTON (CP) — Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, chief of staff defence co-ordinator, says mass evacuation tests similar to the one in Calgary last year are planned for other Canadian cities this year.

Russia and Italy Out in Front Win 3 Olympics Gold Medals

By KEN METHERALL

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Russian speed skaters and women cross-country skiers and Italian bobsledders lived up to advance notices today as they won three gold medals at the start of winter Olympics.

Eugeni Grischin, Moscow engraver, broke the Olympic and world records in winning the 500-metre speed-skating sprint in 40.2 seconds.

However, the honor of winning the first gold medal for Russia—competing for the winter Olympics for the first time — went to a woman cross-country skier, Ljubov Kozyreva, who covered the 10-kilometre (six miles, 376 yards) course along the Ampezzo valley in 39 minutes, 11 seconds.

Italy's daring bobsledders flashed their one-two in the two-man bob race with jet pilot Lamberto Dalla Costa winning with a total time of 5:30.14 for the four heats down the 1,700-metre (one mile, 109 yards) chute. Eugenio Monti was second with 5:31.45.

Canada fans were entered in only the 500-metre speed-skating race as Lake Morency, Sandy Sands of Saskatoon, top Canadian sprinter, caught his skate on rough ice and fell. He was not hurt.

Behind off the ice, Canada got the best time for the Canadians—43.2 seconds — but was far down the list.

The old Olympic record for the 500, held by Finn Helge Bronken-way, was 43.1, while the recognized world record is 40.8, set by another Russian, Yuri Sergeyev, began a year ago.

Sergeyev was clocked in 41.1 for fourth place today while another Russian, Rafael Gratch, was second in 40.8, and Ale Bietzweg of Norway was third in 41 seconds flat.

Predictions that records would fall, chiefly because of the exceptionally good condition of the ice, were borne out by the fact that only half of 27 competitors, 13 broke the Olympic record set in 1948 at Oslo.

With a 1-3-4 finish in both the 500-metre run and the women's cross-country, the Russians accumulated 56 points, taking a big lead with 48 points in the unofficial team standings. Points are based on 10 for first and 5-4-3-2-1 for the next five places.

Italy and Finland with 15 points each, are tied for second, followed by Germany with 10. Austria with 9, Sweden 7, each in the United States and Switzerland, 6's each, Norway 4, Spain, 3, and Canada, 1.

Miss Kozyreva had been favored in the women's cross-country ski race. Radija Erozchina of Russia was second in 39 minutes, 18 seconds followed, by Sonja Edstrom, Swedish nurse, by 39:37. Another Russian, Alevtina Kolchina, was fourth in 38:46. No Canadians or American entered in the 5-kilometre event.

Lucille Wheeler, the St. Jovite, Que., redhead, won Canada's first and only point in the unofficial ladies' slalom finish as she finished behind German's Ossi Reichert and Lucy Rueegg-Wolf. It was Canada's best showing in a ski event ever since the winter Olympics began.

HOUSE DISPUTE OVER GRAIN AID AT BOILING POINT

Opposition Plumps For Cash Advances

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons dispute over the merits of cash advances versus government-guaranteed bank loans as a means of helping money-short prairie farmers still boils.

Tuesday debate Friday reached no conclusion on a government resolution preliminary to a bill which would ratify action, started last Nov. 15, to guarantee bank loans on the West's big stocks of farm-stored grain.

The result: Introduction of the measure was put aside at least until next Friday, the earliest debate can be resumed. Tuesday and Wednesday have been reserved for an external affairs debate and Thursday and Friday are set aside for private members' proposals.

WANT ADVANCES

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties Friday plumped for the Liberal-CCF-Social Credit farm grain stocks, administered by the Canadian wheat board which markets nearly all prairie wheat.

Trade Minister Howe defended the government policy of guaranteeing bank loans and said interest charges are "comparable to a gross misuse" of board/funds giving western grain growers a privilege enjoyed by no other farmers.

Debate also continued on a bill sponsored by Agriculture Minister Ausinbola) to reduce maximum interest charges from 6 per cent to loans companies from 24 to 12 per cent annually. No conclusion was reached on the measure set aside for private members' bills.

Mr. Howe became an upswing in wheat shipments, which would provide more storage space, permitting grain to move off the farms. He said he expects Canada's share of the British wheat market this year will be bigger than ever.

He predicted that, if rail shipments are adequate, western farmers will deliver as much wheat to the elevators this winter as they did in the 1954-55 year ended July 31. That amount was 320,000,000 bushels—"a good average year."

GRAIN CLEARANCES

There would be record grain clearances from Atlantic ports and Churchill, Man., this year, Howe said. Ports would be "strained to capacity" to get the grain moving and there would be an excellent shipping program from the Great Lakes, but there is fear, he said.

"The big problem is not selling wheat, but transportation," Mr. Howe said.

Opposition parties unanimously criticized the government policy by which the treasury guarantees bank loans to grain growers only up to $1,500 at five-per-cent interest. The program, running to June 1, 1955, would cover a maximum $50,000,000 in loans.

Opposition Leader Drew said the plan is inadequate and unsatisfactory. But Progressive Conservatives would not oppose passage of the measure because they did not want to "be responsible" for what might give.

Mr. Howe said the government is obligated to provide cash advances because it requires wheat farmers to deliver their entire crop through the wheat board. Because farmers have no choice as to customers, they could not get payment, as in other businesses, after, was not the only owner of the grain as soon as it was harvested.

He said the cash situation is serious. Nearly 500,000,000 bushels of wheat were stocked on prairie farms.

Mr. Argue said no one except Mr. Howe and the Liberals try to say that guaranteed loans will solve the problem.

Million Africans Roar Greetings To Queen, Duke

Royal Tour of Nigeria Opens in Sweltering Lagos

By RONALD BATCHELOR

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) — A million Africans roared greetings to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh beneath a sweltering midday sun today at the start of the three-week royal tour of Nigeria.

The Queen, shaded by a cream parasol and looking cool in a pink-and-white silk dress, drove through the narrow, twisting streets of Lagos in a maroon Rolls Royce, open at the top.

Queen Elizabeth and the duke arrived by air just before 10 a.m. for their visit to this British protectorate and colony which has never before been visited by a sovereign.

Along part of the 14-mile beflagged route from the airport to Government House, the gigantic crowd danced and swayed to the rhythm of African drums.

The little girl who was supposed to hand a bouquet to the Queen was so overcome by nervousness that her legs folded under her and she did a somersault. The Queen picked her up, helped her out and the tot scrambled to her feet.

DUKE FASCINATED

Dan Ofon Ikpeng Adenlji-Adele II, whose family has ruled in Lagos for 200 years, told the Queen that the city had received "the best British sovereignty until today "it can proudly claim to be one of the jewels in Your Majesty's realms and territories."

In reply, the Queen said "we are glad to be among the people of this royal city which for many centuries have belonged to the large family of the British Commonwealth."

The duke was fascinated by an enormous golden silk umbrella held over the chief. He stopped to admire the chief's gilt and crimson crown and his horse's-tail switch before following the Queen to a crowded pavilion where white-capped hereditary princes of Lagos bowed their welcome.

Advocates Open Door Policy for Mental Patients

By FRANK CARET
Associated Press Science Reporter

MONTREAL (AP)—One of North America's leading psychiatrists advocates continuous tests by mental hospitals to see "how far you can go" in eliminating locked doors so that patients could be free to leave anytime they might wish.

Dr. D. Ewen Cameron said Friday he believes that an "open door policy" to the highest extent possible with the idea of "giving back responsibility to the patients themselves" and with the idea that although give opportunity to leave "they would not want to."

Dr. Cameron is director of the Allan Memorial Institute, the psychiatric division of the Royal Victoria Hospital. The institute is operated as an "open hospital."

OPEN TREND

He told a group of science writers touring psychiatric institutes in the United States and Canada that a trend toward the "open door" psychiatric hospitals has been growing steadily in recent years but that, in his opinion, there are possibilities for extension.

"The tendency of (many) psychiatrics," he said, "has been to legislate for the exceptional persons among the mentally ill (in advocating locked doors). But there are those of us who have tried to legislate for the good of the majority. He said the "open door policy" is successfully operating at the Allan Memorial Institute and "we accept all kinds of patients."

"Our only limitation is that the patient should be willing to come," he said.

In advocating further tests by hospitals to see how far such a system can be extended Dr. Cameron said it is obvious that a "frankly homicidal" patient, for example, should not be free to come and go.

Wealthy Ontario's Prospects Feature Hearings on Economy

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Visualize an area containing one-third of the country's population producing one-half of the country's factory-made goods.

Visualize that same area, so highly productive that it yields one-half of the country's direct taxes, the bulk on incomes of individuals and corporations.

That's the story of Ontario, its present and its future possibly for at least another 10 or 20 years, the industrial heartland of Canada, the bulwark of its industrial wealth.

The royal commission on Canada's economic future, which begins Monday the second half of its two-week stay here, now has visited the entire country, from coast to coast.

ONTARIO TOPS

expansion in other parts of Canada, but nowhere has it found the industrial heartbeat in Ontario.

Industry attracts population. The great build-up area of metropolitan Toronto estimated its population will double in some 21,000,000 in 25 years. The province believes Ontario's population will grow by some 5,000,000 in the next 10 years to 8,184,000.

Ontario also expects to expand her manufacturing industries, to compete and keep pace with expansion in the United States.

Metropolitan Toronto estimated her expansion will require public outlays of some $1,800,000,000 in new capital in the next quarter-century. Her motorists face the prospects of a special tax of $10 a year, unless the municipality can get extra help from the province and federal government.

HUGE EXPENDITURE

The province looks to the federal treasury. Premier Leslie Frost estimated that in the next 10 years, Ontario will have to spend between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 for the extension and improvement of public services.

Ontario has long been called Canada's wealthiest province. What the federal government has failed to recognize, said Mr. Frost, is that the province pays nearly half the country's direct taxes, most of them go to the federal treasury, the province gets only a small share "even though it must commit itself to huge expenditures to conserve and develop resources.

Clear Stockyards Of Hog Jam at 23 cts. Pound

TORONTO (CP) — Stockyards Friday were cleared of the last remnants of a hog-jam caused by a week-long price dispute between major packers and the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board and Association. More than 4,000 hogs were sold.

The association said Monday that grade A hog prices would be $24.50 a hundredweight, an increase of $1.50 over last week's prices.

Packers refused to accept the hogs and to protest the price, sent them to the stockyards. They said today that an overflow at Toronto Yards Thursday resulted in illegitimate trade. A carryover of 4,136 equalled a normal week's run.

Last week 2,400 hogs were shipped to yards here.

Charles McInnis, president of the hog co-op, said the figures looked good to him. "The bulk of hogs sold at the price we set." The association had won a "huge victory." Prices Friday closed at $23 a hundredweight.

HOG LEVY ASKED

"There were hogs left over in the stockyard," he said, "and they were sold at 23 cents a pound to clear the yard."

The backlog of hogs marketed in Kitchener and Toronto yards, he said, were sold at the agency's request.

Albert Cormack, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, said Friday in a press release from Arthur that farmers should support the agency and not sell their hogs at less than 24 cents a pound.

Cold-storage holdings of pork were 4,000,000 Jan. 1, he said, and there was no reason for low prices. Hog prices had declined 30 per cent during the last two years while consumer earning power had increased.

Canada Packers said Wednesday that hog supply exceeded demand and deliveries were heavy.

Ford Plant Flood and Fire Causes Damage in Millions

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Damage was counted in millions of dollars figures today from flood, explosion and fire that racked Ford Motor Co.'s coast assembly plant here Friday, turning the area into a floating inferno.

R. C. Patterson, plant manager, estimated that $3,000,000 worth of parts were destroyed. Others said full loss at the huge installation has not been determined.

Firemen, working knee-deep in a waist-deep in the fire-created waters, built dams for the fire to burn while firetrucks played hoses on the blaze.

Four men were injured, but not seriously.

Arsonists said the plant will be out of operation for at least two months. Only a few of the 1,800 employees were present at the time of the explosion.

Weakened by this week's storm that dumped more than six inches of rain, huge dikes collapsed, flooding the 72-acre factory area with oil-slick water.

The site normally holds back sea water. The plant grounds are 8½ feet below sea level, having been subsided in recent years because of the extraction of oil from huge pools underneath.

Merging with more oil in nearby Dominguez Slough, the waters shorted out an electric transformer. That touched off explosions and the first in a series of explosions.

Flaming oil from one of the blasts ignited the corrugated iron building housing the power plant. The blaze surged through a building containing eight 6,000-gallon gasoline and paint-thinner tanks.

Fire roared through the drenched area, fed by the floating oil and burned furiously.

Elsewhere in the area, the flood was causing havoc with normal life, forced hundreds of families from their homes, disrupted traffic and business, were vanishing today. No more rain is expected immediately.

The storm brought 7.97 inches of rain here, record heaviest for 48 hours in the city's history. Only heavier fall was 8.23 recorded Dec. 31, 1933, and Jan. 1, 1934.

Schools and industrial plants which shut down Thursday remained closed today as flood conditions rescued by boats or forced to walk through knee-deep floods with waters were returning.

Must Buy Unwanted Aircraft To Keep Factories Operating

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department has reached a point it has been dreading for some time: It's going to have to sink millions of dollars into aircraft it doesn't want, there's no immediate requirement. Information was given that this will be cheaper in the long run than shutting down production lines and then having to reopen them when a newer type plane is ready for the assembly line.

The nine CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons for home defence now are completely equipped and the RCAF is beginning to put CF-100s into storage. A CF-100 costs about $500,000.

One informant said a further production cut may be necessary at A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. of Malton, Ont., manufacturer of the CF-100. Avro at one time was turning out 25 jet interceptors a month but this production scale was reduced last year to 10 a month.

This whole problem—keeping the factories busy—is the result of being equipped with the most modern planes—is one that continually bedevils the defence department.

Fighter squadrons need the latest-type aircraft if they are to be the first defence in event of war.

With hangars full of CF-100s, it is successful. Officials said Avro, designer of the delta-wing CF-105, is trying to secure with its new engine for the plane. The engine is expected to be three times more powerful than the Orenda engine that pushes the CF-100.

Defence Production Minister Howe has estimated that the CF-105 will cost $100,000,000 to produce and officials say it may be a lot higher. The CF-100 had cost $125,000,000 by the time the first one was delivered to the RCAF.

Policemen Will Be Given Free Rides on Cars

TORONTO (CP)—All uniformed and plainclothes policemen will be given free 45-day rides on city trams and buses in an effort to cut down vandalism and attacks on conductors.

Allen Lampert, Toronto Transit Commission chairman, said free transportation for city police, abolished 10 years ago, will return to provide added protection for passengers and operators.

More than 10 operators were abused or attacked on duty last year.

Guilty of Murder

CALGARY (CP) — Joseph de Baratky was found guilty Friday of the murder of his 14-year-old brother, and sentenced to be hanged May 1.

De Baratky was charged with the Dec. 22 ritual killing of his brother David on the municipal golf course.

Evidence was given that Joseph shot his brother twice in the head. He then reported to police that he and his brother had because "he couldn't stand the sight of him any more."

Fire Damage High In Quebec Town

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) A five-hour blaze, believed the result of a gas explosion in a furnace, early today destroyed two three-storey buildings in the business section of this Eastern Townships community for a loss unofficially estimated at $500,000.

The general-alarm fire, which gave reinforcement to volunteers helping St. Joseph and St. Simon join the Drummondville fire department, left a bright thrustward to wipe out an entire business block containing seven brick and wooden structures.

Fortunately, said fire officials, the weather was mild and winds were light — making it easier for the 50 firemen to battle and confine the blaze. No serious injuries were reported, but several persons, including firemen, suffered minor burns, cuts, bruises and shock.

Blind River Fires All Its Policemen For Shooting of 16 Dogs on Streets

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Town Council Friday night fired its entire three-man police force at a special meeting called to investigate the shooting of 16 dogs on the streets.

The council, on the recommendation of the local order committee, voted to dismiss Chief Constable Leo Trudeau and Constables Gerald Desmond and Raymond Desabrais.

The dismissals are effective March 1. Council decided the three men could re-apply for the jobs when vacancies occur.

About 225 persons attended the meeting, called after 16 dogs were destroyed by the two constables.

The shootings occurred after council passed a by-law authorizing the shooting of dogs found running at large, in violation of a recent outbreak of rabies in the district.

Chief Trudeau said he could not have had not authorized the shootings but was not aware they were going on.

The committee recommended his dismissal, however, for improper supervision which, it said, rendered him "unfit for office."

Constable Menard said he got orders to shoot the dogs direct from Chief Trudeau. Constable Desabrais said he could not shoot the dogs because "I'm not a butcher."

Mayor Wm. Hewitt, who presided at the meeting, said after it he was not satisfied with the council's decision.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A disturbance located in North Dakota this morning will move into northern Ontario tonight. It will be accompanied by a band of snow and increasing temperature. On Sunday, cold air moving south will begin invading northern sections and snow will continue unabated throughout the period.

Meanwhile, southern Ontario will also begin a warming trend today. Increasing cloudiness will be followed by some light snow Sunday. This snow will change to rain further the afternoon and there is some risk of freezing rain or drizzle before noon Sunday.

'Just as Good in Charlotte's City' As Riviera Glamor Invades Ottawa

Friday night as "Riviera" glamor invaded a big hotel for the annual May Court charity ball.

Today, Ottawans are singing new words—"Everything I Got in Good in Charlotte's City"—to an old tune "Everything's Up to Date in Kansas City"—and more than 1,500 guests, including Mayor Charlotte Whitton, have attended the gay cabaret-casino are leading the chorus.

Governor - General Massey touched a button that lit up a huge model of a Riviera casino, as chimes played softly and balloons were projected into the hotel lobby, to open the gala night that included a dinner, two shows by a 36-member cabaret and betting at various games of chance.

Many people, who have never spent a day in a medical university, foolishly believe that they can advise their friends how to treat an illness. They mean well, but can cause serious harm.

The proper diagnosis of a disease is an art that a Physician acquires only after years of study and internship training in a hospital. It is more important to treat the cause of an illness than to relieve discomfort, which is usually the most any self treatment accomplishes. When you are sick be guided by your physician.

John L. Foster Scholarship Goes To Apsley Boy

The President of the University of Toronto, Dr. Sidney Smith, announced that the Senate of the University has awarded the John Lewis Foster Scholarship of $250 for the session 1955-56 to E. G. Wilson, first year student in the Faculty of Forestry.

This is the second award of the scholarship, which has been established by Messrs. K. H. C.W., and C. B. Foster in memory of their father, John Lewis Foster, to encourage young men of scholastic and ability from the Counties of Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox-Addington, and Peterborough, to study Forestry with a view to the enlistment of their services in the management of the forest resources in this province.

This year the scholarship was awarded to Mr. Wilson on the basis of his standing in the Ontario Grade XIII examinations on entering the Faculty of Forestry from Peterborough County.

Edward George Wilson is 20 years old, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Wilson of Apsley, Ontario. He entered the first year of the Forestry course in September from Lakefield District High School.

John Lewis Foster was a well-known farmer who lived all his life at Moira, Ont. His son, Kenneth, Cloverdale and Carman established the scholarship in memory of their father.

Training School for Laboratory Technologists Will Be Opened

The Department of Pathology at the Belleville General Hospital will open a training school for laboratory technologist next week.

Approval of the two-year course was given Friday at the January meeting of the hospital's Board of Governors. Dr. A. H. Rea, director of the department of pathology, will direct training.

Two students will be accepted at once, a third student in September and two students each subsequent September. More students will be enrolled as facilities allow.

First year training will start with one week of orientation and will include eight weeks on the emergency service, eight weeks on urinalysis, 18 weeks of study of the blood and 16 weeks in the blood bank.

The second, or senior, year will include 16 weeks of bacteriology, 16 weeks of histology, one week of serology, 12 weeks and three weeks of general work.

Students will take written and oral examinations at the end of their course. The examinations are set by the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists. Successful students will receive a certificate from the society stating that they are registered technicians.

COMBINATION OF SCIENCES

Laboratory technology is a combination of several sciences. Varied but related activities are combined to contribute to medical diagnosis and treatment.

Students wishing to take the course must have senior matriculation with credits in general chemistry, physics or biology and any two of algebra, geometry or trigonometry. An interest in scientific work is a prime requisite.

The Belleville General Hospital was qualified to give the laboratory technology course in 1952.

Students in their first year will receive $55 a month. Three uniforms a year and books will be supplied. Second year students will receive $110 a month while completing their course. They will receive two weeks vacation with pay each year, or three weeks if they are on night service and will be given the same sick leave benefits as other members of the hospital staff.

Prospective students can apply for an interview in writing or in person by contacting Dr. A. N. Rota, Department of Pathology, Belleville General Hospital.

Great Industrial Expansion Forecast by Mayor McFarland

PICTON — Great industrial expansion in Prince Edward County was forecast by Mayor H. J. McFarland who was guest speaker at the annual meeting of Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce Monday night. He cited the county's favored location and unnatural assets, and the St. Lawrence Seaway development as factors which will contribute to the growth of this island county.

Mayor McFarland stated that it would be premature to be too optimistic concerning the location of a multi-million dollar industry, but if we are interested, on the High Shore, east of Picton — it is possible that I might be able to tell you that everything I have been working on for the last two or three years is in the bag. With the knowledge I have I hope to bring you together in a short time and tell you something definite.

First industry involved fifteen million dollars. Changes in specifications would increase this by additional three million dollars or more being involved. Hence the delay. If nothing happens 10 to 20 millions may be spent in Prince Edward and two hundred millions in Rochester, materials for the latter being supplied from Picton.

The mayor foresaw Picton's natural deep waterway as ideal for grain elevators when the seaway is completed.

PRESENTED WITH HAT

In appreciation of his services to town and county, the Chamber of Commerce presented Sydney McFarland with a tri-corner hat to go with his chain of office and Queen's velvet were earlier given him by friends. The Lord Mayor's type of hat was made to order in London, England.

Senator W. A. Fraser, Trenton, also a speaker, lauded the mayor as a public-spirited citizen. Later he advised that the harbor at Picton harbor would be improved with additional docking facilities, beautified, and a new waterfront park created if and when certain arrangements could be made with owners of such waterfront properties.

Both the mayor and the senator urged that jealousy be forgotten and that a united effort be made to advance the interests of the county.

The mayor, particularly, stressed the importance of a bridge connecting Prince Edward with the mainland to the east. He pointed out that with growth in industry it is essential that the new spur line to the Bethlehem Steel shipping point east of Picton be continued eastward to link with Napanee. If other industry comes, he felt the C.N.R. would see its interests in extending the line (which would necessitate a bridge connecting Prince Edward with Hastings).

"Let us get a bridge any place we can get a bridge, because until another bridge can be built elsewhere," the mayor said, obviously referring to those who favor a bridge at Glenora or Thompson's Pt.

"We cannot expect government to help us when we ourselves decide where we want it, without friction among ourselves, and the government cannot act in a site and build to the best advantage. We would have to make up our mind how we had all worked together; but we didn't know where we stood it. The provincial government would have paid 80 per cent of the cost of the causeway (at Deseronto bridge), Hastings and Prince Edward counties, 10 per cent each. I do believe the Federal government approval for the central span could have been arranged. But we couldn't see eye to eye. We wasted the big fellow and there. "We must pull together.

HARSH WORDS SAID

Both the mayor and senator had harsh words to say about certain Trenton interests who tried to prevent a jail (at Deseronto) to recent dispute over land owned by McFarland (in Trenton).

"The town of Trenton has some jealousy, one person working against the other," the senator said, has done more for Trenton than Senator Fraser" declared the mayor. He cited the air station and repair depot as evidence of the senator's endeavors.

"I would have given Trenton the property in dispute if they had approathed me properly; but not after the way they have treated me," declared the mayor.

Lt.-Col. G. L. - Vincent, O.C. Picton is also present. He said to show that the army is a big industry and growing. Camp population is 1,400 with 300 permanent staff 300 permanent civilian employees, 700 transit members. Payrolls of all kinds, purchases locally, hydro service, mean a total of four million dollars expended annually in Picton, he said.

Nick Weish gave results of the Fishing Hall of Fame competition. Sam Gentile reported for industrial committee; George Ward for Sales promotion and Mc-Blakely for business men's committee. H. G. Blakely for bridge committee. Phil Dodds moved a vote of thanks to President W. G. McLean for his efficient leadership as president during the past year.

Theatre Guild Offering Course In Acting

Want to learn how to act? Theatrically, that is?

The Belleville Theatre Guild is adding a course in acting and directing to its busy schedule.

Mr. A. Maynard Robinson, lecturer on play production at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, will start a series of participation programs at the Guild's meeting in the Victoria Memorial Library on Wednesday. It is hoped the series will continue for the remainder of the season.

Other Guild activity includes full-dress rehearsal of the cast of 30 for "The Man Who Came to Dinner", the famous Broadway comedy hit being directed by Syd Rose for presentation early in March.

Casting for a one-act workshop play "The Rat in the Bowler Hat" will take place at the Guild meeting next Wednesday. Mrs. S. Woodcock will direct the play which will be presented February 29th.

Price of Eggs Drops Slightly

Price of eggs dropped slightly on the local market Friday and Saturday.

Otherwise prices were unchanged with trading a little more active, due to the holiday week-end.

Eggs were down to 50 cents for extra large, 49 cents for large, 47 cents for mediums and 40 cents for pullets.

Potatoes and carrots were unchanged at 40 cents a six-quart basket; onions and potatoes sold at 50 cents a basket, with 75-lb. bags at $2.50. Wax beans were 15 cents a pint, 30 cents a quart; sauerkraut brought 25 cents a pint; cabbage sold for 20 cents per a head; celery was 10 cents a bunch, three for 25 cents. Parsnips were 50 cents a basket with turnips ranging from 10-15 cents each.

There was a light offering of apples, Spies, Spencers and McIntosh at 60 cents a basket; Spies and Delicious were 75 cents per basket; cooking apples were 50 cents for fowl, 55 cents for spring chickens with ducks 65 cents.

Police Blotter

A 62-year-old transient, John Delaney, who told police he had not fixed abode, was arrested yesterday and charged with entering a Moira Street residence.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. Cranwell, 12 Moira Street, heard a noise in the kitchen as she was working upstairs. She came downstairs to investigate and was just in time to see a man drop her purse through the door and disappear along Gordon St.

Mrs. Cranwell notified police and was able to give a good description of the intruder. An hour later the man was apprehended on College Street and charged with the offence.

The York Trading Company warehouse was entered during the night and although merchandise was scattered around on the top floor nothing was believed missing.

Entry to the building was gained by placing a plank from the top of a freight car to the warehouse, where a window was broken. The break-in was believed to be the work of children.

J. N. Yanover Hospital Board Chairman for Fifth Year

J. N. Yanover, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital for the past four years, was returned as chairman for a fifth term at the board's January meeting in the hospital yesterday.

W. Bruce Latimer was re-elected vice-chairman at the meeting.

Committee chairman elected for 1956 are: Finance, A. M. Haig; accounts receivable, H. P. Cane; properties, J. E. Buchan; supplies, Frank Domenico; public relations, A. J. Whitehead; personnel, Mrs. Lennox Smith; School of Nursing Advisory Committee, Mrs. W. C. Mikel.

"I am very appreciative of the honor of being voted chairman for another year," said Mr. Yanover in accepting the office.

"I feel I have had the utmost co-operation from the board in the past few years, and I hope you know this is not a job in which one sits and talks. We have a job to do and in the coming year the big job of completing, equipping and furnishing the new wing is before us. I am confident that with the co-operation of the board the new wing will be ready in October."

Mr. Yanover welcomed Mayor Jane Forrester and Warden Elmer Wood to the board as new members and congratulated Mr. Wood and H. McCabe, W. B. Latimer and Cecil Robinson, members of the new township, for their re-appointment to the board. He also expressed his pleasure at the re-appointment of Dr. W. B. Beattie to the board as representative of the Medical staff.

Dr. Beattie, president of the medical staff, read the recommendations of the medical staff executive for 1956. They are as follows: vice-president, Dr. J. S. Loynes; secretary-treasurer, Dr. J. Woodley; intern committee, Dr. R. L. W. Allore; pharmacy committee, Dr. J. Woodley; nurse education committee, Dr. J. B. McSherry; medical records committee, Dr. Woodley and Dr. J. Morphy.

Items of business discussed at the meeting included a new schedule of rates for laboratory charges which will be subject to revision again next year, further negotiations for new and adjustment in the contract of registered Dr. P. Labour.

Date of the annual meeting was set for Friday, March 23rd, at 8.00 p.m.

The board also approved the institution of a one-year training course for laboratory technicians.

W. B. Latimer moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Yanover and the medical administrator Kenneth Ross for their work during the past year.

Committees appointed for 1956 were:

Executive — J. N. Yanover, chairman; W. B. Latimer, A. E. Buchan, A. M. Haig, H. P. M. Cane, J. E. Buchan, Mayor Jane Mikel, Mrs. Lennox Smith, A. F. Whitehead, Dr. W. B. Beattie.

Finance — A. M. Haig, chairman; F. Domenico, Mayor Jane Forrester, Reeve Cecil Ketcheson, K. G. M. Ross, A. F. Whitehead.

Sweet memories linger around her grave,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
Just as kind, judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your home and all whom you knew.
A wonderful mother, that mother, Ben.

Ever remembered by son Ken, daughter-in-law Jean and grandchildren.

CLARKE. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Maggie Jane Clarke, who passed away January 28th, 1955.

Sweet memories shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all!
And though the days and years of few
They are filled with remembrance ever true.
Never remembered by Husband Ben.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown to me, for cards, flowers, cards, fruit and other treats and for the visits during my illness. Elmer Smith, Jr. Emerson and Bruce Bateman, Dr. H. R. Morphy and Staff, Nurses of Ward 3, Belleville Club and others. Also for the kind words and sides on 1st South and 1st West. Also for the many cards received during my recovery during my stay in the Belleville General Hospital. Again, thank you.

Local Pastor Will Experience Rugged Living on Northern Tour

By ALAN EDGAR HAW

The Reverend Laurie Price, co-pastor of Calvary Temple, left this week for Timmins where he will meet Reverend John Spillenaar, famed "Flying Preacher of the North," preparatory to an evangelistic tour by air of missionary outposts in the Hudson Bay region.

At Timmins there are Government institutions to be compiled with, such as inoculations and inspection of equipment and survival kits. Mr. Price will preach here several nights until the necessary formalities are completed. Then he will fly with Mr. Spillenaar from South Porcupine to Hearst, where they will pick up the Indian chief's son, who will act as interpreter. He speaks Cree and five known Indian and Eskimo dialects.

The first leg of their several thousand mile cruise will take them to Moosonee on James Bay, where the Indian Pentecostal Bible College is situated. Mr. Price will preach there one night. In their amphibian plane, appropriately named "Wings of the Gospel," they will then fly north-west to Fort Severn on Hudson Bay. Here are stationed two women Pentecostal missionaries, the only white missionaries who stay in the field all year round.

VISIT ESKIMO TRAPPERS

The next stop will be Pagwa River, then on to Churchill, where Mr. Price will preach at the army camp and the R.C.A.F. radar station. They will put down at several intermediate points for services amongst the Eskimo trappers and some travel will be made by dog team. Mr. Price stated that he would preach at noon hour, when the weather would not be as severe as at night; and it would be necessary to preach outdoors, as there is no room to stand up or to assemble more than a few people in the igloos.

The return trip will follow a more inland route to cover several Northern Manitoba and Ontario missionary stations. Mr. Price will speak two nights in an Anglican church, in co-operation with two Anglican clergymen from Toronto. The choir in this church is comprised entirely of Indians. At another lonely outpost they plan to spend the night with a Catholic priest, another heroic soul laboring for God in the bleak, white immensity of the North.

Having lived near James Bay for several years, this writer wondered what motivated Mr. Price to leave a beautiful church and comfortable parsonage in Belleville, to take such a hazardous air trip to the north in mid-winter.

In an interview with the local pastor a few days ago he told me that he was special speaker in camp meetings at Kirkland Lake last summer and Mr. Spillenaar had asked for special prayer that someone would go north and undertake an evangelistic campaign amongst the Indians and Eskimos, as no evangelist had been in the district for nine years.

"I felt that God was talking to my heart," said Mr. Price, "and as time went on the conviction grew that it was the will of God that I should go. I feel that no sacrifice is too great in order to take the Gospel to those neglected people. It is true that they need education and better living conditions, and the Government is doing its best to meet those needs, but in my estimation the greatest need is their souls' salvation."

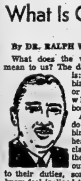
LIVE OFF COUNTRY

Asked if any provisions would be taken, Mr. Price said that they were not allowed to pack any food. "We will have to live off the country, and in order to win the confidence of the natives we must eat the same fare. This is an ordeal for any white man, as the Indians cut up animals without bothering to skin them and they stew everything up in a pot. My stomach isn't too strong, I hope I can take it."

"How about it when the Eskimos pass around the frozen fish and seal flippers?" I prompted, gently, not wanting to rub it in.

The pastor gulped a little. "Guess I'll just have to try and get used to it," he smiled, a bit sickly, I thought.

He further went on to say that they would be sleeping outside in sleeping bags and the weather could be expected to reach 55 to 60 degrees below zero. I would agree with him there, as I saw it 57 below once at Abitibi Canyon and the same night it was 73 below at Iroquois Falls.



Mr. Price plans to take moving pictures during his trip, which he will bring back to Belleville to show the people. A special missionary offering was taken at Calvary Temple last Sunday evening, when $500.00 was raised to help defray the expenses of the evangelistic campaign. It was explained that aviation gasoline costs $1.50 per gallon up north and, of course, no offerings can be expected in the field.

A Lift for Living

What Is Our Birthright?

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

What does the word birthright mean to us? The definition I read is: "Right by birth: a privilege or possession into which one is born."

And what rights do we have at birth? When we hear so many clamoring for their rights without giving thought to their duties, some persons I know feel inclined to the view that rights are only privileges conferred by society on those who earn them. And certainly we cannot stress strongly enough the truth that rights involve duties and obligations.

Nevertheless, can we deny that there are certain divine rights which are ours at birth? The child is born into the world not by its own request. God and the parents who cooperate with Him in creating the child are responsible for its coming. Less than human would be the parents who having brought a child into the world, did not feel concerned to take care of it during its helplessness.

And Jesus pictured God as a Heavenly Father more eager than earthly parents to give good things to His children. Therefore, natural instinct, confirmed and heightened by Christian teaching, makes us resound to the rightful claim of children for the care necessary to launch them out of the harbor of life where they can sail under their own power. Thus every child has a birthright.

DOES NOT OWE LIVING

The world does not owe every child a living, but it does owe it access to the things by which life can be lived. That is the child's birthright. Forty-two years ago Dr. Richard Cabot wrote a book in which he lists four things as the factors by which men live.

The first is work. When the author says work is one of the things men live by, he does not mean merely that we have to work to support ourselves. He is saying rather that without work we do not really live. We live to work even more truly than we work to live. Human energies turn in on themselves destructively if they have nothing to work on.

One of my most interesting friends is a man of leisure, who probably has never held a paid position in his life. But he is not content to be idle and useless. He is ever helping his friends, looking up useful information, doing unusual things. The desire to be of use, to find one's place in the world's economy, is a part of our native endowment; and the person who is denied it is being deprived of part of his birthright.

RIGHT TO PLAY

The second thing by which we live is play. The right to play is part of a child's birthright. The child who has no place to play is being deprived of his God-given right. The child who has no one to play with is being stunted in his development. The child with no guidance to play will likely fall in to habits of willfulness and wastefulness which will handicap his future.

And now along with work and play, there is a third thing men live by. That is love. We are made for love, and without it we are denied our birthright.

It is hard to imagine a child born into a home which denies it love. Try to imagine a little girl smiling up into her mother's face only to be met with a cold stare. Try to imagine a little fellow reaching out his arms trustingly to a father who turns away and lets him fall. To be loved is part of a child's birthright.

The fourth and last of the things men live by is worship. We cannot put the whole of ourselves into our work and our play and our love. A child has a right to that larger fellowship with God. A child takes no religion naturally, and to coop him up in a little earthly cage of material things is to clip his wings.

SUNSHINE OF RELIGION

I know a little girl who goes each Sunday morning to Sunday school. She calls it "sunny school." As her grandfather, of course, I think she helps to make it a "sunny school." And religion, when properly taught, serves to furnish the sunshine for healthy growth.

One of our most discussed questions is whether religion can be taught in our public schools. Certainly we must keep public education free from any sectarian influence. But surely our three great faiths, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, can agree on some basic fundamentals common to all.

Our social welfare rests on moral and spiritual values. These belong to our children's birthright.

ECONOMIC DIPLOMACY AT THE CROSSROADS

It is fashionable nowadays to assert that the Western powers, including Canada, must increase foreign aid to under-developed countries, if for no other reason than to match the supposed ruble diplomacy of the Soviet Union these areas.

Such an assumption, superficially persuasive, rests the entirely mistaken belief that the economic diplomacy of the Soviet Union parallels in nature, if not in volume, the give-away diplomacy of the Western Powers.

A careful study of the methods worked out in process being worked out between Russia and the countries Southeast Asia, clearly suggests, however, that Moscow es not intend to resort to give-aways. Rather, what happening is that the Soviet Union is offering to buy, a barter basis, rice and other commodities which the southeast Asian countries wish very much to sell, and to supply them in return with industrial machinery and echnical know-how.

The truth of the matter is that the Soviet Union is urning to her own advantage the effects of Western economic diplomacy by give-aways, the result of which, particularly n terms of agricultural surpluses, has been to disrupt and depress world markets for many of the products upon which the so-called underdeveloped countries traditionally rely for earning needed foreign exchange.

For Canada and other countries to increase give-aways may, under the circumstances, serve only to push the under-developed countries in closer economic ties with the Soviet Union.

BIG-HEARTED "JOEY" SMALLWOOD

Newfoundland's Premier "Joey" Smallwood, who has a penchant for launching public undertakings of wide kinds with scant regard for their economic soundness, has done it again.

This time he has announced that his Government will provide free medical, dental and optical care for Newfoundland's 173,000 children without it costing the taxpayers a cent.

Joker in Mr. Smallwood's suggestion that health services will be provided free is his admission that the $1,000,000 or so a year, which he estimates the children's free health service will cost, will come from taxes and royalties paid by the Labrador Linerboard Ltd., for iron ore mining rights which it has been granted in Labrador.

So, despite all Mr. Smallwood's fine talk about "free" health services, what he really means is that they will be permitted to going to launch and, presumably, finance, a children's health plan on tax monies which he hopes will be realized in the future.

Thoughtful Canadians, no less solicitous concerning child health needs than Mr. Smallwood, may be forgiven for wondering whether Newfoundland's traditional fogbanks have affected their Premier's economic thinking to the point where obscurity in such matters becomes a virtue. Chances are that before long Mr. Smallwood will discover that it costs a great deal more than $1,000,000 a year to provide 173,000 children with "free" health services. When he does, he will undoubtedly come screaming to the taxpayers of the rest of Canada to bail him out of his difficulties.

LOST HORIZON

Sleigh rides are becoming things of the past. And the decline of the horse is likely to blame.

An old-fashioned sleigh ride is one of winter's wonderful things. Or was one of winter's things.

A broad, low sleigh piled with sweet hay and drawn by two sturdy horses is the chariot of winter wonderland. Add two dozen young people, a nosey driver, jingle bells, oil lanterns, a crisp, starry night and a glistening landscape dashed in the peculiar snow-blue of winter moonlight and the setting is complete. Sound of runners on the crunchy, packed snow, the tinkle of bells on harness, the stamping of the driver's heavy boots as he warms his feet, and the gay, happy shouts of the riders as they struggle to get the sleigh back in and out of snow drifts. Sound volume on the out-bound excursion is always greater than on the return journey. The steady plodding of sleigh horses assures the winter carnival van of progress through the night at a speed that is easily matched afoot.

Songs sung on a winter's night to the accompaniment of sleigh runners have the muted melody of a mouth-organ have a quality of their own. "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and the "Whiffenpoof Song" send shivers up one's spine that no amount of cold can match.

There is beauty in the winter night that goes unnoticed except on sleigh rides. Silvered limbs of bare trees, brilliant constellations of snow crystals, the palpable yellow glow from a farm kitchen window and the decorations of a fairy land on a sleigh ride.

The craggy outlines of the country, dimly lit but softened by the snow are the ramparts of a new world. The harsh realities of cold and ice are dispelled on a sleigh ride by the warmth of friendship and fun.

Sleigh rides always have happy endings of food and hot chocolate.

At least that is the way sleigh rides used to be. The staccato cough of a tractor, the stinging exhaust of burnt gasoline and the loneliness of old lanterns dispels the atmosphere of intimate cheer that characterized an old-fashioned sleigh ride.

When it comes to sleigh rides the internal combustion engine will never replace the horse.

SECOND HELPING

The second helping used to be
As tasty as the first to me.
I still can see my father grin,
His napkin tucked beneath his chin,
As standing up he'd proudly state:
"For second helping pass your plate."

Time passed and father joined the dead.
Then I sat at the table head.
I'm not till now to boast,

Age is a thief that in its flight
Takes, past recovery, appetite;
And when that's gone the loss is great.
For more you never pass your plate,
Of meat or poultry, pie or cake
That second helping you don't take.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
January 24th, 1936

City's tribute paid the late King George V in impressive service at the Capitol Theatre. This morning at eleven o'clock a solemn and well conducted service was held in the auditorium at the Collegiate and Vocational School when the assembled members of the Belleville Ministerial Association. The president of the association, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of St. Thomas parish, presided and was assisted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, minister of Bridge Street United church, and the Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Mayor Harry Hill was present on the platform and opened the proceedings by calling for a prayerful silence of two minutes. Suitable prayers from the office for the Burial of the Dead were recited by the Vicar of St. Thomas; the Rev. Dr. Semple read the 90th Psalm and the Rev. W. J. Walker read the Scripture lesson which was taken from Revelation chapter 21, verses 1 to 6, and from chapter 22, verses 1 to 5 being the same lesson which was read by the Archbishop of Canterbury at the funeral service in St. George's chapel, Windsor Castle, today. The Citizens' Band accompanied in the singing of the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and the Belleville Male Chorus directed by Mr. Ross Hunter sang with deep feeling, "Crossing the Bar" by Tennyson. The service lasted about three-quarters of an hour. The auditorium was filled to capacity and many persons could not gain entrance. Well represented were officers and men of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry and veterans of various wars, in mufti with medals; Royal Canadian Mounted Police; Ontario Provincial Police; South in uniform; Board of Education Officials; Police; Girl Guides; Daughters of the Empire; members of Rotary, Kiwanis and Kinsmen's clubs; city police and firemen represented; also large representatives of other fraternal societies and citizens. The band played in a suitable manner the "Dead March in Saul" after which the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

30 YEARS AGO
January 28th, 1926

Bay fishermen held a meeting in the council room of the Hon. Charles McCrae, provincial minister of mines and fisheries, was addressed by the delegations adjourned by them in opposition to the movement to establish one of the Frontenac Angers' Protective Association to which Mr. Jack Quinlan is commercial fishermen. Mr. Earl McQueen headed the Belleville delegation and he stated that the sole means of livelihood of a very large number of commercial fishermen would be destroyed if the bay were established. Mr. J. D. Macdonald, deputy minister of mines and fisheries, was present at the meeting with the Hon. Charles McCrae, minister of mines and fisheries, and therefore assurance that the claims of both sides in the matter will be given careful investigation.

The Hon. John Wallis, minister of agriculture for the province of Ontario, arrived here today to address the sixth annual get-together meeting sponsored by the Belleville and the Chamber of Commerce at which the members of the county council will be the principal guest; representing the agricultural and business interests outside the city. The minister of agriculture was met at the station and welcomed on behalf of the city and county, by C. M. Reid, Jamieson Bone, A. W. Pratt, Ald. C. E. Wilmot, Dr. George H. Stobie, Major R. D. Ponton and J. B. Boyce. Mayor Graham will preside at the banquet at Hotel Quinte, this evening and Mr. Charles E. Hanna, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will be deputy chairman.

The County Council has made a grant of $2,000 towards the work of a Red Cross hospital at Bancroft.

Teams representing the Ritchie Company drygoods store and the W. W. Carnew hardware and tinsmith store, played a hockey match at the rink last evening, the score was 13 to 2 in favor of the Ritchie store. The following composed the teams: Ritchie store—Bull, McCreary, McIlrath, Chown, Gordon, Orr and Brown; Carnew Company — Moore, Bawden, Hazlip, Page, Whalen, Symons and Drumm. The referee was William Pepper.

Belleville curlers lost to Kingston last night here by a margin of 11 points. The following composed the Belleville rinks: Arthur Lewis, Dr. Perry Goldsmith, A. A. Hubbs, Malcolm Wright, skip; Stewart Robertson, Sid. W. Vermilyea, J. Hart, Joseph H. Clarke, skip.

Old Time Hockey Players: From our file copy at this date in 1896: The Belleville hockey team played a match with the Port Hope team in that town last night, and although down 3 to 1 at half time, the boys fought harder and won the game by a score of 4 to 3. The following composed the Belleville team; goal, Mack. Jamieson point, Glenney; cover; cover point, Jack Phippen; forwards, Harry Kelso, Russ Weller, Billie Rockwell and Lindsay Hamilton.

Co-Existence On Home Front

(Charlottetown Guardian)

It was a fine gesture on the part our local Knights of Columbus to offer to share their home with the brethren of the Masonic Order whose building was destroyed by fire last month.

We live in a grand province but modesty too often prevents it from adding that we have a grand class of people. The C. of C. and the Masons are both organizations of strong religious principles. They do not see eye to eye and they pride themselves on their differences.

But they did not have to wait for the term "peaceful co-existence" to be coined to practice neighborliness, tolerance, and respect for each other's convictions.

Dangerous Idea
(Calgary Herald)

An educational authority says a regular period in school should be allotted to day-dreaming, followed by an hour in which the pupils may act out, creatively, what they have imagined. But what happened to Junior who has been dreaming about pinching the little blonde in the third row?

'Black Waves of Change'

(Montreal Gazette)

John Ruskin, in his forties, once wrote of his underlying sense of "the subtle, fluid, influence smiling of the black waves of change."

Perhaps it is only the young who are really attracted by the future. They are impatient to break out of their old surroundings and to enter into new.

But as people grow older, the prospect of change grows less and less attractive. Even when a change has been decided, change still brings its misgivings. And when change is brought about by force of circumstance, it may seem full of foreboding. The past becomes a refuge, the present a habit, the future an anxiety.

This mood was well expressed by the late 19th century diarist, Henry Crabb Robinson. He lived happily enough and to a great age. His life had many a change of scene and of occupation. He had a splendid, long memory, and one that nearly every change had been for the better.

"It is curious to recollect," he wrote in 1833, "that I have always been introduced to a change in my mode of living. I have always said: 'I shall never be so well off as I am now,' and yet, in fact, when settled, I have generally been better off."

Robinson had found so many anxious changes end well that, in old age, he ought to have been able to throw off his worries about any change that might come. Experience had amply disproved his earlier fears. But the future still appeared to him as dark and troubled.

"And yet I cannot help fearing still," he went on. "I have this unhappy tendency to think we have nothing else in common) that, as he says, he never regretted the past, but "always very anxious about the future."

Perhaps even the young though they dream of breaking away from the old and familiar, feel a certain chill of loneliness when time and change loom. Hazlitt, the critic, C. Lewis Hind, in writing his autobiography, could still remember, after some 60 years, the sense of utter loss he felt on his first day in boarding school.

His father had taken him to the school, stolen hastily away, and walked down the gravel path and out of sight. Poor young Hind, in order to recapture something of the old security, had later tried to walk literally in his father's footsteps, placing each foot in the impression made in the dust by his father's departing boots. In this way some little reassurance was to be had in strange surroundings.

Even the great Horatio Nelson had often written of his dreadful loneliness when he went as a boy down to his first ship. He had gone on deck, but nobody noticed him. All day seamen were going about their duties, making ready for the sailing. But all that first day he stood, trying to keep out of their ways and avoiding to whom he should report his presence. It was very different indeed from the orderly scenes of his father's rectory

H. G. Wells, who often gave the impression of a presumptuous self-assurance, wrote in his autobiography of his own fear of change when coming into the great impressive heart of London. "I hesitered and watched the crowds," he wrote. "It was encouraging to see how people who seemed able to get food and clothing."

Perhaps one of the hard truths to learn is that life offers us no end of change and some intolerable of change. In all the wide world of the past few years there have laid havens and refuges are no more secure than the "wee bit hoose" of the fieldmouse wrecked by the plow of Robert Burns. And many a person of 60 is the latter of seemingly unchangeable, has found himself facing "bleak December's winds."

There is only one way of coming to terms with change. Change is the ingrained condition of life, and yet it is also the source of all we mean by growth, by joy and by most enduring.

Even in old time and wise for ever was William Blake, when he wrote a century and a half ago:

Joy and woe are woven fine
A clothing for the soul divine;
Under every grief and pine
Runs a joy with silken twine
It is right it should be so;
Man was made for joy and woe;
And when this we rightly know
Safely through the world we go.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What we need now is a better understanding between the U.S. and in the New England States, they are trying to popularize the sport of curling.

To call those who belong to the bird watching fraternity nuts would be to libel them and add them to our list for the day, or, if we are specially nasty, to our list for life.

Bird hunting is the most amusing, interesting and rewarding of sports. Our game is hunted, but not killed. We have a day in the open, in our own cities. Moreover, we have just as much exercise and practically as much excitement as if we were fox hunters, deer hunters, partridge hunters, and much more than duck hunters. Duck hunting is a blind. We can take as much delight in it as we can spend the time and inclination for. We can spend our day in a city park or suburbs. Or we can motor fifty or a hundred miles to some wilderness.

We can choose between our regions for the day the real experts who have the best list of over 200 known birds they have seen in their familiar hunting grounds. Or we can go forth with the greenest amateurs and enjoy the pleasure of showing him how to find a bird and how to identify it certainly. We have the merry fellowship of sociable and many do. This is, regular groups of half a dozen or so of us who "go birding" every weekend and compete against one another. Hearing the same voices and getting up as big a list of birds as possible, and if possible, to see some rare bird that has been seen by only a few. Then there is the pleasure of the best of all, to locate some really rare bird and to get the wonderful satisfaction of calling our companions to come and see what we have found.

The life list, of course, is the most absorbing of all interests in bird watchers. As beginners, they start a list of the familiar birds, such as the robins, the thrushes, the woodpeckers, learning to identify them by sight, by habit, by their sound, and being increasingly amazed at the infinite variations of these hitherto unseen, unnoticed creatures of nature. By the time that the list reaches a hundred, the fever is on. By the time the life list of birds seen, heard and definitely known on sight, reaches a hundred, you have a real hunter. An experienced one can sometimes be a more grip on a prospector than something for a certain number to be a bird spotter who has never seen a cerulean warbler. And I'm one of them.

BOOK ENEMIES

Next to the reputation and character of a man is his book, which he values most. It must confess that cold chills run down my spine when I observe any one using my used book. One in which the leaves have been folded and creased. Or one that has been careless-ly ripped with the fingers instead of carefully opened with a letter opener. And books that have had their backs broken!

The best book once were men. We must not forget that. I recently read a most interesting book entitled "Bouillabaisse for Bibliophiles." Don't let the title irritate you. It is a very thick with good rare meat! All of it is most interesting to any lover of books, but a chapter on book enemies attracted my first reading.

Many a rare book has been ruined as a collector's item by someone's cruel work in tearing out one or more of the fly leaves, especially where the name of the owner once was. In many cases that name is a cue to the worth of the book itself. One man roughly cut the margins off his books with a knife, hacking away very much like a hedger and ditcher. Another had all his books rebound and on a new size so that they would look better in his book cases! Another would have his book-binder cut the edges of his books to the size that he wanted them.

There be book lovers—collectors of just illustration and title pages—so they are carelessly taken from the book itself—and then discarded with the body—and soul—of the book. There are thieves of books too. Libraries, set aside for the public, know this. How many a book has been slyly stolen, special leavys torn out or illustrations lifted.

Books must be treated as valued friends—with thoughtful consideration, and genuine love. Never should any book be brutally mutilated. Many a book has loved the best of time and lived down the ages. Love that book!

Micky's Gift to Gourmets

I have Ben Told, says a reader (if you're sure it is Ben, please), slap his ears back, drag him to the back lot and kick him into the middle of next week), that foods cooked in ..... utensils retain more of their vitamin than foods cooked in aluminum utensils. Is this true?

Far be it from me to doubt your word, sir. From what they tell me, I infer that a good many peddlers tell gullible customers some such cock-and-bull story. Others tell 'em aluminum is poisonous — and maybe exhibit a collection of essays by eminent authorities. "Authorities" what substantiate the peddlers, if you believe everything you read.

At our house we have been eating out of aluminum utensils since Topsy was a colt, one of them being a six-quart kettle in which I have cooked Sunday corn at least two thousand times. Popcorn, that is—it's delightful, with good mystery story.

The very word aluminum, suggests culinary works of art to Micky — she's the beautiful Canuck with auburn hair, brown and pink and white unfinished form, who stopped by breathing the first time that new typist satisfied the surgical ward. When I resumed breathing, I had decided she would make an ideal mother for my children, and as usual I was right except that they proved to be our children.

Far from being "poisonous," as peddlers of other kinds of kitchen ware would have customers imagine, aluminum is universally distributed in soils and plants and the available experimental evidence warrants the one conclusion, namely, that aluminum, occurring naturally in foods or introduced by utensils in which food is cooker or kept, is not a health hazard.

If aluminum were the "poison" certain propagandists infist it is, I should have turned up my toes long ago or maybe succumbed to cancer or something, for, all these years, I have been enjoying Micky's gift to gourmets — a delectable dish which we call Hungarian goulash cooked in aluminum.

One day we ordered Hungarian goulash in a Hungarian restaurant. The gosh-awful stew and before us may have been A-1 goulash. We don't know. But it bore not the faintest resemblance to Micky's.

Micky's goulash contains ground beef, ground bacon, mashed potatoes, tomato, etc. The beef and bacon cooked separately and all baked together.

TRUE CURE OF SOUL

Robinson Crusoe!

Do you remember reading about him? He was the delight of many of us during childhood. Furthermore, this story by Defoe is one of the great classics of all time.

And do you remember that Robinson Crusoe found a copy of the Bible in a chest when he went hunting for medicine to cure his fever? Of course he found it! It was something vastly more serious than a mere physical ailment that Crusoe in that Bible found Christ and New life.

Whether Defoe meant this scene to be symbolic or not, no one, of course, knows. But certainly it is symbolic. We go hunting for medicine to cure our earthly ills if by chance we come upon the Bible—come to that Book which lies behind all our ills is cured.

People sometimes wonder why the Bible has ceased to count and apparently passed over other people. It cannot be healed those who, by faith to be healed. Furthermore, he usually appears to have been intent upon the soul rather than the ailment but on healing the sufferer's soul.

The Bible is still the world's best medicine. Robinson Crusoe went to the Bible for remedy and found redemption. He expected to get relief in medicine, but found a basic cure out of the New Testament.

Has World Lost Spirit?

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

There seems, nowadays, to be a strange lack of the spirit which led our ancestors to conquer worlds. In the news columns, almost every day, we read of new apathies new weaknesses, and an added reluctance of people to stand up for themselves and assert their rights.

In one letter to an editor we read of a man who greatly feared for his children because strange, and possibly rabid dogs invaded his property. There was an epidemic of rabies at the time, yet all he could do, apparently, was to "wish that a policeman would eat."

In a new story, was the terrible tale of a serviceman whose wife betrayed him with both his brother and his father-in-law and drifted by one of them. He forgave her her trespasses and returned home; and the quarrel about the division of his gratuity, and this led to divorce.

In the first case, one would think that the man would find some way of ridding the property of the possibly dangerous animals which menaced his family without having to resort to outside help. In the second place, one might have expected some action on the part of an outraged husband. But now that was the case.

It seems that today we live in a disarmed world in which violence of any sort is abhorrent.Husbands allow their brides to be insulted. Parents stand hand over money without knowing whether they are being scientifically threatened or not. Youngsters eschew the excitement and adventure which the world offers in favor of a job with a pension.

If people had acted in this manner in the days of Queen Elizabeth the world would still be largely inhabited by savages. Continents would have remained undiscovered and reluctance of people to stand have survived to conquer the world., And our ancestors to cower in their worlds. In the news columns, almost every day, we read of new apathies new weaknesses, and an added reluctance of people to stand up for themselves and assert their rights.

In one letter to an editor we read of a man who greatly feared for his children because strange, and possibly rabid dogs invaded his property. There was an epidemic of rabies at the time, yet all he could do, apparently, was to "wish that a policeman would eat."

Plastics the Fabulous Stuff Of the Twentieth Century

By NICHOLAS MIKA

As you know there was a bronze age, a steam age, an electrical age, but do you realize that we are living now in the plastics the world "Plastic" is the key age? Only forty some years ago any particular meaning. Today it is a term that covers such a wide range of amazing materials that I could fill the space of a book. Don't worry, I am not going to bother you with technical expressions.

But have a look around: telephone, radio cabinet, electric shaver, clothlines. . . what are they made of? Of plastic, the most fabulous stuff of the twentieth century. Take the pretty table tops in a restaurant or the seat cover in your car, a colorful kitchen curtain or the transparent bags for onions and potatoes; they are made from plastic. Does it surprise you to learn, that you that even gears and bearings, insulating materials and stratosphere balloons are made from plastic?

Of course, a chemist would define the word "plastic" and explain how raw materials are transformed into synthetic products in a thousand different ways. The father of this man-made phenomenal material was the Belgian chemist, Dr. Leo H. Baekeland. When he announced his invention in New York he said that his product could possibly be used by forty to fifty industries. He was wrong. Only after two decades of further research every existing industry in some form or other uses his revolutionizing invention.

Bakelite, as he called it, has become a world-wide definition.

UNLOCKED SECRET

To be exact, many scientist long before him tried to produce synthetic resin. Their experiments failed. But he was neither discouraged by the stubborness of his "with-brew" nor by its evil smell. When his wife and his assistants tried to convince him that the stuff "Plastic" is not to be laughed and said: "Just give me time." In the beginning of 1909 he unlocked the secrets how to make synthetic resins. This was the birth-hour of the plastic age.

Reading books about plastics and its development is as fascinating as a fairy tale. It seems unbelievable what chemists today can achieve with this fabulous stuff. Take for instance the shatterproof safety glass or the top of a coffee table which you cannot scratch or burn. Or take the paint that is used or your stove and refrigerator. It never loses its shiny super-white color. Why? Because it has this new wonder material, plastics.

Have you ever tried to lift two hundred feet of pipe with one hand? If it is made from plastic, it is no problem at all. Another advantage is that such a pipe will not burst when it freezes because it is capable of expanding.

And as for surgery, there is a question that modern science could not perform many of its miracles without the help of plastics.

A few years ago a young Italian boy constructor, was looking for a new insulating material. His concern was to get a material that was not only light but fireproof. He told me that his problem was solved by one of the leading plastic companies. They sent him bakelite. It not only was an excellent insulating material but can be most successfully used as packing material for fragile merchandise.

I have even heard of wallpaper being manufactured in the States that, after it has been treated with plastics, will kill flies and repel dust. Just think, how marvellous it would be if you wouldn't have to dust your furniture any more!

Chemists predict that sometime in the future paper will be manufactured no longer from wood and rags but from plastic only. By the way, why do you think your paper tissue has the name "Kleenex"? Because it is treated with plastic.

Well, what next? I can go on and on. The possibilities of the plastic industry are unlimited. New plants at the cost of millions of dollars are being built to fulfill the ever rising demand in the field of plastic, the wonder of the twentieth century.

Mr. Ken Latta, Demorestville, had dinner on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Latta.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. William Taylor, who passed away on Saturday.

Miss Kay Whalen, Reg. N., of Toronto, spent the weekend at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Weese and family, Melrose, were Tuesday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Greatrix.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Garbutt, Front Road; Mr. and Mrs. D. Atkins were Thursday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke.

Mrs. D. Mitchell and Sharon had dinner on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. Wright, Stirling, on Wednesday night.

Miss J. Thomas is spending a few days with Mrs. E. Leeming.

Misses Belle and Mabel Clarke were entertained some time at the Donaldson - Thomson home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Grills and family spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Yorke, Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray and family were Sunday night supper guests of the latter's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chappelle, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Clarke visited with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills on Monday night.

Mrs. Harry Grills attended a group meeting of Holloway Street Church W.M.S. at the home of Mrs. F. Coulter on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. William Grills has returned to Massassaga after spending a few days with Mrs. A. Greatrix.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray called on Mr. and Mrs. Francis Purdy, Front Road, on Sunday. Mr. Purdy has returned home after being a patient in the Belleville hospital.

Mrs. Ken Ducebury and Mrs. J. Wickens, Belleville, called on the former's mother, Mrs. F. Mitchell on Thursday afternoon.

Little Miss Cheryl and Master Bobbie Ducebury, Belleville, spent Thursday with their grandmother, Mrs. F. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Mitchell were Tuesday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grills.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray and family had supper and spent the evening on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Norman d Stirling.

Mrs. M. Mitchell visited Mrs. Robert Atkins on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Thomson is spending a few days with friends in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray and family spent the supper hour with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chappelle, Crookston.

SEAVING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Goodfellow entertained about 40 members and friends of the "Good Companions" of the Tabernacle Church at Goodfellow cottage (Camp Carol) on Tuesday night to a skating party. Later coffee, doughnuts and hotdogs were served and a social time enjoyed.

"Read" Plugs By Inspecting Firing Ends

By EUGENE MILMOE

Whether you check and clean the spark plugs yourself or leave this job to the service station, it's good to know what readings are suggested by the appearance of their firing ends.

For example, wet and sludgy plugs indicate too much oil is getting into the combustion chambers. Ring, valve or bearing trouble is usually suspected—but, plugs that are too cold for your driving needs could also be responsible.

Dry, fluffy, black deposits point to over-rich fuel mixtures. Here again, however, the condition might be traceable to plugs that are just hot enough, or to faulty ignition.

Firing ends which appear burned or blistered may mean plugs are too hot, engine is misfiring or fuel mixtures too lean. An overheating engine will also promote burned plugs.

COMPRESSION RATIO

A. Y. asks: "Please explain what is meant by "compression ratio" of the engine."

(A) Compression ratio refers to volume of the air and fuel mixture in each cylinder when the piston is at the bottom of the stroke and when it is at the very top. A volume of 81 cubic inches, for example, might be squeezed to 9 cubic inches as the piston reaches the top of its stroke. Therefore, the compression ratio in this instance would be 9 to 1 (81 divided by 9).

E.E. writes: "My engine persisted in rocking and sometimes stalling when I let it idle, but not at other speeds. I brought the car to my service station and, on my return, found they had cured the condition. According to the mechanic, the carburetor bolts needed a little tightening. I don't quite understand how this would cause the troubles I experienced."

(A) A slightly loose carburetor flange will allow air to leak into the intake system, upsetting the air-fuel ratio necessary for smooth idle.

FAULTY PRESSURE

From M.R.: "My 1953 panel truck stalls when I make a sudden stop, then it is very hard to start and will act as if it were flooded. The automatic choke and carburetor idle adjustments are correct, the air cleaner was just cleaned and the heat control valve moves freely. A garage man tells me that too much fuel pressure must be to blame."

(A) He could be right—or you may find that the carburetor float level needs resetting.

S.F. writes: "I just bought a late model used car which seems to be in excellent condition except for one little thing. As soon as I turn off the ignition, the temperature gauge hand moves all the way over to the hot position. Would a defective dash or gauge part be responsible for this change in reading, or should both be replaced?"

(A) Neither. This operation is normal for the type of gauge used on the car you recently bought. Correct water temperature is shown only when the ignition is on. That's actually the rest or parked position of the hand when the ignition is off.

Garden Notes

Tips on Winter Gardening

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Even in winter gardeners worry and wonder about their plants. What makes leaves fall, or turn yellow? What do pepper-white material fall to bloom? Here are answers to a few common questions.

Well; why do narcissi fail to open even when they do form buds? Why the sudden wilt of last more frequently than the single blooms has not been proven. Among the reasons believed to cause this is too much shade, lack of moisture and too high temperatures.

Why do my nasturtiums have fine bushy plants but fail to bloom? The soil may be too moist and too rich. Give them in poor soil in a dry sunny place.

Why didn't my pansies and sweet William seedlings flower the summer they were planted?

Both these plants were biennials. That is, they take two years to complete their life cycles. If you plant them in late transplant them to a cold frame, or protect with a light mulch late in the fall. They will bloom early the following year. Canterbury bells, foxgloves and hollyhocks are other examples of biennials.

Should geocides be mulched? No. Mulches encourage fungi and rot.

What fry will stand neglect best? Herbs being hardiest of all. Iris are the hardiest. It has smaller leaves than the common English ivy.

ON ROOTING VINES

How can we increase our seedless grape vines? Grape vines plants can be increased by cuttings. Cut pieces of vine eight inches long. Dip the cuts in rooting powder, a hormone powder which encourages rooting. There are two strengths in these rooting hormone powders. The mildest is for easy rooting of soft wood cuttings; the second strength is for simi-woody plant cuttings. Use it for dormant leafless cuttings such as berries, currant, privet, and evergreens. Cuttings are taken in late winter and buried in slightly moist sand in the basement.

What will prevent windburn and sun scald on newly planted evergreens? See that soil around evergreens is thoroughly soaked just before the fall freeze-up. Mulch around the shrubs with a deep layer of peat moss evergreen boughs or ground corn cobs. Excelsior should not be used. It is to inflammable.

What chemical is used to make hydrangea flowers pink or blue?

FIRESIDE DREAMS

The winter world is wrapped in white
The frosty air is keen,
The ice-locked lake in slumber lies,
The fragrant cedars lean
Close to the lonely, deserted shore.
As if in aid they would implore,
Add while the snow lies deep and high
About my Canadian home,
My hearth-fire sheds its warmth and light
And lures my steps to roam.
And memory leads me far away
In imagination lands to stray.
Again I see a city fair
Beside a jewelled bay,
Its sunny streets in balmy air
Beguile the winter day.
On benches green along the street
A throng of tourists daily meet.
The fisher folk upon the bay,
The harbour with its fleet,
The palms and flowers and citrus groves
Recall a picture grand,
And from the million dollar pier
A scene unfolds the heart to cheer.
When winter rules this northern land
With stern despotic sway,
Then to escape the despot's power
The people haste away
To this, the Sunshine City bright,
Where summer spreads a glamour bright.
This city is the Sunny South
Calls one again to roam,
To leave behind the wind-swept plain
Of my Canadian home,
To rest in sunny Florida
Where summer holds perpetual sway.

Helen B. Anderson

WELLINGTON — It is little wonder that while many friends are on their way to Florida that I am dreaming of that land of sand and sunshine and of my winter visits there. Among those planning winter holidays in the South are Mr and Mrs. C. Raynor, Mrs. H. Pierson, Mr. Ed. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and others. The city of my dreams referred to above is the city of St. Petersburg, a very pleasant place for a winter holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrison Ketcheson of Halloway were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Young.

Mrs. Glendon Selders is now convalescing, hale-dressing at her home, Maple Avenue.

Mrs. Leona Whyte of Trenton was dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Marjorie Blakely on Monday and called on Mrs. E. R. Blakely.

Mrs. Rowena MacDonald, having spent some weeks nursing Miss Mary Lumb, is spending some days with Mrs. Lumb's sister, Mrs. Simson Christie before visiting her daughter Mrs. Eddie Everall and family, Cherry Valley.

Mrs. Hayes is now caring for Miss M. Lumb at her home Maple Avenue.

JOHN ANDERSON, MY JO.

John Anderson, my jo, John,
When we were first acquent
Your locks were like the raven,
Your bonie brow was brent;
But now your brow is beld, John,
Your locks are like the snow,
But blessings on your frosty pow,
John Anderson, my jo.
John Anderson, my jo, John,
We clamb the hill thegither
And many a cannie day, John,
We've had wi' ane anither;
Now we must totter down, John,
And hand in hand we'll go,
And sleep theigther at the foot,
John Anderson, my jo.

Letters from Mexico

By Arnold Meyers

Merida, Yucatan, Mexico, some 30 miles unfinished as of 1953. That will do for now. Guatemala is next door of course. When I arrive there, I'll bring you up to date again.

PURCHASE MAP

Before I go say further, I would like you to buy a 50 cent money order and send to the National Geographic Society, Washington 6, D.C., for a map of Mexico and Central America, so that you know what I am talking about when I describe my itinerary. As it is, the places are only names to you. Tack the map up when you get it and mark the places as I go to them.

I thought I'd be too tired and sore to walk on the day after my jaunt in to the Grotto of Loltun, but when I was going downstairs for breakfast next morning, the old gentleman, Mr. Day, asked me if I cared to go to Rumonero, a small Indian village, with him right away; so I agreed to go to Rumonero. This was quite an interesting one-hour trip by second class bus for almost nothing. We passed through the lovely little village of Uxu and some others that I do not recall now.

The churches of all these small places are very massive structures and are of a character beaten on the outside and quite black in places.

RUNUCUMA CATHEDRAL

The cathedral of Runuema is noteworthy for the immense buttresses which occur at intervals along the outside. The facade is simple to the point of austerity and is not of much interest. Inside, the most important feature is the character of the arches in the roof which are definitely Moorish. The entire expanse of floor is of large tiled squares and is swept by the four winds through the wide open doors throughout the day.

After I photographed the building we set off down a street leading north. Mr. Day is quite interested in bird life and always wants to walk out of town to look for them. We walked along the dusty, dirty roadside. Fences of wooden bearing several superimposed bowls of maize upon their heads bound for the local mill where they have it ground into flour for their tortillas. We passed some with as many as three bowls, one on top of the other.

TAKES PHOTOGRAPHS

On sauntering past a wide clearing at the far end of which was an interesting colonnaded building, we perceived a group of young boys seated in a semi-circle photographing, and of course, the visit of an 'Norteamericano' to their little village was a delight of great moment, all the children came running to us, filling the air with cries like this happens only once in a lifetime.

As I stood there, Mr. Day remarked, "Did you notice the earthen jars that I brought in?" I said, "Well suppose you take a look when he turns his back." Upon doing so, however, I was horrified to see that the whole side of the jar was covered with flies and said, "I had to look away, "it may be a leprosy," added Mr. Day, "I must get busy and remove the car. It would be doing the kid a kindness if I would put a bullet in his acid. "Maybe," he replied.

We soon turned around after Mr. Day had identified a grackel, and my head started getting sore, so I suggested that we go back. While sitting on the bench in the plaza, on her size. "Oh," said Mr. Day, laughing, "they are all like that."

THE DOMINATING TYPE

The American woman, whom I mentioned previously, has moved to Merida and is a real go-getter. She was always interfering in my plans. I wanted to go to Progreso, whereupon she would appear like a thunderbolt, and, without any ado, set with plans of her own. She burst in upon me one day, a cloudburst, Sky is graduation day of the Mexican Army school, and it's to be held in the stadium. Would you like to come? You'd better come! You know this is the only time you'll ever have of viewing such a thing. Etc, etc, ad infinitum. Such curiosity cure if I saw the thing or not, all she wanted was company. Once one finds out with her, it's all her show. It is she who makes the plans; suggests what to do next; gives the orders. She would, in time, drive a man out of his mind, I wonder she found her husband incompatible! Anyway, I'll not park beside what a night. "Don't trust that woman! She is just a man chaser, and as nervous as a cat." Briefly, she is the type that loves to dominate men, and finds it impossible to be along without them.

VISITS HENEQUEN FARM

In my fairness, I must say that she did put me in the way of seeing certain things that, otherwise I would not have seen. She is a practical way of looking at it. A week ago we visited the ruins of a Henequenera or "Finca", that is a farm where, henequen is grown. Henequen is a large plant with long spike-like leaves spreading upward from the central point. Only ten of these leaves

Going Places

Motels Make Travelling Easy

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Well, it was a tough fight, mom, but we all won.

By the time you read this we all —including Claudia, now three years and three months, and Bonnie Jean, 11 months—will be in Florida for our annual midseason look at what all the excitement is about.

Excitement-it must be, too, for this year ten times as many North Americans will visit Florida as will go to Europe. Tourists are everywhere, almost two-to-one and Florida is the only state where tourism is the leading industry.

And we say it was a tough fight because—well, it was.

First, to get Shirley to tolerate several days of confined motoring by the kids ("There isn't room enough for them in the back, what are they going to be like in the car!") with both of them at a difficult age.

Working on the principle that we try to pass on to you—that we have a problem is insurmountable—we entered upon a subtle campaign of reviving fond memories of past trips through home movies, reading aloud from the travel ads in the newspapers, and little practice trips visiting friends in nearby cities to prove the kids wouldn't be so bad after all. (They were).

Claudia at once began cleaning aborta around the house in mid-winter, much to the alarm of her mother, so "just in case we have to go to Fowida soon, I'll be ready".

CONDITIONS BETTER

And it was a tough fight, too booking the ever-increasing traffic on the snow-bird, but the development of new highways and improvement of old ones made things considerably better than they would have been.

Another thing that encouraged us to try was one of the new developments in Florida vacationing: the emphasis on family groups, even plush Miami Beach.

Time was when, if you had children, either rented an apartment off the beach or stayed home. Luxury hotels would not cater to them, period.

Inevitably the era of the luxury motel dawned and finally came into full bloom as the years rushed by on the very natural desire of people with families to have vacations as purely as those without them.

The newest rash of luxury motels —more this year than all the previous years combined—offer most of the basic attractions of the lavish palaces that were or less characteristre Miami Beach, minus only some touches of elegance like

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The tumult and the shouting dies;
The Captains and the Kings depart;
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart."

It was Rudyard Kipling who penned these words, but they were quoted by the Hon. Mr. Justice J. L. McKeiman of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Judge McKeiman is presiding at the assizes in Belleville and this is itself is of interest. He was born at Lindsay, went to school there, and from Lindsay he attended Queen's University at Kingston. In 1923, Judge McKeiman graduated with his Master of Arts degree, honoring in economics and history. Since Judge McKeiman retired in 1948, he is well begin to realize the development of a brilliant mind. At Queen's Judge McLeman was a classmate of a prominent Belleville insurance executive, Gordon McDougall.

When James McLennan left Queen's in the early 1900's, he went to Osgoode Hall from which he graduated in 1935. After practising law in Toronto for some distinction, he was appointed to the bench and became the Hon. Mr. Justice J.L. McLennan of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Judge out takes from that rightfully belongs to Lindsay, Judge McLennan is in a very real sense a local man of our Central Ontario community because his ancestor fellows a semi-circular about Belleville, Lindsay, Kingston, Toronto, and it is with these cities that he first presided as a Supreme Court judge after receiving his appointment in 1949.

Judge McLennan resides in Toronto with his wife and child and a family of two. He spends his summer holidays in Northern Ontario. Judge McLennan is a young man with, it is to be hoped, many years before him to rise to greater distinction in his chosen profession. Just how long at casa de has been of the calibre of Judge McLennan, presiding at the assizes, and servitor of the finest traditions of British justice, our liberties are in fine hands. We and that welcomes the Hon. Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan to Belleville especially because we are proud to salute a fellow university student who contributed so much to the dignity of the judiciary.

Our thought for this weekend is a prayer taken from words written ten, ever one hundred years ago, that we "Still the seats of Justice

With Good men, not so absolute in goodness
As to forget what human frailty is.

Strange how a familiar name in a page of print leaps to the eye. In a recent news account, the name Dolphin Square attracted the fields of the three young nieces of the Duke of Edinburgh who had taken a day to Rodney Dolphin Square. It brought back memories and also brought a smile to me when I saw that plain Square is like after nineteen years with a world war thrown in between. I knew it, the huge building was not yet completed. Now, Dolphin Square blocks in a rather poor district, Pimlico, had been described in 1953 as the largest block of flats (1,200) in Europe.

The name Dolphin Square was chosen because there was to other such name—no duplication of street names is very confusing. The section of the city in which Dolphin Square stands as Rodney, Green, Aylmer, Raleigh, Nelson and so on.

The building is high for London with its stories, and wonderful to relate, has central heating. It is a hollow square with three acres of gardens in the centre, including a formal Italian garden and a formal Italian garden. There were many such features in the building, such as a large swimming pool with a balcony on the roof, a shop at each end and a cocktail bar at the other; the fourth side was formed a wall of the main dining-room where luncheon and dinner were served. The Chichester Room, smaller and quieter, was reserved for fast and informal dinner and was used by the staff for luncheon. In the basement, besides the large garage section, was a complete set of eight squash courts.

Cost the ninth floor was a nursery in the care of a child specialist whose qualifications were "nannies." Children of the tenants could be looked after in this nursery for a short time. There was maid service for the flats and an efficient staff was responsible for cleaning and maintenance even.

At that time 'there was a magazine called "The Dolphin" made up of editorials, articles and general news about activities in the Square. Plans for the fourth part of the Square included an arcade of shops to make the building self-contained. I received a letter from the Square last year informed me that the magazine had not been set up again after the war. The Square received its share of hits with great damage and loss of life, although the top floors had been completed. But for a while, Dolphin Square was a tight little world in one building.

New Cafeteria Is Opened At Belleville Collegiate

Time was when if you wanted it to be today—a clean-cut, glossy interior. A regular pattern of windows, plus artificial lighting give an abundance of brightness while a vinyl-tiled floor smooths the life of the interior design.

There are two entrances to the cafeteria. The main one leads immediately to the self-service counter. The second one, at the rear of the hall, is allocated to students who wish to eat their own lunch on the premises and who want to purchase milk.

The entire floor area measures about 132 feet in length. Aside from the large, roomy area provided for the students there also is a separate 20-seat dining compartment for the teachers, seating paralled to the service counter.

Supervising the cooking and serving from the kitchen Mrs. A. E. Hooper and Mrs. Clifford Daly who also handled the original cafeteria on the Collegiate Institute site. A satisfactory location of the old kitchen between the classrooms, where it served as eating quarters during recesses, was one reason for the board's decision to build a proper cafeteria.

STUDENTS ASSIST

Girl students assist both women in serving the meals during the rush hour, while Miss E. Grout, of the Collegiate's home economics class, advised on the preparation of the cafeteria's menus.

The menus will be kept as varied as possible and will not run according to any routine, thus keeping alive a spirit of expectancy. Strips of tickets for the week will be available each Monday morning in the classrooms while the students also may purchase single tabs at the principal's office during the week. Separate forms of meal tickets, frequent milk vouchers also will be provided.

Present at yesterday's opening were Collegiate principal Arnold Orr, Leslie Reid, principal of the Queen Elizabeth Public School; Roy Dulmage, school board secretary, and full board members of the school board: J. B. Durrant, C. Barber, Miss J. Tickell, Mrs. Ralph Mordern, Brookes Allen, Arthur English, Harold Seldon and Roy Shier.

Wallace Bell, Milton Burtt and Parley Vermilyea of the Advisory Vocational Committee were also present.

St. Andrew's Y. P. S. Plans Skating Party

CAMPBELLFORD — The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met in the church basement on Thursday, for their regular meeting.

The meeting discussed for a skating party which will be held on February 23rd, weather permitting. It was decided that hot-dogs and coffee be purchased at the rink.

Progress and more invitations were then prepared.

The next meeting will be held at Marg Carlaw's.

It was also arranged that the Young People will take part in the Sunday School service on January 29th, as it will be Youth Week.

The Rev. A. E. Toombs took the devotional period and questions and questions were discussed from Study Book, concerning ways of improving the summer recess and evenually shaped into what

Mrs. C. Sinfield Heads Holloway Fellowship Club

The regular meeting of the Fellowship Club of Holloway Street United Church was held in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. Cecil White, in the chair.

The usual procedure was rendered with the devotional and program taking precedence over the business of the meeting. Opening hymn was sung, followed by prayer by the Rev. D. Larman. The Knightmyer read Psalm 27, and the president asked Mr. Larman for an explanation on how to interpret the Scripture lessons. Mr. Larman then gave a brief and concise talk on the message back of what is read.

He then installed the new executives. The president for the year will be Mrs. Cecil Sinfield.

The club was then favored with a lovely piano rendition of "In a Monastery Garden," played by Miss Audrey Elgie. Mrs. White sang a reading on "St. Francis of Assisi," and Mrs. MacFarlane gave a lovely reading "The Old Year and the New Year," giving an apt quotation from Philippians.

The business of the club was conducted and the new group leaders formed their groups for the coming year.

Refreshments were served by the executive.

ADVICE To LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SURE, THERE ARE TESTS TO CHECK YOUR LOVE!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm disgusted! I just don't know whether I'm coming or going!

There are all kinds of tests to prove that you're a capable driver, or an efficient worker, a good housekeeper, a neurotic or whatever, and I've come to the colusion that there should be some kind of test to prove that you're in love.

I'm 19 years old, and when I was 16, I started going with a boy I was simply crazy about. As far as I was concerned, there just wasn't any one else but him.

Now it's almost three years later, and I'm going with the same boy. I wear his college class ring, which, to us and to our families, signifies an informal engagement. He's a wonderful fellow and has every characteristic I could wish for. In fact, he's just too good to be true. I don't say he's perfect, but I still feel that for me there is no one else.

But—and it's a big but—I don't know whether or not I really love him. I'm perfectly happy when I'm with him; we have the same likes and dislikes, but when I think about the marriage vow that speaks of taking each other for "better or worse," I can't honestly say that I'd take this fellow "for worse." If a really loved him, wouldn't I say that he could be anything or nothing, a beggar or a king, and I'd still love him? On the other hand, perhaps the reason I can't say that is because it seems very unlikely that anything could ever happen "for worse."

What makes it even more ridiculous is that I spend more than half my pay check buying things for the home we will have, and both his parents and mine are filling hope chests for me. My family, he believes already and he has also himself definitely expect that his engagement ring will soon replace the class ring on my finger, and a wedding date will be set. I have always said that I'd like to, and at times I really mean it, though every so often I'm in a place where I ask myself if I really love this fellow and I can't give myself a satisfactory answer.

Right now, while I'm writing this letter, I feel in the doubtful mood, but in a little while I'll probably forget all about it. It just doesn't make sense.

Isn't there anything I can do to straighten myself out? I've tried to explain to this fellow how I feel, but he was so hurt when I did, that it just about killed me. — S.I.

Dear S.I.:

There is a kind of uncertainty that is completely normal with everyone who is on the verge of taking the step that leads to the altar. It is only natural to have doubts when facing such a momentous change in one's life.

It is true that some people are so fortunate as not to feel these misgivings. But I think they are in the minority. All the answer you can do is to consider the steps as carefully as possible; then weigh the positive factors against the negative—for better or for worse—of the latter, no matter how perfectly matched some people seem to be —and then make a list of factors tips the scale.

So think about this point of view a little, and then decide whether your doubts are just normal ones I speak of, or whether you think they're more than normal. Personally, I'm inclined to believe that they are the normal ones.

As for the fellow you're in love, it might help you a lot to read a book called "How to Pick a Mate," by Dr. Clifford P. Adams. This is by no means a new book, but it is possible you might still be able to pick up a copy in a book store; if not, look for it in your public library, for the book entails a series of the sort of "tests" you mean in which you answer "Yes" or "No" in answer to questions, as in other tests and then score your self according to the detailed directions.

Among these quizzes are the following:

Are You Really In Love?
Are You Old Enough to Marry?
Guessing Are You Mature?
Are You Emotionally?
by
Are You Well-Mated?

This will give you an idea of what you will find in the book, and I think it would be worth your while to consult it.

Let me know how you make out after you've taken the tests, will you?

CARAMEL — A good crowd gathered at the hall Saturday evening to extend good wishes to two of the local young men and their brides.

Mr. C. Brintnell was chairman for a short program. Community singing was led by Ruth Luxton and Patsy Dafoe. A solo by Mr. W. Sills; piano solo by Jean Luxton; a reading, "Caleb's Courtship," by Mrs. G. Kennedy, and a reading by Patsy Dafoe.

An address was read by Mrs. C. Thompson to Mr. and Mrs. R. Marner, Jr. They were presented with a floor lamp and cushion, and an address was read by Mrs. F. Sergeant to Mr. and Mrs. J. Carruthers, and they were presented with a fibreglass pail cushion. Suitable replies were given by the young people and refreshments were served.

Mrs. W. Fitchett and Marilyn were recent visitors of Mrs. H. Dafoe.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Parks were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Roop.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Marner, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. Carruthers were supper guests Saturday, of Mr. and Mrs. S. Homan.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Parks were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. Patterson.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PROPER THING TO SAY TO WEDDING ANNIVERSARY COUPLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister insists that it is perfectly proper to say "congratulations" to the couple when you are at the party celebrating a wedding anniversary. But I thought that since, as you write in your column, it is not proper to say "congratulations" to the bride at a wedding reception, it would not be proper to say "congratulations" to the couple at the wedding anniversary celebration. — Martha M.

It is quite right to say "congratulations" to the couple for their wedding anniversary. That's very different from "congratulating" a bride-to-be or a bride. Or, if you prefer (and some people do), you can say "All my best wishes to you" or "Every good wish to you on this wonderful occasion, and for always!"

SHE INVITED A FRIEND TO THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm furious with a girl who until her recent wedding worked with me in our office. I've known her for some time, and liked her very much, but didn't know any of her friends. So when she invited me to her wedding I took it for granted that I could ask my boyfriend to be my escort to the wedding and reception. When we arrived at the small hall where the wedding breakfast was to be, imagine my surprise when I saw that the wedding breakfast was a seated affair. there were very few guests, and there was a place card at the place of each guest! This meant, of course, that there was no place card for my escort, no place at the table for him. I had to stay, and be covered with embarrassment and furious at him, had to leave. Now he won't speak to me, won't come to the telephone when I call. To make matters worse, the bride is furious about what I did, has told several people I had absolutely no right to invite an escort or anyone else. So everyone is looking at everyone else, it seems, and I wonder if I really did do something so out-of-order. Do you think I did? — Reader

Certainly I think you did something completely out-of-order, a-d I am quite sure that by this time you know you did. The invitation was, of course, for you and for you only. I feel sorry for the bride and all those concerned with the wedding, for by your thoughtlessness and by your thoughtlessness and lack of tact, but most of all I feel sorry for the young man you put in such an awkward position. Is your ridiculous insistence on having an "escort," you lost all consideration for the wedding hosts. Now you'll have to figure out, if you can, how to win back your friendship with the bride and groom and, if you can, your friendship with the young man. Try first some sincere apologies.

POSSIBLE LOCATION FOR GOLDEN WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Next June my mother and father will celebrate their Golden Wedding and they have told us that they are very eager to have a reception of some kind, very informal. The "where" of the reception is the problem. They house is small, there are several daughters and sons and their families to be accommodated, many relatives and friends. Yesterday I had a thought about the place, and I wonder what you think about my idea. They live two blocks from their church, in which they have been members and very active workers for many years. This church has a large Social Room, and here many receptions are sometimes held, but I've never heard of a Wedding Anniversary celebration being held here. Would it be proper? — Their Daughter

I should say it would be a splendid idea to have the Golden Wedding gathering of family and relatives in the convenient surroundings nearby, so closely associated with your parents and their interests. But before you decide you should, of course, talk over this plan first with your mother and father, and then, of course, discuss it with the clergyman.

FATHER-IN-LAW INTRODUCES HIS SON-IN-LAW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter was married recently, but since her husband is from out-of-town many of my friends here do not know him. How does a father-in-law introduce his son-in-law to friends and acquaintances? — Reader

You may say, "This is John Martin, my son-in-law." Or, if you prefer not to use the "in-law" phrase, you may say, "This is John Martin, my daughter's husband." Or to those who know your daughter say, "This is John Martin, Katherine's husband."

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE S. POWELL

COME, THOU ALMIGHTY KING

Come, Thou Almighty King,
Help us Thy name to sing,
Help us to praise:
Father all-glorious,
O'er all victorious,
Come, and reign over us,
Ancient of days.

Jesus, our Lord, arise,
Scat'er our enemies,
And make them fall;
Let Thine almighty aid
Our sure defence be made;
Our souls to Thee be stayed:
Lord, hear our call.

Come, holy Comforter,
Thy sacred witness bear
In this glad hour;
Thou who Almighty art
Now rule in every heart
And never from us depart
Spirit of power.

Come, Thou incarnate Word,
Gird on Thy mighty sword,
Our prayer attend:
Come, and Thy people bless,
And give Thy word success:
Spirit of holiness,
On us descend.

To the great One and Three Eternal praises be
Hence, evermore.
His sovereign majesty
May we in glory see,
And to eternity
Love and adore.

For Christians whose faith recrowns Christ each season as they celebrate the anniversary of His resurrection—Christ's victory over death, there is no more glorious hymn than "Come, Thou Almighty King!"

Through nearly 200 years it has been a favorite with all church groups and denominations, yet to this day its authorship is in doubt. It was probably composed during the era of the Wesleys, and some hymn-lovers give Charles Wesley credit for its composition because it was found, in 1737, printed on a little leaflet with two other hymns known to have been written by Wesley. Other authorities suggest that George Whitefield eminent English preacher, may have been the author.

Whoever the composer was, he gave the world one of its most inspiring lyrics and one which through the years will continue to stand as a bulwark of strength for the religious faith of human kind. Its tune was written in 1789 by Felice Giardini, a widely known violinist, famous for his work in concerts and as conductor of the Italian Opera in London.

Before Giardini provided the tune which has become so popular, and a century afterward, the English tune for "God Save The King" which is the same as was used for our "America" was linked with the hymn. In the days of the American Revolution, a congregation of patriotic colonists—so the story goes—was at worship in a little church on Long Island when the service was interrupted by the arrival of a company of Hessian troops.

The captain of the company stalked down the church aisle and ordered the church people to sing "God Save The King". The organist started the tune but the people, true to the cause of the American colonies, and to their God, sang the words of the hymn:

"Come, Thou almighty King!
Help us Thy name to sing."

The soldiers, it is reported, withdrew from the chapel without harming the Americans and without attempting to enforce their demand.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A PRETTY GIRL WEARS PRETTY LINGERIE

Gift lingerie should not be laid aside even if it's "too pretty to wear." The fact that it's forthy should not make it fragile.

That lingerie you received for Christmas may indeed be of "such stuff that dreams are made on," but it has modern day, even dreams have their practical aspects. So don't slip into the old-fashioned habit of laying aside your lovely new lingerie because it's too pretty to wear. Just remember that all that's frothy is not fragile.

The newer fabrics—even if they look like spun-sugar confections—are as durable as an old cotton nightie, and require much less care. By following a few simple wash-and dry rules, you can keep your prettiest lingerie holiday-bright with little effort. And, besides...you'll feel, so much nicer about yourself underneath your prettiest frocks you look just as lovely as you do from the outside.

One of the first rules is to wash all lingerie frequently. Slips and pantie should be washed after each wearing, gowns after three or four wearings. Lingerie that requires a the first sign of soil. Ingrained dirt tends to harm fabrics and is difficult to remove completely. Even "miracle fiber" fabrics.

In washing use specially soiled spots, pre-treat them with a soft, non-alkaline, mild, pure soapy fingers before washing the entire garment.

Use only very hot water when washing any garment that contains elastic—such as as elastic shirring or leg or waist bands.

Be sure to remove all ribbons before washing eyelet embroidery. It simplifies washing and ironing. And, if "doing up" a double panel slip, iron the underneath panel first to avoid distortion. With all fabrics which require ironing—even a light pressing—iron with the straight of the grain, in other words, the direction of the fabric when doing the iron.

Press ruffles by running the iron along the outside edge first—then pulling out the ruffle, stitching, swinging it from right to left along the ruffle.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

We are having a wedding reception and I am sure you would have in your file a nice Fruit Punch (non-alcoholic) to be used just for the toast.—Mrs. G. O'H.

ANSWER:

I sure have.

RECEPTION PUNCH
(Non-alcoholic)

These amounts make 50 to 60 average servings. Three cups sugar, 12 cups water, 1 cup strong tea, 12 oranges, juiced, 12 lemons, juiced, 1 32-oz. bottle grape juice, 1 15-oz. tin crushed pineapple, 2 bottles gingerale (large), Boil sugar and water together five minutes, add tea and chill.

Add orange, lemon and grape juices, and pineapple. Chill in refrigerator 2 hours at least. Just before serving add gingerale and ice cubes. If served from punch bowl garnish with slices of orange and lemon and whole or sliced maraschino cherries.

QUESTION:

Have any information on coffee? How to be sure of good coffee; different kinds of coffee; the blending of coffee; coffees such as mocha and Arebian for after dinner coffee; just any information to make sure that the next step on the menu lives up to the previous courses. Keep up the good work in 1956. Don't know how I ever cooked before your column came along.—Elizabeth S.

ANSWER:

In my town there are two small firms that sell coffee blended and ground to specification. The commonly advertised brands of coffee are almost always from Santos in South America, which is the most economical source of supply. The mocha and java coffees come from Arabia and are seldom blended (that I know of). But Costa Rica and Columbia coffees are quite superior and if pulverized ground

6 Canadians Have Earned Victoria Cross, 35 Still Living

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A small Maltese cross of bronze, of little intrinsic value, has been won by 96 Canadians. It is the Victoria Cross.

The cross, cast from cannon captured at Sebastopol in the Crimean War, has embossed on the side the royal Crown surmounted by a rose, and underneath the simple motto "for valour."

Jan. 29 marks the 100th anniversary of the establishment in 1856 by Queen Victoria of the award of heroism. At least seven of the 35 living Canadian VC winners may attend the centennial celebration in London this month.

POSTHUMOUS AWARDS

Thirty-six Victoria Crosses were awarded to Canadians posthumously. Twenty-five Canadian VC winners have died since their acts of gallantry.

Canadians won 93 VCs in the First World War, 16 in the Second World War, five in South Africa, three in the Indian mutiny, one in Crimea and one at Little Andaman Island in 1945.

The first Canadian to win the cross was Lieut. Alexander Dunn of Dunn of Dunbar, a member of the 11th British Hussars, he took part in the charge of the light brigade at Balaclava Oct. 25, 1854. He saved the lives of a sergeant and a private by riding down Russian lancers. Dunn was killed several years later in the second Abyssinian campaign when his own rifle discharged accidentally.

One Victoria Cross was won in Canada, by Pte. Timothy O'Hea of Raglan township in the Ottawa valley. He was born in Fenelon Falls, near Quebec City, he extinguished a fire on a railway train.

Between 1858 and 1881 the award of the Victoria Cross was authorized for more than 100 separate deeds, nearly all in the face of the enemy.

One of the Canadians who won the VC was a Negro, Able Seaman William Hall of Horton, N.S., who was awarded the high honor for valor at Lucknow in 1857. Hall died in 1904 at the age of 77.

IN REGULAR ARMY

Two Canadian VC winners still living are members of the Canadian army: Sgt. Ernest Alvia (Smoky) Smith and Lt.-Col. John Foster Mahony, both of Westminster, B.C.

Another living winner is Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard E. W. Turner of Quebec City, who won the VC Nov. 7, 1900, in the South African War when he was a lieutenant. There are 38 surviving Canadian VC winners of the First World War, eight of the Second World War.

Two of the best known are politicians — Labor Minister Gregg. "for most conspicuous bravery and skilful leading during operations near Courcelette, Sept. 26 to 28 1916," and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich, "for most conspicuous bravery and skilful leading during operations under his command" at Passchendaele Oct. 30-31, 1917.

Honorary colonel of John Weir Foote, a chaplain in the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, won the VC for valor at Dieppe in 1942, now is Ontario minister of public welfare.

A total of 1,347 VCs have been awarded in the British Commonwealth and 634 of the recipients are still living. Other ranks receive $10 a year for life. Officers receive $70 a year. Posthumous awards may be increased to $75. In the case of posthumous awards, $20 is paid to the widow.

GALLANT AIRMAN

An example of the acts of heroism displayed in winning the Victoria Cross is the citation which accompanied the award in 1942, to William George Barker, Royal Air Force, Barker, later a lieutenant-colonel, died Sept. 12, 1930. His citation reads:

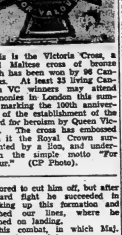
"On the morning of the 27th Oct., 1918, this officer observed an enemy two-seater over the Forêt de Mormal. He attacked this machine, and after a short burst it broke up in the air. At the same time a Fokker biplane attacked him, and he was wounded in the right thigh, but managed, despite this, to shoot down the enemy machine in flames.

"He then found himself in the middle of large formation of Fokkers, who attacked him from all directions, and was again severely wounded in the right thigh, but succeeded in driving down two of the enemy, one out of control.

"He lost consciousness after this and his machine fell out of control. On recovering, he found himself being again attacked heavily by a large Fokker biplane, which by one machine, he deliberately charged and drove it down in flames.

"During this fight his left elbow was shattered, he was again fainted, and on regaining consciousness found himself being attacked, but, notwithstanding that he now was severely wounded in both legs and his left arm shattered, he dived on the enemy machines and shot it down in flames.

AGAIN ATTACKED



"Being greatly exhausted, he lifted his head from the joy-stick, but was met by another machine, which attacked and sedeavored to cut him off, but after a hard fight he succeeded in breaking up this formation and reached our lines, where he landed in safety.

"This combat, in which Maj. Barker destroyed four enemy machines (three of them in flames), brought his total successes up to 50 enemy machines destroyed, and is a notable example of the exceptional bravery and disregard of danger which this very gallant officer has on all occasions displayed his distinguished career.

"Maj. Barker was awarded the Military Cross on 10th January, 1917; a Bar to the MC on 18th July, 1917; the Distinguished Service Order on 18th February, 1918; second bar to Military Cross on 16th September, 1918; and bar to Distinguished Service Order on 2nd November, 1918."

The big majority of Canadian VCs have been won by the infantry. An example:

Lance-Corporal Peter Robertson, No. 233665, 27th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force. On Nov. 4, 1917, rushed a German machine gun and after a desperate struggle with the crew killed two and then turned the gun on the remainder. Carrying the captured machine gun, he led his platoon to the final objective. The citation concludes:

"Later in the day, when counter-attacks were badly wounded in front of his platoon position, Robertson went out and carried one of them in under very severe fire. He was killed just as he returned with the second man."

TWEED

Agricultural Society Holds Annual Meet

TWEED.— The annual meeting of Tweed Agricultural Society was held Saturday afternoon, in the Legion hall, Municipal Building with a good attendance of officers and directors present.

President Ross Ketcheson of Madoc, presided.

Correspondence was read and filed.

The president in his opening remarks thanked all for their support, and co-operation during his two-year term of office. He mentioned the fact that some of the weakness on Fair Day was the lack of help, not enough young people interested and offering their help. Tweed fair in the past few years has grown to be a large fair in this section.

Treasurer H. Rush presented his financial report in detail. A lengthy report, one of the best reports in the history of Tweed Fair.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural representative, of Stirling, congratulated Tweed Fair Board on the success it was making. He was sorry that he was unable to visit Tweed fair last year. He also spoke of the 4-H Clubs mentioned the young people were taking in the calf clubs and the young stock judging, and the calf club in fairs last year. He said, that any time he could be of any help to the Tweed Fair Board, to call on him.

REPORTS OF VARIOUS COMMITTEES

Mr. E. Hodgins reported on race horses, stating that the number of horses entered for Tweed Fair Day was a difficult problem for the committee. Too many horses and too little room. He said more money too low for four races. The prize money should be in proportion in money which the committee decided to increase to a total of $400 for four races. Also the best horse race in the district, and the best in the history of Tweed Fair.

Mr. D. Fleming reported that trees had been set above the light and heavy horses.

Mr. Fleming took this opportunity to congratulate the president, secretary and treasurer on the fine year's work.

Mr. H. M. Coulter, chairman of committee for cattle, reported all cattle were the best ever seen at Tweed Fair. Also that the cattle were much interested in the calf club. No complaints with regards to the judges. He suggested some changes in prize list at the next meeting. Also some change in the field crop for this year.

SECRETARY—SWINE

T. C. Graham reported on sheep and swine, different secretary, and the prize list. He also suggested that better accommodations for the judges be provided. He commended the young judges and thanked Mr. Thomas Lyons and Gordon Lyons for their co-operation.

Mr. B. J. Hunt reported race track in good condition.

Mr. Fred Healey congratulated the Fair Board for the splendid way they carried on the fair and suggested for the same period as last year. Also suggested that Tweed attend district meeting in Belleville, on January 26.

Mr. C. Bateman congratulated the president and officers for the fine year's work.

Mr. F. J. Fitzpatrick, district director of District No. 3, spoke at length.

After listening to all the reports he was instructed by the Agricultural Board on its success. He had a lot of helpful suggestions which he suggested should be put into effect. He suggested that Fair Boards should have a meeting in the old prize lists and make up a complete new one as prize lists should be up to date. He also suggested that some changes be made in the prize money and the classes in the cheese.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the Legion at this time for the use of their hall.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The new president vacated his chair and Mr. Fitzgerald conducted the election of officers for 1956 as follows:

President, Mr. B. J. Hunt; 1st vice-president, Mr. T. Graham; 2nd vice-president, Mr. Wm. Williams; Mr. William S. "Bill" McCrea; secretary, Mr. Ivan Bateman; assistant secretary, E. Heidman; treasurer, H. Rush.

Mr. Hunt took his seat as new president of Tweed Fair and delegates were appointed to attend convention in Toronto.

PLANS TO REORGANIZE

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Labor party Wednesday announced a $10,500,000 new plan for national reorganization in an effort to restore its lost strength after defeat in last May's general election. The party's national executive committee has agreed to recommend that fees paid by each of its 5,000,000 trade union members be raised by 1d. Labor party adherents should be increased from sixpence to nine-pence a year.

The regular meeting of Crescent Rebekah Lodge was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening.

Official Visit Paid to Italian W.I.'s

RAWDON. — Mrs. Davey, an elected member of the W.I., has recently paid an official visit to Italy, to visit the Italian Women's Institutes, which were organized two years ago. She joined a party of 40 who made a tour to the south of Italy. Here for two years institute instructors have taught the people to reclaim the land; to keep fowl out of their gardens; to use manure and the ines to use farm machinery in place of the mule and the wife.

Individual programs are planned for each village and then instructors are brought to help themselves.

American aid (both money and experts) is trying to redeem the countryside. Mrs. Davey saw a piece of unreclaimed land, (formerly infested with bandits), now growing olives. The country roads are provided with a hoose and two cows. They also have machines and co-operatives and get expert advice.

These people are growing tobacco, melons, oranges, lemons, tangerines, vegetables and corn. Their countryside with no flies and no mosquitoes.

INSTITUTE GROUPS

These Italian Women's Institute groups are trying to help Italians to educate and teach these women how to enjoy the benefits of the land. They are taught that man how much he will gain when his wife has been taught how to understand a good home life with no outside drudgery.

These Italian women are now asking for exchange visits with other countries. There are correspondence courses available for tours. Mrs. Davey in her recent report in England said: They are only two years old, but these Italian Institute women have great ideas and it was a real privilege for me to pay them a visit and get to know them so well."

Composer of Beautiful Melodies

By Nicholas Mika

(Article 16)

One of the most beloved musical masterpieces that charms everyone everywhere and is reproduced on millions of records was composed in America. To be exact it was born in a small village in Iowa while the master was listening to the songs of birds and the wind caressing the ripening fields. It is the famous Humoresque.

The man who wrote it came from far-off Bohemia. He lived for a while in New York, but while he was fascinated by the big city and her bustling waterfront, he felt lost and helpless when he had to cross a busy street. So in the summer-time he moved to the country and lived among the farmers.

As a child he loved to listen to the folk songs and watch the colorful dances of his people and the tunes of the Slavonic rhythms were deeply embedded in his soul. His father was a butcher and he wanted his son to take over the business. Perhaps he would have done so had he cared for meat but he preferred to suffer hunger and poverty as a music student in Prague rather than make sausages.

LIVED IN ATTIC

He found a dreary attic room and to cut his expenses to a minimum he shared it with five other students. He had too much ey to rent a piano, so he closed his eyes and with stiff fingers tapped his melodies on the table while the wind blew through the cracks in the window. Sometimes he was asked to play in a coffee-shop and he was cheerful and happy when he got a few pennies and a warm meal. Cheerful he was all his life. He felt like a king when finally he could afford to rent a piano for a little while although it was so old that to play on it was a miracle.

His music poured out of his heart as easily and spontaneously as a well. To use his own words, he studied with God, with the birds and the trees and with himself. He never intended to be a great musician, but the world soon called him one of the greatest. When he wrote his Slavonic Dances his fame spread not only across his country but throughout Europe and across the ocean. He was invited to London and crowds welcomed him enthusiastically.

LOVED TO PLAY CARDS

He loved to travel because he was like a little boy fond of boats and locomotives. Another passion of his was to play cards. But when he lost he furiously threw the cards on the floor and left the room. He never discussed anything but music with friends and when they tried to talk about another subject, he became uneasy and bored.

For three years he lived in New York as director of the National Conservatory of Music. And once again, it was the folk songs that attracted him and stirred his heart. This time they were the simple songs of the Negroes. He came to love these songs so much that they brought tears into his eyes and from their melodies was born one of the greatest symphonies, his Symphony From the New World.

When it was first performed in New York the audience cheered him with such enthusiastic applause that newspapers claimed, no other composer ever had such a triumphant success.

But fame and triumph never stilled his longing for his homeland, for the quietly flowing rivers and the peaceful villages among the Bohemian hills. So his beautiful symphony was like a farewell to his people and to the land he loved.

WINTER FLOCKS

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Have you ever seen hundreds of robins in one flock? September is the time when they gather in large companies preparatory to their flight south. Then all along the way they watch for suitable spots to land for rest and food. Mountain ash trees loaded with bright red berries are always very attractive to them, and they rarely move on until not a berry remains.

By January, thousands of robins, in scattered groups, are to be found on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, there to remain, eating the ripening fruit, until time to start north once more.

Crows also like to live in colonies as soon as the breeding season is over. Gradually flocks of the more northerly ones move down to join their American friends for the winter. They gather each night in communal roosts, some of which date back beyond the memory of any person living now. A roost may hold as many as several thousand birds, and the flocks may spread out in the daytime over a distance of 25 square miles.

Many species spend the entire winter in flocks, whether they be the kinds that migrate or those that stay here. Those which are accustomed to remain in the north expect bad weather, and are equipped for cold and snow; but regular migrants are not prepared for hard times in their southern holiday haunts. And so when the south has a severe winter there are great losses among these visitors from Canada.

Pine grosbeaks, waxwings, pine siskins, redpolls, both kinds of crossbills, and snow bunings are all birds that we might encounter in settled Canada on a January day, and all of them like to travel around the country in winter flocks. These grosbeaks remain in groups where they can find conifers for the sake of their seeds; mountain ash for their berries, and weed stalks.

Waxwings, announcing their presence with queer little squeaks, stay close together in flight, and in unison alight on the top of a fruit tree where they may remain for several minutes before beginning to feed. Siskins pay attention to themselves by giving a distinctive, penetrating "tee-e-e-e-e" call as they fly overhead. Their winter diet consists of seeds of alder, birch, cedar and the conifers.

Redpolls and crossbills sometimes are found by themselves, and sometimes join flocks of siskins, as their food preferences are similar. The goldfinches are occasionally found travelling about with these other birds, evidently drawn to them by a desire for company.

PROTESTS CENSORSHIP

PARIS (Reuters)—The General Assembly of the National Federation of the Provincial Press in France has protested strongly against "the abusive control or even censorship exercised by the representatives of the government over news coming from Algeria, which makes it impossible for the Agence France-Presse and the German papers to provide an objective report on events in North Africa."

Leather Money

By LEONARD L. KNOTT

Illustrated by Jack Tremblay

In a big stone building that looks like a fort and stands behind a high stone wall with iron gates on Ottawa's Sussex Street, men and women are busy making Canada's money. The building is called the Royal Canadian Mint and it is a favorite visiting spot for those who come to see Canada's Capitol.

Inside the Mint are machines which stamp out the pennies and nickels and dimes and quarters and fifty-cent pieces that Canadians use for money. Once in while, too, the workers in the mint make silver dollars. Visitors are welcome at the Mint, but they are not given any samples.

Canada's coin-making today is very speedy and efficient. But there was a time when the money in one Canadian city was made by the shoemaker and was made not of gold or silver or paper but of leather.

It was in 1836 in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. The coinage used in the island colony was received from England and consisted of shillings increased by sixpence and the people of Charlottetown grumbled and complained because there were not enough coins to trade at the market and at the fish wharves.

Instead of paying for goods with money, customers were giving their grocers and fish merchants notes written by hand. These became lost and torn and blurred and were a great nuisance. Some paper money was printed but it had no real value.

In March of that year, William Fitzpatrick, a cheerful shoemaker who had saved his silver and gold coins over the years from his fortune of several hundred pounds to the government treasury and deposited it there. Then, he went back to his shoemakers' shop and cut and tooked out a large quantity of leather notes each one of small value, worth a shilling or less. He used sole leather for shoes to make his coins.

Altogether, he made just enough coins to balance the deposit he had left in the treasury office. His notes were therefore as "good as gold" and people willingly accepted them as real money. Fishermen and farmers, merchants and professional people soon began paying their bills and collecting their accounts in Fitzpatrick's leather money. The practice continued for some time until the currency situation improved. Then, Fitzpatrick took his notes to the treasury and took out his coins. The emergency was over.

Coinage was scarce in Charlottetown until 1872, but the shortage was never as serious as it was in 1836. Finally, like the other parts of Canada, Prince Edward Island changed over to dollars and cents instead of pounds, shillings and pence and no longer had any need for the shoemaker's money.

CLAIMS 30TH VICTIM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wreck of a Santa Fe passenger train last Sunday night has claimed its 30th victim, Laura Bryning, 32, of Camp Pendleton, Calif., died in a hospital Thursday of injuries suffered in the derailment of the two car diesel streamliner.

SEVEN IN TWO YEARS

BENEVENTO, Italy (Reuters)—Nunzia Vitagliano, a workman's wife, gave birth to twins here Thursday, and so became the mother of seven children in two years. In January, 1954, she had twins and last March triplets. All children are living.

Only Ford offers you and your family all the safety of LIFEGUARD DESIGN

FORD'S NEW SAFETY STEERING WHEEL HAS A RECESSED CENTRE TO ABSORB IMPACT!

Ford's extensive crash research proved that most serious injuries to drivers are caused by contact with the steering post. . . so Ford designed the famous Lifeguard steering wheel with the hub recessed 3 inches below the rim. In the event of an accident, the deep-centre construction acts as a cushion under impact, to decelerate the driver and give him extra protection against striking the steering column. This life-saving new steering wheel is standard equipment on every one of Ford's 18 Thunderbird-inspired models!

FORD'S NEW SAFETY DOOR LATCHES KEEP DOORS CLOSED-UNDER STRESS!

Statistics show that chances of injury are twice as great if an occupant is thrown from the car, so every '56 Ford is equipped with new safety-hold door latches. These latches have a plate that provides a double grip, and if the door-frame stretches, as it is apt to do in a collision, Ford's safety-hold door latches give added protection against doors springing open, help keep you within the safety of the car.

FORD OFFERS THE COMFORT AND SAFETY OF SEAT BELTS FOR BOTH FRONT AND REAR PASSENGERS!

Safety authorities agree that seat belts, properly made and installed, can substantially reduce accident injuries. Ford's new seat belts are one-third stronger than those required for commercial airliners and they're anchored to a double-reinforced area of the floor structure! Available at small extra cost for both front and rear seats, they have buckles that can be easily unfastened with one hand.

YOU CAN HAVE THE ADDED PROTECTION OF PLASTIC-PADDED INSTRUMENT PANEL AND SUN VISORS IN FORD!

Many passenger injuries, doctors conclude, are caused by contact with the instrument panel or sun visors, so Ford developed a new, expanded plastic cushioning for instrument panel and visors that is five times more shock-absorbent than foam rubber! Lifeguard padding is available, at modest extra cost, on all models in all four series of the 1956 Ford.

A GOOD ONE

The Coxmen solved the Bourada puzzle last night pumping seven goals past the brilliant little goalie, every one of them well earned with the exception of the second period "camel that broke the Maggies' backs," when Vern Goyer's bounding goal-shouth shot deflected into the net off a Maggie defender.

The Terps won it—and deserved to win it. They won it the hard way, through sheer hard driving, checking and close defensive work. Bourada had them tabbed but good in the first period when they threw everything at him but the post attire. But after that second period goal they raced in on concerted drives and every goal was clean-cut.

They say that stickhandling is a lost art in modern hockey but Gus Leonard's brilliant solo effort was a treat to watch. The Peterborough star took the rubber at his blueline and in a beautiful display of weaving and stick-handling, eased his way through the entire Maggie squad to score a picture goal.

And the Terps gave bump for bump and check for check with the riverside crew. In that hectic third period Vern Goyer, as mild-mannered a player as there is in the province, threw his gloves and piled into McManus. That worthy's sweater was peeled off his back like a banana skin with Vern on top and for a second or so it looked as though a Donnybrook might develop. Both got the gate as did MacDonald who got into the act with another Maggie.

Shorthanded two players the Terps were not to be denied. The Maggies had lost some of their punch with the Duncans in durance vile, but they could not cope with the win-hungry Terps who threw back all their last-minute efforts in one of their best two-way exhibitions of the season.

TWO UP

Herr Alfred Pusls, an acrobatic scion of Austrian forebears may not lead the Home-of-the-Waltzes hockey team to victory, but the agile little cuss is deserving of an Olympic medal of some sort. Methe the mayor, burgomaster or whatever they call the boss-man of Cortina, should name a day after him, after all he comes from the land of Strauss, because yesterday Herr Alfred laid violent siege to champion puck-dasher of the Olympic hockey tournament.

Herr Pusls delighted the hockey hoi-polloi of the world's nations with his athletic performance when the Austrians were playing the Italian team. The little guy with the upholstered underpants—Mr. Saunders and gave the Austrian version of the Charleston in an ice-lane tampoline display that would have pollicked the hearts of Canadian fans.

He had the ex-Canadiens who cavort for the sunny seas of Italia, gargle-eyed with his goal-keeping calisthenics.. He not only stopped all of their shots with the exception of a couple or so, but daringly wobbled out of his own blueline to give a neat exhibition of checking the incoming forwards—and then saw the hit of the show, stealing the expected thunder from our Dutchies who relieved themselves of a more or less mediocre exhibition.

But yesterday? Ah that was different.

The stars may have fell in Alabama but they were nothing to the avalanche of pucks that nearly enveloped the pallaid little guy from the shadow of the Austrian Alps. The Dutchies, probably smarting from hearing about their more or less lacklustre exhibition against the Germans, exacted the toll in full. And no one knows that better than Herr Pusls.

The Flying Dutchmen with all broadsides firing, belched 75 shots at the plucky goal-plugger. Forty-six of 'em came in pairs. Alfie picked the wrong one on each occasion. The hemp behind Herr Alfie inflated itself at the rate of once every two minutes. Alfie was doing the Austrian version of the sailor's hornpipe as the Dutchies, off the goal diet, machine-gunned pucks at him with a monotonous regularity.

But it will not be as easy as all that over the rest of the tournament. The Czechs' team, considered by some to be as good if not better than the Russkys, upset the supposedly strong American team in a heartbreaking 6-3 tussle. Then there are the Sergios and Ivans from Moscow, who experts state, "are not the least less alarmed about the potential of the Canadians. Referee Louis LeCompte, well-known horsehoots, doesn't give the Russkys a high rating. Says they'll finish below the first three. Louis may be writing the home angle a little too much there. While the Czechs, who wiggle from political butterflies when opposing the Russ, may down the parsed company's etch, our five cents goes on the Moscovites to dust with the Dutchies for the world honors.

By the time this is read, the Dutchies should have chalked up their third straight victory. They met the Italian team this morning right after their workout on the asian pablum, and if the sunny sons' showing against the Austrians is any criterion the Bauer boys should not have had too much trouble in racking up three in a row.

High-Scoring Bilts Whip Irish 14-3 As Junior Teams Stage Goal Rampage

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fity the poor statistic keeper in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League! In three games Friday night, there were no less than 86 scoring points picked up by hungry goal seekers and their helpers.

Guelph Biltmores led the assault on the statistics with 40 points as they trounced Toronto St. Michael's Majors 14-3 at Guelph. Majors picked up six points.

At Kitchener, Toronto Marlboros were humbled 7-1 by Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks. Canucks rang up 17 points compared with two by Marlboros.

Barrie Flyers defeated St. Catharines Teepees 9-5 at Barrie as Flyer players got 16 points and Teepees 12.

Despite their loss, Teepees still hold down first place with 45 points, six more than second-place Canucks.

The 14 goals brought Biltmores' season total to 200, just 11 short of their 1954-55 record for 49 games. They have played 36 games this campaign for an average of 7.11 goals-a-game.

Bill Graham and Bill Sweeney each scored three goals for Guelph with Graham picking up three assists and Sweeney one. Gerry Goyer and Ed Shack each had two goals and four assists. Dan Belisle scored once and set up another three and Bob Forhan tied one goal and assisted on three others. Ron Howell stretched his point scoring to 21 straight games with a goal and an assist. Theo Jenson was the other Guelph marksman.

Bob McKnight, Pat Cushing and Noel Price split the scoring for Majors, who were without goaltender Bob Savage, Reg Fleming, Bob Watt, Pat Hannigan and Frank Mahovlich, all out with injuries.

MAKE SHIFT LINE

A crowd of 1,166 Kitchener fans watched as coach Jack Stewart formed a makeshift forward line with the injury-riddled Canucks. Defenceman Kent Douglas was moved to left wing with Kenny Gribbons at centre and Ab Martin at right wing. Douglas responded with three goals.

Defenceman Bob Duncan was a two-goal performer and singles went to Bob Beal and Wall Bradford. Centre Gary Collins saved Marlboros from a whitewash when he scored at 19:17 of the final frame.

Dick Cherry fired three goals and Roy Partridge two to lead Flyers' marksmen. Danny Patrick, Brian Smith, John Chaconwall and Irv Norrena were the other Barrie goal getters. Ab McDonald counted three. St. Catharines goals with singles going to Art Stratton and Elmer Vasko.

Hall Registers 10th Shutout As Mates Pour Home 7 Goals; 4th Straight Loss for Irvin

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Time is starting to run out for Chicago Black Hawks. If they hope to grab a National Hockey League playoff berth they'll have to start moving soon.

The Hawks were subjected to their most humiliating defeat of the season Friday night when they were walloped 7-0 by the now-powerful Detroit Red Wings.

It was the fourth straight set-back for fifth-place Chicago. They have only 22 games left in the campaign before the Stanley Cup playoffs roll around. The top four clubs move into post-season play.

The Wings racked up their biggest score of the campaign with three-goal splurges in each of the second and third periods before a small gathering of 3,300 fans at Chicago Stadium. They gave goaltender Glenn Hall good protection and helped the regulator his 10th shutout this season.

TWO EACH

Centres Earl Reibel and Metro Prystai and right winger Ted Lindsay each picked up two goals. Bill Dineen tallied the other. Lindsay's performance gave him 22 goals to 20.

Hall kicked out 25 Chicago drives. 11 in the second period. Hank Bassen grabbed 21 for Chicago.

The Wings moved another two points closer to the National Hockey League Canadiens. They have 55 points, 10 behind the Habs.

Toronto Maple Leafs made a move Friday to strengthen their defence corps. They purchased Jim Morrison in out with a severe charley horse. Leafs moved up junior defenceman Al MacNeil to take his place. The 20-year-old MacNeil has been great this season for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Orillia, Guelph Win Major Curling Trophies

TORONTO (CP)—Orillia won its fourth Ontario Silver Tankard Friday when the double-rink, skipped by Dr. C. Baillie and G. Fitzpatrick, defeated Welland 27-20 in the final.

Guelph won the Governor-General's Trophy with a 24-14 victory over Hamilton Victories. The consolation event of the Tankard, the Burden Trophy, went to London while Toronto Granites captured the Globe and Mail Trophy, consolation event of the Governor-General's Trophy.

Orillia had won the Tankard three times before Friday's victory, the previous championships being in 1885, 1933 and 1950. The competition was inaugurated in 1875.

Four of the players on the Orillia rinks Friday were members of the rinks which won six years ago—Small, Sterling, Ted Covington, Roy Hewitt and Bud Lamb.

CLOSE VICTORY

Orillia took a close 18-17 victory from Oshawa in one of the semi-finals to advance to the finals. L. Erskine of Oshawa defeated Fitzpatrick 12-7 but Baillie beat Rev. Peregrina 11-6 to give Orillia the one-shot triumph.

In the other semi-final, A. Dimarzilla and S. T. Hadley combined to give Welland a 20-13 win over W. A. Meyer and Sid Smithers of Galt.

Dimartzilla took an 11-10 edge from Hadley in the final but Fitzpatrick made up for Baillie's loss with a 17-9 win over Hadley.

A. Jones and J. Eccles won both their games over R. Davidson and St. Billings of Hamilton to give Guelph the Governor – General's Trophy. Guelph trimmed Hamilton 30-13 and Hamilton took Orillia 24-19 in the semi-finals.

In the final for the Burden Trophy, Russ Miller of London beat Kingston's Bob Millet 13-10 while A. L. McFie of Kingston was edging Bob Wilson of London 9-8. London took the two-game total 21-19. Collingwood was a 22-13 victim of London Kingston defeated Wingham 27-13 in the semi-finals.

Landy Cracks 4-Minute Mile, Second Fastest in History

MELBOURNE Australia (AP)—John Landy, i s a k y Australian school teacher who last year virtually decided to give up running for good, made the once fabulous four-minute mile look just humdrum today.

For the third time since he set the world record of 3:58 at Turku, Finland, on June 24, 1954, Landy burst through the four-minute barrier here today to win the Victorian state mile in 3:58.6—the second fastest mile on record.

Since Britain's Roger Bannister ran the first four-minute mile just over two years ago, what was once regarded as the unattainable goal of the track and field world has been reached eight times in five races.

Bannister did it twice—the second time when he beat Landy in the "Mile of the Century" at the British Empire Games in Vancouver, in August, 1954.

Last May three—Hungary's Laszlo Tabori and Britons Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson—all did under four minutes in the same race at London's White City.

CAPS COMEBACK

Landy's achievement today capped an outstanding comeback after a year away from the track. It was the first time the mile has been run in less than four minutes in Australia.

Earlier this month, Landy said he's planning to run a sub four minute mile during the Australia athletics championships in March.

He was discussing the possibility of his selection for the Australian Olympics team for the Games in Melbourne later this year.

Merv Lincoln, who finished second to Landy today, was timed in 4:00.6, good enough to put him among the top 10 milers of the world.

GAVE HIM A FIGHT

Lincoln gave Landy a fight, staying just behind until Landy moved away near the finish.

Landy said later he was only "reasonably satisfied" with his time.

"It was a good run but it was not what I wanted to do," he told a reporter. "To win the Olympics I must be able to run a mile in 3:55 or 3:54. I was trying to anticipate today what will be needed then. I have gone so far now I must keep on, but this time today can easily be duplicated overseas."

Landy added: "My time today can easily be equalled by European runners in their good conditions, but I think they will have to run here, too. Anyway, I am certain I can do better here."

TPTs Climb Into Fourth-Place Tie With 7-2 Victory Over Brockville

Four-Goal Splurge in Second Clinches Triumph for Coxmen In Boisterous Senior B Fray

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Loosing a hard-driving offensive the Belleville TPT's outscored, outchecked, outfought and out-bumped the Brockville Magedomas here last night, defeating the eastern crew by a 7-2 score in a boisterous senior "B" battle.

The victory hoisted the Coxmen level with the Cornwall Colts in fourth place in the standing, both clubs trailing the third place Maggies by five points.

The Teeps were full value for their victory and had the greater part of territorial play throughout the game. The outstanding work of Bourada in the Maggie nets held the score to what it was.

The Maggies took the ice-ice and opened high hand-shot from Bert Hill's pass at 18.06.

The penalty parade started early in the third period and the Maggies took advantage of man-power after Jake Wade got a high-sticking call. Bert Hill's lob-shot beat a loose puck from close in to make the count 5-2.

Two minutes later Guz Leonard brought the crowd to its feet with a beautiful solo effort. He took the puck at his own blue line and slickhanded his way smoothly through the entire Maggie team to park the puck neatly behind Bourada.

Erwin Duncan drew a pair of minors for cross-checking and holding, with Jim Gilmour getting a minor, then was tabbed with a match penalty after he stepped on the ice after two minutes. Murray Goyer, Bob Wilson and Pat Gilmour engineered a three-man drive with Vern taking the final shot for the Teeps' fourth-period goal.

Then came the rhubarb with the Teeps suffering the most in loss of manpower. They were not to be denied, however, as they added the punch gone from the Maggies' offensive, and little trouble in riding through to a well-earned victory.

The lineups:

Brockville — Goal, Bourada; defence, Slater, Thomson, Rodburn; forwards, Ed Duncan, Richardson, Er Duncan, Kuntz, Wallace, Gibson, Baldwin, McManus.

Belleville — Goal, Barclay; defence, Wilson, Wade, McMeeken; forwards, Goyer, MacDonald, Gilmour, Fryia, Leonard, Hill, Mulholland, Greenlaw, Murray.

Referees—Moon Flanigan, Ken Partis, Kingston.

Canada at Olympics

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO (CP)—The first Olympic record is expected to fall today as speed-skaters start their activities in the seventh winter games.

Seven contestants, including Johnny Sands of, Saskatoon, have beaten the Olympic mark of 43.1 seconds for the 500 metres. Buzz Sands, whose 42.8 is a tune-up race over the Olympic course is nearby Lake Misurina was the fastest time ever set by a Canadian, will probably have to do better to finish in the first six.

Lucille Wheeler, the St. Jovite, Que., redhead, already has won Canada's first point in the unofficial Olympic standings with a sixth - place finish behind Germany's Gesl Reichert Friday in the giant slalom competition. It was Canada's best showing in a skiing event since the winter Olympics began.

FINLAND TIES

In the unofficial point-standings based on a 10-8-6-4-2-1 rating for the first six in each event, the Russians picked up enough second placings in the cross-country event to tie Finland and Germany in first place with 20 points each. Canada's single point was good for eighth place, behind Austria, Sweden, the United States and Switzerland.

A victory by Finland's Veikko Hakulinen in the 30 - kilometre cross-country race and second for Reichert's victory over Austrian Josefina Pravda in the giant slalom disposed of the only two gold medals awarded as a result of Friday's first day of full-scale Olympic action.

Miss Wheeler's sixth-place finish in the giant slalom bolstered Canada's hopes for further honors in women's skiing, particularly in Sunday's downhill, in which the 21-year-old Montreal department store champion finished second two weeks ago in an international meet at Kitzbuhel, Austria.

Her 1:58.6 in Friday's race compared with 1:56.5 for the winner and 1:58.3 for pre-race favorite Madeleine Berthod of Switzerland and Andrea Mead Lawrence, the only Olympic champion, who tied for fourth place.

OTHER CANADIANS

Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa was 29th and Lorette Seguin of Quebec City 36th in the field of 49. Carlyn Kruger of St. Sauveur, Que., was one of four contestants disqualified for missing a gate and did not finish.

Hakulinen's success in the cross-country was a blow to Russian hopes as Vladimir Kusin, the pre-wanted

Will Probe Local By-Laws On Firearms

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Friday voted to investigate a trend by southern Ontario communities to pass by-laws regarding hunting and use of firearms within their boundaries.

The federation's annual meeting heard Walter Wilson of Waterloo say such regulations were threatening the sport in the southern part of the province.

Mr. Wilson cited the example of Pillington township in Wellington county which recently passed a by-law stating:

"No persons other than a resident of the township on his own land or a person carrying the written permission of said owner, shall discharge any firearm or air gun within the limits of the township."

The by-law provides a $50 fine or a month's jail term for infraction. Other delegates said some municipalities are seeking control of the sale of hunting licences. Licence sale now is controlled by the provincial government.

WILL INVESTIGATE

The federation voted to set up a committee to "thoroughly investigate the trend and misuses of township licenses."

The federation Friday demanded a boating ban on Lake Nipissing, North Bay, to look at the puck at his own blue line and slickhanded his way smoothly through the entire Maggie team to park the puck neatly behind Bourada.

Erwin Duncan drew a pair of minors for cross-checking and holding, with Jim Gilmour getting a minor, then was tabbed with a match penalty after he stepped on the ice after two minutes. DOESN'T THINK RUSSIANS SO "HOT"

One who doesn't share the opinion that the Russians are the team to beat is F-O J. H. (Lou) LeCompte, of Ottawa, who has been chosen as the North American delegate to referee Olympic hockey games in Cortina. A defenceman on the 1948 Ottawa RCAF Flyers, who is now stationed at Metz, France, LeCompte picks the Flying Dutchmen to win the title, with Czechoslovakia and the United States finishing ahead of Russia.

Solmar Notes

Poor Man's Shooting Club

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables.)

The weather was cold—freezing in fact—but the sun shone brightly and the air had that crisp, winter-quality in it that made being outdoors a pleasure, regardless of low temperatures. The upland shooting season had come and gone, likewise the big game season, deer and bear.

There were no guns in hand and ready, with the big setter, Spot, soliciting on point in a cover field. We walked in past the dog and out covered a flat ringneck rooster, cackling his protest. That was his last cackle—his swan song. Spot, picked and dressed, he awaits gustatory attention in one of the party's freezers.

Having collected enough ringneck to satisfy us, we next turned our attention to quail. Spot located the first covey in good style. If I live to be a hundred Mr. Steven Scridge, I don't suppose that I shall ever fail to have that moment of absolute confusion, invariably induced by a rising covey of quail.

We managed to knock down three of these little bust-bombs on the covey rise, when, what with tracking down singles and flushing another covey or two, we had in our game pockets what quail we wanted. Accordingly, we put the dog at heel and made our way across the fields toward the car and lunch.

WEEKLY DUCK DRIVE

After lunch we joined in the shooting at the weekly duck drive. For something more than an hour we crouched among the cat-tails on the hill, with the duck pond at our backs, periodically waiting to knock down fast - flying mallards. Duck season in Pennsylvania had been over for almost a week.

All of this sounds like a highly illegal day in the open. Not at all; we had been shooting on a regulated shooting ground—a "game farm"; Barnhart's Pheasantry, near Elizabethville, Pennsylvania. Every bird in the car had on its leg an official State band, showing that it had been legally shot under the game-farm permit and thus was legally possessed.

A great many people take exception to these regulated shooting grounds. The reasons for the objection have been published. No need to go into them here save to remark that none of them seem to stand up under close inspection and analysis. Conversely, many arguments in favor of regulated shooting preserves can be and are advanced.

For example, consider the length of the legal shooting season on upland game—the month of November. Except in the latter days when deer season takes over, On a game farm you can shoot for five months —October, to February, inclusive. At least, that is the law in Pennsylvania.

PLENTY OF GAME

How many days have you spent in open country, hunting for hours without firing your gun? That sort of thing definitely does not happen to you on a game farm. There is always plenty of game available.

At a great many game farms you can buy your own bones cooked meal when noon rolls around. On the contrary you can eat a picnic lunch at the car or find some food at a roadside restaurant.

Not many men are lucky enough to own a good bird dog. Conversely, almost every plainder gunner likes to shoot over a good dog when he, or she, has the opportunity. Most game farms have good dogs when he, or she, has the opportunity. Most game farms have good dogs which are available to the customers at a small fee, or in some cases, at no extra charge.

Set up it goes, straight across the board. You can or may not have good shooting in open country. At a well-run game farm you know before you go that you will have all the shooting you wish to pay for. In the not so humble opinion of this department, a good game farm rates as high to you value for the money you may spend there.

Marlene Rallies To Win Quarter Final

FORT LAUDERDALE Fla. (AP) Marlene Stewart of Toothill, Ont., trailing by three holes with only six left to play, rallied to beat Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta 2 and 1 in the quarter final round of the Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament Friday.

The championship field, meanwhile, slimmed down to four survivors as the women amateur players shot two rounds.

In other quarter final matches, Joanne Goodwin, Dartmouth, Mass., defeated Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, 4 and 3. Connie Swift Berger, Buffalo, N.Y., beat Wanda Sanches, Rio Rancho, La. 4 and 3, and Janie Dobbin, St. Louis, defeated Charlotte Decosen, Miami Beach, 2 and 1.

Miss Stewart meets Miss Goodwin today and Miss Berger plays Miss Dobbin. Miss Stewart was one over par on the end of nine, then lost the 10th and 12th holes to the three down.

She rolled at the next hole, however, and closed out the match by winning five straight holes. She shot a par four on the 17th hole but Miss Kirby, whose play on the greens was so steady Thursday, missed a 14-inch putt and lost her opportunity to win. Miss Kirby had also missed a three-foot putt on the 16th hole.

Hakulinen's time of 1:44:06 was barely good enough to nose out Veikko Hamalainen of Finland, clocked in 1:44.30. Two other Russians, Pavel Kolchin and Anatoli Shilukhin, finished ahead of Kusin.

Canada's only entry, Clarence Demmons of Canmore, Alta., was 37th in 2:00.1. Servold's brother, Irvine, lives his first taste of Olympic competition Sunday in the combined jumping while Andre Bertrand of Quebec City is a dark horse in the men's giant slalom.

Russians Defeat Sweden 5-1 As Italy, Germany Play to Tie In Battle Featured by Fights

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy, (CP)—A devastating 23-0 conquest of Austria has destroyed any lingering doubts as to the competence of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to defend Canada's Olympic hockey title.

And a couple of penalty-studded games involving European teams have done much to rid Canada and the United States of their unsavory international reputation as roughnecks of the rink.

Tournament favorites ran true to form Friday as Canada clinched the first of six places in the final round with their second straight shutout in preliminary competition play, apparently fully recovered from their listless showing against Germany in Thursday's 4-0 victory.

The Russians knocked off Sweden 5-1 in an impressive display. Italy battled Germany to a 4-0 standstill.

UNFAMILIAR ROLE

In ice deportment the Canadian and American entries were cast in the unfamiliar role of angels.

Penalized four times in Thursday's game, Canada was not sentenced only once Friday while the Americans collected one apiece. The Americans and Czechs also shared four minutes of penalty time between them.

The North Americans, dubbed "gangsters" by an unfriendly press in past international tournaments, drew afford to be palsied as the unseemly goings-on made up the day's other two games.

Eight Russians and seven Swedes were banished by RCAF photographer FO Lucien Lecompte of Ottawa and his Dutch colleague, after them drawing the thumb in the first six minutes for a variety of the Dutchmen were home free after they disposed of the overmatched Austrians.

The Italians, with two ties in as many outings, have battled gamely with a chance of catching the Canadians in their four - team group. Two teams from each group qualify for next week's round-robin competition.

Austrian netminder Alfred Pollin, who thought he had troubles holding the superior Italians to a 3-2 tie Thursday, spent a memorable afternoon with the Canadian snipers.

He kicked out 53 shots and watched eight more hit the goalposts as the Dutchmen ran up the highest Olympic score since the old Toronto Granites helped themselves to 110 goals in a five-game tournament 32 years ago at Chamonix.

LATE GOAL DID IT

A late goal by Czech ace Vlastimil Bubnik finally killed the American's hopes of holding enlisted times to overcome one-goal deficits.

The Swedes ran out of gas after holding Russia's 1954 world champions to a 1-1 tie at the end of the first period. Eugeny Babich scored the first two Russian goals and fed Vsevolod Bobrov the third. Valentin Kuzin balled down the decision with two more.

The German-Italian hassle had the 8,000 spectators in an uproar, largely because of the gentlemanly feud between German defenceman Toni Ehrenstraler and Aldo Mandelli, a 21-year-old Italian-born forward who learned to play hockey—and a few other things—in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

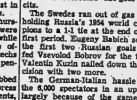
The pair had earned two penalties apiece in the third period for their gentlemanly exchange of elbows, bull-ends and slashes. As the game ended, they were throwing punches with several of the other players and a few spectators assisting in the fray.

It was while Bierzack was sitting out a slashing penalty with less than two minutes left that Ernesto Crotti of the host team earned the Italians their tie. Carmen Cicco, another native Sault Ste. Marie resident, was the other Italian marksman while veterans Hans Huber and Markus Egen got the German goals.

TWO PENALTIES

A third of the six former Canadians in the Italian lineup, defenceman Carl Mostmurro of Rouyn, Que., also earned two penalties in the thirty - third period in which seven of the game's 14 sentences were imposed by the Russian referees.

Bierzack returned in time to become embroiled with Manlacco in a brief exchange of punches which was broken up by the officials before hostilities became general.



The United States fares lightly regarded Poland today while the Swedes are expected to win a final berth by whipping off a weak Swiss entry. The Dutchmen complete their preliminary schedule against Italy tonight.

EVERYBODY'S SPORT

Bowling, the largest participant sport in Canada, is good, clean fun. It's the one game that's open to the whole family from the youngest to the oldest . . . and family games can easily be arranged. Bowling does more to promote good fellowship in offices, factories, clubs, churches and among neighbours than any other sport. You can enjoy it to the limit whether you are bowling for the first time or are a lifetime enthusiast. It's healthful exercise whether you are an afternoon social bowler or a 'major leaguer'.

So if you are among those who have yet to start bowling you are missing a great opportunity for exercise, mental relaxation and good friends. If you don't belong to an organized Club ask your bowling alley operator to suggest the hours when you might get some initial practice. Or you can get a group of your friends together to begin by interesting a few of your fellow workers or neighbours in the idea . . . (your alley manager will be glad to help).

If you wish any advice on any aspect of bowling you are invited to write to us—Mabel McDowell or Ed. Moody at Molson's Bowling Clinic, Box 4030 Terminal 'A' Toronto, Ontario.

Maroons Edge Stratford 6-4

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons fired two goals in overtime Friday night to edge Stratford Indians 6-4 in an Ontario Hockey Association senior A game before 2,000 fans.

Eddie Johnston, regular netminder for Montreal Junior Habs was a big factor in the Chatham win. He was brought up by coach Murph Chamberlain to replace regular goalie Marv Edwards, injured in practice Tuesday night.

Stratford led 2-1 at the end of the first. In the second period Chatham picked up two goals to take the lead 3-2.

Stratford got two more goals early in the third to go in front lead 4-3. With Jim Conway of the Maroons scoring the tying goal at 16:41 to send the game into overtime.

The first overtime goal did not come till the 7:13 mark on a beautiful passing play with Baldwin getting the goal and assists going to Unger and Power at 9:35. Stratford polled their goalie, Don Head, but the move backfired with Lloyd Ferguson notching the final goal of the game at 9:45.

GETS 30 YEARS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jesse Flores, 28, once a top lightweight contender who fought in Madison Square Garden, Friday was sentenced to 30 years in prison on narcotics charges. Flores' wife, Carmen, 28, was given a 20-year term and her brother, Alfred Garcia, 22, got 5 years.

Keenan Wynn Prime Example Of How TV Changes Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Keenan Wynn is a prime example of how television has changed the acting profession.

The talented son of comic Ed Wynn spent 14 years under contract to MGM. He appeared in more pictures than anyone else on the lot, outside of Lon. His total: 68 movies.

He was always there to toss Esther Williams a towel, egg Van Johnson on to heroic deeds or play Howard Keel's best friend. Once in a while he would come through with a role he could make into a little gem.

It was comfortable, well-paying life, but not really challenging. Keenan, who was making a name for himself as a dramatic actor on the stage before signing at MGM, decided last spring it was time to get out.

"I had two years to go, but I knew it was time to leave," he says. "The studio was very nice about it, and I am certainly grateful to them. I was there throughout the years of my personal upheaval—working there kept me going, whereas I might not have made it if I had been an actor out looking for jobs."

Keenan was given his release last March and his career has been booming ever since. He gives much of the credit to TV. He has done six live shows, five half-hour films as well as five features. The latest: "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit."

He hasn't been back after appearing last week on Perry Como's show (TV said it is stealing with a licence; it was a breeze"). The week before he had appeared in an hour-long drama as a TV comic, a performance which brought raves and a lot of people see you. It's not like sitting around a studio."

Minor Hockey

The Black Hawks and Maple Leafs wound up the pee wee schedule with victories this morning. Hawks downing the Bruins 3-1 while Leafs defeated the Red Wings 4-2. In the other game, the Rangers and Canadiens fought to a 2-2 tie.

Results of the three bantam fixtures will appear in Monday's paper.

Stu Mulhead scored the winner and assisted on another in the Black Hawk victory. Ted Butcher and R. Turner also scored with Hull assisting on one. R. Burr accounted for the Bruin marker, a solo effort.

Peter Armstrong, Jimmie Chase, Arthur Lucas and Lorne Fitzpatrick each potted a goal for the Maple Leafs. R. Williams and A. Trudeau claimed assists. Cam Wallbridge and Tenhoope fired the Wing goals with Joe Clapp and Smith drawing assists.

Final standings, top scorers and playoffs will be published later.

Mustangs Ride Herd on Blues

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Faced by a record-breaking 38-point scoring effort by captain Ray Mousol, Mustangs of Western Ontario Intercollegiate basketball league that became a prelude to the foul line in the final stages.

A large crowd saw Mousol, tall pivot-man of the Mustangs and leading scorer in the senior Intercollegiate basketball race this season, top the former western school record held by George Wearring by four points. Wearring's mark was made against McGill in the 1943-50 campaign.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Sunday, Jan. 29, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Here is one fine day for thinking it out, then going about it all in slow-but-sure enough manner, and taking care not to step on others' toes along the way. Tact, and an extra prayer.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Think of the little things today, the ones usually forgotten, overlooked (but which are found necessary or the real improvements in the end). Start right at church. Don't be hasty.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — So much you thought you could do and have done earlier, but we all are tardy at times and realize it late. Just do better next time. But no reviewing in disturbed agitation. Smile.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Get the most out of today without rushing or becoming unnerved. Where there's a will there's a way can be applied with diplomacy even if for expression. Show your entertaining side.

July 2 3to August 23 (Leo) — Don't write too much, nor say too much and you will intrigue — they will want more. It's as important as not laughing too hardly, or overdoing whatever way errs. So this day asks sensible restraint.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Let there be no frowning nor misgiving. Take someone to church with you. Look on the right side, and give all the benefit of the doubt. You can still defend principle, maintain dignity.

September, 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Take the disturbances in stride — and you can do much with this day. There are more advantages than will show. They need uncovering, and by you. They may be the "sleepers" for tomorrow's gains.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Do not be too anxious for headway or results. Neither think the worst will result from mistakes. Do everything with success in mind (right success), and forget annoyances.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Excellent day for plans, research, study, hobby practice, reading, writing, outdoor exercise (in season), being actively interested in children's, welfare groups. Start at church.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Many times we do not realize the value of a little till late. Try to evaluate all you have, know and associate with: there are "gold nuggets" in everyone's backyard.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Take all in proper order, and don't have that rushed feeling, inside or out. Be happy about small benefits, thus enjoy better the bigger ones. Pray, have faith in those prayers.

February 21 to March 20 — Take just a bit longer and be sure it is right. This way save a great deal of time, a precious element. Don't neglect your spiritual duties, and God will remember you with fresh benefits.

You born today are versatile, likeable, sincere; may need a prod occasionally to make you accomplish in top-drawer manner. You react quickly to kindness but will not be driven. Here be careful to whom you listen (kind words can come from flatterers, schemers). Develop your imagination, put to use your (maybe dormant) talent for mechanic, reconstruction work. If you are not in these lines. Be decisive about what you know you ought to do, don't be easily dissuaded; pray daily, believe in those prayers; follow any new (worthy) advancement you can. Birthdate of: Wm. McKinley, 25th U.S. Pres.; Emmanuel Swedenborg, scientist; W. C. Fields, actor.

"MORE SENSITIVE THAN HUMAN EYE"

A new electronic device that amplifies light up to 40,000 times and literally sees in the dark is commercially production in the U.S. It is called the lumicon, and is described as "a major scientific break-through providing for the first time an electronic apparatus even more sensitive to light than the human eye." It is expected to have an important impact on many processes basic to science and industry. Here co-inventor Ralph E. Sturm is adjusting the controls of the lumicon to show how the device will provide doctors with the brightest X-ray images ever achieved in fluoroscopic examinations. It solves the problem of how to get better X-ray images without excessive radiation and for the first time permits fluoroscopic examinations in a lighted room. (Central Press Canadian).

Puppetry Develops from Hobby To Exciting Community Activity

EMO, Ont. (CP)—This village is little more than a speck on the map of Northwestern Ontario, but its 650 inhabitants—Indians, farmers, lumbermen and highway employees—are as theatre conscious as many city dwellers.

Every winter a large percentage of the population is actively engaged in theatrical productions.

Emo's annual drama and arts is typical of active interest shown by groups in 170 Ontario communities where 3,000 persons are participating in one of the oldest forms of theatrical productions—puppetry.

APPEALS TO ALL

In five years, puppetry has developed in Ontario from a hobby for a few to an interesting and exciting community activity that has captured the imaginations of persons of all ages.

The project, undertaken by community programs branch of the Ontario department of education, has spread through communities from Windsor to Kapuskasing and from Emo to Cornwall.

At the request of groups in a community, George Merten, puppetry adviser to the community programs branch and guiding genius of the project, will give puppet courses.

Instructions given by Mr. Merten, an RAF veteran with 27 years of puppetry experience, cover the full range, from string puppets known as marionettes, to hand and finger puppets and shadow puppets. Hand puppets can be made from the head of an old sock.

"A few personal friends about the house don't require heating, but add a good deal to the spice of life," says Mr. Merten.

The dining-room carpet or the dining-room table can serve as a stage for puppet production—a fact that makes it a hobby open to all.

WIDE VARIETY

Productions range from Gilbert and Sullivan to grand opera, and include ballet. Original productions, variety shows and original stories. In fact, almost every type of material, except words, is suitable.

"The wide range of crafts and arts involved makes it one of the most fascinating of all leisure-time occupations," says Mr. Merten.

Puppetry has brought the theatre into many communities where it has never existed before and has made possible, for the first time, a form of children's theatre in small communities.

Audiences now number in the tens of thousands. The Kapuskasing puppetry group takes its productions into surrounding logging camps by tractor-drawn sleds.

Mr. Merten travels about 20,000 miles a year through the province giving demonstrations, helping set up new puppet groups, lecturing to RCAF units where puppetry flourishes as a recreational activity, and generally guiding the overall program.

There are three large guilds operating in the puppetry field: the Toronto Guild of Puppetry, the Southwestern Ontario Puppetry Guild and the Eastern Ontario Guild of Puppetry. Their purpose is to advance the art, arrange festivals and encourage new persons to learn the skill.

Napanee Edges Trenton 9-8 In OHA Tilt

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton Intermediate "C" O.H.A. representatives came from behind here last night to tie a smooth working Napanee team only to lose 9-8 when Tim Williams beat goalie Hill with a gilded stazier that bounded along the ice and into the net before the Trenton netminder noticed it.

Napanee's very impressive break came at 16.30 in the last period

Four minutes earlier the Beale-Scott combination set off the red light behind Napanee. Five minutes before that Tim Williams from Stirabaz had provided a one point edge for the visitors. And so the game went after the opening period when Brady, Napanee and Strahan splurged with five goals to a pair planted for Trenton by A. Scott.

The only serious penalty was handed out to Linton of Napanee for charging.

The teams:

Napanee — Goal, Plumley; defence, Birchall, J. Green; centre, J. Brady; wing, H. Nornbough, Walt Gerow; subs, Fish, McAllister, Strahan, Williams, Perry, Linton.

Trenton — Goal, Hill; defence, L. Schmidt, Burke; centre, Beale; wings, Jones, A. Scott; subs, Barr, Reid, P. Scott, Smith, Bell.

Referee — Don Barrett, Fred Harrison.

FIRST PERIOD

1. Napanee, Brady, (Gerow, Rombough) 7.28
2. Trenton, A. Scott (Jones) 9.53
3. Napanee, Gerow (Green) 10.40

17. Napanee, Williams (Strahan) 18.30

Penalty — Linton, charging.

Basis of Policy May Be Decided By Report Given

TORONTO (CP)—Basis for a new policy of advertising alcohol through Ontario outlets may be decided by a report to be handed down soon by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, it was reported Friday.

LCBO spokesmen said the report will make recommendations to the government regarding its present policy of limiting such advertising and suggest possible changes.

The province now permits liquor, beer or wine advertising of an informational kind in Ontario newspapers, periodicals and public vehicles. By alcohol advertising on Ontario radio or television stations is authorized although CBC regulations permit beer and wine advertisements subject to provincial approval.

However, the Globe and Mail quotes Queen's Park officials as saying the government has no intention of changing regulations to permit beer and liquor advertising on TV and radio.

The newspaper quotes officials as saying the "subject, which has been under review by the liquor control board for some months, has never come before the Ontario cabinet, nor is it likely to this year."

BASED ON STUDY

The LCBO report will be based on three months' study of alcohol advertising which now enters Ontario from Quebec and the United States through publications, radio or television.

The spokesmen emphasized that no recommendations have "been made yet and none will be made until all required information has been gathered. Interested groups also would be questioned before the report was completed.

It was reported Friday that changes in the province's policy to permit television and radio advertising of alcoholic beverages would be approved by the LCBO this summer.

One report said Toronto Industrialist Harry Taylor, owner of Canadian Breweries Ltd., was preparing to sponsor Big Four football games this season. Sponsorship would require Ontario radio and television outlets.

Television rights to the Big Four games were purchased recently by the Royal Trust Company for a sum reported near $1,000,000, but the firm's client was not identified.

MILLION AFRICAN

For the last few miles of the royal tour, cheering crowds, wedged tightly together in a temperature of 85 degrees, set up a pandemonium of welcome.

At the waterfront, the Royal Navy frigate Magpie, Canadian commanded by the Duke, gave a royal salute of 21 guns.

Queen Elizabeth's dress of rose pink and white was set off by a pale pink hat with a wide upturned brim—designed to defeat the African sun. The Duke, in white tropical uniform of an admiral, wore the blue sash, of the order of the Garter.

Ironsi, 31, is the first African to be appointed governor of Nigeria's sovereign. He joined the army as a private soldier, leaving a Roman Catholic mission school at Kano 14 years ago.

MEETS LEADERS

The Queen and Duke spent a few moments talking to the major before meeting senior army, naval and air force commanders before walking to a saluting base for the royal salute by a battalion of African troops.

The Queen inspected the guard of honor before going to the royal pavilion for presentations to Nigerian leaders. There she stood beneath a canopy flown from Britain. Its red velvet roof, gold posts and gold and blue hangings, surmounted by a crown, brought a touch of the Coronation to the ceremony in a sweltering temperature of 85 degrees.

Canberra jet bombers in V formations flew high above the airport as the leaders stepped forward to meet the Queen.

The arrival of the Queen's airliner was radioed to London and the message was telephoned immediately to royal lodge in Windsor, where Prince Charles and Princess Anne are staying with their grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, and Princess Margaret.

The liner averaged 348 miles an hour in the flight to Nigeria with the help of tailwinds. It stopped there for refueling and covered the second leg of the journey to Nigeria at 322 miles an hour.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was in her room darning holes out of socks, and I said, Hay mah, can I go to the Saturday Kid Show at the Little Grand?

Yes, if you've saved enough out of your allowance to buy a ticket, ma said, and I said, Well jimmini-ee, ma, that's the trubble, I need money to get in.

That's too bad, ma said. It's a beautiful perfect sunshiny day, and you'll just have to make up your mind to stay out in it and suffer, she said, and I said, Gosh, ma G, there's a swell picture over there that would be good for my education, all about deep sea diving and how to escape from sharks, so cast I ma, can I please?

Dont start that endless wheedling and coaxing, ma said. If I always say good reason to go crouching in a dark room instead of running around in the sunshine, it will be a sad day for me and another ending, but as it is I want you you're just waiting your birth, she said, and I said, Well heck, ma, when I come out of the movie after watching those divers breathing nothing but raw oxygen down on the bottom of the ocean, I'll appreciate the open air 10 times more than before I went in. Aint that a good reason?

No, it's just nonsense, ma said, and I said, Well I know more good reasons.

You're quite welcome to them, ma said.

Meaning she didn't want to hear them, and I said, Aw G, ma, heck, I mean good night, ma, gosh.

Oh, I refuse to have my afternoon ruined, you'll find some change on my dressing table, ma said.

Proving you cant beat coaxing.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant—Rawdon Congregational Meeting Held

RAWDON — On Tuesday evening, fifteen people gathered at Mount Pleasant United church to conduct the year's business. The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, opened the meeting at 8.30 p.m., and all sang "Lead On, O King Eternal," followed by a Scripture lesson and prayer for guidance. Mr. Allen Reid gave a full report.

The pastor in his report of the session said: "There had been seven baptisms, one marriage and three burials at Mount Pleasant." A period of silence was observed for baby James Alex. Sharp, Allen Seeney and Merle Spencer. There are 60 families and 115 members. This year four were received by transfer and six by profession of faith.

The auditors, Messrs. Lindsay McKeown and Harry McAdam, reported all accounts correct.

YEARLY RECEIPTS

Allen Reid reported a balance of $273 for the congregation. The circuit treasurer, John Carlisle, had been paid $1,532. The plastic was given at a cost of $32. The Observer Every Family Plan cost $41. Paid to Parsonage board $75; furnace oil $15; insurance $15; interest $77. The amount received through envelopes and subscriptions was $1,483.46, and the anniversary thanksoffering was $544.

GEORGE YOUNG ESTATE

The George Young Estate Memorial Fund is almost $1700.

In the discussion the idea was put forth that this year some tangible memorial should be purchased for the church with the donor's name, but no action was taken.

Some felt that this estate fund should be used to purchase bonds and thus accrue more than bank interest.

George Young and his parents resided at Mount Pleasant for many years and the generous gift of $3,000 a few years ago was deeply appreciated. Some of the money was used to purchase an oil furnace and the rest is in a bank account.

The M. and M. treasurer, Kenneth Weaver, has remitted $307 to Toronto. The Sunday School treasurer, Mrs. Frank Jeffs, received $151 in collections.

Mother's day, rally day and white gift service received $90 for special M. and M. and Christian Education work. Quarterly supplies cost $308 and there is a bank balance of $62.

The Women's Missionary Society remitted about $344. They have had a loss in annual members. This year they purchased about $10 worth of literature; all the money was given systematically.

The Mission Band has 32 annual members and three honorary members. They raised their money by thankofferings, collections, donations, grab table, bake sale and sale of cards—a total of $130, and they remitted $128 to the Presbyterial.

BABY BAND

The Baby Band has five life and 19 annual members. They had thankofferings, donations, candy sales and travelling basket, which amounted to $45.41 and all of it was remitted to Presbyterial treasurer. The three organizations sent a total of $417.39 to Presbyterial treasurer. Last year's president, Mrs. Jeffs, explained the basis for the 1956 objective when each member is asked to contribute an additional 40 cents. The total asked for will be $439.

The church hall has a balance of $62.65 and in 1955 they decorated the building at a cost of $100 for paint and labor.

Mount Pleasant cemetery has a balance of $65. They paid $33 for caretaking. The cemetery perpetual upkeep fund has $1300 in bonds and there is a cash balance of $237.

TWO-BY-TWO CLUB

The Two-by-Two Club reported a balance of $112. During the year they provided tables and benches for the kitchen and the rooms in the basement at a cost of $72.

The choir reported a bank balance of $13.56.

The Women's Association has $852 on hand. The year's receipts were $560. During the year they purchased several items for the hall.

It was reported that the outside stairway to the basement is now completed and will be charged to the 1956 accounts. Several reports pertaining to Rawdon circuit as a whole were given for information only.

The Rawdon circuit Vacation School has a small balance of $5. They paid for text books, certificates and supplies and sent $20 to the Religious Education Council. 99 children were enrolled with 40 from the Mount Pleasant appointment.

Rawdon Young Peoples' Union have a balance of $87. They contributed $35 to the M. and M. Fund.

The Parsonage Board of the circuit has set aside enough money to complete the roofing project. On January 19th of this year they authorized insulation of the parsonage at a cost of $66, and reported a small balance on carry on until they received the $75 allotment from each appointment.

Twenty-five people on the circuit contributed funds to the Ontario Temperance Federation and about $53 was realized.

1956 OFFICERS

In the election of officers, Mr. Frank Hutchinson was appointed a steward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Merle Spencer.

Honorary elders—G. F. Spencer, Wm. Potts and John Holmes.

Active elders—Clifford Sine, Will Jeffs, Ernest White, George Weaver, Allen Reid, Ross Heard, Orno Sharp and Lindsay McKeown.

Stewards—Allen Reid, chairman; Ernest White, secretary; Frank Jeffs, Roy Thrasher, Kenneth Weaver, Ross Heard, Mrs. Percy Akey and Mrs. Orno Sharp.

Trustees — John Holmes, Ross Heard, George Weaver, Ernest White, Roy Thrasher, Will Potts and Earl McAdam.

Secretary-treasurer congregation, Allen Reid; assistant, Ross Heard; superintendent, Lindsay McKeown; assistants, Orno Sharp, Harry McAdam and Mrs. Burton Sharpe. Asst. and Mr. Treasurer, Kenneth Weaver. Church hall treasurer, Ernest White.

Parsonage committee, Mrs. R. McConnell and Mrs. Gordon Linn. President of Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Milford Wrightman. Mission Band leader, Mrs. Burton Sharpe. Baby Band leader, Mrs. Robt. Merrick. President Women's Association, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver. Presidents Two-by-Two Club, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wrightman. Church scouts, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver; assistants, Mrs. Mac Sharp and Miss Betty McConnell. Choir treasurer, Miss Doris Sine. Caretaker church, Orno Sharp. Collector of records, Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Ushers—Bert Sharp, Mac Sharp, James Heard, Harry McAdam, Ross Jeffs, and Raymond McConnell.

Minister's dinner convener, Mrs. Herbert Smith.

OFFERTORY DEDICATION SERVICE

The pastor, spoke briefly regarding the special dedication service for all officers at the circuit which will be held on Tuesday evening, January 31st in Bethel United church.

The "Observer Every Family Plan" will be continued for another year. It is hoped to send some of the boys and girls to Quin-Mo-Lac Camp this year. The meeting adjourned and the pastor offered a special closing prayer.

CAMPBELLFORD

Teen-Town Organized, Council Elected

CAMPBELLFORD — Early in December of last year, a meeting of the Campbellford Recreation Committee took place in the town council chambers to discuss possibilities of a "Teen-Town."

The district representative of the community programs branch was invited to sit in on the meeting to offer his suggestions. After discussing how other Teen Towns were operated, and generally discussing the whole question of a Teen Town, the committee decided to approach Campbellford district high school board to secure permission to use the high school auditorium for Teen Town activities. It was also decided to present the idea to high school students.

DISCUSSED TEEN TOWN

Through the co-operation of Mr. R. Darling, high school principal, an after-school assembly was arranged to discuss the topic with the students. Chairman of the recreation committee, Mrs. Isobel Pethan, and C.P.B. district representative W. J. Watson presented the idea to the teen-agers and answered their many questions. Following this assembly, things moved quickly.

Two days after the assembly meeting, the arrangements were made with the student council to hold elections for the following officers: mayor, reeve, and deputy reeve. In true democratic "town hall" fashion, candidates were nominated and seconded from the floor, with the right to accept or decline the nomination. Shortly after nominations day, the campaigning to office were given an opportunity to make campaign speeches.

GRADE ELECTIONS

In order to have all the teen-agers in the school as well as employed teen-agers represented on the council, elections were held separate elections for its representatives. Grade nine students of Campbellford were entrusted with the operation of this year's teen-town.

Mayor, Arthur Linton (Grade XIII); deputy reeve, Lorna Pizzle (Grade XII); deputy reeve, Benny Boyce (Grade XII); councillors, representing the various high school Holmes; Grade X, Bill Stevens; Grade IX, Nancy Darlington; Grade XII, Jana Irwin; Grade XIII, Jean McMillan; employed teen-ager, Nancy Darrington.

It is the plan of the council to have active committees on chairpersons, program, refreshments, special events, with every councillor taking part in the Teen-Town's administration. The council is also anxious to make their Teen-Town more than "just a weekly dance." Already discussions have taken place to plan for sleigh ride parties, square dancing, skating parties, and all the many other activities in which young active teenagers are interested.

RESPONSIBILITY DEVELOPS RESPONSIBILITY

The main, underlying principle in the formation of Campbellford's teen-town was the belief that if it was to succeed, the teen-agers themselves would have to be involved right from the beginning. It was the planning, operation and carrying out of all activities. In this way, they would rightly feel that the Teen-Town was theirs, and would were responsible for its success or failure. Responsibility is developed by carrying responsibility. With the assistance and supervision of the adult members of the Recreation Committee, the council carries out its work.

On January 20th, the Teen-Town opened with a capacity crowd of 125 teen-agers dancing, meeting new friends, learning social graces and in general, having lots of fun. The gaily decorated high school auditorium added much to the atmosphere of the evening. A low admission fee of 15 cents was charged, and pop and potato chips were sold. All teenagers, whether attending school or employed, are invited to attend the teen-town activities on Friday night.

The Campbellford Recreation Committee has been active for approximately eight months and already has carried out a successful summer playground program, and is currently carrying out a popular figure skating class for children, and is now thanked for organizing the Teen-Town.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reid and Wayne; Mr. Robert Cruckshank, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Akey of Camilton, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Reid. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Andrews and children of Belleville were Saturday guests at the same home.

Mrs. Hugh Armstrong of Northbrook, is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Reid.

Mrs. Hannah King has returned home after spending a week with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie King. She also attended the funeral of her brother, Mr. John G. McCormick of Mount Eagle, who passed away on Monday at his home. Sympathy is extended to her and her family.

Deepest sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Walter Macdonald and family in the loss of a wife and mother, Mrs. Mira Macdonald, who passed away at Kingston General Hospital on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Macdonald will be greatly missed by all. She was a good neighbor and friend in all walks of life.

Mr. and Mrs. John Botting, Front Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Canniton, had tea on Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. William Juby.

On Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wesley Reid, a stork shower was held for Mrs. Jack Andrews. The evening was spent in playing euchre and games. Winners in euchre were: Mrs. Percy Akey and Leonard Ellis; consolation, Mrs. Ray Branigan; lone hands, Mrs. Neil Branigan. Mrs. Andrews was presented with a lovely trimmed basket in pink and white filled with gifts. After untying the gifts she most graciously thanked the givers for them and to those who helped in the kindly gesture. After a social chat refreshments were served by Mrs. Milton Akey and Mrs. Leonard Reid.

Senator Wants Facilities for Higher Education

OTTAWA (CP) — A prominent Canadian educationist Thursday urged federal and provincial governments and business to double the country's facilities for higher education in the next 10 years as a defence measure.

Senator Donald Cameron of Edmonton, newly-appointed Independent Liberal member of the Senate, made the proposal in his maiden speech in the upper house. He is one of 23 Canadians named to the Senate last July by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

"The modern university has become the nation's first line of defence and we neglect it at our peril," he told the upper house during the throne speech debate.

Senator Cameron, director of the extension department of the University of Alberta, warned that Russia is not neglecting higher education. Two Russian students were attending university for every Canadian.

CANADIAN FIGURES

"The latest figures on university enrolments indicate that there are just under 70,000 taking undergraduate and post-graduate work in Canadian universities. This is slightly less than half of one per cent of the total population of 18,000,000.

"If we accept the reported figure of the Soviet Union as being 1,800,000 students in a total population of 200,000,000, we get a figure of nine per cent, or better than a ratio of two Russian students for our one."

A start could be made on university expansion by the appointment of a Canada Council and the institution of a system of national scholarships by the federal government.

Canada's institutions of higher learning, he said, are in a "serious condition of financial undernourishment and malnutrition."

JETS CRASH, PILOTS SAFE

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—Two navy Cougar jets collided Thursday during manoeuvres, with one pilot bailing out successfully and the other piloting his crippled plane back to its base. Lieut. William H. Beck, 26, said he didn't remember ejecting himself from the jet, and had only a vague recollection of hitting the ground. His plane crashed in flames.

Ten Women Die In Baltimore Fire As Crowd Panics

200 Injured in Frantic, Clawing, Trampling Mob

By LOUIS FANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Weary firemen pet the death toll at 10 early today after searching through the ruins of Arundel Park Auditorium, where flames Sunday night touched off a panic among a crowd of about 1,000 at a church oyster roast.

Only one of the 10 bodies—all of women—which firemen dragged from the ashes was identified. The others were believed to be those of women reported missing by relatives.

More than 200 were injured in the frantic clawing, shoving and trampling which erupted as the swiftly spreading flames consumed the auditorium in the south edge of Baltimore.

Survivors said that at one minute they were sipping beer, munching food and listening to an orchestra play "Tea For Two" at the St. Rose of Lima Roman Catholic church oyster roast.

Within moments the celebrants, including many children there with their parents, were transformed into a shrieking, stampeding pack of humanity.

DOOR UNOPENED

As the fire swooshed along the wooden rafters and roof of the one-story auditorium building, hundreds broke for two large doors in the front of the building.

One of the doors, both of which were of the overhead sliding type used in garages, was never opened.

Finding this escape barred, scores of escapists made for other doors by windows.

Nine of the first bodies recovered were found huddled under one of these.

Al Bethelmer, former professional basketball coach and one of the survivors, described the scene at one window as "real ansa."

"With everybody trying to get out of that window, it was pretty brutal.

FLAMES IN DUCT

"Some were being pulled back by others as they started through. Some were even throwing out of the windows friends they didn't think could make it any other way."

Bethelmer said the fire was first detected in a duct.

"Several of the fellows got up on a ladder to put it out. All at once the flames burst out. You didn't say it was an explosion. The fire reached the guys on the ladder so a minute. I don't know what happened to them."

Brooklyn Park firemen, first of some 35 companies to respond, helped their first aiders at 5:30 p.m.

"Some man called us from the hall and said he wanted to report a small fire," said Lieut. Charles Doegen. "He sounded very calm and collected."

BURNED IN MINUTES

Doegen said the tar-paper-covered wooden roof was ablaze throughout before he arrived on one of the first engines.

"The whole thing went up in 15 minutes," he said. "Only the walls were standing as he spoke.

Inside, the scene was a panorama of firemen and shaken survivors searching the blackened, smoking ruins for victims. Charred beams were strew- -n- a thick mat of smoked shoes, oyster shells and twisted steel folding chairs.

Police, Red Cross workers and soldiers from a nearby detachment helped refresh the crew as firemen fought the flames with water drawn from the Patapsco river, about half a mile away, and a hydrant.

"Grown men knelt down in the hats here and prayed and cried,"

Today's Chuckle

When you're away, I'm wretched, blue
Restless, bored, I long for you.
But here's the rub, my darling dear,
I feel the same when you are here.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis:— Colder weather moved into Ontario late Sunday dropping temperatures in northern sections of the province to well below zero. Before the storm moves into New England tonight an accumulation of three to six inches of snow is expected in southern Ontario. Skies will clear and temperatures will drop in southern Ontario tonight as colder air moves in from northern sections of the province.

Man and Wife Held for Robbing Taxi Driver

OTTAWA (CP) — A Kitchener couple were charged with robbery with violence here Sunday after an Ottawa taxi driver told police he was robbed, tied up and left in an empty garage after a 90-mile drive to Pembroke, northwest of here.

Herbert Feagle, 23, and his 18-year-old wife Katherine were arrested after a nine-mile chase by provincial police on Highway 17 about 70 miles northwest of Pembroke.

Taxi driver Louis Medaglia, 31, told police he was hailed by a young couple on Bank street in uptown Ottawa Saturday night.

After a drive to Ottawa's west end, they held him up, took his money—he had only $2.75 in his possession—tied him in the back seat of his car and drove along the highway to Pembroke, debating whether to hold up stores and gas stations along the way.

LEFT IN GARAGE

There they left him bound and gagged in an empty private garage. He broke loose and called police from a nearby house.

A provincial police constable on highway patrol chased the missing taxi for nine miles. He arrested the couple in an empty garage at one window as "real ansa."

"With everybody trying to get out of that window, it was pretty brutal.

"Grown men knelt down in the hats here and prayed and cried,"

said Bill Morrisey, a Baltimore Sun reporter who was at South Baltimore General Hospital.

FUNCTUAL AS BUSES

The wounded arrived in waves of ambulances, punctual as bus lines. They would swoop up to the accident ward entrance, their sirens in a dying wail, discharge their loads, gun their motors and take off for the same once again, their sirens screaming.

Doctors and nurses, called in from other hospitals and from off-duty relaxation, worked without letup for hours. Blood plasma was administered in the floor of the waiting room, while nurses threaded their way through the crowds, bearing bandages and medicants.

Somewhere in the crowd of bewildered, staring people a voice came through: "It went up like a box of matches."

Kiss by Dashing Duke of Kent Sets off New Royal Romance Talk

LONDON (AP) — The dashing duke swung off the train and planted a kiss firmly on the lips of the pretty debutante waiting at the Alpine railroad station.

That was enough to convince Mayfair today that the 21-year-old heir of Kent was smitten.

The big kiss" attracted as much attention as London newspapers as the impending Eden - Eisenhower meeting in Washington.

Camera men were on hand to record the warm embrace the duke gave Jane Spefield, 18-year-old daughter of a rich businessman, 4,000 feet up in the Alps. Traveling in a third-class train compartment, the duke arrived Sunday at the Klosters in Switzerland for a two-week ski holiday on the Austrian border.

Even before the pictures were rushed to London, there was a buzzing via telephone to British newspapers of the kiss. Stories about the pictures "and I know the duke will be furious."

Jane hurriedly explained: "Look, we're just good friends. There's nothing in it at all—no romance."

The duke and Jane with 30 other society pronouncers are staying at Klosters, a holiday party in Switzerland, staying at an inexpensive hotel. The Spefield family, first cousin of the Queen, hasn't even running water in his room.

WEST APPROVES EISENHOWER'S REFUSAL OF PACT

Replies to Bulganin's Proposal for Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western world has generally approved President Eisenhower's refusal to sign the "scrap of friendship" between Russia and the United States proffered by Premier Bulganin.

The Kremlin, as had been forecast by officials here, gave evidence that it intends to squeeze every bit of propaganda value out from the exchange of letters between the two.

The Soviet press Sunday headlined the news of Bulganin's proposal. Moscow papers carried the full text of his letter and treaty draft.

But Russian papers carried no word of Eisenhower's reply that such a pact is unneeded and might create a false illusion. Thus it appears that Moscow hopes later publication of the rejection letter will get it greater impact on the Russian people.

COURTEOUS LETTERS

Bulganin had written that 16 world be "as a sort of great international significance" for peace if the U. S. and Russia would sign it. It would help to settle disputes peacefully, (2) to avoid injuring each other in any affairs and (3) to strengthen economic, cultural and scientific co-operation.

Eisenhower's letter, as courteous in tone as was Bulganin's, suggested that the two sign steps to unify Germany, end the threat of atomic war, free Russia's satellite peninsula and abolish the Iron Curtain. He invited Bulganin to write his conclusions.

The president noted that the two governments already bound by treaty—the United Nations Charter —to do all the things Bulganin proposed they do in a new two country pact.

"How can we hope," Eisenhower asked, "that the present situation would be cured merely by repeating these words."

He added that such a treaty "might indeed work against the cause of peace" by creating an illusion that all is well.

REACTION INDICATED

An indication of Moscow's probable official reaction came from Soviet Foreign Minister Shepilov to Western correspondents in Prague, Czechoslovakia, that he found it difficult to see how anyone could reject a friendship treaty.

Elsewhere in Europe, reaction was generally favorable if uncommitted.

"The president has smartly turned the tables," said the Conservative London newspaper Sunday Times, "on what is generally interpreted as the latest gimmicky Soviet attempt to drive a wedge between the U.S. and the Western States on the eve of the Washington talks."

Another apparent Soviet propaganda attempt to cloud the Eisenhower-Bulganin exchange was the little headway in Britain. The Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita Khrushchev, said in a message to the Moscow correspondent of London Sunday Express that the whole World, charged that Eisenhower had blocked a Soviet attack against him. But some things at the "summit" conference last July. British diplomats in London denied the charge, and said Eisenhower's comment would help relaxation to it.

Members of the U. S. Congress generally supported Eisenhower's reply. The two active candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, Adlai E. Stevenson and Senator Estes Kefauver, agreed with Eisenhower.

Labor-Management Rifts Cloud Outlook for Steel

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's steel production may almost triple in the next 25 years, bringing new jobs and wealth to the country, but the encouraging horizon is also clouded the more immediate horizon.

H.G. Hilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada Limited, estimated today that some 2,500,000,000 may be poured into expansion in the next quarter-century to boost the industry's annual production to 11,500,000 tons. Demand of steel by 1980 from 4,442,000 last year.

But he said targets may be difficult to achieve if labor keeps on demanding more and more wage boosts and if governments siphon off more of the country's wealth through taxes, reducing savings available for investment.

The industry, he told the Gordon economic commission, cannot confidently expand its facilities unless it gets tariff protection from low-wage foreign competitors. Continuing demand for steel was also the cause inflation, reducing the dollar's purchasing power, he said.

Steel union chief Charles Millard told the commission that the steel union is seeking to boost wages to U.S. level.

Mr. Millard called for a price investigation of the industry, maintaining it is unfair to blame labor for the "scapegoat" for the industry's recent 36-a-ton price increase in steel. He said steel companies raised prices to get more profits, and noted that new steel productivity had been greater than wage increases granted in recent years.

Mr. Hilton, however, defended steel producer with main operations in Hamilton, Ont., saying wage increases have been greater than man-hour productivity. Despite the spending, the steel industry for improved machines and equipment.

This battle of words appeared to be initial skirmishes in new labor-wage negotiations soon to open in the steel industry.

Mr. Hilton's forecast of future expansion was based on the Canadian needs of a population which, he estimated, is likely to rise in the next 25 years by some 60,000,000 to 80,000,000 or more.

Governments, he said, currently take almost one-quarter of the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—in the form of taxes. "In the Second World War peak. Last year Canada's gross national product rose to a record of some $26,400,000,000. One-quarter of that would be $6,600,000,000.

". . . The combination of very high taxes and extremely high capital investment needs predicted for the coming years may well prove to be more than our economy can manage," he said.

Mr. Hilton said workers could benefit more from steady or lower consumer prices than through higher wages that cause inflation. It had become almost axiomatic that wages go up because prices go. Mr. Hilton did not know how long this could go on before Canadians reign themselves to a "continuous increase in inflation."

The federal tariff board currently is studying an overhaul of Canada's tariff structure. Meanwhile, said Mr. Hilton, the industry is competing against imports from Belgium and other low-cost European continent who pay about one-third of the Canadian wage scale.

". . . It is impossible in the long run to have high wages without an adequate degree of tariff protection."

The Steel Company of Canada, or Stelco as it is commonly known, employs almost one-half of Canada's steel.

Two CNR Passenger Trains Crash Head-on, Nobody Hurt

ACTON, Ont. (CP)—Two Canadian National Railways passenger trains crashed head-on here today but railway officials said no one was severely injured.

CNR officials said the trains, both Stratford-Toronto locals, collided at 8:48 a. m., 11 miles east of Guelph. The cause of the crash was derailed, but all other cars remained upright.

Railway officials said they did not know immediately how many passengers were on the trains, or how the accident occurred.

They said the first CNR heading for Toronto, was supposed to go into a siding while train No. 27, also for Toronto, went on the main line.

The wreck did not block the main line, CNR officials said, but traffic on Highway 7, over which the line crosses, was blocked for more than an hour.

It was the CNR's second crash in Ontario within a week. Eleven persons were injured last Monday in a head-on crash at Sidney's station, 20 miles northeast of London.

It was similar to today's crash in that one train was to go into a siding while the other was supposed through on the main line.

Mr. Vernon Stratford was called to hospital with nose and eye cuts. Mrs. Stratford, the station agent's wife, and engineer of the Toronto-bound train, Leonard Snow, escaped unscathed.

"The fundamental issue in these proceedings," they said, "is what amount of wages in the railway industry can be justified as fair and reasonable in the light of all the relevant facts."

PREFERRED POSITION

The brief said railway wages must be considered on a nation-wide basis and cannot be compared with a segment of industry on a limited area. On a nationwide basis, the non-operating employees are in a "preferred position" at their existing wage rates.

Engineer Kills Six Members Of Family, Self

PARSIPPANY - TROY HILLS, N.J. (AP)—A quiet, respected civil engineer, a devout worker in the Methodist Church, killed six members of his family and then himself as they prepared for a gay New Year's party.

A neighbor, worried because Walter Hoehl left his home in Florida as planned Friday, looked into the Bauer home Saturday and found seven bodies.

The 45-year-old Bauer, a New Jersey state engineer, was found dead, had gone berserk and, triggering a pump shotgun, slaughtered his wife, their four children, his mother and his wife's parents.

Then he turned the 12-gauge gun on himself, shooting himself in the left side with one shot and blowing his head off with a second.

Police chief Leo O'Orsi pronounced the case a multiple murder and a suicide.

Bauer had been advised to take a Florida vacation by a doctor who was treating him for "nervousness."

Thousands Defy Downpour To See Queen Present Colors

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) — Nearly 40,000 excited spectators jammed into the horseshoe-shaped arena of Lagos race track, defied drenching rain today to see Queen Elizabeth present new colors to Nigeria's infantry regiment.

The presentation of the regiment which fought the Japanese in the jungles of Burma stood in their scarlet tunics and blue berets, as Queen walked from a covered pavilion in the center of the infield to inspect the troops.

The first trooping - of - the - color ceremony in Nigeria's history was performed under low-lying grey clouds streaming rain, at times where the impressive ceremony is carried out once a year on the Queen's birthday.

As the Queen passed through the ranks, Elizabeth was greeted by a crowd of shirt-sleeved plantation workers, tribesmen and chiefs in their multi-colored robes and women with babies strapped to their backs.

The Queen was accompanied by her Nigerian aide-de-camp, 31-year-old Maj. Aguiyi-Ironsi, who held an umbrella over her head.

Presented to the Queen at the ceremony, the Queen praised the wartime role of the Nigerian troops in their campaigns in Burma and Ethiopia and the "fearlessness and endurance of West African troops."

She presented the Queen's personal color to a Nigerian lieutenant and the new regimental color to a sergeant.

After the ceremony the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh returned to Government House, their residence. The Queen then left to inspect the West African medical training centre, one of Africa's most modern laboratories for research into tropical diseases. The duke toured the main workshops of the Nigerian railways on the Lagos - Kano line.

To end their busy third day in Nigeria, the royal couple will tonight will attend a garden party given by Governor-General Sir John Macpherson at the Government House.

During the three-week tour, the royal couple will travel thousands of miles in the first tour by a ruling sovereign in the history of Britain's largest colony.

The Nigerian Federation of 31,000,000 inhabitants is divided into three regional each under its own legislature. It is headed towards self-government.

Police were mobilized and their fists to quell fights which broke out when contingents of rival coalitied Africans massed to see the Queen and the duke attend a morning service at the Cathedral.

When the royal couple arrived, a 21-gun salute boomed out from a 600 Nigerians massed opposite the entrance gave way. Hundreds were soaked by the heavy rain.

The cheering of the crowds at the service nearly drowned out the singing play a Yoruba tribal folk song inside the whitewashed concrete cathedral Church of Christ, overlooking the lagoon here.

Several thousand Africans, many of them perched precariously in trees, gave the Queen and the duke speed across Lagos harbor in a launch Sunday afternoon for lunch on the beautiful beach of Tarkwa bay, about four miles from here.

RAILWAYS URGE UNION CONTRACTS REMAIN SAME

Claim Conditions "Fair, Reasonable"

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian railways today urged that their contracts with 150,000 non-operating employees be extended without change.

The proposal was made in a submission to a three-man conciliation board appointed to deal with a railways-unions contract dispute. The board launched its hearing here today.

The railways said present wages and working conditions of their non-operating employees are "fair and reasonable" and that existing collective agreements should be extended without change.

The unions have asked for wage increases and health and welfare demands.

BRIEF PUBLICIZED

The railways made public a 53-second brief prepared for submission to the conciliation board.

Distribution of the brief was made after the conciliation board rejected a request by the railways that the hearings be conducted in public. The unions opposed the request.

In their submission, the railways said the unions' demands add up to a 37-cent-an-hour increase which would cost $159,000,000 annually if extended to all Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways employees on an equivalent basis.

This figure, said the railways, was more than twice as much as the net rail income of CNR and CPR combined last year. The two operating fixed charges and dividends.

"The fundamental issue in these proceedings," they said, "is what amount of wages in the railway industry can be justified as fair and reasonable in the light of all the relevant facts."

PREFERRED POSITION

The brief said railway wages must be considered on a nation-wide basis and cannot be compared with a segment of industry on a limited area. On a nationwide basis, the non-operating employees are in a "preferred position" at their existing wage rates.

Expect Blizzard To Dump 6 Inches Snow In S. Ontario

Fast-Moving Storm Covers Windsor to Belleville Area

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fast-moving blizzard is expected to dump from three to six inches of snow on southern sections of Ontario today before swirling out of the province later tonight.

The weatherman said snow is falling from Windsor on the west to Belleville on the east. The storm's northern edge would reach Pembroke.

Heavy snow was partly blamed for a collision of two trains 11 miles east of Guelph. The engineer of one said a combination of snow, steam and smoke prevented him from seeing a signal to go into a siding. Two miners were injured in the wreck, in which the engine of one train was derailed.

Provincial and city police in southwestern Ontario centres said the heavy snow caused scores of minor traffic collisions on slippery roads and streets.

The department of highways reported roads in good condition, although snow-packed in some sections.

London reported a rash of traffic accidents caused mostly by slippery streets and poor visibility. The 7-second-an-hour snowfall there would cost $159,000,000 annually if extended to all Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways employees on an equivalent basis.

This figure, said the railways, was more than twice as much as the net rail income of CNR and CPR combined last year. The two operating fixed charges and dividends.

"The fundamental issue in these proceedings," they said, "is what amount of wages in the railway industry can be justified as fair and reasonable in the light of all the relevant facts."

Frost Considers Taking Over Blue Cross Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Government officials said today Premier Frost is considering incorporating the Blue Cross hospital plan into a provincial health scheme.

Blue Cross officials said, however, they have not yet been approached by the government to negotiate details of a possible merger.

D. W. Ogilvie, director, said it "seems reasonable" the province will move in that direction in the light of the six-team league formed with centres in winter Olympic hockey tournaments.

William Cleary, U. S. intercollegiate skating champion from Cambridge, Mass., shared scoring honors with Gordon Audley of Warroad, Minn., each getting a pair of goals. Cleary also assisted both Canadian goals.

Other U. S. scorers were Weldon Olson of Warroad, Minn., Jim McKinnon of Williams, Minn., and Dick Dougherty of International Falls, Minn.

Both Germany's goals were scored by Marius Egen.

The Americans, who lost one game to Czechoslovakia in the preliminary round, were not particularly impressive in their other play, were outskated by the Canadians and the Germans with little difficulty.

They play Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in Tuesday's schedule and wind up their performance to date the defending champion Canadians are not expected to have any difficulty defeating the U. S.

Ten penalties were called in today's game, seven to the U. S.

Governor Giving Cup for Best Maple Syrup

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Averell Harriman Saturday invited maple syrup producers around the world to compete for a "Governor's Cup" at the state Sugar festival in Cooperstown April 6-7.

Harriman is sponsoring a tasting competition at the festival principally to settle rival claims over the quality of maple syrup produced in New York, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and the province of Quebec.

The governor's office said the competition would be open also to producers in all other states and friendly nations."

Brantford Girl Raped, Slain, Aged 7, Weeps

BRANTFORD (CP)—A 15-year-old girl was raped Sunday night in the back seat of a car while her seven-year-old sister sat in the front seat crying, police said today.

James Mihalchuk, 24, has been charged with rape, and Douglas Morrison, 27, with abduction.

Morrison was charged as having helped hold the girl down while the offence was committed. When the girl's sister started screaming she was slapped several times to keep her quiet, police said.

The girls were reported to have been forced into a car about noon Sunday and driven into the darkness fell, when the assault was committed.

United States Defeats Germany By 7-2 Score

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—The United States unleashed a devastating scoring attack and iced, then coasted to an easy 7-2 victory over Germany today in the first game of the six-team final round of the winter Olympic hockey tournament.

William Cleary, U. S. intercollegiate skating champion from Cambridge, Mass., shared scoring honors with Gordon Audley of Warroad, Minn., each getting a pair of goals. Cleary also assisted both Canadian goals.

Truck Driver From Belleville Praised by Police

MONTREAL (CP) — A large transport truck, carrying a 15-ton load, ran wild on a west-end street Saturday, crashing into 12 cars and a streetcar as it careened down a hill.

Police said David Keen of Belleville, Ont., driver of the truck, avoided fatalities by steering his vehicle away from pedestrians. The brakes gave out while he was coming down a hill on upper Lachine road.

Three persons were injured slightly and required hospital treatment. Many of the cars were wrecks after the truck piled into them. Police said there could have been a dozen deaths if it had not been for Keen's dexterity at the wheel. The truck finally halted after piling into five vehicles at a red light.

COL. LYALL CARR

Col. Lyall Carr Promoted To Brigadier

Col. Lyall N. Carr 42, of Port Hope, Ontario Commander of 12 Militia Group with Headquarters in Port Hope, has been promoted to the rank of Brigadier.

Brigadier Carr enlisted in the Durham Regiment as a private in 1933. In 1940 he received his commission as a 2nd lieutenant and later, the same year, was promoted Lieutenant on posting to The Midland Regiment, Overseas. He served with the Hastings and Prince Edward in Sicily, Italy and Northwest Europe. He rose to the rank of major while serving with this Eastern Ontario battalion and was mentioned-in-dispatches for conspicuous gallantry and leadership.

After the Second World War, Brigadier Carr commanded The Midland Regiment, and in 1953 became commander of the 6th Infantry Brigade Group with headquarters in his hometown of Port Hope.

When the 13 Militia Group was formed in 1954 Brigadier Carr was given command of this group, which encompasses a large area from Lindsay to Brockville.

Cost Accountants Hold Meeting

How machines can be used to minimize the tremendous amount of paper work necessary in the modern business office was outlined to members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants at their January meeting held last week at the Queen's Hotel.

Speaker for the meeting was Mr. Gordon Sutcliffe, Ottawa manager of Ditto of Canada Ltd. He noted the great increase in the amount of paper work in today's business office and showed how one writing could be used to produce the invoice, shipping order, packing slip, various accounting copies and duplicate bill of lading and labels, it required.

Chapter chairman Les Lennox remarked on the growth of the chapter during the past year and introduced the new executive members: Bill Smith, Ditto of Canada Ltd, Belleville; Bob Mitts, The Allen Company Ltd., Belleville, and John Semple, Bank of Montreal Belleville. There were also guests present at the meeting.

WELL-KNOWN MEDICAL SPECIALIST DIES

DR. R. CHARLES ADAMS

(Rochester, Minn., Post-Bulletin) Dr. R. Charles Adams, 49, a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic since 1937, died in Methodist Hospital Saturday night. Saturday night, January 21st. He had been a patient in the hospital since December 16, but in recent days had been up and about, and was considered definitely improved. The sudden death was caused by a heart ailment.

Dr. Adams was born August 7, 1906, in Wooler, Ontario, Canada. He attended Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., from 1924 to 1928 and received degree of doctor of medicine and master in surgery in 1931. From August 1931 to August 1932 he was an intern in the Ottawa General Hospital in Ottawa, Ont. He became associated in the practice of general surgery with Dr. J. C. Robertson of Belleville, Ont.

ARRIVED HERE IN 1935

Dr. Adams came to Rochester Oct. 1, 1935, to study in anesthesiology in the Mayo Foundation, which is the graduate department of first assistant in anesthesiology. His graduate studies were concentrated chiefly in anesthesiology and biometrics.

On January 1, 1937, he was appointed to the staff of the Mayo Clinic as a member of the Section of Anesthesiology. In 1940 he received the degree of master of science in anesthesiology from the University of Minnesota, and he became certified by the American Board of Anesthesiology. He became an instructor in anesthesiology in the Mayo Foundation. He was promoted to assistant professor in 1945, and to associate professor in 1948. From April 1, 1952 to July 1, 1953, Dr. Adams was head of the Section of Anesthesiology at the Mayo Clinic.

When he became a fellow here, Dr. Adams interested himself in the technic of producing anesthesia by the injection of anesthetic agents into veins, known as "intravenous anesthesia." He became widely known for his proficiency in this particular field, and he later carried out investigations on curare, a poisonous arrowhead used for years by South American Indians to tip the ends of their arrowheads in it.

Curare, in full strength, paralyzes certain parts of the motor nervous system and causes death by stilling respiration. As applied to anesthesia, curare in sometimes extremely deep relaxation and produces suitable muscular relation in areas not ordinarily affected by other types of anesthetic agents.

Dr. Adams applied curare in appropriate solutions to anesthesia for operations on the throat and chest, where pulsing of the lungs and sneezing must be suppressed. He demonstrated that when a solution of curare is used with an anesthetic agent, the dose of the anesthetic agent can be much reduced.

BOOK PUBLISHED

In 1944 Dr. Adams' book, "Intravenous Anesthesia," was published. It was regarded as an exhaustive work on the subject, and comprises almost 700 pages. The leading facts in the beginning of intravenous anesthesia in 1872 to the year of publication. Dr. Adams S. Lundy, in a foreword to the volume, remarked, "Without a doubt, this review represents one of the big steps in the advancement of this method from an art to a science, in that he has set an example of devoting a monograph to one phase of one subject, a principle which I think will be followed by great gains in the field of anesthesia."

In addition, Dr. Adams was known for his keen interest in music and in stage productions featured by musical accompaniments. He produced and directed the Mayo Clinic Christmas show of 1949 and in 1950 he was a coproducer of that year's show. He directed the Mayo clinic orchestra when it played at the Cavaliers, and it was in the course of his work on this show that Dr. Adams met Frankie Carle, whose orchestra was engaged to play at the Christmas party of 1950. Later, Carle and his orchestra introduced a composition written by Dr. Adams, over one of the national radio networks.

Dr. Adams was certified in 1939 as a specialist in anesthesiology by the American Board of Anesthesiology Inc. He was a member of the Minnesota State Medical Association, the American Medical Association, the American Experimental Therapeutics, the Alumni Association of the Mayo Foundation, the American Society of Anesthesists, and served as a member of the board of directors of the latter group from 1941 to 1947, and as a member of the house of delegates in 1946 and 1947.

Dr. Adams was married to Miss Elma M. Finkle on May 11, 1935. Mrs. Adams and two sons, Richard, 18, and Robert, 14, survive.

The funeral was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold C. Campbell, Mrs. Campbell was now in Florida at the time of Dr. Adams' death, and Mrs. Campbell is a sister of Mrs. Adams. Their mother, formerly Mrs. Herb Finkle, is now re-married to Mr. J. A. Bird and lives in Trenton.

Father of Nine Critically Scalded at Tweed Plant

A 38-year-old Huntingdon township father of nine children is clinging desperately to life in Belleville General Hospital today following being scalded over 92 per cent of his body when he fell into a vat of hot water at Hunter Veneers Ltd. at Tweed on Saturday.

Completely scalded up to his neck with the exception of his right hand, Cecil Jones of Crookston is in critical condition and Sunday was given but slight chance for survival.

The accident occurred about 10 o'clock Saturday morning as employees at Hunter Veneers Ltd., were taking veneer logs out of an underground hot boiling vat. The vat, 20 by 8 feet, was almost empty of logs when Mr. Jones stepped off the plank over into the vat.

He grasped desperately at a safety rope in an effort to save himself but the rope broke allowing him to be almost completely immersed in the hot water. Fellow workers rescued him from the vat. Temperature of the water was said close to 180 degrees.

He was given medical attention by Dr. F. J. McCue and was taken to Belleville hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. Sam Cronk and Dr. Bruce Cronk.

Sunday Dr. S. Cronk said Jones was in a very critical condition. He said 95 per cent of the skin surface had been scalded.

The log boiling vats at the Tweed plant are used to soak veneer logs overnight before processing the following day. The vats have a plank covering and these had been removed at one end to allow hoisting of the boiled logs by machinery.

A farmer living three miles east of Crookston, Mr. Jones commenced work at the Tweed plant after the Christmas holiday.

Police Blotter

Clare S. Dingman, 19, Canniton, Rawdon township, was fined $10 and costs after being apprehended on Boyce's service station lot on front street where a gas line and wheel were stolen early Sunday morning.

Police Constable Davis said he saw Dingham take the spare tire from a used car on the rear end of the lot and place it in his own vehicle. Dingman was arrested and charged with theft.

More than the usual number of drunks were rounded up by officers over the weekend, while two accidents of a minor nature were reported.

On Station street one motorist collided with a parked car, while on Bridge street another driver ran into the rear of a Rawson bus. Police Constable Pollock Higgins reported an attempted break-in at the Tweed Creamery.

H.F. Equipment Shown at Y's Men's Club

Guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Y's Men's Club was Ray Brule of the Northern Electric Company. Mr. Brule is an audio engineer at the Belleville plant.

With the company equipment he gave an excellent demonstration of high fidelity sound. A variety of recorded sounds was used to illustrate various points of the talk.

Using special test recordings the speaker showed the improved results which can be obtained when using high fidelity equipment. One of Mr. Brule's demonstrations was the placing of a loud speaker in a large wooden baffle. This baffle caused the music coming from the loudspeaker to change from a thin, tinny pitched nature to a much more realistic rich-toned reproduction of the original passage.

From this demonstration it could be seen that a large cabinet was required for best results in a radio or a high fidelity system.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Barrie and thanked by Jack Fletcher.

A short talk on YMCA Week was heard from Don Williams, chairman of the board of managers, of the YMCA. This was followed by a film depicting the over-all aspect of a YMCA organization in a typical small Canadian community.

Guests at the meeting were: Jack Ireland, of the YMCA Board of Managers; John Buchan, Jim Wamboldt and Paul Watson, all of the Hi-Y group and Peter Trill.

IN MEMORIAM

NATSON. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Donald C. Natson, who passed away Jan. 30th, 1954.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
Gone but not from memory,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
There is one we think of most,
Sadly missed and ever remembered
By his wife and family.

GOSLIN. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Annie Maude Goslin, who passed away Jan. 30th, 1954.

No matter when we needed you,
You were always near;
With help and kind words
And wash away our tears.
Time may pass and years may leave us
Never will your memory.
We never publish how we could do,
Just miss you most of all.
You couldn't see our hopeless tears,
Nor hear our sighs and moans.
You couldn't hear our prayers to God
To let you stay with us.
We have a home in Heaven
And the most wonderful mother the world ever possessed.
—Ever remembered by daughter Ethel, son-in-law Mark, grandchildren Beverley and Joan, Douglas, Mark Jr., and Marion.

CARDS OF THANKS

To my many friends, neighbors and readers for your kindness and remembrance on my 92nd birthday, I thank you all. Also for the many beautiful cards which I received. Especially, a special thank you for letters of congratulation. To all of you, I say—God bless and remember always.
Mrs. Frances Sine.

The family of the late Harry Bateman wish to express their sincere appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for their help and acts of kindness extended to them during their recent bereavement in the loss of a loving father. A special thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yorke and their staff at Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home for their kindness and help. To Rev. Lamar and for his comforting prayer, also Mr. Jack Bush and staff of the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL, (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon, EST, today. Friday's noon rate was 86⅝ cents. Pound sterling $2.80 3/8, down 3-16.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market prices advanced cautiously under the lead of western oils during active first-hour trading today. Industrial dealings were selective. Steels and refining oils were in best demand.

Bathurst Power and Paper B gained $1.50 at 42½. Canadian Locomotive, Industrial Acceptance, Fraser and International Petroleum added 75 cents-$1. Brazilian moved better. Ford A clipped a point.

Profit-taking appeared in the mining list, but the Chibougamau area issues were firm. Campbell advanced 5 cents and Merrill Island 20 cents. Temagami eased 18 cents at $5.75. Steep Rock and Grandue were down small amount.

Uraniums were little changed. Nesbitt Labine dipped a dime at $3.25. Lake Shore notched a 35-cent gain at $6. Malartic Midwest added 50 cents.

Gridoil spearheaded the western oil advance with a 90-cent jump to $10.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter point prices were unchanged here today.

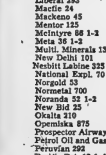
The egg market was weak with offerings in excess of a good demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in three cases, graded: A large 38; A medium 36; A small 33; B 34; C 31. Wholesale to retail: A large 41; A medium 40; A small 38; B 39; C 36.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade, Ontario 58½-58½; western 58½ (nominal).

Jackie Gleason And CBS Feud Over Show Times

NEW YORK (AP)—Neither the CBS network nor its chubby comic vision comedian, Jackie Gleason, is in any laughing mood about talk of pending shifts in the Saturday night CBS schedule.



Gleason accused network executives of being the apparent source for "many inaccurate statements" about the situation. At a press conference Saturday he called the reports of "manufactured irritation" and added: "I think it's underhanded."

CBS indicated that a complete rebuttal would be issued today.

The hassle developed from reports that CBS wanted to shift Gleason's filmed program, "The Honeymooners," from 8:30 p. m. back to 8 o'clock to provide stronger competition for NBC's popular "Perry Como Show." This would crowd out "Stage Show," a Gleason-produced program featuring the Dorsey brothers.

Gleason said erroneous reports had been put out that the sponsor of "Stage Show" was dissatisfied, and that Gleason was asking $1,500,000 to agree to drop it.

Work on Highway Cloverleaf Well Underway

Preparatory work for the construction of the highway cloverleaf at the intersection of Highway 401 and Foxboro highway north of the city is now well underway, while construction of the new highway bridge over the Moira is well progressed.

A large area on either side of the highway has been cleared of all trees. A detour takes traffic around the actual intersection of the two highways as excavation work is getting well under way.

Heavy earth moving equipment had been moved to the job and concrete forms are taking shape. The cloverleaf contract is being carried out by Domex Construction of Toronto.

Steelwork construction on the new highway 401 bridge over the Moira River is well underway with two of the three main spans already in place.

Grider reinforcing steel have been landed on the job in preparation for completion of the bridge and construction of the cloverleaf on No. 37 highway.

Eden Arrives For Conference With Eisenhower

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden planned to begin meeting today on the next new formula for peace in Palestine and a better strategy for combatting communism in Asia and the Middle East.

Eden before the two Western leaders met, Russia's Premier Bulganin had stolen a march on them with his highly publicized bid for a Soviet-British treaty with the United States.

Eden crossed the Atlantic by ship, arriving in New York this morning. He arranged to fly to Washington aboard Eisenhower's private plane so that he and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd might lunch with Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles at the White House.

British and American informants on their chiefs will discuss every problem of common interest they have, but they say these particularly:

1. Eden would like to relax trade controls and expand commerce with Red China and the Communist bloc generally. Eisenhower is considered as strongly opposed.

2. Eden would like to bring the long struggle over seating Red China in the United Nations to an end, although he may not press the issue forcefully since this is an election year here.

3. Eden wants American support in his argument with Saudi Arabia over the Buraimi oasis and surrounding land which may produce oil. Eisenhower has resisted becoming deeply involved.

4. Eden would like to see some kind of agreement to "restrict and regularize" use of atomic weapons. Eisenhower does not foresee the possibility of such agreement, although Dulles said recently that the U. S. also would like to have it.

On Thursday Eden will address the Senate and the House of Representatives separately. Thursday night he will make a television and radio talk and on Friday he will hold a press conference before going to Ottawa for a Canadian visit.

Slow Progress Is Made in GM Strike Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Negotiators in the General Motors of Canada strike Sunday reported slow progress on non-economic issues during weekend meetings.

Representatives of the auto firm and United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) met Saturday and Sunday in a number of sub-committees to work out technical problems. Said a company spokesman:

"We're getting down to the point where the non-economic issues could conceivably be cleaned up in a few days."

The strike started 133 days ago when 17,000 GM workers walked out of five Ontario plants.

RCN GETS NEW JET FIGHTER FOR NEW AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Making its debut in the Royal Canadian Navy is the F2H3 Banshee, described by the navy as the finest single-seat all-weather shipborne fighter in the world. The RCN's first jet fighter squadron, VF-870, is being armed with the Banshee in preparation for service in the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, due to be completed this year. The squadron is now based at HMCS Shearwater, the naval air station near Dartmouth, N.S.

Last Rites Held For Leo Riggs

The funeral of Leo B. Riggs, prominent Belleville businessman and well-known figure of the city, was held on Saturday afternoon.

The service in Bridge Street United Church and the interment in Belleville cemetery were attended by a large number of prominent Belleville people, along with friends and relations of the deceased.

During the service a brief but fitting tribute was paid to Mr. Riggs by Rev. H. M. Davis, Bridge St. United Church pastor. Mr. Davis praised the contributions of Mr. Riggs to his community and said he lived his life in the true Christian manner. His death had taken an extraordinary personality from the community and had left a vacancy of immense proportions in the hearts of his family and friends.

The name of Leo Riggs, said Mr. Davis, was highly respected in Belleville and a huge number of friends would cherish in their hearts the memory of his many fine deeds. His friendliness and unselfish spirit will be long remembered.

Bearers at the funeral were: A. McLean Haig, Edgar Buchanan, Ronald Moorman, Alan Sprague, A. R. Cameron and Chester Smith.

Attending as honorary bearers were: Harry Moorman, Dr. Van Blaskiser, Percy Geen, Dr. O. A. Marshall, Judge Charles A. Carnarvon, Jack Mather, J. Vince Doyle, James D. Bankier, W. H. Morton, William C. Springer, William H. Finkle, John Deacon, William J. Mooney and Albert Armstrong.

Funeral arrangements were by the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home.

TRENTON (Special) — The blaring blast of a diesel's horn frightened a Frankford driver almost out of his wits here early Saturday.

Nathan Helm, James Street, Frankford, was driving his car north on Stanley Street and just as he swung into the railroad crossing the engineer of the northbound diesel train sounded a warning blast behind him. The driver veered his vehicle sharply to the right and took off up the tracks striking a switch and breaking the jamp on top of it. The excitement passed, the driver brought his car back into the street again.

Regaining composure, the driver investigated finding the right front fender, grill, bumper and radiator damaged an estimated $200.

WINDOW BROKEN

One of the plate glass windows in Simmons' Drug Store was shattered during a heavy brawl over the weekend. Police were called too late and by the time the law officers arrived the battlers had disappeared. The detective investigating is hopeful of catching the guilty persons.

Picture Results In Capture of Most Wanted Man

TORONTO (CP) — William Ernest Dawley, 41, alleged to have escaped from Oakalla prison farm, B. C., in August, 1954, was arrested today in the locker room of a coal company.

Police said a phone tip led them to Dawley's arrest. They said he is awaiting trial on a charge of being a habitual criminal.

The Telegram says a picture of Canada's five most wanted criminals in the Weekend magazine supplement of The Telegram resulted in Dawley's capture.

New Sterilizer For County Home Is Presented

Thanks to the Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis committee of the Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges in the city, the infirmary wing at the Hastings county old people's home is to have a new portable sterilizer.

Saturday evening at a euchre and dance held at the Oddfellows Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth York, superintendent and matron of the county home, were presented with a cheque with which to purchase the new sterilizer. Mrs. Ila Addy, president of the C. P. and T. committee, made the presentation on behalf of the five different branches going to make up the committee.

Mr. York expressed his appreciation for the cheque, noting that the new sterilizer would fill a real need at the county home.

The new sterilizer which is expected to be received late this week will be used for sterilizing needles and syringes used in the infirmary wing of the county home.

Time Extended For Purchase Of Car Permits

The deadline for the purchase of motor vehicle licences has been extended one month to the 29th of February, it was officially announced from Toronto today by the Ontario Department of Highways.

Fred S. Symons, local licence issuer, today said that less than one-third of the normal issue of nearly 10,000 licences, had been sold. Very few truck licences have been sold it was stated.

The Highways Department stated in its announcement that motor vehicle licences had sold slower this year. This was confirmed by Mr. Symons who said sales had been slow compared with other years.

Good 'Dry' Cold in North Country Was Not too Gentle Writer Found

By ALAN EDGER HAW

It has frequently been said to me, since I returned from the north country some years ago, "With a little get really cold up there, but then, you don't mind it because its so dry."

I usually snort at that one because I have painful recollections of once getting my middle frozen. When the frost came out, my cold or not, the said protoplcis burned like fire, peeled and was very sore and red for weeks. With a little change in front I could have passed for Major Hoople.

At Abitibi Canyon the prevailing winds came from the north. They would howl down from Hudson Bay, funnel into the canyon and whisk over the dam with concentrated force to slash one's face like a cat-o-nine-tails.

On the way from the colony to the generating station of a morning we would pause briefly at the meteorological box to check the temperature. Brr — fifty below and that would max fifty-five during the night! Returning at noon we would say again, "Oh boy! Its turning mild. Only thirty below!" someone would yell, trying to be funny.

Of course, the comforts and companionship of bridge or the like can be pleasant, and not to be compared with the life of a lonely trapper or prospector. One can become inured, I suppose, to adversity, the hardship of heroic-sized and primitive fare, the deathly silence and awful monotony of a background of infinite white waste.

But anyone who goes to live among the fringes of Hudson Bay, whether he be missionary, construction worker, trapper or prospector needs no more than quality. To put it inelegantly, but in a new widely accepted term — it takes guts, just plain guts.

Some sage once remarked, and I can't remember whether it was Stephen Leacock or Greg Clark probably the former, "it's nice know that Hudson Bay is where is, but I'd rather not go there."

However, it is evident that frontier of our northland is gradually being pushed back. The radio defence network, army installations, new power developments, mineral discoveries, all are converging on the north and changing the "land of silence" into an important link in Canada's economy.

SET SWIM MARKS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Helen Stuart of Vancouver clipped three seconds from the Ca ada. women's 50-yard breaststroke record at indoor swim here Saturday night.

Miss Sewart's time was 36. The former mark of 39.4 was set by Sheila Dutrieve of London, Ont.

TOO MANY FALSE IDEAS

Public, press and parliament are all aroused over the problem of sex criminals.

Of the three, the public is vastly the most important. The press can do no more than seek to prod public and parliament to action. Parliament makes take could be largely defeated by an indifferent or misinformed public. An aroused public is, therefore, a healthy sign. But it is imperative that public opinion should be informed, rather than misinformed.

That the public is taking a keen interest in the debate in press and parliament is evident. A perusal of the editorial pages of two of Toronto's newspapers show that eight out of nine letters to the editor in one paper and all four of the letters published that day in the other paper dealt with this problem.

Unfortunately there is little evidence that the knowledge of all the letter writers' matches their interest. Most of them are urging the lash. Two letters, however, disagree. There is nothing alarming about this disagreement; indeed, if the problem is to be solved it will only be after most careful consideration of differing opinions. What is alarming, though, are the some evident misconceptions, and some obvious desire to vent revenge on offenders. Revenge is seldom a good preventive and never a cure, for illness or crime.

We saw one letter, for instance, in which a woman advocated use of the lash and then, preferring to claims that sex criminals should receive psychiatric treatment rather than prison terms, asked what difference it made whether these offenders were mentally ill or not. "We kill mad dogs, don't we?" Now it is quite possible to argue that the pervert who kills a child and who is unlikely ever to be cured should be quietly ushered out of this world. To suggest, however, that we whip him before he kills him is to degrade society to his level. A man wants perverts to pay with their lives. He also wants "at least a whipping with a doctor to call a halt before the victim is dead." What if the doctor misjudges the exact moment at which the whipping should halt. Are we going to execute people with the lash?

Several letters and at least one member of Parliament suggest castration. This might be an excellent solution if it was a solution at all. Unfortunately it appears to be no answer. There are different operations which will make a male sterile. The simplest one does nothing to reduce a man's sex drive. It will not render him incapable of the sex act. It will, therefore, be no protection. Even if a different method were used, there is grave doubt whether it would be effective. We recall reading that eunuchs in China were permitted to marry and that, being unable to have normal relations with their wives, they would beat them terribly. Does it do any good to turn one type of sex deviate into another?

Even some of the better informed appear to let their emotions run away from their common sense. For instance, in the House of Commons last week Russell Reinke, Liberal member for Hamilton South, urged the imposition of the maximum penalty of life imprisonment and the lash for rape and 10 years and the lash for attempted rape. Some attempts at rape certainly deserve punishment as severe as this. But why do all? A man may always rape, but surely he do not some women invite familiarities, then suddenly seek to avoid them?

Mr. Reinke also suggested adding a section to the criminal code "to deal with those who begin with a minor sex offence." Perhaps this is needed, but from a limited perusal of the findings of psychiatrists we had formed the opinion that most sex criminals begin with a minor offence and then go on to worse crimes. They are "specialists."

There would appear, from letters in the press, to be a regrettably and hopelessly confusing, tendency to lump all sex deviates together. Some deviations from normal conduct are so small that the number subject to them is comparatively large. Other "perverts" are deviates from normal male conduct, but what man does not exhibit the foundations of this deviation by turning his head to watch a pretty girl on the street? Or a man in the "molests" even full-grown girls more than once, Mr. Reinke thinks that "society should be rid of that person until this complex problem is solved." But how is one going to distinguish the technically speaking, normal boys molest normal girls, and vice versa, every day of the week. It would be as impossible and undesirable to apply the law and lash in such cases as it is to apply the law for common assault, under which a mere tap on the shoulder or a playful shove is an offence.

This whole problem is much more complex than some of the would-be solvers appear to imagine.

Finally, we ought to realize that, as one letter writer in the Toronto Telegram says, while sex drive can, if allowed to run amok, result in degradation and horror, "if controlled it can be transformed into acceptable forms of energy, sometimes acumen, sporting vigor, intellectual attainment."

To widen the battlefield against sex deviation to include sex itself, as some few appear eager to do, is not a solution which will appeal to the thinking man and woman of normal instincts.

FAMILY GROWTH

After your years can be counted
By dozens,
When you're at a wedding you don't know the cousins
You meet and never tell the ritual ceases
To tell you the names of the nephews and nieces.

Time was that you knew all the
grownups and small ones,
The fat ones, the thin ones, the short ones and tall ones,
But the small ones have married and children have grown,
With two or three children
who've waited to meet you.

At weddings and funerals
strangers will show up,
To prove just how rapidly
families grow up.
You'll meet some relations by marriage no word of Before that occasion that you'd ever heard of.

"That's life," says my Janet, "to keep the world humming
And ever improving the children
keep coming.
As babies to smile for the grandfolks they're carried;
The next time they're seen they are grown up and married."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 30, 1936

Mr. Justice Charles D. Macaulay, Vancouver, B.C., and formerly of this city, and Mrs. Macaulay are visiting the latter's brother, Mr. Ben. Davy, in Napanee. Justice Macaulay's juridiction is in the Yukon district.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Smith have left for Florida where they will spend several weeks.

Mrs. Jack Fisher of Montreal is spending this week here with relatives.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilmour, Coleman Street, a reception was held Monday evening in honor of Mr. Clifford Templer, Mr. Raymond Gilmour and Mr. Leslie Lennox following their recent marriages, a program of music which they presented at Holloway Street Church. Thirty guests were present and Mrs. E. E. MacColl presided at the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barlow celebrated the 50th. anniversary of their marriage at their home at Bonarlaw on Monday, January 27. They were married on that date in 1886 in Marmora by the Rev. Canon C. W. Ferris, rector of St. Paul's Church. Mrs. Barlow, prior to her marriage, was Miss Mary Fox. She is 70 years of age and Mr. Barlow is in his 75th. year. Both are in excellent health. They have a family of two sons and four daughters, all of whom were present at the anniversary together with nearly all of the twenty-four grandchildren. The sons are J. M. Barlow, who now resides on the old Fox homestead where his parents lived for thirty years, and William J. Barlow, general merchant at Bonarlaw. The daughters are Mrs. Fred Phillips of Wallbridge; Mrs. George Mumby of Harold; Mrs. George Forsyth of Belleville and Mrs. James Barber, whose husband is the owner of the Marmora woollen mills.

Mr. George H. Pope and her son, Dr. E. L. Pope of this city, have left on a trip to Florida.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. J. McFee was endeavoring to separate two fighting dogs when one of them bit him on his left hand. The wound was treated immediately and no serious results are anticipated.

Mrs. A. G. Parker has left here to join Mr. Parker in Brantford in which city he has been appointed manager of the Bank of Montreal. Mrs. Parker was in charge of the Bank of Montreal here for some time; of late she has been relieving the manager of the bank's branch in Hamilton.

From our file copy at this time in 1886 we note that even the west face of the city clock was showing some interest in the passing of time".

Mr. T. Vandervoort and Mr. J. Alger have returned home after visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. Robert Keyes of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting his sister, Miss Keyes in this city.

At a meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Society Mr. C. F. Reed was appointed treasurer and Mr. T. H. Ferguson was appointed secretary. Mr. Harry Stock was appointed assistant secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Jamieson Bone has returned from Toronto where he attended the 5th. annual convention of the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries.

Mr. John Bean, Jr., is confined to the house with an attack of lagrippe. His many friends hope to see him around again soon.

The cost of operating the Hastings County House of Refuge last year amounted to $13,209.74. With deductions of receipts from cash sales from the farm produce and the grant from the government aggregating $3,-905.35, the net cost of operating the home was $9,304.39, against $10,201.27 for the previous year. The cost per inmate per week was $2.31 against $2.38 last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley P. Dutt entertained Mr. George Granville, the talented reader and elocutionist, during his stay in the city. Mr. Granville delighted a large audience at the Tabernacle last evening.

Mr. John Anderson of the Ontario Hydro Commission office here is spending a few days in Chicago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INTEGRITY

I have lived through an interesting span of life and have seen many men fail, but what has interested me most have been the examples of men whose integrity would never allow them to fail.

A friend of mine told me this very recently. A friend of his had signed a contract for the purchase of a valuable product about three more than a million dollars. It would have involved a big profit to the buyer, but after much thinking on the part of the seller he decided he had been too optimistic and it worried him. He then went to the purchaser and said, "I think I can't go through with that contract I signed with you." Immediately the buyer said: "Well, if you feel like that we will just tear up the contract and have it signed, and will be where we first started. A friendship like ours is worth more than any contract. Neither of us can spare the time for a law suit." Another example, when Colonel Lindbergh returned from his great flight to Paris, he had offers galore for the making of movies, but he had given his word that he would not sell his name for the making of any picture. The late William R. Hearst, however, thought he would like to lend his name for a life story, that would be an inspiration to the youth of America. So Hearst offered him a check of $500,000. But Lindbergh refused to take it. He contended he had given his word and he would not go back on it.

Mr. Hearst was amazed at such a decision, so he handed Lindbergh a blank check and told him to destroy it, saying he did not have the heart to do such a thing. Immediately Colonel Lindbergh took the check, tore it up, and handed the pieces to Mr. Hearst. An example of integrity that is characterized Lindbergh as a real American. The late Mr. Hearst or J.P. Morgan always contended that a man's character was the finest collateral any man could have. Never will it change.

The Marriage Industry

(By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun)

There's a Justice of the peace in Las Vegas, Nevada, so the news columns report, who earned $60,000 in marriage fees during 1955. It would be most unfair to this worthy law officer to imply that this handsome sum which is said to be six times the salary of the governor of his state, is derived from extortionate charges for the first sight, appear. This fellow, it seems, is wholly modest in his prospect, asking for no more than $10 per couple. Almost a cheap-skate you might say.

So his profit is based on mass production, a very worthy modern phenomenon. A bit of very elementary arithmetic reveals that he must have joined together no fewer than 8,000 couples during the year just now ballyhooed over the horizon.

Now the point in this report which causes the hand to tremble and the brow to bedew itself is not the fact that 16,000 people got married, although that's a solemn though, but that they were served by one man who made $60,000 on the operation.

The belief that marriage is a sacrament has been discarded by many persons, but the belief that marriage is a contract seems to be shaken by these figures. For it's quite clear that the average J.P. becomes an industry in which bonnes and les familles are turned out with the same, smooth, profitable efficiency as sausages.

One might remark in passing this cheap note would be made when a good thing out of the marriage industry couldn't do better than establish itself as a place like Nevada in general and Las Vegas in particular.

If one goes into the business of manufacturing cotton bolloes, for example, one naturally locates in a spot where the collar button turnover is high. Las Vegas is one of New ada, which readily dissolve a marriage for no more than three days' residence, it draws at edges, create a magnificent turnover in this industry. Nevada courts grind out so many divorces that a wide-awake justice of the peace can make his fortune in marriages in no time.

Las Vegas is admirably adapted to this industry because it is the gambling centre of the United States. The atmosphere, so to speak, is just right for this sort of thing. Nothing is more natural than that a man, having enjoyed a little flutter at roulette, should take on a little flutter in matrimony.

So, you see, this justice of the peace, only 40 years old, is onto a good thing.

While that situation tends to strike one speechless, there are still one or two things that cry out to be said about it.

The first is the inescapable conclusion to be drawn from the proximity of marriage mills to divorce courts. Nevada, the majority of persons seek divorce, not so much for the purpose of shedding an intolerable mate, as for the purpose of acquiring a new one. This casts a disturbing light on the whole concept for the broadening of divorce grounds in Canada.

The second observation which must be made is that the marriage bond is no more flexible and that its more, giving many patients an unhealthily quick relief long before Dr. Goldthwait published his paper on sacro-iliac strain.

Sometimes, said Dr. Goldthwait, the iliac bone has become slightly displaced, slipping forward. This placement must be tried by hyperextension of the spine — the patient lies face downward with feet and shoulders on one table, thighs and legs on another. This allows the body to sag or hang, tending to pull the sacrum far away on illum.

Now, now, I'm merely telling you what Dr. Goldthwait said. Please don't ask me to explain it, for frankly I too find it hard to understand—although I am not going to deny that slight displacement or motion of illum on sacrum can happen.

On the other hand I must accord the osteopaths credit for their recognition of motion in the sacro-iliac and their skill in relieving or correcting the trouble.

Here is a bit of simple advice for the protection of all sacro-iliacs: Never bend your back to lift anything off the floor or ground; kneel down, keeping your back erect, and use your thighs to lift with.

About a month ago a group of progressive members of the medical staff of the Belleville General (steering committee) a proposal that the medical staff recognize and accept as members legally qualified osteopathic physicians and that osteopaths accepts legally qualified homeopathic physicians. The fogies still hold sway, so the proposal was rejected.

Finally, let me suggest that if you have a strain in your sacro-iliac manipulation by an osteopath may be your best bet.

Imagination Exercised

(Montreal Gazette)

On Saturday night, at the City Centre Theatre in New York, Orson Welles played Lear from a chicken's eye-level. The chicken robes fall-ing to conceal the shining wheels. Welles had one broken ankle in a cast, the other leg was bandaged. He was obviously suffered within the person of Lear.

The performance, which the audience found thrilling, was a perverse and stirring one. It was also considered, at first thought, a remarkable piece of showmanship.

Certainly the wheelchair was new and quite modern. But the idea of placing the heart of the living theatre goes right back to the days of Shakespeare. In the Elizabethan world, the Greeks, Movies, with the sweeping action which their camera can achieve, have tended to make audiences forget the ancient principle.

The theatre has never forgotten it. The great actors have proved it. In the past few years have recalled it. Charles Laughton has been outstanding. Emlyn Williams has scored the successful touring of Charles Dickens, on an empty stage. "Don Juan in Hell" has been repeated in the successful cast of talented actors in evening clothes. Why are these productions so successful? Because they do not supply every image in their story as movies do. They force on audience to enjoy an unusual experience in the mind's-eye-interstandment age: they force the audience to exercise its own imagination.

The theatre is a necessary process for the full enjoyment of living. The loss of that experience, that ability is the cruellest loss that is threatened by too much television in the home.

Big Penalty For Mistake

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Anyone who has ever worked on a newspaper — or who has written a letter — knows that, on occasion, fingers don't type or write the word the mind dictates. They go off on their own and make all sorts of mistakes. The result, in the vernacular, is "typographical errors."

In the Dominican Republic recently, the official government newspaper, El Caribe, carried a picture of children placing flowers on a monument. In the caption, in describing the scene, the caption writer used the Spanish word for word "tomb" instead of "bust."

There burst loose, explains Dr. Gordon Sinclair, the Canadian owner who is now in exile in the United States, a long series of protests and threats. The publication was in danger of suppression. But then it was the Dominican Republic. It's rich in the sense that we don't have to look as far as Soviet Russia for totalitarian rule.

Penguins Get Callers

(New York Herald)

The penguins on the Antarctic continent never have had such an exciting breeding season. Two-legged foreigners — not as nearly dressed in as many feathers as they are arriving in droves. They bring strange things, such as bear cans, which they screw into the ice when empty.

The new American Navy ships — icebreakers, cargo ship tanker — reached the Ross Ice Shelf in January, start of Operation Deepfreeze, which is the United States' contribution to the International Geophysical Year, 1957-'58. The penguins haven't figured out why the whole expedition is on the way, and that probably will remain a mystery even on the Antarctic ice.

Other nations participating in this mass ambitious of all attacks on the mysteries of the South Polar continent are Russia, Britain, France, Argentina, Australia, New Zealand, Japan and Chile.

Whatever the penguins may think of the current traffic jam in their hitherto quiet land, we humans can take great satisfaction in an international cooperative effort on so vast a scale. The Antarctic has been the subject or wrangles between the nationals. It may be again, for it could become a military strategic zone commanding important sea lanes. And its 6,000,000 square miles may contain mineral riches for which the nations may scramble.

At the moment, however, it is the scene of a multi-nation venture that augurs well for such like of which the world has never before seen.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Strain of The Pelvic Joints

Dr. Joel E. Goldthwait described relaxation of strain of the sacro-iliac joints in 1905.

That was the first I had heard of relaxation, sprain, strain, dislocation, displacement or even the slightest motion in the sacro-iliac joints. In fact I was taught in medical school that no movement in these joints was possible, except in a woman about to have a child.

The sacro-iliac joints are the joints on either side, of the sacrum or base of the spine with the illum or wing of the innominate (hip, pelvic) bone on either side.

Prior to Goldthwait's elucidation of sacro-iliac strain most victims were content to take a lot of food medicine for lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism, use lively liniments, apply porous plasters or go to Florida to forget who the acid, water meter or polaris bolted out of their systems.

I have no positive knowledge to confirm this, but I believe osteopathic physicians were manipulating what they called subluxation of the sacro-iliac or slipped innominate (hip or pelvic bone) and that is more, giving many patients an unhealthily quick relief long before Dr. Goldthwait published his paper on sacro-iliac strain.

Sometimes, said Dr. Goldthwait, the iliac bone has become slightly displaced, slipping forward. This placement must be tried by hyperextension of the spine — the patient lies face downward with feet and shoulders on one table, thighs and legs on another. This allows the body to sag or hang, tending to pull the sacrum far away on illum.

Now, now, I'm merely telling you what Dr. Goldthwait said. Please don't ask me to explain it, for frankly I too find it hard to understand—although I am not going to deny that slight displacement or motion of illum on sacrum can happen.

On the other hand I must accord the osteopaths credit for their recognition of motion in the sacro-iliac and their skill in relieving or correcting the trouble.

Here is a bit of simple advice for the protection of all sacro-iliacs: Never bend your back to lift anything off the floor or ground; kneel down, keeping your back erect, and use your thighs to lift with.

About a month ago a group of progressive members of the medical staff of the Belleville General (steering committee) a proposal that the medical staff recognize and accept as members legally qualified osteopathic physicians and that osteopaths accepts legally qualified homeopathic physicians. The fogies still hold sway, so the proposal was rejected.

Finally, let me suggest that if you have a strain in your sacro-iliac manipulation by an osteopath may be your best bet.

MIRACLE OF GENTLENESS

Franz Lehar, unknown young composer, dined one evening in an obscure restaurant in Paris. When the time came to pay his bill, he discovered to his consternation that he had lost his pocketbook. The owner of the restaurant was so impressed with the boy's sincerity that he tore up the account and referred to lend the youngster money to buy a return ticket to Vienna.

In after years Lehar had an opportunity to repay this kindness, for the young musician made many, it's not surprising that Nevada courts make a fat living out of the divorce mill.

There are, of course, more respectable reasons, simply and procuring for instance. But none is so well paid as the up-to-the-minute marriage engineer.

Big Penalty For Mistake

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Anyone who has ever worked on a newspaper — or who has written a letter — knows that, on occasion, fingers don't type or write the word the mind dictates. They go off on their own and make all sorts of mistakes. The result, in the vernacular, is "typographical errors."

In the Dominican Republic recently, the official government newspaper, El Caribe, carried a picture of children placing flowers on a monument. In the caption, in describing the scene, the caption writer used the Spanish word for word "tomb" instead of "bust."

There burst loose, explains Dr. Gordon Sinclair, the Canadian owner who is now exile in the United States, a long series of protests and threats. The publication was in danger of suppression. But then it was the Dominican Republic. It's rich in the sense that we don't have to look as far as Soviet Russia for totalitarian rule.

Penguins Get Callers

(New York Herald)

The penguins on the Antarctic continent never have had such an exciting breeding season. Two-legged foreigners — not as nearly dressed in as many feathers as they are arriving in droves. They bring strange things, such as bear cans, which they screw into the ice when empty.

The new American Navy ships — icebreakers, cargo ship tanker — reached the Ross Ice Shelf in January, start of Operation Deepfreeze, which is the United States' contribution to the International Geophysical Year, 1957-'58. The penguins haven't figured out why the whole expedition is on the way, and that probably will remain a mystery even on the Antarctic ice.

Other nations participating in this mass ambitious of all attacks on the mysteries of the South Polar continent are Russia, Britain, France, Argentina, Australia, New Zealand, Japan and Chile.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Billy Rose, the theatrical producer, columnist and entrepreneur of great wealth and sophistication, that centres in New York has created a bit of a furore down there. Rose advocates that the main traffic problems, floodlighted baseball diamonds and tennis courts and a great swimming pool and parking lots under it all.

Billy Rose's reasons for the one by kind of people he knows, and he admits his suggestion will bring forth a howl from the bird watchers and dandelion fanciers in the community.

It sure will.

The entertainment industry which includes an immensely wealthy and profitable galaxy of luminaries, such as the theatre, the motion picture, radio, TV, restaurant, night club, circus and side show industries, must regard the coming of the great world of conventioneers every year.

Soon, the minute the roads and highways become fit to travel, tens and hundreds of thousands of people streaming away out into the country, must be a tragic experience to all those who have lavished so much money and time and ingenuity entertaining people in the great cities. Rose is right, he must be a simbol detested by the entertainment industry of entertainment. No wonder they want Central Park converted. The way it is now, it is dead, alive, at all seasons of the year, the thought of those fields in the middle of the millions confined to the city. It reminds them constantly of escape. Rose parks its open expanse, its mere vista, are nothing but a constant, hourly incitement to people to be ready, every instant, to flee away, to forget their backs upon the movie, restaurant, nifty night club, and even the easy comforts of the theatre, the motion picture, radio, TV, restaurant, night club, circus and side show industries, must regard the coming of the great world of conventioneers every year.

Cyprus Students Battle Troops; Study Peace Plan

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuter) — British troops today battled student rioters at the west coast port of Paphos as Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece campaign, summoned a special meeting of his council to consider new British proposals for ending the current wave of violence on the Mediterranean island.

The new clash between British security forces and student demonstrators came when the students from rooftop vantage points began pelting army trucks and soldiers with stones and roofing tiles.

Three students were injured as the troops using tear gas and nightsticks chased them from the roof.

MAY HAVE AGREED

The new proposals were submitted to Makarios Friday during a 10½-hour meeting with British Governor Sir John Harding soon after Harding resumed from talks with government leaders in London.

Sunday the English - language newspaper Times of Cyprus reported that Makarios had "broadly agreed" to the formula for the island's future outlined by Harding.

According to The Times of Cyprus, the British formula for an end to violence as put forth by Harding was: 1. Concession of the right to Cypriot self-determination; 2. self-government; 3. talks on the excercise of self-determination; 4. safeguarding Britain's interest in the area. Britain says she must hold Cyprus because of Middle East defence commitments.

Meanwhile, Andreas Demetriou, 29-year-old Greek Cypriot, today became the first person to be sentenced to death under the island's emergency regulations.

A court found him guilty of firing at a British businessman last November, two days after the discharging of firearms was made a capital offence. The businessman was wounded but recovered.

H. L. Mencken, Baltimore's Sage, Dies in Sleep

BALTIMORE (AP) — H. L. Mencken, whose needle-sharp pen pricked at civilization for nearly half a century, is dead. And how he once literally inquired — shall they stage his "inescapable last act?"

"The sage of Baltimore" — newspaper man, author, wit, and critic — died quietly in his sleep early Sunday. He was 75. A doctor said a blood clot probably ended Mencken's life.

His brother, August, said funeral services, when arranged, will be "strictly private."

Mencken once wrote: "One of the crying needs of the time is this incomparable republic is for a suitable burial service for the admittedly damned. . . .

"What is needed, and what I bawl for politely, is a service that is free from the pious but unsupported asservervations that revolt so many of our best minds, and yet remains happily graceful and consoling . . . A suitable funeral monologue, full of lovely poetry, but devoid of any specific pronouncement on the subject of a future life. . . .

"Such a libretto for the inescapable last act would be humane and valuable. I renew my suggestion that the poets spit upon their hands and confect it at once."

This was typical of Mencken as he viewed the passing scene.

His views, laced with humor and vitality, were given life in two dozen books and thousands of essays.

WINS PASSING TITLE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Otto Graham of the Cleveland Browns wound up his professional football career by winning the passing title in the National Football League in 1955.

Graham, who in six years in the NFL has never finished worse than fourth among the passers, completed 98 of 185 passes for 1,721 yards and 15 touchdowns. His winning average was 9.30 a pass. Only eight of his passes were intercepted.

Two Russian Speed Skaters Break Record

MISURINA, Italy (CP) — Two Russian speed skaters, Yury Mikhailov and Eugeniy Grishin, sped to identical world record times of 2:08.6 today to take the lead in the 1,500-metre (1,650 yards) event at the winter Olympics.

Grishin previously had won the 500-metre race in world record time of 40.2 seconds.

The recognized world record is 2:09.8, held by Grishin. The old Olympic mark of 2:17.7 was set by Sverre Farstad of Norway.

Ralph Olin, Calgary policeman, today skated the distance in 2:19.7. It was the best time by a Canadian speed skater ever made over the distance.

Praise TV Director

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Director Delbert Mann, who came out of television to direct "Marty," has won the accolade of the Screen Directors Guild for the best-directed picture of 1955, establishing him as almost a sure winner of an Academy Award.

"Marty," a favorite for the best picture of 1955 in the awards, recently won the coveted New York film critics' award.

100,000 Turn Out to Hear Billy Graham

KOTTAYAM, India (AP)—More than 100,000 persons turned out Sunday night to hear American evangelist Billy Graham at the last service of his three-day stay here. Organizers said the crowd was the largest in "the Indian church's history."

Impressed by the size of his audience, the evangelist said:

"The reception here in South India has overwhelmed us. The crowds in Kottayam are greater than any I have had in America, and second only to the closing meeting of the London crusade of 1954.

"We are deeply grateful to God for the interest shown everywhere in the message of Christianity."

Organizers said Sunday night's outpouring brought the total attendance at the three meetings here to close to 300,000.

Youngster Gets Another Crack At Big Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Young George L. Wright III gets another try at $100,000 next Saturday night as a result of a misleading question asked of him on "The Big Surprise," the show's producer said Sunday.

Wright, 14, a New York high school freshman, was counted out Saturday night on the NBC-TV show when he purportedly missed a question dealing with a popular song of the 1920's. The query was the sixth part of a question. He had answered the other parts correctly.

Within minutes, the program people discovered the song they asked about had been written in 1930. The song was "Betty Co-ed," written by Rudy Vallee and Paul Fogarty, who now conducts a program on a Chicago TV station. Fogarty telephoned the show to point out the error.

Brazil President Takes Office On Tuesday

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Juscelino Kubitschek, 53-year-old surgeon and former governor of Minas Gerais state, takes office Tuesday as president of Brazil's 55,000,000 people.

Works Minister Robert Winters heads a Canadian delegation among the scores of foreign dignitaries arriving for the ceremony.

The new president has outlined a broad program for his five-year term. He says he will seek to advance the economy of developing industry, electric power and transportation and by building new highways.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Holds Euchre Party

The Catholic Women's League of St. Joseph's parish sponsored a euchre party last Thursday evening in the school hall with eleven tables in play.

Ladies' first place was tied with Mrs. O. Ray and Mrs. J. F. Thomas; ladies' second, Mrs. Ray. Two winners also shared the consolation prize, Mrs. J. Weed and Mrs. B. Mowers. Lone hand, Mrs. O. Ray. Men's first, G. McWilliams; second, W. C. Springer; consolation, R. Campbell; door prize, Mr. Champaign.

Mrs. H. O'Neill held the lucky ticket on the raffle for a generous hamper of groceries.

Convening the refreshments were: Mrs. O. Dufour and Mrs. R. Chipman, assisted by Mrs. B. Bankey, Mrs. C. Ford, Mrs. E. Goyer, Mrs. H. Carr-Braint and Mrs. H. O'Neill.

Women of the Moose

On Thursday evening the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, held their last meeting of the month in the Moose Hall with a large attendance.

The meeting was called to order by Sr. Regent Mary VanDusen. Officers, escorts and chairman took part in the opening ceremony. Recorder Nellie Scrymgeour called the roll of officers, escorts and chairman.

Three candidates were balloted on, the ballot being favorable, they will be initiated into the degreeding circle in the near future. Minutes, communications and notices were read by the recorder.

Thank-you cards were received from Co-worker Helen Webb and Bro. Bill Thompson for being remembered when they were ill. A thank-you card was also received from a crippled child for a gift received at Christmas. A letter was received from Doris Laraque of the Brockville chapter.

MID-WINTER CONFERENCE

Members were reminded of the mid-winter conference to be held in Lindsay on Sunday. Bus leaves the Moose hall at 9.00 a.m.

It was passed that a donation of $1000 be given to the Loyal Order of Moose 1004, to help in purchasing the building.

The Sr. Regent showed a rhinestone set for which tickets are on sale.

Reports were given by social service chairman Pearl Way for money made on draw at her chairman's meeting; prison child care chairman, Ruth Minty, for money made on draw at her chairman's meeting, and also for money made on the draw from the meeting. The Sr. Regent also turned in money from blankets she had sold.

Jr. Regent Nora Kaiser is to hold a bake sale on the market in February.

The draw on a blanket was won by Co-worker Viola Cooney of Trenton, and the sunshine prize donated by Harriet Keller was won by the Sr. Regent.

Co-workers Mary Peoples is still reported ill in hospital.

The Sr. Regent brought the meeting to a close wishing everyone a fraternal good night. The next meeting to be held in two weeks.

Following the meeting a mother and daughter banquet was held with everyone sitting down to an enjoyable supper. A cold plate was served. Co-workers Ruth Minty, Olive Hansen, Fr... Simpson, Connie Pe... Marian Maddess and Cat... sen assisted in making the b... quet a success.

Belleville Presbyterial Executive WMS Holds Meeting Here

By CORA W. EGGLETON

The January executive meeting of Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was held in Bridge Street Church last Thursday. The president, Mrs. Lincoln Elliot of Tweed, presided for both morning and afternoon sessions.

Morning worship was conducted by Mrs. C. Holmes, of Belleville, with Mrs. P. C. Barrett, of Tweed acting as pianist. "Unity of Purpose" was the theme of thought, with Scripture reading from Romans 5: 1-7 and I. Cor. 3: 9-11.

In the absence of Mrs. J. Kerr, of Picton, Mrs. C. E. Eggleton, of Stirling, acted as recording secretary for the day Roll call showed 17 officers present and seven others from the Bay of Quinte branch and some auxiliary presidents.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Jones of Tweed, reported that while all records were not yet completed, the Presbyterial allocation of $22,600 had been exceeded, with a surplus to be used for what is termed "Gifts for Building Advance." This money is used for important projects, but included in the yearly total pledged to be made out by Dominion Board of W.M.S. It was moved that a recommendation be presented before the annual meeting of Presbyterial to the effect that the money, over and above the allocation, be equally divided for two projects:

(a) Scholarships for Canadians or overseas students wishing to take special training in Christian service. (b) To assist in the erection of a home for crippled children in Neemuch, India.

Christian Stewardship secretary Mrs. R. G. Coulter, of Belleville, reported some fine work accomplished and asked that the new allocations for the year be prayerfully accepted. If the missionary spirit is to be nurtured in all church groups, a great deal more missionary work must be done—each member of WMS a missionary in her own community, and acting as leven in her own area of influence. A word we do not know much about these days is the word "Sacrifice" in connection with work.

Corresponding secretary Mrs. C. Holmes of Belleville, was not able to give a complete report because of a few auxiliaries being late in their returning same. She advised the executive members of the following vacancies on the Belleville Presbyterial executive to be filled for 1956: recording secretary, corresponding secretary; Mission Band secretary, affiliated Explorers' secretary; third vice-president.

This makes five vacancies and there may be one more. Auxiliaries will be asked for nominations for these offices.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of Belleville Presbyterial will be held in King St. Church, Trenton, March 14, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions, and a pre-executive meeting on the evening previous. The agenda was brought up for discussion by Mrs. Elliot and further plans were made for securing speakers and setting up conferences.

Mrs. J. McKillop, president of Dominion Board, W.M.S., will be the chief speaker for the day.

Other themes will be: "Changing Patterns Challenge the Church." Subjects for discussion will be: "unemployment," "immigration," "standards." "Is pressure of materialistic standards on people, make Christian people wonder what values are worth considering may be built into life today. Does the Bible have something to say for us today?" Can a National Mission help up to find our way?

The Rev. J. F. Lane, of Madoc, Home Missions secretary for Belleville Presbytery, dismissed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served by the ladies of Tabernacle W.M.S.

Their president, Mrs. W. H. Ash, extended to all a hearty welcome, and on behalf of the executive and others present, Mrs. S. Silman of Tweed, graciously responded, thanking the Tabernacle women for their kindness and voicing appreciation for the use of so comfortable a committee room.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was opened with a familiar hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour." Mrs. Pierce Jones, of Picton, led in devotionals, centred on the 21st verse of Psalm 44: "For He knoweth the secrets of the heart."

Study Bands were reported by the secretary, Mrs. Don Williams of Belleville. Enrolment is 1094 with 58 Study Bands and three more in 1956. There are 40 Baby Bands in Belleville Presbyterial.

Mission Bands. This report was read by Mrs. C. Holmes in the absence of Band secretary, Mrs. C. A. Mooney of Napanee. 32 Mission Bands had made their annual report.

Mission Circles—Secretary Mrs. Lyall Hicks of Cherry Valley, reported a crying need for leaders. C.G.I.T. (Affiliated) — This report was presented by Mrs. W. K. Pare of Tweed. There are 21 affiliated groups, an increase of five. Money contributed went to Vellore Christian Medical College, in India.

SUPPLY WORK

The response in providing supplies was most encouraging, stated the secretary, Mrs. W. Brown, of Trenton. 8743 pounds of clothing were sent for overseas relief, with the sum of $505.80 to help defray expenses of shipping. Supplies and Christmas gifts were also sent to: (a) Teulon Hospital, Manitoba; (b) Lamont Memorial Hospital, Alberta; (c) Fleyna, North Frontenac, where Miss Muriel Alexander serves as Missionary at large.

Community Friendship was reported by Mrs. Earl Burnside of Madoc. 6859 calls were reported as made on sick and shut-ins. Probably many more were never tabulated. Newcomers were welcomed and innumerable letters and cards were sent to those ill or bereaved.

Literature—Mrs. Pierce Jones, of Picton, noted a slight increase in the sale of Missionary literature, and named those auxiliaries meriting awards in the reading course, also naming the books chosen as awards.

Candidate secretary, Mrs. Fred Wilson, of Belleville, spoke of the great need for young people in full-time service for the church. "Secure as much literature on this branch of the work as possible," urged Mrs. Wilson. Good literature is available. Two books mentioned were: "It's Worth Your Life," and "Vocations in the Church." Miss Jean Derbiaher and Miss Leafa Drew are candidates from this Presbyterial in the last year. Each auxiliary president is asked to be a candidate secretary for her own church.

Press—Mrs. C. E. Eggleton, of Stirling, stressed the importance of reporting coming events of Missionary importance in the church and also sending to the local newspapers accounts of Missionary meetings and activities. 571 such reports appeared last year in local press. A Drop of Ink—Can Make a Million Think!" —and perhaps become interested in Christian Mission.

Mrs. L. Elliot fittingly closed the afternoon meeting with a brief talk based on Matthew 20, and leaving with all the thought that we are here not to be served—but to serve, and that more seriously than ever before should the pledge be made — let pray, study, work and give for the great Missionary cause.

AN ENSEMBLE FOR RESORTS

By VERA WINSTON

Creamy beige wool jersey is the fabric used for an attractive dress and jacket ensemble and general wear come Spring.

The sleeveless dress boasts a boat neckline and nice seamed detail on the bodice. The jacket has a knit collar and a knit front and waist border. It is bright with appliqued white butterflies embroidered with multi-colored sequins over an embroidered leaf motif.

This type of ensemble appears in the leading collections and go South departments.

Toronto Girl Only Canadian Among Seventy UN Guides

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Phyllis Ireland, a petit Canadian brunette with dancing blue eyes, has probably met more people at the United Nations than any diplomat who attends its meetings.

Something like 27,000 people—in groups of 30—have been ticketed by the 25-year-old Toronto girl since she joined UN's guided tour services 18 months ago. Of 70 girls in the service, she is the only Canadian.

"We are the UN's only direct contact with the outside, to supply the public with information," said Phyllis as she relaxed in the visitors' lobby following a day's work. "We give them some background on what makes the UN tick."

She came to New York originally to study art, joining the UN staff in September 1954 after spending one year at a school of design. She does free-lance work in textiles and printed materials.

Her father, Erskine Wallace Ireland, is chairman of the selection committee for Canadian Rhodes scholars selection committee.

Phyllis finds that she isn't able to do all the art work she would like. "By the time I've given finished a day's work here I don't feel like doing much else," she said. "I'm dead tired."

A normal work day comprises four one-hour tours—two for adults and 30 cents for students—but during the busy spring months she often is called on to do five. She estimates that an average of 1,500 to 2,000 people tour the UN each day, but some spring days the total reaches 4,000. Thousands of others visit the UN each week without taking the guided tour.

Her job pays about $33 a week clear — "enough to make ends meet." She stays in an apartment room near Columbia University.

"This is only a temporary job for all of us," Phyllis said. "They won't let you stay longer than two years." She returns to Canada in September she plans to take up clothing design on a full-time basis.

The UN tours are largely prescribed. Most days the girls are given wide leeway in planning their lectures. Main stops are the General Assembly hall and the three council chambers.

"We seat the groups in the councils and the General Assembly and give them our spiel," she said. "First we spend two or three minutes discussing the furniture. The Scandinavian countries supply furniture for the councils—Norway for the Security Council, Sweden for the Trusteeship Council, Sweden for the Economic and Social Council.

"Then we go right into the council's functions—its purpose, number of members and topics currently under discussion."

INSIDE DOPE

"Each morning before the tours start there is a briefing at which a UN official gives us the inside dope on what is coming up, to help us in our talks. Recently he briefed us on the Palestine situation, which has been before the Security Council."

Many of her customers are children, who come in classes. "The little ones are fine—easy to handle. But I like it better when they have not been told anything about the UN because the lessons get it all balled up.

"When there are the adolescents, I don't like them very much. It is a problem to know how to handle them.

"Among the adults, you often get an arrogant individual who wants to show off his superior knowledge. An offer to let him do the talking is usually enough to put him in his place."

Gamma Mu Plans White Envelope Tea

The Gamma Mu Chapter of Sat Sigma Phi Sorority met recently at the home of Mrs. J. Sisson, 163 Bridge Street East. The main branch of the work as possible," urged Mrs. Wilson. Good literature is available. Two books mentioned were: "It's Worth Your Life," and "Vocations in the Church." Miss Jean Derbiaher and Miss Leafa Drew are candidates from this Presbyterial in the last year. Each auxiliary president is asked to be a candidate secretary for her own church.

—Press—Mrs. C. E. Eggleton, of Stirling, stressed the importance of reporting coming events of Missionary importance in the church and also sending to the local newspapers accounts of Missionary meetings and activities. 571 such reports appeared last year in local press. A Drop of Ink—Can Make a Million Think!" —and perhaps become interested in Christian Mission.

Mrs. L. Elliot fittingly closed the afternoon meeting with a brief talk based on Matthew 20, and leaving with all the thought that we are here not to be served—but to serve, and that more seriously than ever before should the pledge be made — let pray, study, work and give for the great Missionary cause.

Y's Menette Club Plans Fashion Show

The regular meeting of the Y's Menette Club was held Tuesday in the Y.M.C.A.

Plans for the annual St. Patrick's tea were discussed. It was decided that a fashion show, sponsored by Mr. Carson Elliott, would be an added attraction at this tea.

Following the business meeting, a film, entitled, "Rural Nurse", was shown. This film dealt with the efforts of the World Health Organization of the United Nations to improve rural health conditions in Salvador.

The hostesses for the evening were: Hazel Watson and Ardith Leslie.

When the man on the flying trapeze
Lost his balance because of a sneeze,
He was heard to comment
As he sank his descent,
"Pour some brisk Lipton Tea, if you please!"

How will we stack up

CANADA-1965

TEN YEARS FROM NOW?

What will be the value of Canada's production of goods and services? How large will our population be? How will the nation's economy stack up in the years ahead? These questions interest every Canadian

This month's B of M Business Review attempts to answer them for you by analyzing Canada's development in the first ten postwar years and by outlining the main features of further growth in the decade ahead.

The B of M Business Review is an authoritative monthly publication . . . each issue contains a detailed survey of some aspect of Canada's economy, or an over-all analysis of national business trends, together with reports on each region of the country.

PRELUDE TO SPRING

A clear and radiant skin, together with vivid lipstick and mascara adds up to a lovely appearance.

Mid-winter doldrums? Not much to look forward to until the first robin announces officially that "spring is here"? Well, why not snap out of it by giving your make-up some extra thought? The present fashion in make-up is bound to perk up any gal and make her feel as though the fresh warm breezes are already here. Dewy, well scrubbed skin contrasts with a boldly colored mouth and with heavily accented eyebrows above tinted eyelids and lashes that make the eyes seem large and wide.

It's dramatic. It's a way of making-up that calls for practice and preparation, beginning now.

Essentially you'll need a bright red lipstick, a black or brown eyebrow pencil and mascara, powder of a delicate tone—to be used sparingly—and plenty of soap and water. The fresh-looking, shiny skin that's important depends on plenty of suds and scrubbing to cleanse away the dead, dry skin that tends to become excessive after a winter in overheated homes and buildings, perhaps fewer vile-mix-rich fresh foods, and less out-door exercise.

Since you won't cover your face with lots of make-up, a smooth clear complexion is of basic importance, and provides a striking contrast to vivid lips and dramatic eyes.

Your skin just hasn't a chance to be clear and flawless unless it's cleaned often and well. So it's important to establish this rule for yourself: that you will wash your face thoroughly at least three times a day—when you get up in the morning, before dinner in the evening, and before you go to bed.

The friction of rubbing with a complexion brush once a day will help keep the surface of the skin healthy and stimulate circulation. Hence, the fresh, shiny look. Use the complexion brush (which could well be a trimmed down shaving brush) for scrubbing the hairline and eyebrows with extra thoroughness.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT'S TIME TO COME TO SOME DECISION

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married for two years, and have a darling baby boy 11 months old.

The first year we were married was heavenly. But a month before my baby was born, my husband and I had a terrible fight over his staying at his mother's at night instead of coming home. I left him and went back to my parents, and when Dad went back to my apartment to get my clothes and my baby's things, my husband had him arrested. My husband said he would drop the charges against Dad if I would take him back again, and like a fool I did.

A month later, my baby was born and when my best girl friend and her sister came to see me, my husband made a scene in the hospital and walked out. He never came back again except to take me home.

Since then, we have been separated six times, just about every six or eight weeks. My husband just can't stay away from his mother, and I refuse to go to her house because the man she married six years ago was just out of jail for killing a man. Also, my husband's older brother is living at his mother's house with a married woman who has two children by her husband, and since she has been living with my brother-in-law, she has two more children. Can you blame me for not taking my baby out there?

If I leave my husband, I won't get support money, and even if I wanted to leave him, I haven't enough money for a divorce.

What can I do? —E.L.

Dear E.L.:

I think you will have to make up your mind what is the most important issue to you—being supported by your husband and having no peace of mind, or leaving him for the sake of this peace of mind and having to tackle the problem of somehow finding money to support yourself and your baby. It seems obvious that you cannot have both peace of mind and support from your husband.

If you think there is any chance of straightening out your life with your husband, that would, of course, be far and away the most desirable solution. But if you are going to keep separating every few weeks, then your married life is nothing but a farce, and I see no possible sense in continuing it purely for the sake of being supported.

Why don't you consider, for the time being, either, a course that would be midway between carrying on this farce and, taking the final step of divorce?

Such a middle course would be to try a legal separation from your husband for a while. It might be that if, by the terms of your separation, your husband could not keep on running back and forth between his mother and you, but would be ordered to stay away from you and the baby, he would, in time, come to find out what he was missing. Unless he is a man of very peculiar qualities indeed, one would think that he would greatly prefer being in his own home, with his wife and baby, to spending his time in the kind of household his mother keeps. At any rate, it would seem to me that the wisest thing you could do would be to put him in a position where he would have to make a definite choice as to which kind of home he does prefer.

I suggest that you get in touch with the family welfare service in your city and make an appointment to talk over with these people a separation plan of this kind. If, after you have given them all the details on your situation, they agree that this plan would be worth trying they will guide you in taking the proper legal steps. It's possible that they might have some even better plan to offer after they have heard your full story. I, of course, have only the brief outline of your circumstances which you have given me in your letter.

So I urge you not to wait for still another separation of the kind you and your husband have been having so continuously, but to get the best advice you can from the family service organization and then go along with it. As long as you put off making a decision of some sort, things will only get worse.

Velvety Beauty

By ALICE ALDEN

Luscious velvet, inky black or brightly colorful, is having a fine season both indoors and out and is especially liked for smart separates. Here are handsome velvet separates that carry a festive look, youthful yet sophisticated. The fitted top has a halter neckline and the full skirt features ribbon cushing framing latties inserts. The combination adds up to a perfect outfit for home entertaining or whirling around the dance floor.

DAUGHTER'S "MIXED-UP" PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father will be married twenty - five years next May. Mother never has had a shower given for her. Would it be proper for me to have a small gathering of her friends and explain the situation to them? She deserves so much, and has had very little. — W.

The fact that your mother never had a shower given for her isn't an adequate reason for your urging her friends to plan one for h e r now, and I'm not sure that they would understand your urging. (Many, many women in this world never had a shower given for them!) And I don't understand what your shower-plan would have to do with your parents' celebration of their Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary.

I suggest that you and the rest of the family concentrate on planning a simple, informal, happy party to celebrate this important occasion. If it is not easy or convenient for you and your parents and the other members of the family to plan this, then you might ask your mother's friends for their cooperation. For example: they might get together and plan to make the Wedding Anniversary Cake — this is the special feature of an anniversary party.

Nourishing Hot Dishes For Large Groups

By Mary Moore

Two letiers from earnest readers require my serious attention and today's the day for it. One girl cooks for an institution and asks for new ideas for hot dishes, large quantity. The other says their Home and School Association serves hot lunch to 90 to 120 pupils daily with members donating their time to serve. They charge 25c per lunch and pay the cook. She says "We want... the most nourishing and filling meal but don't want to scrimp—just make enough to cover expenses!"

The following recipes will help both readers with their big commendable projects.

CREAMED TUNA FISH AND PEAS

(Salmon may be substituted) (45 1-3 cups portions)

One and one-half cups fat, 1 1-3 cups flour, 1 cup milk (this may be reliquefied skim milk powder), heated, 1 29-oz. tin condensed cream of mushroom soup (buy this at grocery wholesale), 29 oz. water, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 3 lbs. canned tuna (flakes are more economical than solid pack), 5 1-2 cups cooked peas. Melt fat, blend in flour, stir in hot milk till thick; add soup and water. Heat through stirring. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly. Serve 1-2 cup portions over toast.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

(32 servings)

Two cups each diced onions and green peppers, 10 lbs. ground shank beef (or hamburg), 2 tablespoons salt, 1 10S-oz. tin condensed vegetable soup, 5 lbs. (10 cups) mashed potatoes. Combine first four ingredients and saute gently until meat is barely cooked. Add soup and simmer five minutes stirring occasionally. Apportion into two baking dishes 15 x 10 x 2 inches. Top with individual scoops mashed potatoes or spread mashed potatoes over. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 20 minutes or until golden. Serving: 3-4 cup plus 1-3 cup mashed potato.

SPANISH RICE

(Serves 25)

One and one-half lbs.. raw long grain rice, 6 1-2 quarts boiling water, 2 tablespoons salt, 3 lbs. ground beef, 3 large onions chopped finely, 4 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 10 to 12 cups canned tomatoes (3 No. 2 1-2 cans). Cook rice in boiling water 10 minutes and drain. Brown beef in 1-4 cup of fat, adding onions after 2 minutes. Add to rice with other ingredients. Spread in large baking pans that have been greased and bake 1 1-4 hours at 350 deg. Fahr.

Mother's Helper

ONE of the favorite time-passers for small sick-abeds is Art. A good-sized piece of oilcloth or a plastic tablecloth under that coloring book will protect the sheet or blanket from overenthusiastic strokes with crayon or pencil.

SAVORY NOODLES AND PORK

Boil 1 lb. uncooked egg noodles in 7 quarts boiling salted water until tender. Drain, Brown 2 1-2 pound fresh pork (or beef) from shoulder in 3 tablespoons fat, adding 6 small onions chopped and 6 cups celery chopped and cook gently 10 minutes. Add to noodles and stir in gently 3 10 1-2 oz. tins condensed tomato soup, 1 cup water, 2 1-2 cups grated cheese, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Turn into greased pan or pans. Bake 45 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. (Or this may be simmered on top of stove.) Serves 25.

rolls Establish Bible Written fore, During Time of Christ

By RELMAN MORIN

W YORK (AP)—"This is the ver to those who say we n't got the original Bible." now is nearly nine years since archbishop of the Syrian ch, Mar Athanius Yeshue ael, first held in his hands a ile, dusty roll of parchment. he place was Jerusalem in the mer of 1947. Even today, the hbishop's dark eyes burn with ep intensity when he describes moment.

r the cylinder of parchment, ther with other rolls, and un- nted thousands of fragments of others—all found nearby—have e to be known as the "Dead scrolls." Archbishop Samuel, now administers a diocese of hbers in the United States and nada, was one of the first men see the scrolls after they were en from the caves near the ad sea where they had been ded for centuries.

ince the original finds, other ves yielded up still more scrolls d fragments. Evidently, long , a whole library was hidden ery in the remote, uninhabited ates on the shores of the Dead

SCHOLAR ASTONISHED

Who did this? Why? How old are the scrolls? What writings did y contain?

Questions sprung up on every ad. The first shadowy indica- tions of what the scrolls might be astonished archaeologists and bib- lical scholars.

For, some books of the Old Testa- ment were quickly identified, along with some of the so-called Apoc- ryphal writings.

The most thrilling fact was their age—which was hotly disputed at first. They are 2,000 years old and more—that is, written during the era of the life of Christ.

Thus, they provide "undreamed- of illumination to the study of bib- lical literature," said Dr. Frank M. Cross, American scholar who is in Jerusalem working on the scrolls, some of which are to be given eventually to McGill University, Montreal, which helped finance work in antiquities undertaken by the Jordan government.

BIBLE CONFIRMED

To Archbishop Samuel, the im- portant point is:

"They establish the fact that the Bible was written before and dur- ing the time of Christ, not in the Middle Ages as some have claimed. This proves that the Bible in our hands today is the true Bible.

It will be long years before all the writings found in the caves have been translated and evalu- ated. Optimistic scholars estimate 10 to 20 years. Others, however, say enough material is at hand to keep them working at top speed for the next 50 years.

Top speed is slow. Merely un- rolling the scrolls is a delicate, painstaking job. Many of the frag- ments are mere slivers of papyrus that may crumble when touched. They may have to be read with the assistance of infrared photographs.

MUCH ALREADY KNOWN

Still, a great deal already is known about them. While contro- versy swirls around many points, big and small, there is a general agreement on some basic facts about the scrolls:

1. They were written between 200 B. C. and 70 A. D.

2. They were written mainly on leather, some on papyrus, a few on metal. Then they were sealed with pitch and carefully placed in large pottery jars. The jars were hidden in the caves.

3. The languages on the scrolls read so far are Hebrew, Greek and Aramaic. (The last, a Semitic lan- gue, is generally believed to have been the language spoken by Jesus.)

Among the original finds, there was a complete copy of the book of Isaiah. It has been described as "magnificent." Until this was dis- covered, the oldest known copy of Isaiah was dated around the 9th century.

There was also a document called a "commentary" on the book of the prophet, Habakkuk, found among the original group of scrolls. Dr. Millar Burrows, pro- fessor of biblical theology at Yale and author of the new book, "The Dead Sea Scrolls" (Viking), has written of this:

"In some respects, this curious little document is the most inter- esting and important of all those found for the identification and his- tory of the group that produced it."

What was that group?

Here, the first bowings of con- troversy begin to be heard. Schol- ars agree that a Jewish monastic sect, parts of whose monastery have been found, probably pro- duced the commentary, made the copy of Isaiah and wrote the other documents found in the first cave.

Dr. Cross says: "The people of the scrolls were Essenes, a well- known Apocalyptic sect within Judaism." Other scholars are less positive in the identification, using the term, "Essene-type" sect.

The sect, and the way its mem- bers lived—in austerity, sharing common meals, under strict dis- cipline—has been described by the historians, Pliny and Josephus, and the Jewish philosopher, Philo.

A widely-held theory about the Dead sea scrolls is that the Es- senes hid their books in the caves during the Jewish revolt against the Romans. Their community ap- parently was destroyed by the Ro- man Tenth Legion on its way to the siege of Jerusalem.

HOW to get a Friendly Loan at NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan adviser. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly Loan?—Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay.

How much can be borrowed from Niagara?—Up to $1500; sometimes, more.

How quickly can I get money?—Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours for most loans.

How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts . . . from 4 to 24 months. And for all people who have uneven income during the year, such as farmers and schoolteachers, special payment schedules may be arranged on loans above $500.

Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.

Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare . . . often you'll "buy" more money at less cost at Niagara.

Is Life Insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. Be sure you get this protection when you borrow.

Does a friend have to "back" my loan?—No, seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.

How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara Loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs. 2. Husband-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are: to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

Minister Warns Hunters, Anglers Of Concentration

HAMILTON (CP)—Lands Minister Mapledoram of Ontario told the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Saturday there is an intense concentration of hunting and fishing in Ontario and it probably will get worse.

There are nearly 300,000 resident hunters today compared with 100,000 12 years ago, he said at the group's annual convention. Mr. Mapledoram said in future no publicly-owned hunting and fishing areas will be turned over to private control.

But sportsmen must also do their part. Through abiding by game and fish laws and being more solicitous to farmers whose property they use, sportsmen could expect more hunting and fishing despite population increases.

The minister said his department is studying slackening of length restrictions on fish. The federation later approved the government's experiment in removing size limit on pickerel but urged caution in further experiments.

ENDORSE SUGGESTION

The 300 delegates representing 33,000 Ontario sportsmen, endorsed a lands department suggestion that duck hunting be prohibited until 10 a.m., rather than a half hour before dawn as last season, during next season's first few days. Department reports showed that 1,500 ducks were shot and not recovered in one southern Ontario march when sixty hunters moved in by moonlight last season.

A repetition this year of open season on mourning doves was approved over bird fanciers' protests. Farmers backed the move on the grounds the birds were a nuisance.

The federation decided to ask the Ontario government to inaugurate stiff licensing tests for persons applying for gun permits. George Hambly of Port William, president, said a committee has been considering ways of reducing the number of deaths and injuries from inexperienced or careless handling of firearms.

May Confine Hockey to Winter Olympics

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy — (CP)—James Dunn of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday there is a "strong possibility" that Canada will confine future international hockey competition to the winter Olympics, skipping the world championships in the intervening years.

Dunn protested to Olympic officials about the refereeing after Canadians were levied by 8,000 fans Saturday as they defeated Italy 31 and drew 11 of the game's 15 penalties.

"I don't think the AHA would have sent a team to Europe this year if it had not been an Olympic year," he said Sunday. "It costs too much money and certainly doesn't seem to be creating much goodwill for Canada."

Canada has won five of the six Olympic tournaments and 15 of the 20 world competitions — including Olympics—in which there was a Canadian entry.

The world tournament is scheduled for Moscow next year and Russians, whose team was the last to defeat Canada in 1954, have indicated that they are looking forward keenly to Canada's taking part.

Dutchie Offered Coaching Job In Austria

KITCHENER (CP) — Jack McKenzie, team captain of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen hockey team, has received an offer from Austria to coach hockey there, the Kitchener - Waterloo Record said Saturday in a dispatch from Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy.

McKenzie, a Preston high school teacher, has been offered his choice of courses at the University of Vienna to act as hockey coach for that country.

The story says the offer was conveyed personally to McKenzie by Bruno Holfelt, coach of the Austrian Olympic team, after the Dutchmen walloped that country Friday 23-0.

Holfelt also indicated Austria is after high-calibre young Canadians who might want a chance at higher education in exchange for their hockey ability. McKenzie indicated he is intrigued by the offer and may ask for a leave of absence from his duties in Preston to study language.

Holfelt also asked the Dutchman captain to act as a scout for prospective players in Canada for Austria.

SOFTBALL!

There is a strong possibility the Ontario Amateur Softball Association annual convention will be held in Belleville in 1957. While the idea was germed at the Peterborough confab last year, it has been gently nursed in some quarters and something of a more or less definite nature was done about it at a meeting held here yesterday.

A half-dozen softball enthusiasts headed by OASA executive Don Lee got their heads together and the outcome was that a meeting, which will bring together luminaries of the game including, it is hoped, OASA prexy John Brady of Oshawa, and more remotely secretary Frank Feaver, will be held here next Sunday.

Many matters pertaining to the proposed convention were discussed, among them accommodation for some 250 delegates, entertainment, convention room, etc. There was a decided air of optimism at the meeting and suggestions and proposed plans made the idea look extremely feasible.

Of course the Belleville venue of the convention must needs get the sanction of the OASA at its Good Friday weekend annual in Toronto, but if next Sunday's meeting bears the expected fruit, plans will be undertaken so that something of a concrete nature will be ready for presentation at the OASA annual.

Strangely enough, if the convention is slated for Belleville it will be or is expected to be the Alpha and Omega of Frank Weaver, popular association secretary. Frank, who has announced his decision to retire this year, was appointed to his position exactly thirteen years ago, the date of the last convention held in this city. At that time the late Harry Knott was president of the Belleville Softball League as it was known, in those days.

With President Brady, it is expected that Jim Dormer, Peterborough executive member Ernie Simpson, Kingston past president, and other OASA dignitaries will attend next Sunday's meeting. Those present at yesterday's confab felt confident Belleville could handle a convention of some 250 delegates, providing everybody put their shoulder behind the general wheel. It should rate as one of the largest sports gatherings of a general nature ever to convene here, and would mean plenty of publicity for this "on the fringe" city as well as giving the popular summer sport a boost.

Members of the BDSL executive and the advisory committee will be invited as well as sports luminaries of other spheres. The 1943 convention was rated in OASA circles as one of the best in the history of the organization.

GETTING CLOSE

Some time ago a Whitby sports writer proudly announced that the Dunlops of that village had their sights set on plugging the entire "Top Ten" scoring list with members of that club. While he admitted that it was a near-impossibility, the Dunnies are doing an excellent job in trying to make the prophecy come true. Right now, or up to Friday night, the Bialremen have six men in the top eleven, and when Saturday and Sunday games scores are included there may be more.

Bobby Attersley, who slumped dismally when Coach and linemate Joe Gagnon drew that suspension, flamed into a brilliant comeback, coincidentally with Gagnon's return to the halo class.

Threatened momentarily by Kingston's Don Murray, who crept within a single point of his topflight total, Attersley scored back brilliantly and now holds a total of 25 goals and 32 assists for 65 points. However, Murray failed to live up to his consistency and high-flying Freddie Beber has taken over the place spot with 24 goals (tops in the group) and 23 assists for 57, four points in front of the third-place Murray.

The Dunlops hold down the 4, 5, 6 and seventh positions with Harry Sinden, 14 and 33; Frank Bonello, 17 and 27; Tommy O'Connor, 21 and 22, and Sandy Air, 19 and 23 in the order named. Bus Gagnon is tied for tenth spot with Moe Savard of Cornwall with 40 points. Erwin Duncan is in eighth place with 41 while brother Edwin brings up the rear with 7 and 21 for 38 points.

Chum Fryia has jumped into a top-spot tie with Vern Goyer in the TPT's scoring race, having 13 and 17 with Vern boasting 15 and 15. Bert Hill is third with 14 and 14 while Gus Lennard has 9 and 16. Peter Jones has racked up 10 and 14 and Keith MacDonald 9 and 21.

Speaking of senior "B" hockey the Dunlops haven't slackened their scoring splurge. They whipped the Brockville Magedomas 9-2 Saturday night for a three-game total of 25 goals, and defeated the Cornwall Colts Sunday 6-3. The Maggies have lost their last four starts and from all appearances must needs look to their laurels if they want to catch a playoff berth. Not alone that second-place spot they predicted they would get before schedule close.

Penalty Parade Is Costly To Clancy's Young Boomers; Habs Pick Up 3; Hawks Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Holding . . . tripping . . . high-sticking. They meant one thing to Toronto Maple Leafs during the weekend: Trouble.

While Leafs were filling to the penalty box in their two National Hockey League games, the opposition was scoring goals. The Leafs lost a 3-1 decision to New York Rangers Saturday and another 3-1 decision to Boston Bruins Sunday.

Meanwhile, Montreal Canadiens increased their league lead by trouncing the last-place Boston Bruins 6-1 at Montreal Saturday and tying the second-spot Red Wings 1-1 at Detroit Sunday. In the other game, Rangers walloped Hawks 6-2 at Chicago Sunday night.

BEGAN AT TORONTO

Leafs started on the road to disaster at Toronto before 13,562 customers. They fell under a two-goal onslaught by rookie Andy Hebenton and another goal by Pete Conacher.

Left winger Earl Balfour was off with a holding minor when Hebenton sent Rangers into a 1-0 lead in the first period. Defenceman Marc Reaume was sitting out tripping minor penalties on the next two—by Conacher and Hebenton in the third period.

Hebenton counted his second goal by firing into the empty Leaf nets after goaltender Gil Mayer had been lifted in favor of an extra attacker.

The lone Leaf goal was produced by centre Ted Kloan. It was his 20th of the season. Wing him with Montreal's Jean Beliveau as the top goal-scorer in the league.

At Boston, a crowd of 11,311 fans saw Bruins score in each period to snatch their 12th win of the campaign. Cal Gardner led the Beantowners with two goals. Gerry Toppazzini got the other one.

SECOND OF SEASON

Sid Smith, all-star left winger in 1954-55 who has been in a scoring slump, tallied his second goal of the season in the second period. Defenceman Bill Horton was on the penalty box for tripping on Gardner's first-period goal. Cal tallied again in the second with Gerry James away for hooking. Billy Harris was serving a tripping sentence on Toppazzini's goal.

Canadiens flashed their vaunted scoring power in the third period against the Bruins at Montreal. They scored four times in that session and the 13,596 fans nearly went wild with glee.

Canadiens' big guns, Beliveau and Maurice Richard, each scored twice. Bernie Geoffrion and Claude Provost each got one. Vic Stasiuk accounted for Bruins' lone goal.

The loss snapped Boston's three-game winning streak and was Montreal's 30th win of the season.

WINGS HELD THEM

The Habs were held in check by the tough Red Wings, though. The largest crowd of the campaign to turn up at Detroit Olympia—15,180 fans—watched Beliveau put Montreal ahead in the first period and Alex Delvecchio got the equalizer in the second.

Rangers were working well Sunday night. And they got some sensational goaltending from little Lorne Worsley. He kicked out 19 shots, as compared to 15 for Hank Basso in the Chicago cage.

Hebenton kicked home for the Rangers, running his goal total this season to 14. He's the hottest rookie in the business.

Defenceman Lou Fontinato scored twice for the Blueshirts. Dave Creighton, Ron Murphy and Larry Popein got the others. Hank Ciesla and Nick Mickoski were the Chicago scorers who gave the 5,139 fans something to cheer about.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—The University of San Francisco Dons Saturday night set a major United States college record for successive basketball victories—40 straight—by defeating the University of California, 53-35.

The win wiped out the old mark of 38 set by Long Island University of Brooklyn in 1935-37 and equalled by Seton Hall of East Orange, N.J., in 1938-41.

Teepees Trim Biltmores 6-4; Canucks Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees defeated Guelph Biltmores 6-4 at St. Catharines Saturday to move eight points ahead of the pack in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League. In the weekly Sunday doubleheader at Toronto, both Toronto teams won their games. St. Michael's Majors defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks 5-2 and Marlboros squeaking by Hamilton Cubs 3-2.

St. Catharines has 47 points. Canucks are second with 39, two more than Guelph and three ahead of fourth - place St. Michael's. Barrie Flyers and Marlboros are tied for fifth.

Biltmores started the game at St. Catharines as though they were headed for a runaway victory but Teepees caught fire in the second period. It was 2-0 after the first 20 minutes and 4-2 for St. Catharines at the end of the second.

Gary Estocin, Art Stanton, Ed Hoekstra, Ab McDonald, Mitch Pinta and Wayne Hillman scored Teepees' goals. Bob Forhan fired a pair of Guelph counters within 14 seconds shortly after the midway mark of the third frame. Bill Graham and Brian Webber were the other Biltmore marksmen.

Teepee defenceman Matt Ravlich was given a match-misconduct penalty in the first period when he started fighting with Graham at the penalty box.

Right winger Ken Girard snapped Marlboros out of a four-game losing streak when he scored two goals in the third period at Toronto to put Marlboros ahead 3-2.

Marlboro defenceman Al MacNeill, who was elevated to the Toronto Maple Leafs for a National Hockey League game Saturday, opened the scoring with a blazing shot early in the first period. John Roe deadlocked the score for Hamilton. Then Bob Robinson sent Cubs ahead with the only goal of the middle frame.

Goodwin Wins Ladies' Tourney

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) Jeanne Goodwin, 19, won the annual Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament Sunday, taking the lead on the second hole and going on to defeat Cookie Swift Berger, Buffalo, N.Y., 7 and 6.

Miss Goodwin, who failed to get past the first round in two previous Doherty tournaments, eliminated Marlene Stewart, the Canadian champion from Fonthill, Ont., in the semi-final round Saturday with a 1 up win.

The 36-hole final ended Sunday when Miss Goodwin, daughter of a golf pro at Dartmouth, Mass., halved the 30th hole.

Bulldogs Slip To Fourth Spot Beaten Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a lost weekend in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League as far as Windsor Bulldogs are concerned.

Bulldogs lost two games and slipped from third to fourth place in the standings. Owen Sound Mercurys defeated Bulldogs 6-3 Saturday at Owen Sound. Sunday at Windsor, last place Chatham Maroons beat Bulldogs 4-1.

A crowd of 2,100 fans at Owen Sound saw Jack Hamilton send the Mercurys ahead 3-2 in the third period Saturday after Bulldogs had held Mercurys to a 1-1 tie in the first.

Elmer Skov, Jack Taylor, Jerry Reid and Buck Forslund scored the other Owen Sound goals. Centre Frank Babgate scored all the Windsor markers.

Sunday at Windsor, before 2,921 fans, Maroons and Bulldogs battled through a scoreless first period. Eddie Busch and Eric Unger scored a pair of Chatham goals in the second but Jim Peters cut the lead in half early in the third. With less that two minutes to play, Peters was penalized for hooking and Jim Connelly and Lloyd Ferguson screwed up the game.

Dutchies Protest Officiating After 3-1 Victory Over Italian Team

'Worst I Ever Saw' -- Dunn; Eleven Canucks Thumbed Off As Game Nearly Blows Open

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) --Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, belying their name, gave their most serious exercise into the vagaries of European-style officiating, encounter their first real opposition at 3:30 p.m. EST today when they meet Czechoslovakia in the Olympic hockey tournament.

Both clubs emerged unefeated from the elimination tournament ending Sunday, though each had its troubles with the officials.

The United States meets Germany and Russia opposes Sweden in the remaining matches scheduled for today.

A formal Canadian protest resulted from the Dutchmen's brush with officialdom Saturday night at a jeering crowd of 8,000 fans watched them take 11 of the 13 penalties imposed before they scored two last-period goals and defeated Italy 3-1.

CANADIAN COMPLAINS

"One of the worst exhibitions of refereeing it has ever been my misfortune to witness," commented James Dunn, fellow-Winnipeg resident of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association who he fired off a complaint to Olympic authorities.

"The Czechs got their first whole-sale dose of official incompetence Sunday for a few stick-swinging episodes overlooked that let them victory over Poland. By the end of the game, feelings between the two eastern European neighbors had reached the point where only the looks of disgust prevented the traditional Olympic handshake.

Then Russian ice supremacy was thus far, looked impressive Sunday as they subdued Switzerland 12-3 with a record seven goals each by scoring four goals. Sweden had barely edged the Swiss 7-6 the previous day in earning their final berth. The Americans reached the finals with a 6-0 victory over Poland Saturday. Germany made it Sunday with a 7-0 romp at the expense of Austria.

CHIEF OBJECT

A German referee, Hans Unger, was the chief object of Canadian resentment after the Dutchmen's close call against the Italians, who had five of their six former Canadian players in the lineup, Unger called most of the penalties against Canada.

Spectators friendly to the Dutchmen saw a pattern in their sentences. An Italian would clutch at a passing Canadian player. The Canadian would attempt to jerk himself free and would end up with a penalty while the Italian went unpunished.

"Throw your rule book away!" was Canadian coach Bobby Bauer's bitter post-game comment to Louis Lecompte of Ottawa, the Canadian member of the Olympic referee ing staff. "It doesn't mean a thing over here."

Unger thumbed off two Dutchmen in as many seconds when the game was barely a minute old. As the penalty parade continued, Italy's Ernesto Crotti finally registered the first goal of the tournament against the Canadians while George Scholes was doing time.

EVENED THE COUNT

Jerry Theberge evened the count late in the period. A wild scramble, while scoreless, was a Canadian nightmare. Six Dutchmen were waved off in the 20 minutes, defenceman Howie Lee getting the gate three times.

Less almost made it on a fourth occasion. Italian defenceman Carlo Montemurro, formerly of Rouyn Que., grabbed him by the arm and pulled him to the floor. Unger blew his whistle and thumbed the Canadian to the sidelines.

This time Norwegian referee Tore Johannesen called his colleague over for a brief conference and Unger skated over to nullify the penalty. There was no call against Montemurro.

Another controversy involving Lee nearly blew the game wide open. A shoving bee with Italian captain Mario Sedogati ended with both players ready to dctp their gloves and start throwing punches. Unger intervened and again the Canadian was the only one to go off, despite the protests of his teammates.

The crowd booed and whistled at the officiating Dutchmen. Play had to be stopped for five minutes until things quieted down.

BROOKER SCORES

In a third period mainly devoted to hockey, Charlie Brooker finally scored the winning goal, deflecting home a shot by defenceman Art Hurst.

This time it was the Italians' turn to swarm around the officials, claiming Brooker was in the goal crease. Giuliano Ferrari, the losers' star goalie, led the protests and tears streamed down his face for the remaining seven minutes of play after the Canadian goal was allowed to stand.

Scholes broke into the clear while captain Jack McKenzie was serving the last Canadian penalty and scored the third goal for the winning margin.

Dunn said Sunday that his protest was against the general calibre of European refereeing but that he specifically asked that Unger be given no more Olympic assignments, particularly in games involving Canada.

The preliminary eliminations were run off without upsets although the U.S. squad gave Czechoslovakia a hard battle Friday before losing 4-3 and Sweden, a top challenger in other years, had unexpected difficulty with the Swiss.

TOUGHEST LAST YEAR

The Czechs, perennially with top everyone's pre - tournament list since they took the world title in 1947 and 1949, were Canada's toughest opposition in last year's championship, bidding Penticton by a 5-3 score after tying them 3-3 in an exhibition game at Prague.

One of their forwards, Vlastimil Bubnik, has been players in goal scoring with 16 in last year's world championship in West Germany. Another, Vladimir Zabrodsky, is a veteran of both Czech championships and Olympics who is nearly enough to finish third in last year's scoring race with 34 points, one less than Penticton's Bill Warwick.

The Czech captain, Slavomir Bartak, is the defence star last season. A newcomer, Frantisek Vanek, is the current leader with three in two games.

As a result of their 23-0 harvest over Poland, seven of the Swedish men are far ahead of the Czechs in scoring. Sweden has scored seven times in their three starts, followed by Paul Knox with five.

WORST IMPROVEMENT

"It is about time the standard of refereeing in Europe should be improved," Dunn said. "The same thing happens every year."

J. F. (Sunny) Ahearne of London, European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Sunday he did not attend the game. He claimed Unger allowed the Italians to hold and grab at will, and--that he penalized the Canadians for trying to break away.

Spectators friendly to the Dutchmen saw a pattern in the penalties. They said an Italian would clutch at a Canadian player, and when the Canadian would try to jerk himself free he would end up with a penalty, while the opposing player went unpunished.

Unger will referee the consolation round involving Austria, Italy, Switzerland and Poland, who were eliminated from the championship round in last week's play.

Bill Dwars of The Netherlands, whom the Canadians rate as one of Europe's best referees, will handle tonight's game starting at 3:30 p.m. EST, with Czechoslovakia, regarded as the Dutchmen's first real opposition in the tournament.

Jerry Theberge Is Top Olympics Sniper

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)--Canada's Jerry Theberge led Olympic marksmen today to completion of the preliminary round of the world hockey championships.

The 25-year-old left-winger from St. Ryacinthe, Que., paced Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to their three straight victories with seven goals, two more than his nearest rivals, teammate Paul Knox and Vsevolod Bobrov of Russia.

A flock of Austria in Canada's 23-0 victory over Austria Friday earned centre Ken Laufman the lead in assists with eight and it split points with nine. Theberge, who has one assist, is one point behind Laufman while Jim Logan of the Dutchmen is second in assists with four.

Canadian teammates Denis Brodeur and Keith Woodall jointly lead the tournament's goalies with two goals against each in three games for a .33 average.

The closest contenders are Russia's Nikolai Puchkov, the American pair of Willard Ikola and Bill Rigato and Germany's Uli Hassen, all with 2.00 averages.

Canada's Protest Thrown Out; So Is Referee

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)--Canada's protest against a Russian referee was given the official brush-off today in a far-reaching decision by the International Ice Hockey Federation today.

"We paid no attention to it at all," said J. F. (Sunny) Ahearne of London, European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

However, the Canadians were mollified by the decision to replace the disputed referee, Hans Unger of Germany, to the consolation round of the Olympic championship tournament.

The Canadian protest followed a Saturday night game between Italy and the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in which the Canadians were handed 11 of the game's 13 penalties. Several times the game was threatened to get out of control. The Italians claimed Unger allowed the Italians to hold and grab at will, and--that he penalized the Canadians for trying to break away.

Spectators friendly to the Dutchmen saw a pattern in the penalties. They said an Italian would clutch at a Canadian player, and when the Canadian would try to jerk himself free he would end up with a penalty, while the opposing player went unpunished.

Now Worth Six

5-Point Touchdown Ditched CRU Not Unanimous on Rule

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Another integral part of Canadian football, the five-point touchdown, has been ditched. A touchdown will be worth six points this season.

The Canadian Rugby Union rules committee decided on the historic change at a meeting in Toronto Saturday. It was the end of an era dating back to the 1870s during which a touchdown was worth five points.

The switch was met with mixed feelings from officials in both professional and amateur leagues across the country. Comments called in a Canadian Press survey Sunday ranged from "it's a good thing" to criticism of the move.

Whatever the reaction, there was no doubt the change was the most revolutionary in the game since the forward pass was introduced from the United States in 1921. It reflects the growing influence of U.S. rules on Canadian football.

THEIR ARGUMENT

Football men have argued two field goals should count the same as a converted touchdown since it was easier to score that way.

Bill Boivin, manager of Wimipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union stayed out the idea of a six-point touchdown.

"After all, it's much easier to kick a field goal than it is to score a touchdown from 10 yards."

H. C. (Bill) Ritchie, who kicked off for Toronto Argonauts in the first Grey Cup game in 1909 and performed the same job in the 1955 game, also agreed, said:

"They're trying to Americanize the game too much."

The value of the touchdown was one of several changes made by the committee. Others, on the recommendations of representatives of the WIFU, the Big Four Union, Intercollegiate, Ontario and Quebec Rugby Football unions.

The committee also made a new ruling pushing the scrimmage line on a convert attempt back to the 10-yard line from the five. Two "privileged" backfielders instead of one will be allowed to block 10 yards along with linemen. They must be outside the end man on each end of the line when the ball is snapped.

NOT RE-APPROVED

The proposed changes still must be approved by the CRU executive. It can ask the rules committee to revise them but in the past it has never done so.

Don Mackenzie, president of the WIFU British Columbia Lions, favored the change.

Pushing back the scrimmage line for convert attempts "makes it a greater test for six-point touchdown plus the convert being worth more than two field goals because the latter "do not give spectators so much of a thrill."

He disagrees with those who say the game is becoming American-ized.

"We still haven't got unlimited block and we have three, not four downs."

Annie Stukus, former Lions coach wasn't sure about the new touchdown change.

"In close days of high costs, some teams can possibly afford an odd specialist instead of a specialized team and could pick up points with field goals."

Ritchie is place-kicking specialist in his football days.

Leo Dandurand, co-owner of the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, opposes the touchdown-point change. He said he is in favor of the old system under which a good kicker could tie a touchdown with two field goals.

Commented Dave McCann of Ottawa, chairman of the Big Four rules committee for the last eight years:

"The rules won't take anything away from our traditional Canadian game. They might make it a little more wide open and an even better game to watch."

Wes Brown, secretary of both the Big Four and Ottawa Rough Riders, said the changes seem to reflect the consensus of major-league clubs. The six-point touchdown might result in more running plays and fewer placement attempts, he added.

NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE

Johnny Metras, head coach at the University of Western Ontario, Intercollegiate champions and AKO, Canadian junior football champions the last four seasons, said:

"I think the new rule which will allow two privileged back fielders to block 10 yards is a bit silly. It's going to create more confusion for the officials and it's no secret they have their hands full in certain games."

The committee also eliminated double possession. Teams will go down and made changes in the penalty for a third down incompleted pass in the end zone.

The committee in wiping out the double penalties provides for the non-offending team to have an option of yardage or down as in the U.S. It changed the illegal interference penalty from loss of a down to loss of 10 yards, in the case of the offensive team being offside the penalty will be loss of five yards from the spot of the foul.

On third - down incompleted forward passes in the end zone the defending team will take possession at the point of the last scrimmage on the 20-yard line. On a third-down intercepted pass in the end zone the non-offending team will put the ball into play on its own 25-yard line.

The rule is also adopted in the no-yards penalty in the case where a kicked ball hits the goal posts and rebounds into the field of play. The player of the kicking side will not be penalized for failure to give the receiver five yards.

The committee agreed that on kickoffs the ball must be booted at least 10 yards instead of five and that leagues be allowed to substitute their own time procedure for a set minute of play in each quarter.

Minor Hockey

The Red Wings unleashed a powerful scoring attack at Memorial Arena Saturday morning to whip the Maple Leafs 10-3 in a bantam hockey battle. Two other games were also played to complete the regular schedule, the Rangers shading the Black Hawks 3-2 while Canadiens won over Rangers 9-1.

Buckey Ebbler spearheaded the Wings one-sided victory, scoring once and assisting on three more for four points. Adams tallied three goals to lead in that department while Scott had two goals and one helper. Duggan and Hull each had one goal and one. Polster scored twice and McGuire assisted on two while Zakos, McArther and Gelothorpe also drew assists. Latimer counted a goal and assist in defeat while Bowering drew a pair of assists. N. Johnstone and J. Lewis also scored.

Whitefield, Harvey and Hunter tallied a goal each in the Hate Triumph with Hunt assisting on two and Hunter one. Bob Folwell netted the lone Ranger goal.

A last minute goal by Reilly, who also drew an assist, provided the Habs margin of victory over the Hawks. Keller and Bouchard also added assists for Potter and Boulter. Brown and Sherridan tallied in defeat with Boulter helping on one.

Russ Could Make Olympics Strictly a One-Team Show

By TED SMITH

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)--Russia, making its first appearance in the winter Olympics, could make the Games a one-team show.

The Soviets already have three gold medals under their belts and there are at least six more events coming up in which they could haul down medals--and even score a sweep in some cases.

As for the chances of the Russians being overtaken in the official race for team honors, the answer, in their own language, is a loud "nyet."

They've already scored 80 points to the Americans' 30 on the basis of 10 for first place, five for second, three for third and one down the line. They still could win that 1,500 and 10,000-metre speedskating, the 50-kilometre cross-country skiing, the 400-kilometre relay, the women's 15-kilometre relay and cross-country skiing.

It was in the jumping phase of the combined Nordic all-test that the Russians really jolted the experts. This was Norway's private specialty, but Yry Moschkin of Russia won it Sunday just as smoothly as you please. The cross-country section of the competition will be held Tuesday.

Only two gold medals were awarded Sunday, one to Boris Kilchukov of Russia in the 5,000 metre skating and the other to Toni Sailer of Austria, who won the giant slalom in 3:00.1. A performance like this is tantamount to the four-minute mile in football.

This race usually is decided by fractions of a second, but Sailer, whipping along with speed and abandon that left everyone gasping, was 2.2 seconds ahead of Andreas Molterer of Austria.

The Russians' amazing speed skating success also has everyone here wondering how they do it.

"It's a big secret," shrugged Michael Semenov, Russia's representative to the International Skating Union, today. "Training is the essential thing and that certainly isn't fantastic. This is a year-round job and it includes not only calisthenics, but dry-skating in summer."

Dry-skating, as practised in Europe, means going through the motions of ice skating on a gymnasium floor in the off season, sometimes with elastic bands attached to the ankles to exercise the leg muscles.

Russ, Swiss, Norwegians Win More Olympic Gold Medals

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — Athletes from Norway, Switzerland and Russia won gold medals at the winter Olympics today while two American girls took the lead in the figure skating.

Hallgeir Brenden, handsome 27-year-old lumberjack, showed some of the form which made Norway the dominant power in previous winter Games as he captured the 15 - kilometre (nine miles, 560 yards) cross-country ski championship in 49 minutes, 39 seconds.

Renee Colliard, pretty, 22-year-old Swiss pharmacy student, made two quick descents on the icy Cabalone course to win the women's special slalom.

Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., Canada's major hope for women's ski honors, fell during her first trip down the 458-metre (500-yard) course and finished well down the list.

The Russians continued to make a runaway of the unofficial team standing as Yury Mikhailov and Eugeniy Grishin finished first the world record for 1,500 metres (1,650 yards) in the speed-skating race at Muzina lake, considered one of the fastest ice surfaces in the world. Their winning time was 2:08.6.

TAKES BIG LEAD

The first three of five compulsory figure skating for the women's skating were held today, and favored Tenley Albright of Boston, Mass., the world champion, took the lead with 821.1 points out of a 614.5 for Carol Heiss of Queens Park, N. Y.

The two Americans were well ahead of other competitors, including Carole Jane Peckett, 17-year-old Canadian champion from Montreal, sixth with 739.3 points.

Under Olympic protocol the two Russians who tied for first place will each receive gold medals. Mikhailov's third place was Tveter Salonen of Finland with 2:08.64.

The unofficial world record is 2:08.4 held by Frishin. The old Olympic mark was 2:17.8 set by Scarre Farstad of Norway in the 1948 games.

LEAVE NO DOUBT

The Russians, participating in the winter Olympics for the first time, have clearly established their position as the best in speed skating. Grishin won the 500-metre sprint in world record time of 40.3 seconds and teammate Boris Shilkov captured the 10,000 metres.

Third place in the women's figure skating was held by Ingrid Wendl of Austria, the European champion, with 789.7 points.

A total of 21 skaters were entered. The two remaining school figures will be held Tuesday and the free skating, which makes up the remaining 60 per cent in the scoring, is scheduled for Thursday.

Olympic Standings

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Russia added 25 points in the winter Olympics today, increasing its total to 85 as it continued to pull away from the rest of the nations in the unofficial team standing.

With three first-place finishes in the speed skating and another in racing, the Russians appear certain to win the unofficial team laurels in their first appearance in the winter Games.

Standing by countries (based on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 traditional point score for the first six finishers) after final events for five days:

Russia	85
Austria	36
Finland	25
Sweden	20
Norway	18
Italy	18
Switzerland	16½
Germany	10
United States	6½
France	5
The Netherlands	5

OLYMPICS SKATING HOPE

Cutting a "pretty figure" here on ice at Cortina, 17-year-old Ann Johnson of Toronto, Canada's hope for Olympic skating honors—hopes to avoid cutting a leg, a fate which befell Tenley Albright, of Boston. The world figure skating champ fell on ice while practicing and received a severe gash in her leg from the blade of her skate. (Central Press Canadian).

The Kibitzer

All kinds of methods have been proposed for deciding when your hand is strong enough for an opening bid of two in a suit. Old-timers often shudder at the agony they went through.

Modern expert advice: Count no less than so many and a half of such, a half for this, a half for that, a half for the other, and if the dog has fleas, open with a bid.

This was a relief to millions of American husbands. Wives got so long counting fractions they forgot to talk about their operations. Those who did not have dogs never did master the thing.

All such messes can be thrown into the ashcan by any player of bridge who has half a braincell.

All he has to determine is whether or not his hand contains nine tricks. If he has, it is a two bid.

Take the deal you see here:

♠K Q J 9 5
♥A K Q J 10 6 2
♦ A

To figure the number of tricks you expect to make with any hand, count one for each (high card) ace or king or queen; and one for each (short card) card short of your average of three in each short suit.

Count 10 tricks in this hand. You see five high cards; two aces, a king and a queen. You see four short cards; two shorts in diamonds and two shorts in clubs. You count a total of nine tricks.

Therefore, your opening bid should be two in some suit. In this case it would be an opening of two hearts; the longer suit first. You will get a chance to show your spade suit next.

An opening of two in a suit is a signal that your pair should not stop short of a game contract in something. It is an order that partner should not refuse to help you obey.

What if it turns out that your pair is unable to make a game? I'll tell you a secret about that. In such cases you are defeated. If you are afraid of such a happening, go pla yidee—dli pening, go play tiddle-de-winks.

Jimmy Demaret Wins Tourney; Balding 11th

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The wandering golfers, their annual winter invasion of California ended, headed today for the $15,000 Phoenix Open with jaunty Jimmy Demaret leading the procession as the latest tournament winner.

Jimmy walked away with the $2,000 money in the $15,000 Thunderbird invitational—the second time he has won the event.

Demaret came from behind to defeat Cary Middlecoff with a last round 69 and a 72-hole score of 289. Middlecoff had a par 71 and a total of 270.

Toronto's Al Balding, who finished in a four-way tie for 11th place with a Sunday round of 68 and a total of 280, won $275.

Demaret beat Middlecoff on the 14th green and passed him on the 18th, banging out a pair of birdies.

Gene Littler, who all but shot himself out of the tournament with a second-round 76, came back with a rush and his last round 66 went for 277, third place and $750.

Purple Raiders Defeat Blues

WINDSOR (CP) — Assumption College Purple Raiders posted their second victory in four starts in the senior Intercollegiate Basketball League Saturday night by defeating University of Toronto Blues 71-58.

The triumph avenged an earlier 74-61 loss to the Blues at Toronto. Varsity, which dropped an 86-62 decision to the league-leading University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London, Ont., Friday night, now has won one game and lost two in conference competition.

Varsity Wins Over Carabins

MONTREAL (CP) — Ken Linsman scored one goal in each of the first two periods Saturday night and two in the third to lead the University of Toronto Blues to a 6-4 senior intercollegiate win over the University of Montreal Carabins.

It was Toronto's second win in two starts and moved them into a tie for first place with Laval University. The defeat left the Carabins in second place in the four team league, one point above the winless McGill Redmen.

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals, currently enjoying one of the longest streaks this season, but can't seem to gain a point in their uphill battle for first place in the Quebec Hockey League.

The Royals had to come from behind to down the determined Quebec Aces 3-2 Sunday, but the pace-setting Shawinigan Falls Cataracts countered with an easy 5-2 victory over Chicoutimi Saguenens.

Shawinigan leads the five-team loop with 65 points. The Royals hold down second place with 56 points while Chicoutimi, Aces and Trois-Rivieres Lions trail with 45, 34 and 22 points respectively.

BELLEVILLE ..... DIAL WO 8-7808 FEATURE STARTS 2.35-7.35-9.40

AT THE BELLE — A Happy Threesome — Jeff Richards, Jarma Lewis and M.G.M.'s new canine acting find, Wildfire, share the laughs, drama and excitement of "It's a Dog's Life", based on Richard Harding Davis' story. Jeff plays a newspaper reporter, and starts all the Belle Theatre. A second feature rounds out a program that is designed for all the family. "The Scarlet Coat" with Cornel Wilde, Michael Wilding and Anne Francis provides romance and intrigue to delight all.

AT THE McCARTHY — Impish Julie Harris causes no end of trouble to Laurence Harvey in this delightful scene from DCA's film version of the prize-winning comedy hit "I Am A Camera", also starring Shelley Winters. The feature opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Flyers scored a 7-5 victory over Barons to take a one game lead in their two-of-three series for the Northern Electric Interdepartment league hockey championship over the weekend. The second game will be played next weekend.

Hatfield and Barrett led the Flyer attack, each claiming two goals and one assist. Smith and Gregory netted one and one with Hutchinson also scoring and Salter helping on two.

Barclay was the big gun for Barons, scoring two goals and assisting on an equal number. Stephens, Wardhaugh and Martin also scored with assists for Kobeuka and Lynch.

The game was cleanly played with referees Dave Jones and Ted Turst assessing only three minor penalties.

Industrial Hockey

Point Anne and Ontario Intelligencer clinched first and second places in the final league games over the weekend, Pointers edging Bakelite 4-3 while Intelligencer by Corbins 5-3.

The tie for Corbins left them in a tie with Meads for last place, forcing a sudden-death battle next week between the two clubs for the right to the final playoff berth. Bakelite and Point Anne meet in one series, Avon and the Intelligencer in another while Odds will meet the winners of the Corbin-Meads fixture. All series are two-game, goals-to-count affairs.

Cameron McKenna led the Intelligencer scoring three goals after Corbins led 1-0 for the first half of the game. Frank Cris and Leo St. Denis also scored for the winners. Jack O'Neil tallied twice for Corbins while Bruce Elmy netted the odd one. A pair of key saves, on clean breakaways, by Intell goalkeeper Don Dolan saved the runnersup victory.

Lorne Maracle sparked the Point Anne club to victory, netting two goals while Bob Cummings and Pat Maracle each fired one. Mac Burley, Ross Parks and Jim Hall were the Bakelite marksmen.

Next week, Meads and Corbins meet at 12.00, then the playoffs get under way with Intell and Corbins at 1.00 followed by Point Anne and Bakelite at 2.00 p.m.

Final Standing

	W	T	Pts.
Point Anne	5	1	0 10
Intelligencer	4	1	1 9
Bakelite	3	1	2 7

McGill Edges Marauders 56-55

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill guard Hugh Raphael sank two foul shots with a second left to play Saturday to give the Redmen a 56-55 win over McMaster Marauders in a senior intercollegiate basketball game.

Both teams had won one game and lost one prior to the fixture.

Wins Ontario Ski Title

MIDLAND (CP)—Jim Georgas, 23-year-old member of the Owen Sound Ski Club, Sunday won the four-way championship of the Ontario division, Canadian Amateur Ski Association.

Georgas led with a top score of 119.20 points in the downhill, slalom, cross-country and jumping events.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which you were birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A day when harmonious conferences and cooperation between management and labor, will be between other groups in various fields can and should result in advantages for all.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be patient with difficult situations, try to understand others' problems and viewpoints and you will find your own benefits and possibilities increasing.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Day promises more than mediocre programs for the right kind of effort. Don't hesitate to seek advice, nor shrink from offers from well-meaning people.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Favorable aspects on the whole — particularly for matters in which you are talented, your specific work and business. Some financial problems may be troublesome, but tackle them with faith.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have to curb a tendency to rush and try to get more done than is reasonable. But you will be able to accomplish a great deal more by maintaining a smooth, calm attitude.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — How well you distinguish between good leads and false ones will be a big factor in this day's returns. Be careful about important details but avoid worry.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — This can be a very genious day if you handle situations intelligently. Think first of the urgency of tasks or business you are handling, then give them proper attention.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — There may be some trying periods today but your common sense will bring you through (and with credit) so long as you keep in a serene mood and are willing to listen as well as direct.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — your influences are similar to Libra's now. It's greatly up to you and how you allocate and manage your day's program how things work out. Sound, useful matters strongly favored.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Irksome details and seemingly unimportant tasks may well be the cornerstone for some important projects, so keep eyes and ears alert, and be careful of details. You'll gain.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — This day's returns depend largely on yourself. Work more quickly, but still do a finished job. Precious minutes and vital energy should not be wasted.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Need advice to Scorpio. Some surprises and fruitful returns are possible if you study and work to turn them. Confidential matters, government affairs, travel for business sponsored.

You born today are talented, adaptable and constructive in thought. You are often called a humanitarian because of your great understanding of human needs and your innate desire to help others. But it is important, too, that you do not neglect your own family while serving others. You may tend to daily too long over a task or plans. Learn to cut straight across at times to insure quicker, better results. Pray daily for guidance. Birthdate: Franz Schubert, Austrian composer.

NO PROGRESS MADE

MANILA (AP) — Immigration officials have ordered detention of three Chinese students, explaining this away: In 1947 the students were admitted to the Philippines to their first year high school, without any grade-school credits, and had been in the same class nine years. "Indicates any apparent progress in their studies."

POLICE PROTECT SPEAKERS

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters)—Stub-welding police swung into action Sunday to protect a group of nationalist speakers talking against Malta's proposed integration with Britain. Supporters of the governing Labor party, which supports the integration, attacked the speakers with clubs. Their platforms after a two-hour pelting with pieces of old iron, fruit, coins and eggs.

'Tamburlaine The Great' Folds In New York

NEW YORK (CP)—The Stratford Players' "Tamburlaine the Great" will close Saturday because of lack of business after 9½ weeks of its scheduled eight-week Broadway stay.

Director Tyrone Guthrie Sunday night said the show, being staged here for the first time in the United States, failed to draw audiences large enough to keep it going in New York.

Meanwhile, he announced plans for the company's next undertaking, a movie of the Greek tragedy "Oedipus Rex," which has been presented for the last two seasons at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in Stratford, Ont.

The movie will be produced in Toronto or New York by Leonid Kipnis, with Guthrie directing. The actors, mostly Canadians, will appear in the roles they performed last season.

MIXED REACTIONS

The Stratford group's American debut brought mixed reactions from the critics. Heartily applauded in most of the daily newspaper accounts, the presentation of Christopher Marlowe's 16th-century drama was given a rather cool reception by most of the weekly trade papers.

The cast, headed by Anthony Quayle as the brutal Oriental conqueror, was featured at the closing after Saturday night's performance. Except for Quayle and Australian-born Coral Browne, most of the cast is made up of Canadians. Barbara Chilcott of Toronto won favorable comment for her performance as Queen Zabina, wife of Tamburlaine.

Following the play at the Winter Garden will be William Inge's hit comedy, "Bus Stop," which must vacate the Martin Beck where it now is playing by Feb. 11.

GARDEN TASK

During the first four performances Tamburlaine took in nearly $12,000. The Winter Garden's weekly capacity for six evening shows and two matinees is $43,000.

Mr. Guthrie declined further comment on the company's financial status to date, and attendance and revenue figures were not available from the theatre.

Guthrie said the movie "Oedipus" probably will be an hour long, about a half hour shorter than the stage performance. It will be photographed on stage in the same form in which it has been presented at Stratford.

Collings Opposed To Advertising On U.S. Stations

TORONTO (CP) — William H. Collings, Ontario liquor control commissioner, said Saturday he is "definitely opposed" to the type of beer advertising that has been coming into Canada from United States television stations, and he is not formulating a similar approach to such advertising in Ontario.

Mr. Collings asked to comment on a Winnipeg report that Manitoba will table at the next fall conference of all provinces and the federal government on liquor advertising, said Ontario still is gathering information on liquor advertising and has not formulated a policy yet.

"But I can tell you I would never be favorable to the programs we see from the United States being shown on Canadian television stations. The scenes would never be conducive to the family living room. I am strictly opposed to these scenes of bottles and gurgling."

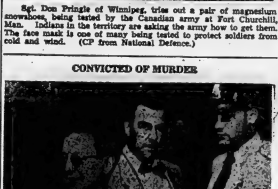
Mr. Collings said a Dominion-wide policy on liquor advertising would be "ideal." The Canadian Association of Liquor Commissioners meets in Victoria June 4, 5 and 6 and the question of a uniform policy might properly be raised then.

The commissioner said his department hopes to have a program of liquor advertising ready to submit to Ontario government within three weeks.

TV SHORT CIRCUIT

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A four-year-old boy was electrocuted by a short circuit in his home here Sunday. The victim, Gary Putnam, was viewing a program with his mother, Mrs. Arnold Putnam. "One minute he was sitting there and when I looked again he was lying on the floor," the weeping mother related. "He had unconsciously touched the metal chassis of the television set and a nearby radiator."

EDDIE PELTED BY COINS



BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Crooner Eddie Fisher is nursing a slight cut on his nose after he was literally showered with coins during a polio fund benefit show Sunday. Fisher and his wife, actress Debbie Reynolds, were among celebrities appearing on the program. The program chairman ordered the audience to provide its own change. Fisher was struck by one.

Drama Group Of St. Boniface Captures Trophy

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Le Cercle Molière drama group, St. Boniface, Man., captured the Calvert Drama Trophy and the right to represent the Canadian drama finals in May after their sterling presentation of "Le Fourberies de Scapin" Saturday night in the Manitoba regional drama festival.

The St. Boniface group won top honors over the Fort William Little Theatre and the Arthur Community Players, who presented their plays on Thursday and Friday nights.

British actress Pamela Stirling was the adjudicator for the three-day festival and paid tribute to the outstanding performances of members of the three groups.

Announcing the winner Miss Stirling said the audience lived the play "Les Fourberies de Scapin" as much as she and they could not have had a happier drama to end the festival.

She praised the set, the stylistic of the actors and the stylized costumes.

Hog Producers Being Advised To Ship Pigs

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hog Producers Marketing Board and Association said Saturday that 21,000 of 35,000 hogs sold to major packers last week were bought at the agency's price of $24-24.50 a hundredweight despite resistance from packers.

Charles McInnis, association president, said in a press statement producers are being advised to resume normal shipments after holding back hogs because of a jam in the stockyards.

Mr association's price was increased Monday from $23 a hundredweight to $24-24.50. Packers said they would resist the increase. Hogs were diverted from slaughter houses to stockyards Thursday. The $24 minimum price dropped Thursday to $23.50 and by Friday hogs were being cleared at $22.

Sales at the higher price represented a gain of close to $56,000 for the producers but the number of hogs sold dropped from 40,000 the previous week to 35,000. Mr. McInnis said increased sales of fresh pork cuts in Canada and choice ham to the United States accounted for the price increase.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel 'ALL-IN'

These days when people work under pressure, worry and sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical recovery from a bout harder to regain. Today's hazes living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry — any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, frequent rest, that "tired-out" hurry-headed feeling often follows. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better — sleep better — work better. Ask for Doan's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 23

$100,000 Fire Loss at Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Fire ripped through a downtown building Saturday causing damage of about $100,000.

Fireman Staunton Earl suffered a broken arm and leg when debris crashed through an aerial ladder, tumbling him 20 feet to the pavement.

The blaze swept through the top two floors of the Merchants Store Fixtures building. It was brought under control in an hour but firemen remained at the scene six hours later. Cause was not determined.

Lieut. Norman Partridge, manning a hose with Earl, saved himself from falling to the sidewalk by clutching a flaming window sill. He was rescued by firemen.

Kingston Prelate Killed In Crash Near Marmora

Cars Collide Head-on In Driving Snow Storm

MARMORA, Ont. (CP)—Rt. Rev. Leo J. Byrne, vicar-general of Kingston archdiocese, died in a highway collision Monday while returning from the funeral of a fellow Roman Catholic monsignor.

He would have been 57 years of age Feb. 2.

A passenger in Msgr. Byrne's car, Rt. Rev. James Patrick Sullivan, pastor of St. Mary's cathedral in Kingston, suffered a fractured left arm and shock.

Two Peterborough men whose car collided head-on with the prelates' during a driving snow storm, were also injured. Ben Morrison, 23, is in Peterborough hospital today with severe chest injuries. Gerald Taylor, 26, was treated for cuts.

The monsignors Monday morning attended the funeral in Linsday of Rt. Rev. John V. McAuley, who died at the age of 77.

IN THICK SNOW

Rev. E. J. Lacey of Napanee, travelling in a taxi 100 feet behind Msgr. Byrne's car, said snow was falling so thickly he couldn't see more than 25 feet ahead. It was not known how the accident happened.

Msgr. Byrne, who is also pastor of Kingston's St. John the Apostle church in Sydenham, was struck on Highway 7 about six miles west of this town 30 miles east of Peterborough.

Last sacraments were administered by Rev. John Healey of Marmora.

Msgr. Byrne was born in Erinville, Ont. He recently celebrated the silver jubilee of his ordination.

For a year at one point in his career he was curate at St. Patrick's church in Fort William. He then studied in Rome, where he received doctorates in philosophy, theology and canon law.

In 1929 Msgr. Byrne became chancellor of Kingston archdiocese which serves 37,000 Roman Catholics. He was made a domestic prelate to the Pope in 1952. The honor carries the title monsignor.

Father Sullivan, a native of Kingston, was appointed domestic prelate last year.

Eisenhower, Eden Seek to Reconcile Mid-East Views

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden sought today to blend British and American policy closer together in the Middle East, where even slight differences are magnified by Russia's new diplomatic offensive.

The two leaders got off to a seemingly good start Monday on three days of talks on how to deal with the Russians in the Middle East and elsewhere.

They agreed in assessing recent Soviet developments on the economic, economic and political front. And Eden pledged Britain's full support to Eisenhower's insistence on "deeds, not words," as evidence of Russian peaceful intentions.

But the first day also turned up a divergence of views on the Middle East. Some diplomatic officials said, however, that these differences were minor and should be narrowed even further at today's session.

Before Eisenhower and Eden sat down to a luncheon conference at the White House, State Secretary Dulles and Defence Secretary Selwyn Lloyd scheduled a morning work session at the state department. Two other meetings were on tap—in the afternoon and at a dinner Eisenhower is giving tonight for the British leaders and their aides.

Eisenhower took part in two of the three conferences Monday. On doctor's orders, he is passing up the night gatherings.

Eisenhower and Eden are expected to switch the topic to the Far East once they go as far as they can in fashioning a common policy toward the Middle East.

Britain is said to be more reluctant than before about backing unyielding United States opposition to seating Red China in the United Nations. Eisenhower is expected to try to nail down British support on that issue.

For their part, the British leaders would like to see the West's embargo against shipping non-war goods to Red China. They argue, in the face of strong opposition from some segments of the U. S. Congress, that such trade is only being shipped now to Russia but is harmless to the China trade. They point out that the Korean fighting, which led to the embargo, has been over for three years.

The Russian economic offensive in the Middle East figures high among the issues before Eisenhower and Eden. But there also are questions of British-American differences with Saudi Arabia over the potentially oil-rich Buraimi area, the Baghdad pact, and the long-rankling dispute between Israel and her Arab neighbors. Friction troubles with North African nationalists also has drawn attention.

Officials today said it appears a safe speculation that the joint communique at the end of the Eisenhower-Eden talks will reaffirm the 1950 British-American-French declaration guaranteeing Middle East peace.

This declaration pledges the three powers to see that the Arab-Israeli arms balance is maintained, that there is no arms race in the area, and that they will act within and outside the UN to keep the Middle East peace.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synoptic: Rain almost rapidly over southern Ontario Monday evening after a blanket of snow carpeted the region during the day with accumulations ranging as high as 10 inches.

The fast-moving storm centre that produced the snow swept through the Maritimes during the night leaving four to six inches in that area as well. From coast to coast in Canada and most of the United States this morning, temperatures are below normal with large mass of cold air will remain over Ontario today and Wednesday.

Coldwell Sees Threat To Press Freedom

Quebec's Newsprint Control Bill Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell said Quebec newsprint control bill could be used to curtail freedom of the press in that province.

He made the statement in the Commons Monday in introducing a resolution which proposed an amendment to Canada's constitution to protect human rights and freedoms.

Mr. Coldwell said the provincial law, to regulate production and distribution of Quebec newsprint, could be used to halt publication of newspapers or magazines which provincial authorities did not like. "I say at once that I do not know that the legislation would be used for that purpose," he said. "But the obvious inference on reading the legislation is that it might be used for that purpose."

CEREMONIAL AFFAIRS TODAY

Today the Commons was scheduled to open a two-day debate on external affairs, with one of the major issues Canadian shipments of military equipment to the troubled Middle East. The debate will close only two days before the arrival of Britain's prime minister, Sir Anthony Eden, for a five-day visit.

The Commons came to no conclusion on Mr. Coldwell's resolution. Justice Minister Garson, supposing it on constitutional grounds, continued the debate until adjournment. The resolution now is unlikely to be debated again this session.

It was one of several resolutions discussed during the day, in which private members' proposals took precedence over government business.

Rails, Unions 17 Cents Apart In Negotiations

MONTREAL (CP) — The railways and their non-operating workers were 17 cents an hour apart on their contract negotiations today and labor mediator Eric Taylor knew of "a number of difficult tasks in bringing them together.

The difference in the union demands and the railways' offer was made public Monday night after the conciliation board hearings got under way. The board promptly proposed that the wage level be left as it is for another year—the average now is $1.76 an hour.

The unions countered with a request that wages be boosted to $1.93 an hour—the average of the durable goods industry—expected to be about $1.83 an hour by July.

The railways' offer to the 140,000 workers involved in producing transportation equipment, non-ferrous metal products, electrical apparatus and supplies and non-metallic mineral products industries used as a basis for arbitration boards hearing railway-union contract disputes in the past, the unions said.

Union spokesman Frank Hall said that the three-man conciliation board recommend that the 120,000 employees involved be given the right to strike if the board's terms are rejected by either party.

Ask Government Treat Perverts, Drug Addicts

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Council of Women today asked the federal government to finance the establishment in central institutions for treatment of sex offenders and drug addicts.

The recommendations were contained in a brief presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent by Mrs. A. Turner Bone of Montreal, council president.

The resolution on sex offenders said there appears to be a lack of scientific knowledge of the causes, treatment and possible cures of sex perversions.

It proposed a special security institution operated by the federal government for the a study and treatment of sex offenders. Inmates would be regarded as patients and would receive treatment until they no longer were considered dangerous.

Bible Research Revolutionized By Scrolls Found in Cave in Judea

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) — Similarities between certain New Testament writings and Christian documents found recently on the Dead Sea shore have caused a minor revolution in Bible research, it was disclosed today.

This claim is made in a broadcast talk Monday night by John Allegro, one of two British members of an international team translating documents found in 1949.

The scrolls, found by a Bedouin boy in a cave in Judea, are considered the earliest known Bible writings. Three of the manuscripts comprise the Book of Isaiah, a complete version of the Habakkuk, and a manual containing rules and regulations of an ancient Jewish sect.

One of the copper scrolls has been unfolded at the university here. Part of it was recently handled in the United States at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, where photographs were taken to find a method of unrolling it. It now is the property of the Jordan government, which allowed it to come to Manchester.

A portion of the scrolls also have been consigned to McGill University in Montreal.

In an earlier talk Allegro referred to historical parallels between the life and teaching of Jesus Christ and a Jewish religious group crucified more than a century earlier.

Sweden Shuts Out Czechs 5-0 In Olympics Hockey Upset

OLYMPIC HOCKEY

First Period: Russia 0 Germany 0.

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — Sweden pulled the biggest upset of the Olympic hockey tournament today with a stunning 5-0 victory over Czechoslovakia.

The Czechs had been rated with Canada and Russia as the top three teams in the tourney and their successive losses to Canada and Sweden all but eliminates them from contention.

The Swedes, who won today despite the absence of two key players, Lars Svensson and Erik Nilsson, were quick to take advantage of Czech defensive lapses and knotted their opponents from the opening whistle.

They had lost their opening game to the final round, 4-1 to Russia. However, in the light of today's win they must be taken seriously in the role of spoilers. They play Canada Friday in what could be an important game.

Canadian C of C Urges Gradual Tax Reduction

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today urged a government policy of gradual tax reduction and called for a re-examination of every aspect of government spending.

The chamber's executive council in a brief presented to Finance Minister Harris and Revenue Minister McCann, said "whatever margin may be available for tax reduction in the next few years is . . . threatened with extinction by the many demands for additional expenditures which have been heard at this time."

The brief asked the government not to assume "large-scale additional commitments, of a lasting and expansive character" and to look for "new ways and means of performing existing functions more efficiently and more economically."

The chamber urged a thorough public review of defence policies "to provide some intelligent basis against which defence spending could be considered."

For national security reasons, defence requirements must con-executive council.

tinue to take top priority in federal expenditures, the brief said, but the taxpayer should be given a clear understanding of how his money was being used.

The chamber urged a further reduction in corporation income tax rates. It forecast rapid technological progress in which competition would require heavy capital investment and the willingness and ability to accept substantial risks.

It said personal income taxes are still too high for a developing country. They should be cut by some reduction, income tax rates will still yield undesirable severity on the proprietors of many small businesses and on the employees who have reached the middle income level."

The brief said certain excise taxes imposed during the Second World and Korean Wars should be removed. Their continuance "constitutes a serious form of discrimination against certain industries."

The brief was presented by a delegation headed by O.B. Thorsteinson, Toronto, chairman of the Queen Hears Nigerian Chiefs Pledge Their Loyalty to Her

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth sat resplendent in pearls and diamonds on a raised throne in Nigeria's federal parliament chamber today, and heard pledges of loyalty from leaders of her biggest colony.

She arrived at the ceremony in the House of Representatives after driving through the bellarping capital on the fourth day of her three-week visit to Nigeria.

Nigerian leaders told the Queen in a formal address of loyalty of their pleasure at her visit and affirmed their allegiance to the British way of life and democratic rule.

Three knocks on the chamber door—the ancient tradition of the British House of Commons—signalled her arrival.

The Queen then walked in procession down the aisle of the House, wearing a regal gown of cream satin embroidered in gold and set with pearls. A diamond studded tiara winked in the glare of newsreel camera lights.

She mounted the dais and took her place on the throne with the Duke of Edinburgh, at her side. He wore a white tropical admiral's uniform.

In reply to the address of loyalty, the Queen told the robed and feathered representatives of Nigeria's 31,000,000 people that she brought to them "the affection and support of my other people in the United Kingdom, whose eyes are turned on Nigeria today."

Nigeria is moving confidently forward "to what I am sure will be a happy and fortunate future as a free nation with growing influence in the modern world."

Sweden is a pale grey robe with a white turban, Abubaka Tafawa Balewa, minister of transport, said: "Our fathers and grandfathers learned the value of British parliamentary rule. We realize how important it is that our country should remain within the British Commonwealth, which is the only effective league of nations that has ever existed."

The minister of communications and aviation, Dr. O. Mbadiwe, said Nigeria in recent years had made great strides "towards our political goal of self-government within the Commonwealth."

Each year passes, Nigeria's bond with Britain is strengthened by "mutual trust and by coercion "but by employing the multiple human touch in meeting human problems."

NORWEGIANS ARREST EIGHT RUSSIAN BOATS

Use Gunfire to Quell Threatened Resistance

OSLO (Reuters)—A Norwegian naval vessel today arrested three more Russian fishing boats in the west coast herring grounds where five Russian ships were arrested Monday, accused of violating Norway's territorial waters.

Naval authorities here said the depot ship Sarpen had challenged the three vessels when they were fishing well inside Norwegian territorial waters.

They were being escorted to Aalesund in west Norway, where the five ships were brought Monday by a determined Norwegian torpedo boat captain who fired shots to stop them.

Fisheries Minister Nils Lyngsad today that naval patrols will be strengthened to deal with further infringements. A corvette is speeding from northern waters to the area where the arrests took place.

Monday the Norwegian torpedo boat called the Skudd put a boarding boat captain and his defiant crew by blasting 40-millimetre shot across their bow.

RESISTANCE FADES

The Soviet vessel, the 7,000-ton depot ship Tambow, was caught allegedly poaching herring in Norwegian territorial waters with two other Russian boats.

Officers of the Norwegian sailors lined the rails of the Tambow when the Norwegian boarding boat love into sight, prepared to resist any attempt to board her. They quickly changed their minds when the Norwegian whistled a shell from its 40-millimetre cannon 100 feet ahead.

Resistance gone, they sullenly permitted a prize crew to board the ship and then disarmed full of herring collected by the four fishing boats.

Another Norwegian torpedo boat used rifle and pistol fire to round up the Russian boats. Then all five vessels were escorted by the two Norwegian craft into the western Norwegian port of Aalesund.

The Russian skippers were asked and questioned until 3 a. m. Monday at the Aalesund chief of police said.

RCAF to Equip Home Squadrons With New Jets

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF, at a cost of about $150,000,000, will equip 12 home defence squadrons with a new version of the CF-100 jet interceptor, it was learned authoritatively today.

The new version is the Mark V CF-100. It has an operational ceiling some 5,000 feet higher than the Mark IV now in service with the nine home defence squadrons.

At the present rate of production at A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., Malton, it will take about three years to turn out enough Mark V CF-100s to equip the squadrons.

It is understood that the RCAF urgently requires the new plane's operational ceiling for the CF-100 to meet the threat of Russia's new higher-flying Russian bombers. It is believed the new CF-100 will have a ceiling of more than around 50,000 feet or more than nine miles.

VOTE THE MAPLE

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York state Senate voted unanimously Monday night to make sugar maple the state's official tree. By their votes, senators disdained claims of the British and French states and the province of Quebec that they say their own maple syrup is better than New York's.

Trapper and Guide Says It Is Easy To Walk Wolf to Death in Deep Snow

KAKABEKA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — "You too can walk a wolf to death, says Herb Broome, 57-year-old trapper and guide.

It takes a little deep snow, patience, a store of woods lore and the stamina to plod steadily on snowshoes for 30 miles or more.

Mr. Broome operates the Cedar Valley Inn here this community 15 miles west of Fort William. He popped into the news a few days ago when he reported walking a wolf to exhaustion and death. He said he walked the dog four hours, he said, and dispatched it with a sharp stick-blow on the head.

In an interview Monday he recalled that an Indian told him

Plan Commission On Water Supply And Pollution

Legislature Session Opens; Prepare for Hospital Plan

TORONTO (CP)—A commission, armed with powers and funds, will be set up to tackle Ontario's water supply and pollution problems, it was forecast today in the speech from the throne at the opening of the provincial legislature session.

The legislature also would lay the groundwork in anticipation of a national plan to help build a natural gas pipe line from the west and an increased program of spending on highways and public works.

The speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt, opened the first full-scale session of the legislature since last June's provincial election. A one-day session was held last fall.

The 2,100-word speech forecast measures to lead to greater consciousness of Ontario's history, including a measure to reorganize the province's archaeological and historical sites advisory board under the department of travel and development.

Establishment of a Lakehead college of arts, science and technology, probably at Fort William.

Establishment of a water resources commission to deal with water shortages and pollution problems.

Legislation aimed at preparing for adoption of national plan for hospital service.

Intensified highway - safety drive.

Reorganization of the archaeological and historical sites advisory board under the department of travel and development.

Advances planned in conservation of wildlife, fish and forests.

Highlights Throne Speech

TORONTO (CP) — Highlights of the speech from the throne read today by Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt at the opening of the Ontario legislature:

A special session later this year to consider federal government proposals on taxes and unemployment assistance.

More spending on highways, housing, conservation and public works.

An advance of $35,000,000 to help build a natural gas pipe line from Alberta northern Ontario in partnership with the federal government.

Establishment of a Lakehead college of arts, science and technology, probably at Fort William.

Establishment of a water resources commission to deal with water shortages and pollution problems.

Legislation aimed at preparing for adoption of national plan for hospital service.

Intensified highway - safety drive.

Reorganization of the archaeological and historical sites advisory board under the department of travel and development.

Advances planned in conservation of wildlife, fish and forests.

U.K. to Explode First H-Bomb Early Next Year

LONDON (AP) — The News Chronicle says Britain will explode its first hydrogen bomb "sometime in the first few months of next year."

The story, giving no source for the information, says the bomb will be of an immensely powerful three-stage type—with an atomic-bomb trigger, a middle shell of hydrogen and an outer layer of ordinary nuclear explosive.

There was no immediate comment from officials on the report. Britain has exploded its nuclear weapons test off Australia in April, and Australian approval for a hydrogen weapon would not be needed.

The News Chronicle says a team of British scientists already is exploring possible test areas in the Pacific and adds:

"It is also decided that, if a ground test is objected to by other countries, the bomb will be exploded in the air from a balloon and four miles up so that the fireball cannot touch the earth's surface."

New CNR Department Wrecks 30 Boxcars Weekly

For the past two months the CNR has been wrecking old boxcars and salvaging scrap in a new local department that is employing some 20 persons.

The open-air demolition and reclamation operation is located on new sidings north of the roundhouse on the flat land formerly occupied by the coal chutes.

Work being done by the new division was formerly done in London, Ontario. All men on the job are Belleville men.

The wrecking crew, composed of a foreman, crane operator, acetylene torch cutters and laborers is demolishing about 30 boxcars per week. Usable parts such as wheels, brakes and couplings, are forwarded to the CNR stores at London to be used in rebuilding boxcars. Scrap is sent to the Steel Co. of Canada at Hamilton.

CNR officials state that most of the boxcars being demolished in Belleville are from Montreal and points farther east. Belleville was selected as the ideal location for the work because the railroad had a ready prospect here and because cars and parts from eastern Canada have to pass through Belleville on the way to the Hamilton and London.

Continued hauling of the cars to London for demolition means an extra haul of cars beyond Hamilton plus the cost of scrap from London back to Hamilton.

Plans call for a continued employment of 50 men. Increased employment depends on the railroad's purchasing of new cars and on the demand for services.

Trade, Industry Branch Opened At Peterborough

The office of the Lake Ontario Development Association was officially opened in Peterborough yesterday.

Alex V. Crate, director of the Trade and Industry branch of the Ontario department of Planning and Development, cut the ribbon officially opening the office at 355 1-2 George St.

Mr. Crate spoke briefly at a noon luncheon held in the Kawartha Country Club. Representatives of the local chamber, members of banks and railways, civic officials and reeves of municipalities participating in the program attended the ceremonies and luncheon.

Directors of the association met after lunch. Guests at the meeting were R. Lloyd Arnold, Jr., of Nova Scotia; T. W. Watson, Canadian Bank of Commerce; F. W. Atkinson, Toronto-Dominion Bank; Harold G. Gillingham, Bank of Montreal, Peterborough; Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington by expanding industrial and agricultural interests and promoting tourist trade.

P. C. McGuire, past president of the Chamber of Commerce and Belleville's representative in the association, was unable to attend yesterday's ceremonies as he officiated at the local Chamber's annual dinner last evening.

RENEWS CLAIMS

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China Monday renewed his country's claims to the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, appealing to its defenders to come over to the Communist side if they wished to avoid war.

Wilful Damage Brings Sentence Of Six Months

Appearing for sentence on a charge of car theft and for causing wilful damage at the Hastings County jail, Russell Hambrook, 17, of Montreal, was given nine months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills pronounced sentence at this morning's session of city magistrate's court.

Hambrook was given 6 months definite on the car theft charge and three months additional on the charge of wilful damage.

Thomas Maynard, 19, was also appearing for sentence on the car theft charge was given two years suspended sentence on condition that he pay $300 restitution and $10 court costs. An observing officer for the Royal Canadian Navy said in court that Maynard would be retained in the Navy.

The two youths were convicted of stealing a car in Belleville several weeks ago. They wrecked the car near Brockville and were later taken off a bus and returned to Belleville for trial.

While confined to the Belleville jail, Hambrook with three other prisoners, George McFarland, Rodney Sharpe and James Reid were involved in a military confinement for infractions of jail regulations.

The court was told that Hambrook used his cigaret lighter to set fire to toilet paper and standing on the shoulders of Rodney Sharpe pushed the paper through a ventilator where it dropped into a cell used for storage of jail supplies. Mattresses and overalls were set ablaze.

ORDERED STRAPPED

The prisoners called jail guards who extinguished the blaze.

Following the fire Hambrook and McFarland were charged with wilful damage, while the two other prisoners, Rodney Sharpe and James Reid were ordered strapped.

In passing sentence on Hambrook for the jail incident Magistrate Wills said he could not regard this offence lightly.

"If the fire had not been extinguished the smoke and fumes would have caused the release of all jail inmates. That is a serious matter," the magistrate observed.

Hearing of charges against McFarland have been held pending an examination of the accused by a psychiatrist. The report, read in court today, recommended McFarland's committal to the Ontario Hospital for further examination.

Giuseppe Ferrara, Emily Street, was remanded for one week when he appeared on a charge of disturbing the peace. The remand was given when the accused said he wished to contact a lawyer.

CHARGE DISMISSED

A charge of disorderly conduct against Arnold Jerome, James St., was dismissed by the magistrate. Arnold was charged with causing a disturbance on Victoria Ave. vice restaurant.

Earl Trenton, Trenton, convicted on a charge of theft from Belle Cleaners, was further remanded to allow him to make arrangements for restitution.

Also remanded was John Delaney, 62-year-old transient, charged with entering a house on Moira Street with intent to steal.

The accused objected that he had not broken into the house and he wasn't too sure about the intent to steal. Magistrate Wills said the charge was according to the criminal code and told the accused he would be remanded until Friday to give him time "to make up his mind."

ELLIS GREEN (Frankford)

Ellis Green, of Frankford, died in Belleville General Hospital on Monday after having been in ill health for one month. He was in his 65th year.

The deceased was born in Menie, near Campbellford, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Green and lived in Stirling prior to taking up residence in Frankford 33 years ago.

He was a butcher. He was a member of Trinity Anglican Church, the Frankford Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 127; an honorary member of C.O.L. No. 349 and the I.O.O.F. He was manager of Frankford Citizens' Band and a former member of Frankford school board.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Chard; two daughters and one son, Mrs. Carmen (Marjorie) Millet, of Frankford; Mrs. Harry (Lucy) Shirriff, of Belleville; Edward at home, and six grandchildren. He was predeceased by a son, Garnet, and a daughter, Ruth.

He is resting at the Rowe Funeral Home, Frankford, where funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

GEORGE KENT

George Kent, 97 Station Street, died suddenly at home Monday, January 30th. He was in his 80th year.

The deceased was born in Kingston and lived most of his life in Peterborough where he was employed by the Peterborough Lock Co. for 40 years. He took up residence in Belleville one years ago.

He was a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by four sons and five daughters, Cecil, George, William and Robert Kent, all of Peterborough; Mrs. Red (Rose) Hyde-Whipp of Belleville; Mrs. Deb (Beatrice) Hillier, Mrs. Jas. (Dorothy) Hutchinson, Mrs. Roy (Helen) Lazenby and Mrs. R. F. (Betty) Franks, all of Peterborough; 29 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.

The deceased is resting at the Nesbitt Funeral Home, Peterborough. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

Cadets, Army 'Shoot It Out' On Ranges

There should be plenty of friendly rivalry when marksmen of the RCI cadet corps and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment duel on the ranges.

Thursday night a team (four men) of officers and two teams of non-commissioned officers oppose two teams of cadets and one team of instructors from the collegiate Institute. The "shoots" will be fired at the armouries and the school ranges.

The teams will fire "two targets" one rifle, the other machine gun, the latter being fired on the armouries ranges.

The army "snipers" will play hosts to the cadets and instructors following the shoots.

Wrong Name Used

In a report naming the new officers for the Tweed Agricultural Society which appeared in yesterday's Ontario Intelligencer the wrong name was used when naming the new president. The name Bernard J. Hunt should have appeared instead of Bernard Rush.

C of C Annual Dinner

Need for Civic Co-operation In Obtaining New Industries Stressed by Senator Fraser

"Some one has to pick a man who can speak for Belleville in industry. You pick that guy and I will give him all the help I can," said Senator Fraser, at the annual dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in the Masonic Temple last night.

Speaking to an attentive audience Senator Fraser advocate co-operation between civic administration and the Chamber of Commerce, a person-to-person approach in locating industry and a realistic appraisal of Belleville's position in the industrial picture of Ontario.

Senator Fraser also scored those who would take advantage of public office for personal gain.

The Senator's blunt and forthright statement of industrial development was coupled with a light-hearted gaiety as he had the assembly serenade Mayor Jane Forrester with "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" before and after his address.

Out-of-town guests at the dinner included members of the Trenton Civic Council, Mayor H. J. McFarland, of Picton, Mayor Lambert of Cobourg, ex-mayor Kenneth Couch, of Trenton, and members of the Chamber of Commerce of Picton, Trenton, Cobourg and Brighton.

H. P. M. Cane, president and general manager of Canadian Welding Co., was introduced as president of the Chamber for 1956 by retiring head, Ken Bell.

Speaking "bluntly and frankly" because I know the Chamber of Commerce wants to see some action" Senator Fraser said, "I'm sorry to say that Belleville has done some things and to bring Belleville into the picture we have to do some things.

"If Belleville has any hope of benefiting from the St. Lawrence Seaway project it has every hope. And the same goes for Trenton," Senator Fraser said.

"On two occasions the City of Belleville approached me to get a Federal Industry here. Belleville has a depth sufficient for the traffic in here and I'm sorry to say I'm gonna get no more. It is uneconomic," said Senator Fraser.

It was only a few days ago negotiations between the Canada Cement Co. and the government had been carried out to determine the proportionate payment of the $800,000 to $850,000 necessary to dredge a 18-foot channel for canallers in Prince Edward Anne. Senator Fraser said that the government would have agreed to put up 80 per cent of the money, but "Canada Cement insisted on 50 per cent. We wouldn't pay 40 per cent."

"No community in Central Ontario has greater possibilities than Belleville," Senator Fraser said. "You have unlimited industrial sites east and west. I see the Bay of Quinte by 1st Century Belleville and Trenton and every bit of the north shore of the Bay of Quinte will be covered.

"You must not place any importance on the civic executive alone without the co-operation of the civic administrators the Chamber can get nowhere. He stressed loyalty, civic pride, united effort and common purpose as the necessities of progress.

"Any civic appointment based on party politics, emotion and prejudice will suffer. This is a frequently approach to municipal politics. Intrigue of party politics in the administration of a business proposition is disastrous and bound to defeat," warned Senator Fraser.

The Senator scored those who "use municipal office for personal gain or political aggrandizement."

"There are some in the city of Belleville who use the reactors of Belleville and their privileges of citizenship for their own selfish ends. I have been an appliance dealer for many years and I know that two or three rotten apples in a barrel can contaminate the whole barrel."

Senator Fraser spoke briefly on assessment, which he called "the principal thing Belleville has to sell."

"Assessment must be based on an equal distribution of the taxation burden across all properties in the city."

He also spoke briefly about the purpose and functions of the Chamber of Commerce.

"What does the Chamber want to do? Does it want to help Belleville industrially? Industrial development depends on confidence and many people can't deal with industrial development. I don't think the Chamber of Commerce can get far with industrial development. Industrial development depends on the estimate of cold, hard-headed businessmen."

TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

Senator Fraser then told of personal experience in securing industry for Trenton and Cobourg.

"You must sell yourself if you are going to get industry. You must get so close to these people that they become your friends. Getting industry is not a matter of a name on a station. It is people.

"The Chamber of Commerce must be in a position where someone has the answers. Someone must be able to speak about assessment and for the mayor and council and the Chamber of Commerce."

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Kenneth Couch, ex-mayor of Trenton, in referring to Senator Fraser's remarks at Picton, said: "I feel like a lawyer trying to defend a client he knows is guilty."

"If the Senator is with you the future of Belleville is assured," he said.

Jamieson Bone, first chairman of the Board of Trade, which preceded the formation of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced and installed the 1956 officers.

H. P. M. Cane, president-elect, spoke briefly. He congratulated retiring president P. C. McGuire on his hard work and sound leadership.

Directors introduced were: A. O. Drysdale, first vice-president; H. N. Yeager, second vice-president; H. J. Fuke, treasurer; E. P. Bernstein, J. W. Deacon, Carson Elliott, G. A. Freeman, G. B. Hyde, W. B. Lattimer, J. E. McArthur and F. G. M. Ross.

Mr. McGuire, chairman of the meeting, reported that 200 new members had joined the Chamber since 1953 with 60 of them entering during 1955. He congratulated membership chairman Frank Hinds and former secretary-manager Don Kingdon. He introduced the new secretary-manager, Robert Hamilton.

"It has been a privilege and an honor to serve as president of the Chamber of Commerce. I thank the directors and members for their support during the year and congratulate Mr. Cane on his election to the presidency. I promise him my full support."

Workers Will Remove Snow

City public works employees will go to work tonight at removal of yesterday's six inch fall of snow from the downtown district.

City engineer Charles Mott said that the snow loader would go into operation at midnight tonight with snow to be removed from Front street, Bridge street, Campbell and Victoria Ave. in the downtown area.

It is requested that no cars be parked in the downtown area after twelve o'clock tonight.

Chamber for its invitation to attend the annual meeting.

Mayor Forrester spoke briefly and thanked Senator Fraser for "an instructive evening."

"I accept with enthusiasm your offer of assistance to Belleville. I promise the utmost co-operation of council and the Chamber of Commerce."

IN MEMORIAM

RICHARDSON. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Hazel Richardson, who passed away January 31st, 1954.
We do not need a day, we do not need a year
To remind us of the love that we have held so dear.
Our hearts mourn sincerely,
Our loss we feel each day,
But memory keeps you near us
In a sweet and special way.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's most thoughtful and kindest one has past;
In silence we suffered, in patience we bore,
Till God called her home, to suffer no more.
—Sadly missed by daughter Helen and husband.

RICHARDSON. — In loving memory of Mother, Mrs. Hazel Richardson, who passed away January 31st, 1954, also our dear father, William Richardson, on October 8th, 1954.
Sweet hour of prayer, dear parents rest and peace,
Your love, our memory will always keep.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Fonnie and Bert.

RICHARDSON. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Hazel Richardson, who passed away January 31st, 1954, and also a dear father, William Richardson, on October 8th, 1954.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping,
Leave we now our loved one sleeping.
—Remembered by daughter Fonnie and Bert.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter price prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a quiet demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in three cases, graded: A large 38; A medium 35; A small 33; B 34; C 31. Wholesale to retail: A large 43; A medium 40; A small 38; B 36; C 36.5

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate 99⅝ cents. Pound sterling $2.80 7-16, up 1-16.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Firmness in steels and refining oils gave industrials a mild lift in moderate opening dealings on the stock exchange.

Algoma Steel, Dominion Bridge and International Petroleum scored 50-cent gains. Most utilities were down, but Interprovincial Utilities advanced $1.50 to $13.50.

Among mines, Temagami lost 25 cents at $5.35. Eastern Mining advanced 15 cents to 26.25.

Lake Cinch, at $3.35, and Panel Consolidated, at $1.48, were each about a dime ahead in a featureless uranium section. There was little movement in golds.

Senior western oils were at a standstill after recording gains Monday.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Receipts: cattle 1,132; calves 159; hogs 184; sheep and lambs 225; carryover from Monday 1,500 cattle.

Prices: single and odd-head lots of choice steers 19-19.25; good steers 18-19; mediums 15.50-18; commons 12-15; low-good lightweight heifers 18; mediums 14-16; commons 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; medium fed yearlings 17-20; good cows 11; canners and cutters 6; good heavy bologna bulls 13-13.50; canners and medium light bulls 8.

Replacement cattle: no sales to noon.

All grades calves sold actively at steady prices. Common and medium grades 1 a hundredweight higher. Good veales 28-28 with choice 30; mediums 18-26; commons 12-18; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hogs grade A 22; sows 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

PLAN

AID TO INDUSTRY

In partnership with the Dominion government, Ontario would advance -35,000,000 in capital to a crown corporation to finance construction of the northern Ontario section of a natural gas pipe line from the west. It would contribute to development of industry and "strive to reinforce the power and fuel supplies upon which our economic future depends."

Last year the government's construction departments — highways, public works and planning and development — carried out a record spending program. "An even larger capital program will be submitted this year," including work in incompleted links of the trans-Canada highway.

There would be provision for intensifying the current highway program and the house would consider the report of the select committee which investigated possibility of toll roads.

The province had submitted a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada, seeking a ruling on validity of its farm marketing legislation. Hearings were scheduled for April. Meanwhile, various alternatives to present laws were under study. Legislation would be considered at a session later in the year.

PRESSING PROBLEMS

Education continued a pressing problem for province and municipalities. School population now was over 1,000,000. In another 10 years it would be up to 1,600,000. Last year, more than 2,300 additional classrooms were provided at a cost of nearly $60,000,000.

Legislation was planned to continue advances in conservation and management of natural resources —minerals, lands, forests, fish and wild life. Progress was being made in getting increasing regeneration of spruce and red and white pine.

Ontario has just completed a year in which output of goods and services was 10 per cent higher than in 1954, and five per cent above previous record production year of 1953. Mining, forestry and manufacturing all contributed to the upsurge.

Economic growth brought an increase in government costs and in its problems. The legislative program for this year continues undertakings in several new fields designed to strengthen Ontario's productive power and well being.

Six Members Teen-age Group Plead Guilty

TRENTON — (Special) — All six members of a teen-age gang responsible for theft of nearly $1,000 in cash and merchandise and causing damage to property for two-thirds of that figure pleaded guilty before Magistrate T. F. Wills in police court here yesterday. Charges against them totalled 24.

David Barry reported to be the ringleader recently released from boys' training school was returned to the training school. Magistrate Wills said he felt the place for him was the reformatory but left the actual duty of committing him to the authorities at the school.

The five other members of the gang C. F. H. Deline, Gordon Junior Woodcock, Robert Deline, Walter F. Mould and Ronald Jenkins will be sentenced this afternoon.

Constable E. E. Miller has been credited with breaking a wave of crime that started in Trenton last July. He caught the ringleader at the premises of a Frot Street garage and from Dep. Det. Sergt. R. Rutherford was able to involve five of the gang members.

Some of the loot was recovered. A safe taken from David's Electric was found wrecked in a ditch not far from the premises. One haul of cash the gang got amounted to nearly $400. They had accumulated break-in tools including a power drill, pinch bar, ball point hammer and chisels and other equipment.

F-L Vanderwater Flies 'Copter Into States

TRENTON (Special) — F/L. Alan Vanderwater, son of Trenton's favorite sons, flew a Piasecki helicopter in from Ottawa during the weekend. He left Sunday for Oshawa and returned to base at the capital city. Yesterday he piloted the big twin-rotor machine across the border into the United States. He plans on spending the weekend here with his wife and daughter.

In World War II F/L. Vanderwater was with the R.A.F. from bases in England and the Middle East. He attained the rank of Squadron Leader before re-mustering to the R.C.A.F.

Still in his teens young Vanderwater went to England to join the Royal Air Force early in 1939. He has more than 15 years of flying experience behind him. He was a transport pilot before converting to helicopters.

SALAMANDERS FOUND

Dufferin Public School pupils are learning all about the lizard like Salamander they met thanks to a thoughtful citizen who found them hiding in his cellar recently.

The pair, each approximately seven inches in length, have black skins flecked with white dots. They remind one of miniature alligators as they splash about in water in the bottom of a glass jar.

The finder of the Salamanders brought them to the police station and in turn the children turned them over to school principal Frank Sherbert.

WEATHER OUTLOOK GOOD

Weather forecasters at R.C.A.F. Station Trenton called yesterday's snow storm the heaviest of the winter. They reported it was confined to a belt across southern Ontario extending to north of Peterborough in Muskoka district.

The official fall recorded here was 12 inches.

The outlook for the next two days is good. Sunny skies with lower temperatures will prevail. The mercury is expected to touch close to zero mark tonight, the forecaster said.

TRENTON WINS 6-5

The Quinte Hotel sponsored Intermediate O. H. A. "C" team turned the tables on Frankford here last night winning 6-5 after fighting back from the first few minutes of the opening period. The visitors were two goals ahead starting the second period. Wingmaidens, Ron Bruce and fired the winning counter for Trenton.

MACHINES SAY "THANKS"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States post office department has developed a device to say "Thank you" when a customer pops coins into a stamp-vending machine. The device works by tape-recording and says "Thank you for buying stamps." Postal officials say the first seven of these devices cost about $4,000 each, but estimate future cost at less than $1,000 apiece.

Kingston Gets Top Snowfall Of Eight Inches

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Southern Ontario today was promised a light dusting of snow to top the two to eight inches spilled Monday in a narrow belt flanking Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

Other weathermen predicted snowflurries and temperatures low enough to retain the clogging blanket from the Niagara peninsula to Kingston.

The snow was unannounced on the skirts of a 50-mile-an-hour storm that swept through the mild-western United States to the Atlantic. It was expected to hit Newfoundland today.

Official reports graded the fall: Windsor 1½ inches; London 5½; Hamilton 6½; Toronto 7½; and Kingston, 8. At Belleville the snowfall was 6 inches.

The highways department warned motorists of drifted roads and most centres reported a rash of traffic snarls and minor accidents.

Edward Miller, 75, of Toronto collapsed while shovelling his front walk. He was dead on arrival at hospital.

At Woodstock a flash flood dumped six inches of water on Number 3 Highway to Hacsville, nine miles west.

A number and her two young children near King, 10 miles north of Toronto, watched their home burn when heavy snow delayed firemen. Mrs. J. Diceman and her son and daughter watched the fire from a woodshed on their farm.

In Toronto street commissioner Harold Bradley said it will cost the city $60,000 to clear off streets. Nearly 1,000 men worked Monday night on snow-removal operations.

Hamilton officials said 700 tons of salt and sand were dumped on city streets during the storm.

Magr. Byrne will be buried Thursday. The funeral will be at 10:30 a. m. in St. John's church, Kingston, with Most Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, Roman Catholic archbishop of Kingston, officiating. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, Kingston.

Pilot Parachutes Safely After Jet Trainer Crashes

DEMORESTVILLE (Staff) — F/O D. E. Seabrook, of Trenton, is alive today because the RCAF is like it is. Seabrook, who always wore a belt as well as suspenders. The RCAF penalizes its airmen to wear two parachutes. This morning when his T-33 jet trainer crashed through the ice of the Bay of Quinte four miles west of Demorestville, F/O Seabrook bailed out. One parachute did not open, the second one did, it was reported. As a result Seabrook is not only alive to tell the tale, but unhurt.

Seabrook's aircraft, according to the RCAF authorities at the Trenton air station, went out of control during a test flight over the Bay of Quinte, going into a stall at 23,000 feet. When his plane was at 10,000 feet, Seabrook successfully ejected himself from the aircraft. The parachute on his back did not open. His seat 'chute did and he floated down to the ice of the Bay of Quinte, then walked a mile to the farm of Mr. George Laurel, on Big Island. Mr. Laurel drove him back to the spot where his plane crashed through the ice in the Bay of Quinte into twelve feet of water a mile off shore and four miles west of Demorestville. There a Piasecki helicopter from the Trenton air station picked him up at 13.15 p.m.

Mrs. Ada Monroe, a resident of the Demorestville district, saw the plane crash and rushed to the nearby road, where she stopped Mr. Jack Gadd, who drove to the scene of the crash. By that time, though, the pilot had started his walk to shore.

WHY TAMBURLAINE?

"Tamburlaine the Great," a pageant of carnage professionally for the second time since the 16th tury, was Canada's latest theatrical export to the ited States. High hopes were dashed last Saturday ghts when the play drew critical fire from the New York critics were divided in their opinion of the rk. The general consensus seemed to be that an inor vehicle was superbly presented and acted.

Christopher Marlowe, author of this tapestry of terror, s 23 when he completed his imaginative version of the s of an Oriental despot and conqueror. As one New rk reviewer so bluntly stated about the structure of the rk, "come and go" how drama was produced before was dramas." Even those who cheered the acting, costmes, sets and mob scenes noted that after all it was olent stuff with little point other than violence.

Why was such an expenditure of time, talent and money lavished on the reconstruction of an inferior play? hy send as competent a theatrical company as has ver been developed in Canada to New York to display internationally recognized ability in a vehicle that "damned with faint praise?" The company's ability has been recognized but possibly its judgment is open question.

The Shakespeare Festival Company of Canada, argely composed of actors and actresses trained at the tratford Shakespearean Festival, headed by two of England's most accomplished players and directed by Dr. yrone Guthrie, is second to none as a Shakespeare company today.

If the company was anxious to spellbind New York, hy did it not present a Shakespeare play? Good Shakespeare is always fashionable and superior Shakespeare is by far forever. Surely the company was not afraid of presenting a well-known work and braving comparison? It is to be hoped that New Yorkers, accustomed to the weird fare of diet as any citizens on earth, are not too jaded by the likes of Tennessee Williams to appreciate Shakespeare.

If doubt is to be cast out of the question why did the company not present Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex?" The Stratford production of this classic was so outstanding it was repeated last year and drew critical acclaim and full houses. It is also scheduled for the Edinburgh festival next August. Could the company's artistic and financial goals not have been achieved with "Oedipus Rex?"

Aside from the difficulty of presenting a pageant that has seldom been presented, and marshalling great talent for a stagy blood-letting, what purpose did the presentation of "Tamburlaine the Great" serve except to avoid comparison with anything else because nothing else is quite like it?

NATIONAL HEALTH WEEK

This is National Health Week.

When it suited the British League of Canada to select this week, of the fifty two available, we do not know. However, it seems as good a week as any to be healthy.

Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare, who is among those individuals and organizations to issue statements endorsing the week, may perhaps find that his selection was particularly appropriate, since the provincial governments will this week be studying the federal government's national health insurance program submitted to them at a conference at Ottawa last week.

The Canadian Medical Association thinks that particular stress should be given to preventive medicine. Its president is saying that "the medical profession feels that the principles of prevention have not been applied in this area as in other disabilities." In the winter there is hope of Canadians staying at home to ponder this advice, rather than rushing out onto the highways to be smashed to bits or hurrying to lakes and rivers to drown.

The Industrial Accident Prevention Association says that "an absent worker is a problem for any foreman" and adds that "it matters little whether the worker is away because of illness, an accident or just gone fishing." The results production-wise are the same." Fishing having been eliminated as a menace until spring, foremen will have to be concentrated on keeping their men healthy, so the choice of a date for Health Week appears sound to them, too.

It is more difficult to figure out some special advantages of the chosen date from the viewpoints of the Canadian Dietetic Association, the Canadian Cancer Society, the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, the Canadian Mental Health Association, the Canadian Heart Association, the Canadian Dental Association, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Canadian Diabetic Association, and the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, all of which are among the organizations whose work is covered in the Health League's publicity for National Health Week.

This, however, emphasizes the fact that the maintenance of good health is a problem with many facets and that it is a task which cannot be properly discharged in one week, but requires year-round attention. It is to publicize this fact that this week has been set aside.

MORE TOASTS

Here's to the present joys,
Quickly away time sweeps them,
But they're not wholly lost so long as memory keeps them.

Here's to old age. May all we love attain it!
Though few will have to suffer much to gain it.

Here's to the home to which all paths are bending,
Man's truest goal his purpose for succeeding.

Here's to gay laughter. When by it we're gladdened
No one is troubled, lonely, pained or saddened.

Here's to brave doubt. If no one doubted,
What's false in life by truth would not be routed.

Here's to our sports, source of strength and pleasure.

Life would be dull were wealth our only measure.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 31, 1936

Thirty and one half degrees below zero was the lowest temperature recorded yesterday according to the information given by the officials at the city pump house. This morning the lowest reading was eight degrees below.

Mr. G. F. Lent, Bleecker Avenue, has returned home from Chicago, Ill., where he visited his two brothers and a sister.

Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Edwards have returned to their home in Toronto after visiting their daughter, Mrs. Gordon Neal and Mr. Neal, Dundas Street west.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lowe have left for their home in Santa Barbara, California, after visiting Mr. Lowe's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Chisholm, Ivanhoe.

From our file copy at this time in 1936: "The Village of Stirling has declared in favor of unstalling waterworks by a majority of 41."

Miss Helen Fox, Camilton Rd., and Miss Helen Crawford, Forin Street, have returned home after spending several days in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

January 31, 1926

Mr. Walter E. Scott, manager of the Dominion Bank here, spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. Robert Hamilton, William Street, is spending a few days in Montreal.

Mr. L. J. C. Manley has returned to Detroit, Mich., where he spent a month.

Mrs. H. Clarke of Toronto is the guest of Miss Yeomans, West Bridge Street.

Mrs. A. Ryan of Montreal is visiting her mother, Mrs. George H. Brown, Elmer Street.

The following members of the county council have been appointed a committee to investigate the reforestation of the northern part of Hastings County: Richard Banter, W. A. Mc-Murray, Belleville; Walter Murray, A. Moore, Warden Airhart and County Clerk Pringle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Meagher have returned home after visiting friends in London, Ontario.

He gave more than he intended. From our file copy at this time in 1926: "Two days ago a ten dollar gold piece was placed upon the collection plate at a meeting of the Salvation Army by the giver mistook the gold piece for a five cent piece. The officer in charge of the Salvation Army noticed the error and returned the gold piece to the owner with the remark that the intended donation of twenty five cents to one dollar."

40 YEARS AGO

January 31, 1916

Dr. Horace A. Yeomans, city medical officer of health, has issued notice that the city water should be boiled before using for cooking or drinking. The order is due to the report of impurities found in the sample of city water sent to the Public Analyst in Toronto.

Soldiers' Aid Commission Organized. A meeting was held in the lecture room at the armouries last night to consider establishing a branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission of the Province of Ontario for the district comprising Hastings County, town of Belleville and town of Trenton. Mayor H. Fryenson Ketcheson presided and J. F. Wills acted as secretary. It was decided to form a branch, the object of which is to aid soldiers returning from the front during the war. The following officers were elected: hon. presidents, Sir Lemuel Bowell and Senator the Hon. R. Dandurand; president, E. Tom Porter, M.P.; vice presidents, W. H. Northrup, M. P.; W. Johnson, M.P.P.; Sandy Grant, M.P.P.; J. R. Cooke, M. P. P.; Wardens Nugent of Hastings County; Mayor H. Freeman Ketcheson; Mayor T. Sills Trenton; executive committee,— Robert Weddell and George Cochrane of Trenton, Mayor T. S. Rixen of Deseronto; H. F. Coyle, H. W. Ackerman, Lieut. Col. Lorne W. Marsh, W. H. Deacon, John Elliott, W. C. Springer, J. A. Higgs, Stanley E. Carman, Charles J. Sewell, and J. Owen Herity, all of Belleville; secretary-treasurer, county clerk, A. M. Chapman.

50 YEARS AGO

January 31, 1906

The office of the Sloan Company, wholesale grocers, at the corner of Station Street and Camilton Road, was entered last night and the safe was blown open; however the burglars obtained little for their trouble; the safe contained not more than five dollars.

Mr. Charles Smith of Campbellford was in town today.

Messrs. Ewart, Fytton and Fred O'Flynn of Madoc were in town today.

It was further ordained that if, when a gallant or daring act had been done by a formed body of soldiers, sailors and marines, or of soldiers, collectively, and all were deemed equally brave and distinguished, the senior commander might direct that the officers and the other ranks should select individual representatives of their ranks.

The Ritual of the Victoria Cross was at first blue for the Navy and red for the Army (but since 1918 it has been dark blue for all the services) with a small replica of the cross in the centre ribbon but without the actual decoration. The crosses were made, and always have been made, by Hancocks, a London firm of jewellers, from the metal of captured enemy guns.

On June 26, 1857, the Queen at a remarkable parade in Hyde Park made the first presentation of Victoria Crosses to officers and men of the Navy and Army. The reward had been established earlier, in 1854, and the first of all the crosses was pinned on the breast of Lt. Col. Lucas, who had distinguished himself in action in the Baltic Sea on June 21 of that year.

In 1858 the award was authorized for acts of bravery by officers and men when not in the presence of the enemy, and six such awards were made. (Hilleman T. O'Flea, V.C., Crimea, 1855, was the first V.C. for courageous conduct at a fire in peacetime, when he saved life at sea.) In 1859 it was extended to "non-military persons" who assisted the military in arms against the Indian mutineers, and four men received the V.C. But in 1867 the V.C. not of commissioned rank is declared to be "for conspicuous" 10 pounds a year, with £5, a day added to the service pension. In 1874 it is for the enemy, and an additional 5 pounds a year. In case of death in actual war, the pension is 75 pounds and with a posthumous award 50 pounds is credited to the service, year after year.

Since its institution the total number of awards (including bars) reached 1,347, including three bars, and of these 181 have gone to the Navy, 867 (including the three bars) to the Army, 21 to the R.A.F., and the rest to the forces of the dominions and colonies.

Russia Makes Much Progress

(Montreal Star)

Publication in Moscow of the Soviet Union's new five-year plan is probably the comment in the west very different from the old, caustic, sardonic line. Russia is marching fast toward industrial power and it is proving the truth of the economic law that once a broad base is built, once capital has been accumulated, and once an adequate supply of technicians has been developed, industrial progress is very quick and the results very formidable.

It is true, as some British comment has pointed out, that the USSR is paying for its progress by taking it out of the hide of its workers in a manner quite impossible under western democracy. But it is not wholly true. The Russian people never did have much. They have been poor for their own standards, for generations, indeed for centuries. Now, almost for the first time, they look for improvement in their condition. So long as the trend of Russian industrial growth is are probably well content with their lot and proud of their government.

The Russian planners have also done very important things to the surprise of the new five-year plan does not lie in the emphasis on steel and heavy industry. It lies in the abandonment of a project cherished by Mr. Khrushchev, to increase the production of food by bringing new land under cultivation. Instead the emphasis is on the plow. This land, lying east of the Urals, is very productive rainfall, and agriculture there was highly successful before production uncertain. Now, no new land is to be broken. Instead the production of existing farms is to be increased and farming is to be further mechanized. This is quite likely the result of the North American tour of the Soviet farm experts who brought back with them confidence about how to increase yields on the continental scale. The core of their food program is vital to the success of the plan as a whole.

The moral of all this is plain enough. The Russian industrial giant is coming fast to maturity. Still backward by advanced western standards, it is the rising nation in Asia, and has achieved progress which is the envy of the world in its shade. It may be noted too that, of all the industrialized nations, Canada has been the one which paid too much about the supply of technicians and skilled managers in industry. The Russians have not done something that we have to do, and something that the national facilities for its promising boys and girls to get higher education is not the Cinderella of the Russian world, and we will be paying for our neglect if we want to maintain our existing advantage.

Another Hitler?

(Brantford Expositor)

Capture of 50 French Assembly seats by the No Tax party of Poujade is the latest political movement in Italy. Some Europeans consider that Poujade's success as the start of a drift to authoritarianism. It took Hitler only a few years to get his first 21 Reichstag seats. Poujade was unknown two years ago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ART AND LIFE

It is always inspiring to me to watch a painter at his easel somewhere in the out-of-doors. No matter what he is painting, I am tempted to say to myself: "He's painting himself there!" Talk about technique or theories, it is not because of it that every painting you buy to please yourself—you are and feel the artist himself there.

What a tragic story behind the world's art treasures that are now appreciated in their time. Some of them lived for 100 or 200 years before all the beautiful paintings of Vermeer could even be located in the days of the great masters in Europe it was not mere money they were after but a great perfection in the art they created.

Art cannot be measured in terms of cash to value. No genuine art lover would allow another to deprive his life of anything to buy what you like if you are a buyer of art and not others you would like. You will learn soon enough if you have made a mistake. In a modest way I have bought etchings that were not to my taste, but could not live with certain ones. Some seemed to repel and antagonize to them. I like to feel the warmth of the artist himself in that which he creates.

In my office is a painting of a beautiful woman by the French painter and etcher, Alphonse Legros. I am inspired by it every time I look at it. It is not the dress of my friends who have called upon me, but the dress of the ages there. This is true of that beautiful painting of the Madonna by Fra Forain, the great French artist. It is an arresting picture—Father and Son meeting, he arms of each about the other—and silence! But there is a world of meaning in the etching.

You may be sure when a work of art appeals to you it is not that it is great art, regardless of the price asked. You purchase beauty and a man's devotion to it.

Why Yankees are Sissies

By DR. WM. BRADY

More than half of the 4,321,000 the heart, and that is what makes called for pre-induction physical examination from '48 to '55, were rejected as physically or mentally unfit. Two million, eighty-four thousand, six hundred and seventy-nine were among the 16,707,000 men 19 to 25 who registered for the draft in the seven-years period.

Kraus-Weber tests of representative groups of 6 to 16 year old American and European youngsters showed:

57.9 per cent of the Americans failed one or more.

Only 8.7 per cent of the Europeans failed one or more.

35.7 of the American failed one or more of the tests for muscular strength.

Only 1.1 per cent of the Europeans failed any of the tests for muscular strength.

European youngsters today get their physical education not in the school to any significant degree but from the activities youngsters participate in outside school, such as gymnasium or swimming pool; no physical education is required in defense of physical training in school, no school buses, and no private cars to carry children to and from school and generally no movies, radio, or television to hold them from their play. They enjoy the freedom to lead a natural life and to play in the open air.

In the C V D book, a little lesson in heart health, regular regular exercise, under the physician's supervision, promotes development of reserve power in the difference between semi-invalidism and physical efficiency. I have by the papers that a publicity-hungry heart specialist recently counted my low opinion of digitalis with the astonishing assertion that some persons with heart trouble live from day to day only by virtue of a daily dose of digitalis.

Now the heart specialist makes another public statement which I applaud heartily. He says it is not the "stress and strain" of life, as you know, the bunkum about the heavy responsibilities of business, entertaining friendships etc.— but leisure that causes heart trouble —, cardiovascular degeneration — heart-artery breakdown — C V D — coronary occlusion, coronary thrombosis, or would you prefer to call it "indigestion" for a while? The actual cause of C V D is, in the opinion, and most the heart specialist, primarily long distance sitting, at a desk, or driving a car, where there's no exercise, nightclub, television, bridge, golf, the theater, movies, school, bridge, canasta.

The heart specialist says "Work and exercise promote and add the heart."

That's pretty good, for a man who, as far as I know, still believes digitalis has some magic effect which the physiologist or physicist can explain.

Bunk exercise, as prescribed by the physician, is good for the heart, is today an essential part of the treatment of heart disease.

HEATHEN WAYS

A Syrian traveling in this country was interviewed by a group of Christian churches that have existed from the days of the apostles. He was asked what he thought of what he did not believe in missions. "But I thought all Christians believed in missions," remarked the Syrian quite innocently. "Oh," said the man loftily, "I am not a Christian." "Oh", queried the Syrian, "then are you a heathen?"

At this the man became quite indignant. "A heathen! I assure you I am a heathen. What do you take me for?" "Well," replied the Syrian, "in our country we know only two classifications—Christian and heathen. If there is a third way, I should be glad if you would tell me about it."

"Enter ye in at the narrow gate." No man can serve two masters." He who is not for me is not for Christ." Both Jesus and Paul should ring continually through the consciousness of every Christian. There is either for the things of the Christian faith or we are against them. There is no third way. Today who would like to convey the impression that there is intellectually superior because of their religious skepticism. But they are not superior. Paul and Jesus' associates convince you that they are. Their conduct in contact with circumstances which clearly indicate the presence of providential intervention in their lives, convince they refuse to believe.

Heathen? There is some excuse for the heathen, but none for any of us if, with all our advantages and opportunities, we choose to take on heathen ways.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It would be interesting to know how many of us are comfy comfortable in our motor cars. That we can cause the public, because we are so many shapes and sizes. Yet no car seems to make for more than one size only, each model. It is true the different makes of cars differ in size and comfort, but the result is true they usually have sliding seats that can be adjusted for the comfort of the driver.

I am told by experts that certain makes of car are best suited to tall, long-legged drivers, and certain other makes to short, fat, legged drivers. This is not a matter of the sliding seat, but of size. It is much more complex question, involving not only the sliding seat but the length of the seat, the slope of the back, the height of the seat, the distance of the steering column from the seat, the angle of the steering column.

We can car manufacturer will advertise his new model standard for the public, because we all are so many shapes and sizes. Not more can be made in Vancouver B.C. Prove Saucers Can Fly!

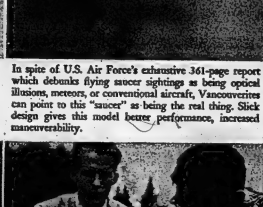
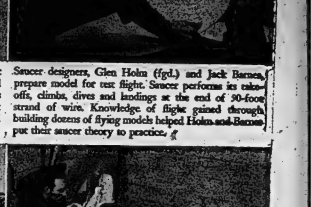
While highly-trained aerodynamics experts work in top secrecy on the joint U.S. Air Force-Avro Canada "Project Y", to develop a saucer-shaped, vertically-rising jet aircraft, two Vancouver aircraft builders have already developed a propellor-driven saucer that really flies. Built in the secrecy of a basement work-shop by Glen Holm (left) and Jack Barnes, of the Vancouver Gas Model Club, the miniature saucer is 30 inches in diameter, is powered by a .6 h.p. engine capable of speeds up to 60 m.p.h. Their next project: to build a jet-powered model to crack the model aircraft speed record of 160 mph.



In spite of U.S. Air Force's exhaustive 361-page report which debunks flying saucer sightings as being optical illusions, meteors, or conventional aircraft, Vancouverites can point to this "saucer" as being the real thing. Slick design gives this model better performance, increased maneuverability.



Saucer designers, Glen Holm (fgd.) and Jack Barnes, prepare model for test flight. Saucer performs its takeoffs, climbs, dives and landings at the end of 90-foot strand of wire. Knowledge of flight gained through building dozens of flying models helped Holm and Barnes put their saucer theory to practice.

Members of the Vancouver Gas Model Club pose with their flying models prior to "take-off" time at a flying meet at Vancouver's Brockton Point Oval. Flying saucer shown in left foreground provides radical contrast to reign of more conventional aircraft. Vancouver Model Club, formed in 1935, today has over 50 members interested in building flying models powered by miniature gas engines. Most work in basement shops and time involved might be an hour building simple glider to 300 hours on complex, radio-controlled gas model.

Jack Barnes refuels tiny tank of .6 h.p. engine which powers the model. Each member of Vancouver Gas Model Club usually has 5 machines ready for the air, spends an average of $150 annually on his hobby. Miniature engines cost from $6.00 up to $30.00 for more elaborate jet models.

Long hours of testing and building went into producing the saucer. Model, built at cost of $50.00, is nylon covered, tailored to fit around available engine. Sixty-mile per hour speed is considered exceptionally fast for model as large as the 30-inch saucer.

Finance Chairman Says Council Faces Big Increase in Tax Rate

Belleville city council will face a ten-and-a-half mill tax increase—from 71 to 81½ mills—when they meet to strike their tax budget for 1956.

This was the mill rate indicated by Alderman Gerald Hyde, chairman of finance, in a statement following Monday night's council meeting. The 81½ mill tax rate would apply if present budget requests of council committees and other civic organizations stand.

Following is the statement by Alderman Hyde:

"As you know we start tonight on budget meetings. I have a copy of the tentative budgets of every member which will indicate a shocking increase in rate, much of which is totally unavoidable.

"As council goes into its budget meetings I feel it to be of prime importance that every citizen be aware of the problems ahead in striking a mill rate which takes into account the amount of work which must be undertaken by our various departments and the increased costs with which we are confronted on every hand.

"During the past three weeks the committees of council have prepared their individual budgets, the various boards and commissions for whom council is the revenue producing body have presented their budgets, the requests from organizations to whom grants are made are all in. Without exception every budget, and every request is increased.

"The sum total is an increase of 10¼ mills—from 71 to 81.5 mills. For the average property, assessed at $3,000, this means $31.50 more this year in taxes. We are all prepared for some increase but this amount is staggering. Obviously some work which is considered necessary by the committees will have to be postponed for another year. The question is, is it good business in the long run to postpone until next year or the year after work which should proceed in an orderly manner from year to year.

"Council had no control over 75 per cent of the tax dollar. About 60 mills of the estimated 81.5 mills is made up of uncontrollable commitments to various boards and commissions and debenture payments which we have inherited.

PLACES RESPONSIBILITY

"Much of the responsibility for the increased mill rate lies definitely with these boards and commissions past and present—not with council. In turn the responsibility also lies with the demands made upon these boards and commissions by the employees and by the citizens themselves for the demand increased services which in themselves may not seem too large but when totalled up are enormous.

"Of the estimated 10¼ mill increase 3¼ mills of increase goes to the various school boards over which council has no control. This represents $108,000 increase over last year.

"The police budget is up $8,000. Council has no control over this. It is estimated that we must put aside one mill this year and one mill next year to meet the past loss on the arena and the final two years' debenture payment due on it. The city is not now operating a hockey team but we have to pay for the expensive experience of having operated a hockey team at a deficit for a period of two years. The Arena Committee expects to be able to make ends meet in the future but they cannot pick up this past debt.

"The sum total of these amounts is 6% mills or $134,700 out of $207,000 or 10½ mills.

"This leaves $73,100 increase over which council has some control.

DEMANDS FOR WAGE HIKES

"There have been demands for salary and wage increases plus fringe benefits right across the board in every department. For council it has been confronted with the same problem and the city employee has borne the brunt. The proposed increases are in salaries and wages are nominal in every case. We are to continue to have our city employees' salaries and wages out of proportion and below those of comparable cities and competitive places of employment when backing away at the budget?

"There has been no new equipment bought in the public works department for several years and no new trucks or equipment is contemplated for this year with the exception of an earth loader in the amount of $10,000, which is felt is required for efficiency sake. We may have to forego this piece of equipment in the interest of keeping the mill rate down. We may also, have to cut out certain work on our streets, which should be done, if we are going to cut down on costs. The effect remains—is this good business in the long run? What about the future day the citizens pay out huge sums for replacements.

"The library board has asked for an increase of .35 per capita for around $7,000, to bring this service up to what is considered an adequate library service for the city this size. We can decide not to grant the entire amount or none of it but in that case are the citizens prepared to accept a second rate service?

WANTS DEBENTURE REMOVED

"The Parks Board request that the city take over the debentures on the grandstand in the sum of $5,000. If in the interest of reducing the mill rate we do not take this over are the citizens prepared to accept the fact that after debenture payments and salaries the Parks Board has only $8,000 to spend on maintenance and development of our parks.

"As we go into our budget meetings the mayor and I are asking every committee of council to pare costs wherever possible and to reconsider their budgets most carefully.

"I am asking also, that every organization requesting grants and every board and commission for which we are the fund raising source, consider the ability of the property owner to meet these increased costs and increased demands. Theirs is the responsibility as well as ours and I further suggest to all citizens who are interested to come out if they are able, to our budget meetings starting tomorrow night so that they may be given more accurate and up to date facts."

Front and Part of Bridge Sts. Will Be Resurfaced This Year

Belleville's Front street from Dundas to Station street, and Bridge street from the lower bridge to John street, will get a much needed paving job this summer.

City councillors Monday evening made the decision to pave the two streets and agreed that the work should be done under the general tax-rate, thereby making the city eligible for a provincial subsidy of between 33 1/3 and 50 per cent of the cost of the work which is estimated at $104,000.

Almost without exception councillors agreed that the paving should be done this year with Alderman Ben Safe as chairman of the public works committee strongly urging that the work be done under the general rate rather than under local improvements.

"The work has to be done under the general rate for the simple reason that we would then receive a minimum of one-third subsidy on the cost and possibly up to 50 per cent," he said. "If the work is done under local improvements the owners would have to pay the full cost."

Cost of the work would be debentured over a ten year period, with the annual cost about three quarters of a mill.

Alderman Safe urged that council make its decision promptly as to whether the work was to be done this year. Before paving could be done, all roof water would have to be channelled into storm sewers and this work should be done by the winter to allow an early start at the paving next spring.

Cost of channelling roof water into storm sewers would be charged to the various owners on Front street.

START OF PROGRAM

The alderman suggested that this could be the start of a street resurfacing program in Belleville which would eventually see all main streets in the city paved.

Three council members, Aldermen Frank Grandame, William Argue and Robt. Temple were not satisfied that the paving of Front and Bridge streets was needed at this time.

Alderman Grandame asked that the matter be laid over and objected to the suggestion the work be done under the general rate.

"It's not fair for the east to go into the general rate when all other paving has been done under local improvements," he said.

Alderman Ralph Graham disagreed. "At one time I felt that under local improvements was the way to do the work, but with the possibility of the province paying up to 50 per cent if it is done under the general rate we would be fools to do it any other way."

He said that council some years ago had adopted a policy of doing all re-surfacing under the general rate.

Alderman Argue said this was not correct, stating the decision of council at the time referred to had concerned only street sliling.

He could see no reason for Front street to be paved this year, and in any event could not see why property owners in the residential areas should help to pay for the paving.

"Front street is grossly under assessed and owners don't begin to pay their fair share of taxes," he said.

ALD. ASKS QUESTION

Alderman Argue asked what proportion of Front street property was owned by outside interests rather than by local residents.

Mayor Jane Forrester asked if the matter could not be laid over until the budget meeting. To this Alderman Safe replied that the decision of Monday was reached, the sooner notifications could go out to property owners to have roof water drains connected to storm sewers.

Council voted 12 to 3 to do the two sections of paving this year.

Approving the work were Aldermen Clarke, David, Reid, Graham, Chas. Hyde, Gerald Hyde, Keegan, McCabe, Safe, Stock, Tice and Mayor Forrester. Opposing were Aldermen Argue, Grandame and Temple.

Only two aldermen — Argue and Grandame — voted to have the work done under local improvements.

Council Meeting Shortened by C of C Dinner

Invitations for members of city council to sit in with the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at their annual meeting, cut short Monday's meeting of the city fathers who will meet again tonight to complete their business.

Yesterday's council meeting was called for 4:30 in the afternoon instead of the usual evening time and the business was not completed when the meeting was adjourned to allow members to attend the Chamber of Commerce dinner.

Harold Parker, chairman of the Victorian Order of Nurses, addressed council seeking an increase in the city annual grant. "An increase of up to $1,000 from the present $2,500 annual grant was required," he said.

The offer of the Corbin Lock Company of $100 for the closing of Colborne street was accepted, Alderman C. D. Tice as chairman of property said this would defray advertising expenses and other incidentals in connection with the closing of the street.

A motion of two weeks ago approving of the installation of a new telephone system at city hall was rescinded after it was discovered that an operator would be required. When the decision was made two weeks ago it was understood by council that with the proposed system no operator would be required. The matter was referred to the budget meeting.

Council approved for a survey of Fahey street to be made by J. T. Ranson at a cost of $300. Alderman Art Keegan as chairman of planning said the survey should have been done years ago but was definitely required now as there were indications of a building program commencing in the area.

WILL REPLY TO LETTER

The survey would be for the full length of Fahey Street from Moira to College Street.

City solicitor R. A. Pringle was authorized to reply to a letter from Anthony Zoe of Larder Lake, one of the applicants applying for the position of city manager which was advertised last summer.

The letter from Mr. Zoe indicated that on the strength of a verbal statement from the then Mayor J. Both, he had resigned his position at Kirkland Lake and had made other arrangements to come to Belleville.

(No appointment for city manager was officially made by the council although several meetings were held discussing the matter.)

Also in connection with last year's proposed appointment of a city manager, it seems the file containing the nearly 60 applications received has disappeared from the city hall.

Alderman Gerald Hyde said the finance committee had been authorized to go further into the appointment of a successor for the late H. D. Bateman and the applications were required by his committee.

He stated that the file was believed to be in the possession of ex-Mayor J. Both, who might have inadvertently taken it from the city hall. However, efforts to have the file returned had not met with success.

Council approved of a recommendation authorizing the city solicitor to take action to get the file returned.

Mayor Forrester said the solicitor had contacted ex-Mayor Both without satisfaction. "The file was city property and it was up to council to see that it was returned," she said.

NO CORRESPONDENCE ON GIFT

In the opinion of officials of the National Art Gallery in Ottawa many of the articles presented to the city by Mrs. W. Salaman of the Isle of Wight, are not of museum value.

Council was told this by an eight by Mayor Forrester who said that Mrs. Salaman had been written asking whether it would be permissible to dispose of articles not of museum value. Mayor Forrester said there was no correspondence at city hall with respect to the terms of the gift to the city.

A former Belleville woman, Mrs. Salaman last year presented a great numb er of household paintings, articles of furniture and other items to the city as museum pieces. The shipment of articles arrived in Belleville in December and is now in storage.

Weightlifting

On January 30th, the Y. M. C. A. weightlifting team held their monthly total night. Four new members participated and made some very fine totals. Several new personal records were also recorded by the older members.

The totals were: Doug Dempsey 390, Doug Doxtator 410, Bruce Bedell 440, Len Furney 440, Bill Sutherby 485, Bill McMaster 490, Bob Juby 465, Joe Cox 500, Ken Carr-Brahit 560 and Don Cherry 630.

Bridge St. W.A. Installs Officers

The annual meeting and installation of officers of the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church was held in the Sunday School Rooms Friday, January 27th at 1:30 p.m. with the usual January pot-luck luncheon.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. R. Fairman, who also enclosed all new members present. Mrs. J. E. McArthur gave the Scripture reading from Psalm 121, and Mrs. Fairman gave a few thoughts for the new year as one hesitatingly pushes open the closed door.

Mrs. A. Clare led in prayer, asking that the W.A. may forget the things which are behind, and press forward to those which are before.

Monthly and annual reports were given, showing a most successful year.

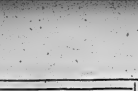
Mrs. Fairman, the retiring president, spoke of her two years' work, and extended her thanks to all the officers and group leaders who had so willingly helped her. She also considered it had been a great privilege to work with the ministers and their wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Lewis.

Mr. Davis conducted the installation service for the new officers, and wished for them the divine guidance of the Heavenly Father.

Mr. Davis said he considered the Women's Auxiliary a fine group with amazing accomplishments over the years, and that he pledged his co-operation with his group. He thanked the society for the many kindnesses rendered to Mrs. Davis and himself.

Mrs. Clare extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Davis for his words of advice and encouragement.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP PRESENTED



Mrs. Marsh presented the gift of a life membership to the Women's Auxiliary and a pin to the retiring president, Mrs. Fairman.

Mrs. Marsh expressed the thanks of all to Mrs. Fairman for her two years of untiring service, friendship, of kindness and sympathy, and understanding to all.

Mrs. Fairman thanked all for the great honor done to her and said she would continue to do her part in the work of the church.

Mrs. Clare accepted the office of the presidency and promised to do her best with God's guidance and help, and spoke of plans already made for the coming year such as the Children's Aid banquet, in February, the Spring Tea in May, several wedding receptions, Men's Club suppers, and the annual bazaar in November.

It was voted to hold the next regular meeting on February 23rd instead of February 24th.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

Note:—All Brownie Packs and Guide Companies report that tea tickets are selling well, but that there are a number still available.

PACK 5 — BROWN OWL WATKINS

The following Brownies were presented with their Golden Bar: Barbara Brown; Joan Watson; Gail Anderson; Linda Marner; Bonnie Butcher; Marianne Ironside and Carol Peacock.

We have seven new "recruits", Maureen Thompson; Donna Symmons; Lynn Austin; Susan Hill; Yvonne Armstrong; Cheryl Hall and Linda Gryce.

PACK 5 — BROWN OWL MINETT

At three enrollment ceremonies held recently at Queen Victoria School the following Brownies were enrolled into the pack: Janice Browning; Yola Diamantides; Wanda Ellis; Susan Ferguson; Judy Gawley; Margaret Kellar; Lois Knox; Judy Little; Carol McBride; Rosolyn Minett; Sandra Orum; Judith Robertson; Connie Stovell; Jenny Sprague; Linda Sweet; Darlene Truebridge; Sandra Woodcock and Linda Woodcock.

On January 26th a "flying-up" ceremony took place with Joan Bankey; Pattie Bradford; and Betty Eles receiving their wings and flying up to Guides. Margaret Van Alstine accompanied the trio by walking up with them to Company 8.

PACK 8—BROWN OWL MAUND

The Brownies are working hard to pass their tests for first and second class badges.

The Pack attended a "flying up" ceremony at Queen Elizabeth School on the evening of January 23rd.

MAY COURT BEAUTIES

Four dancers pose during a dress rehearsal for their part in Ottawa's May Court ball, the capital's annual charity party. The girls, playing in a half-hour cabaret scene depicting life on the Riviera, are (left to right): Pat Slemon, Joan Stevenson, Sheila Dowd and Sandra Jenson. (CP Photo).

PARIS (AP)—Paton opened the spring fashion showings in Paris Monday with a collection featuring a normal silhouette.

After years of flattened busts, high waists, low waists and no waists, this designer at least has decided the only way to be different is to be natural. His new line is curvy, real and discreet.

Paton puts it some-blouse-over tops that still have an air of 1820, and blouse-back coats that have a hip-high back-belt. But in general his clothes are small-waisted and well-fitted.

Skirts go in for flare, by way of pleats or princess panels. Most jackets are short, some having no basques at all (the basque is the part of the jacket that continues below the waistline). Many jackets and some coats are short-sleeved.

Odd Fellows, Rebekah Lodges Hold Euchre, Dance

A most successful euchre and dance was held in the I.O.O.F. hall Saturday evening under the auspices of the Canera, Pollo and Tuberculosis committee of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges of Belleville.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation by Mrs. Ila Addy, president, of a cheque to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Yorke for the purchase of an instrument sterilizer for the infirmary of the Hastings County Home.

The presentation was part of the new service program of the C. P. and T. committee, to help with community ventures besides individual cases of need, and is the second item purchased.

In September the committee donated a suction machine to the Belleville General Hospital to be used exclusively in the isolation ward.

Cards at the euchre were capably convened by Mr. Wilmot Rose of Frankford. Winners being:

Ladies: first, Mrs. Mac Nobes; second, Mrs. Florence Pellitt; consolation, Mrs. Rose Coe; lone hands, Mrs. Beckstead.

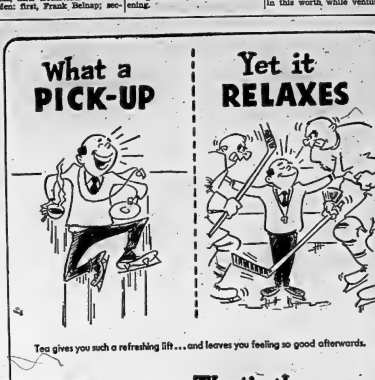
Men: first, Frank Belnap; second, Gordon Woods; consolation, Jack Empey; lone hands, Dan Dorsan.

Dancing, old and new, was thoroughly enjoyed under Evelyn Warham's orchestra. Spot dances were won by Mrs. Clara Ironside and Joe Craighead and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Simpson.

Calling for square dances was done by Don Downey and Camer. on Bunnett with Don Downey acting as announcer for the evening.

Ticket management was in the hands of Mrs. Eza Judge and Ray Rouse with John Nesbitt in charge of the coke bar.

Refreshments were served with the following on the committee: Mesdames May Large, Verna Summers, Ila Addy, Orsas Adams, June Carruthers, Mary Plumpton, Mrs. Nesbitt and Ethel MacDonald.



The committee extends sincere thanks to all who helped so well in this worth while venture.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S TEA-SERVICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I would like a little information on a tea party. One day I was attending a meeting and I suggested having a tea, just an informal affair to get the ladies together. I was informed that a "tea" was an elaborate affair, required too much work. Is this necessarily true?

2. Another question: Is it an absolutely definite rule, when coffee as well as tea are served at a tea party, that both the coffee and the tea may not be served at the same end of the table? — K.

1. Today the usual tea is a simple, intimate gathering, and it doesn't take itself seriously. (The elaborate formal Tea is, of course, really a reception, given in honor of a celebrity or for some other important occasion.) A tea such as you suggested, a get-together for the ladies, would not be "an elaborate," and would require the minimum of preparations. The (and very often today coffee is also served); the simplest of tiny sandwiches or simple open sandwiches, if preferred; and, for the sweet, small cakes or fancy tea cookies.

2. There is no rule that tea is to be served at one end of the table and coffee at the other end, but usually that is the procedure because of its obvious convenience, that is, it is convenient to have all the accessories for the tea-service on a tray at one end of the table, and have this service presided over by one of the ladies of the club, or have one hostess preside for a half hour and then "change the guard." And the same procedure for the coffee-serving. This is, of course, far more convenient than having two persons preside at both services, or having the services side by side.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY WRITES THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For several years I have been deeply interested in a home for Aged Couples, which is located quite near the town where I live. Now I have been asked to be Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Management. They are planning to start a drive among those particularly interested in the Home, to ask for money for the infirmary-equipment. I shall probably have to write letters of thanks. Will you please tell me how to begin such letters? (Is how to introduce myself). In general what to say, what kind of complimentary close to use, and how to sign my name? (I am married) Thank you for any assistance. — A.

To introduce yourself in these thank-you notes, and to express appreciation of the contribution, you may write:

February 9,1956

Dear Mrs. Johnston:

As Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Management of the (give full name of the Home), I have been asked to thank you for the generous check (or "contribution," if not a check) and to write out the exact amount so that the donor can file this acknowledgment). We are deeply grateful to you for your most helpful contribution and the fund for this very necessary infirmary-equipment.

Sincerely yours,
Grace S. Baker

WEDDING IN WHICH CHURCH?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In which church should a couple be married—in the church of the bride or of the groom? — An Interested Bride-to-Be

SUGGESTIONS FOR A BRUNCH SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Don't I remember that a year or so ago you suggested in your columns the idea of giving a shower as a brunch party, and perhaps having the bridal attendants or other group giving the shower combine to give the bride-to-be one present, something appropriate to the brunch? I've mentioned this idea to the other bridal attendants (I'm to be maid of honor) and they are very enthusiastic about it. We are all employed, week-days are out for this kind of party, and most of us are, church-goers, so Sundays are out. Any other suggestions about the possible day and time, and about the suitable gift or gifts? — E.H.C.

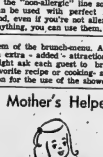
Would Saturday brunch be possible, convenient for all? If not, what about Sunday brunch with the guests arriving after they have been to church? (This often is the plan) I do indeed like to suggest this late-morning occasion, for it usually can be planned with special charm and leisureliness, with a maximum of enjoyment at a minimum of expense. Sometimes each girl in the group brings a large coffee cup and saucer (to be used at the party) of the china design the bride-to-be has chosen, or perhaps all of a very colorful pottery design for morning use. Or each might bring one of a set of place mats and matching napkins, or each particularly attractive plastic place mat. Or, if the group is a fairly large one, a joint gift might be an electric toaster or percolator or waffle iron or grill or chafing-dish, some article to be prioritized by being used to prepare an item of the brunch-menu. And for an extra - added - attraction you might ask each guest to bring a favorite recipe or cooking- suggestion for the use of the shower-gift.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

COSMETICS FOR THE ALLERGY SUFFERER

Chapped, dry lips are frequently caused by an allergic reaction to lipstick ingredients.



The season is rich with color—glowing color on your lips, your cheeks, your fingertips. Color that adds sparkle and glamour to your personality.

Since the discovery of cosmetics women have treasured the bloom of beauty promised in lipstick, rouge and nail polish yet, unfortunately, many women, because of hypersensitivity, have had it a displeasure of cosmetic make-up decided them. A common allergic reaction to lipstick is cracked, hopelessly dry lips with fissures in both lips and corners. In acute cases the lips swell and sometimes this swelling spreads to the entire face. In a certain number of cases red splotches appear all over the face and in other cases respiratory symptoms such as sneezing, running nose and eyes accompany the lip symptoms. Medical tests have shown about 90 per cent of lipstick sensitivity is due to allergy to the indelible dyes used in the lipsticks. And, with the vogue for long lasting lipsticks, in many cases the amount of indelible dye used has been stepped up from 5 per cent to 15 per cent. This does not mean that the lipsticks are not good or that their ingredients are in themselves harmful, but there are some women who just can't use them, just as there are thousands of persons who can't eat strawberries.

It is for these women that a not-sad cosmetic house, which has long been a leader in the research and study of cosmetic allergies, has perfected a special formula lipstick which contains absolutely no dye or perfume—also a frequent cause of allergy. The lipstick won't stay on all day but its manufacturer guarantees (on a money back basis) that it will not dry or chap the lips.

In addition to the new special formula lipstick, this company also has an entire line of other cosmetics including cream, rouge, nail polish remover, shampoos, lotions, foundation creams and talcum powders—practically any cosmetic item you can name—all guaranteed to contain none of the ingredients which cause allergic reactions in many.

Many persons are vaguely aware that they are allergy sufferers but do not know just what substance is causing the trouble. There are so many, however, it would be impossible to list them all in this space. To give you an idea, though, medical men have found that the following cosmetic ingredients are frequently the offending irritants: the acetone used in polish removers; almond oil used in many creams, lotions, perfumes and soaps; arrow root, used in dusting powders and face powders; gum Karaya, used in wave sets, tooth paste, hand lotions, rouge and powder compacts; and lanolin, used in a wide variety of cosmetics. None of these ingredients are confined to the "non-allergic" line so they can be used with perfect safety. And, even if you're not allergic to anything, you can use them.

CHILDREN love expansive surfaces to decorate with these new crayons or paints. The large paper bags in which milk or cream are received by the cleaner are the ideal purpose, and they can even be made into dress-up costumes. Ask Grandma to save some, too.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TWO WRONGS DO NOT MAKE A RIGHT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married for nine years and have two children.

My husband and I don't get along. We quarrel nearly all the time, mostly about his people, who put lots of ideas in his head. He tells me to leave him, but I hate to do this on account of the children.

I have fallen in love with a man who comes to see me. I love him better than anyone in the world and he is on my mind all the time. I'm so upset about it all that life has become miserable to me and I just sit and cry. I don't know what to do or where to go, and I know when my husband finds this out it's going to be bad. But because of the way he has been treating me I just can't feel towards him as I used to. — Dear M.L.:

Do you think that two wrongs make a right? In other words, because your husband has treated you badly, do you think you are justified in doing so wrong and making a thing of it as to let another man come to see you?

Of course things are going to be bad if your husband finds out what you are doing. When there is always much trouble between you, why do you want to add to that trouble by getting involved with another man?

Unless you stop seeing this man until you have made some sort of decision in regard to your husband, you are very likely to find yourself in an extremely bad situation. And once your husband knows that there has been up to, there would be absolutely no use of your pleading for any kind of treatment against him, in case you ever wanted it much trouble between you, why do you want to add to that trouble by getting involved with another man?

Unless you stop seeing this man until you have made some sort of decision in regard to your husband. You

Breeders Told To Raise Quality Of Their Hogs

TORONTO (CP) —Ontario swine breeders Monday were told to raise the quality of their hogs if they wish to maintain export markets.

W. P. Watson, Ontario livestock commissioner, told the Ontario Swine Breeders Association's annual convention the percentage of grade A hogs produced in Canada is dropping instead of increasing as hoped.

The quality of hogs produced by pure-bred breeders and commercial farmers could be increased considerably, he said.

W. S. McMullen, federal production services, said 75 per cent of pure-bred swine passing through the Waterloo testing station in 1955 was graded A. Only 30 per cent of commercial hogs was graded A.

Mr. McMullen said better and more uniform hogs it possible for Ontario hog producers to maintain their United States markets in competition with better U.S.-grown animals.

"If our quality should slip, we'll just naturally lose that market," he said.

APPROVE RESOLUTION

Delegates approved a resolution asking the federal government to increase the premium on grade A hogs and to reduce the premium on grade B animals. This it was said would put pressure on Canadian breeders to produce better quality animals.

Earl Zaiblic of Alvinston was elected association president. Gordon Schweitzer of Kitchener is the 1956 vice-president and M. H. McCamus of Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

W. Turnbull and Son of Brussels, Ont., won the 'Premier breeder' award and Werner Romahn of Petersburg received the John Duck Memorial Trophy.

U.S. Company Seeks to Block Deal Involving Kingston Firm

CHICAGO (AP) — Penn-Texas Corporation Monday filed suit to block what it termed a stock trade plan which would give Fairbanks, Morse and Co. control of the Canadian Locomotive Co., which has its head office at Kingston.

The court action came after New York financier L. D. Silberstein, president of Penn-Texas, traded words with the president of Fairbanks, Morse over policy of the ailing machinery concern, operated for many years by the Morse family.

Fairbanks, Morse president Robert H. Morse, Jr., has said he will resist "with strength and determination" a demand he said Silberstein made for "a prominent role in management" of the Chicago firm.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court on behalf of Penn-Texas, owner of 115,000 shares of Fairbanks, Morse stock, and Ernest Stebelen of New York, Penn-Texas vice-president who owns 200 shares of Fairbanks, Morse stock.

The suit says Penn-Texas believes the Fairbanks, Morse board of directors intend to issue from 130,000 to 150,000 new shares of stock, for a share-for-share exchange with the Canadian Locomotive Co., Ltd. The suit alleges the Fairbanks stock is worth $48 a share, book value while the Canadian locomotive stock is worth only $13 a share.

Robert H. Morse, the company's president, said Silberstein is a "financial adventurer," and sent a telegram to stockholders urging he will resist a Silberstein demand for "a prominent role in management."

Silberstein replied in a statement that the letter "no doubt represents the opening gun in his proxy solicitation designed to perpetuate the present management of Fairbanks, Morse and Co., and to resist any substantial outside representation on its present board."

The declarations followed the resignation of Charles H. Morse Sr., as a director. He said his resignation was because of his opposition to the stock trade with Canadian Locomotive of "between 130,000 and 150,000 shares of each other's stock."

When Silberstein announced last week that Charles H. Morse had agreed to sell stock to him, Robert H. Morse Jr. declared he was "shocked and stunned" at his uncle's action.

The Morse family has had control of Fairbanks, Morse policy. The firm, which started as a manufacturer of scales, now makes locomotives and other heavy machinery.

Four-Man Board Set up Under Immigration Act

OTTAWA (CP)—Some persons ordered deported from Canada are to have the right to carry their cases to an immigration appeal board.

The four-man board has been set up under the Immigration Act and is to start work Oct. 1. For those qualified, it will afford an alternative final tribunal to the present system under which the immigration minister has the last word.

Those whose cases may be heard before the board are landed immigrants — admitted as immigrants but not yet qualified for citizenship—and persons claiming citizenship but whose status is in doubt.

They may elect to have deportation appeals heard either by the board or the minister. If the choice is the minister, he may get the board to review the case but he will make the decision.

In appeals heard by the board, it may grant or refuse them or order reopening of a case by departmental inquiry officers.

The minister—now Hon. J.W. Pickersgill—will continue to be the final tribunal in appeals lodged by persons in Canada who have overstayed visitors' permits.

Establishment of the board follows long representations from the Canadian Bar Association, which has long objected to the minister having the final say on deportation.

Board members are:

Chairman J.A. Colin Campbell, St. Catharines, Ont., a lawyer now overseas with the army's judge advocate - general's branch; vice-chairman Paul T. Baldwin of the department; Beryl Leslie A. Chevrier, with the department at Montreal, and E.B. Reid, departmental information officer here.

BIBLE

Future translators of the Bible would have to take into account what he called "this fabulous library," said Allegro, lecturer in philology at Manchester University.

In Monday night's talk he declared there was evidence that the Qumran community expected their priestly master to return, after his crucifixion, as the Messianic high priest of Israel.

According to the writings, he would awaken from the tomb and lead the faithful to the new, purified Jerusalem. There he would start an era of peace and plenty.

TWO MESSIAHS

According to Allegro it might appear that the close correspondence between the thought of the sect and the Christian Church broke down. "The answer may perhaps be sought in the now established fact that the Qumran community expected two Messiahs," Allegro said.

"With their own resurrected priest there would arise a single shoot of the stock of Jesse, a prince of the Family of David."

An important ritual which seemed to have taken a central place in the worship at Qumran was the Messianic banquet, thought by scholars to have been the basic element of the Lord's supper or holy communion, he said.

One of the documents set out in full the order of this rite. Apparently Messiah laid his hands on the bread and wine, blessed them and distributed them to the assembly.

COMMON BACKGROUND

Allegro maintained that similarities shown by the scrolls pointed to a common religious background for the early Christian Church and the Qumran sect.

It had been suggested, he said they both had their roots in an ill-defined religious group called the Essenes." If so, much was explained.

According to historians, communities of these people were living in Judea in Jesus' time, following the lives of brethren in the Dead sea monasteries.

"It is not difficult to see how the disciples and Jesus himself came into contact with these doctrines and documents," Allegro said.

Allegro, who has made three broadcasts on the Dead sea scrolls, believes it may be four years before the translation is complete.

Liberal Urges Drive to Save Children from Traffic Deaths

OTTAWA (CP)—Lives of Canada's children are the country's greatest wealth, Rev. Dan McIvor told the Commons last night as he urged a national campaign to help save them from traffic death.

The Liberal member, from Essex-Windsor, who will be 82 next St. Patrick's day, was gained support from both sides of the House for his plea.

Mr. McIvor, a Utah-born United Church clergyman and one of Parliament's most respected members, said Canada has the world's greatest wheat fields, longest railroads and greatest skilled miners.

"But these fade into insignificance compared with the lives of our boys and girls."

Children would run into streets into traffic, hitch rides on trucks, slide behind vehicles on icy streets and weave through traffic on bicycles.

ON RESOLUTION

Mr. McIvor spoke on his resolution asking the government to consider setting aside a week to be known as "Little Peoples Safety Measure Week." He withdrew the resolution after it was provided discussion on the topic and after Health Minister Martin said the government was under provincial jurisdiction.

He said the week could be advertised through schools, town councils, police, service clubs, church groups and press.

"We haven't anything in Canada that will compare in wealth and possibilities with our little boys and girls."

Mr. Martin said the proposal has much merit. The government now is giving "serious consideration" to providing financial aid, in cooperation with the provinces, to a safety campaign.

Traffic safety, however, was a provincial matter and provinces would be jealous of any action interfering with their constitutional rights.

BEST AGENCY

Mr. Martin said the recently-formed national council on highway safety is perhaps the best national agency for achieving Mr. McIvor's aims.

Other members added their ideas on traffic safety.

Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) said school safety patrols, well organized and trained, have saved thousands of lives in Ontario.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) said he hopes some organization will take an interest in teaching traffic safety to young bicycle riders, who were too young to have much judgment about traffic rules.

Mr. McIvor, as well as his idea, came in for praise during the debate.

Tom Goode (L—Burnaby-Richmond) said the Commons should express its sincere appreciation for the efforts of Mr. McIvor, who held a place in the hearts of all members.

Money across the miles

A chartered bank makes it a simple matter for you to send money almost anywhere, inside or outside Canada.

You may want to get money to a certain city as a gift on somebody's birthday; or to settle a business account; or to set up a fund which can be drawn upon by a company salesman, branch office or supplier.

It works the other way, too. If you are far from home and short of cash, you can advise your "home" branch to telegraph your money to a point where you can pick it up. Many situations and needs can arise — and a chartered bank has many ways of taking care of them, including the sale of travellers cheques.

This service is one of the many advantages you enjoy as a customer of a chartered bank. Your local branch is an all-round banking service-centre that can be helpful to you in many ways.

Only a chartered bank offers a full range of banking services, including:

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
Keep your money safe; pay you steadily interest; encourage the habit of thrift.

COMMERCIAL LOANS
For business or industrial firms, large and small; producers, processors, retailers—every type of enterprise.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES
Keep your important papers and other valuables safe, yet readily accessible.

TRAVELLERS CHEQUES
Protect you against theft or loss of cash. They are readily negotiable anywhere.

LONDON LIFE ATTAINS ALL-TIME RECORD FOR CANADA
$442 millions of life insurance purchased from this Company during year for protection of Canadian families

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 1955 REPORT

Life Insurance Issued	Purchases of life insurance from the London Life in 1955 totalled $442,956,000*—the greatest amount Canadians ever bought in a year from any company.	INCREASE OVER 1954 $50,701,000
Life Insurance In Force	The total amount of insurance on the lives of London Life policyholders is now $3,355,748,000.* This comprises coverage in Ordinary, Industrial, and Group life insurance policies.	INCREASE OVER 1954 $350,628,000
Assets	The invested assets at the end of 1955 were $515,123,000. Well over half of this sum is in mortgage loans, largely for the construction of new homes. Mortgages effected during 1955 alone totalled $87,374,000.	INCREASE OVER 1954 (Invested Assets) $45,578,000
Sickness and Accident Branch	In 1955 the annual premiums on Group Sickness and Accident policies totalled $9,781,000. During the year approximately 125,000 separate payments were made for time lost through illness or injuries, or to compensate for hospital and surgical and related expenses.	INCREASE OVER 1954 (Premium Income) $759,000

Values shown do not include annuities or business reinsured with other companies.*

Reasons for the Outstanding Growth of the London Life

The Company's life insurance in force is now virtually three times as great as it was only 10 years ago. Today everyone and a quarter million people are insured with the London Life. This growth reflects not only the general prosperity of the times but also the fact that Canadian family men are more and more realizing the necessity of adequate life insurance, to guarantee the income that will be necessary in the future.

The fact that the London Life is growing more rapidly than the life insurance industry as a whole in Canada points to the soundness of the Company's policy of placing major emphasis on low cost to policyholders and the selection and training of representatives for service to the public. This, we believe, is the principal reason why year by year Canadians buy more life insurance from the London Life than from any other company.

Woman Given Five Years for Manslaughter

BARRIE (CP) — Mrs. Helen Jessie Brooks, 37, convicted of manslaughter in the knife slaying of her husband at Orillia last October, was sentenced today to five years in penitentiary.

She had changed her plea of not guilty of murder to guilty of manslaughter and the jury's verdict was directed by Mr. Justice Carl Stewart.

Seven character witnesses, including a doctor, a lay preacher, a nurse and others testified today that Mrs. Brooks was of exemplary character and behavior.

Mr. Justice Stewart said the sentence would have been greater had it not been for the character evidence. "Very rarely" had he been so impressed by character witnesses from such a wide cross-section of the community.

Evidence was that Mrs. Brooks had received several beatings from her husband and that the stabbing occurred in the apartment of a neighbor when her husband returned from taking the neighbor's wife, a young Dutch woman, for a car ride.

COLDWELL SEES

A vote of 98 to 68 defeated one resolution sponsored by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre). It urged removal of the income tax provision that taxpayers can deduct for tax purposes only those medical expenses exceeding three per cent of their income. It was supported by all opposition parties and the four independent members, and opposed by the Liberal majority.

REFERRED TO MEASURE

Mr. Coldwell did not mention Quebec by name but referred to the newsprint control measure now before the Quebec legislature as he listed several examples of threats to human rights of Canadians.

He said Doukhobors in British Columbia were denied the right to vote because of violent actions of a small minority among that sect. Alberta had denied Hutterites the right to set up new colonies within 40 miles of existing colonies and municipal groups now were seeking similar legislation in Manitoba.

In Ontario, which had laws against racial discrimination, incidents of discrimination had occurred in one or two smaller centres and even in Toronto.

Mr. Coldwell's proposed amendment to the British North America Act, which his resolution asked the government to consider, would make it unlawful for Parliament or provincial legislatures to pass laws abridging such rights as free speech, religion, press and organization. It also dealt with arbitrary or abusive laws, interference with privacy, arbitrary arrest and fair trial.

Mr. Garson said that to write such a bill of rights into the constitution would destroy the sovereignty of Parliament and the legislatures by placing restrictions on them.

NEEDS CONFIDENCE

A democracy has to have confidence in its elected representatives, he said.

Mr. Garson said he agrees completely on the importance of civil liberties.

But if the federal government ran roughshod over cherished provincial rights, could it expect the provinces to enforce effectively the laws passed by the central government? The provinces had exclusive authority over administration of justice.

With all its faults, the Canadian constitution was infinitely superior to those of countries with bills of rights, including the United States. Experience had shown that a bill of rights did not always guarantee freedoms.

High Labor Costs May Price Canada Out of World Markets --Duncan

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—James S. Duncan, president of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited, warned today that high labor costs may price Canada out of world markets.

Mr. Duncan, head of one of the world's largest farm implements companies, told the Gordon economic commission that high labor costs in Canada and the United States caused the two countries to lose business in some world markets.

"Canada, whose economy is dependent in no small measure on her export trade, will require to keep a careful balance between the desirable objectives of an ever-increasing standard of living and the ever-present danger of pricing ourselves out of the world's markets," he said.

Mr. Duncan said the long-range future for farm implement sales in Canada and the U. S. is excellent but that at the moment the industries are depressed because of farm cash problems.

He suggested the maximum loan allowed to farmers under the federal Farm Improvement Loan Act be increased to $8,000 from $4,000. He said the legislation has been constructive in helping farmers finance equipment purchases.

FAVORS FREE TRADE

Mr. Duncan, whose firm operates plants in Canada and the U. S. as well as in many overseas countries, said he favors continuation of free trade between Canada-U.K. in farm implements.

The competition resulting has compelled Canadian producers to strive for top performance, to match the U. S. manufacturer in price, design and other factors and has tended to strengthen Canada's competitive position at home and abroad.

So far, because of exchange rates lower labor costs and other factors, such as taxes, Canadian manufacturers have a slight edge over the Americans, Mr. Duncan said.

"It is important to note, however, that if the wage and tax differentials were eliminated, or the Canadian dollar sold at an important premium over the American dollar, the advantage would rapidly shift to the American side."

He estimated that by 1975, Canada's market for farm machinery may expand by 113 per cent over 1955, while the U. S. would increase by 72 per cent. But he was not too hopeful about the future for machinery exports to overseas markets.

GETTING CLOSE!

The Cornwall Colts are not fooling in their stretch-drive for one of the coveted playoff berths in this wacky senior "B" race.

And their chances are not so bad, if somewhat touch. They have fifteen games to play as compared to twelve by our side and eleven by the Brockville Magedomas. In addition they have signed a wily hockey-wise veteran of the professional ice-lanes who should add a little power to the Colts roster.

He is—hold your breath—Rosario "Kikoute" Joannette, b-gar. What the "Kikoute" stands for is beyond our comprehension. It likewise stymied a few of our French-Canadian friends around town. However, a Rosario would smell as sweet . . . for all the difference it makes.

The guy has been around. He celebrated his debut with the Colts on Sunday by scoring a goal and assisting in another in the down-easter's 6-3 defeat by the Whitby Dunlops.

"Kikoute" is 37, wears a moustache, and according to Cornwall is a "monolithic" hockey player. That is he is big, husky, fears nothing, and has a penchant for laying puck eggs in netting nests.

Down in Valleyfield, Quebec, where "Kikoute" cavorted with the Quebec League Braves of that town, he was an all-round favorite. No wonder. He racked up fifty points last season. Not a bad mark in the rough-and-tumble Quebec loop.

This season, or part of it, he has been playing with the Three Rivers Lions of the same league who was waived by that team. But as the National Hockey League club picked him up, he was grabbed by the Colts. He formerly played with the Montreal Canadiens.

Fans hereabouts will get their first glimpse of the colorful French-Canadian player when the Colts tangle with our side in Memorial Arena tonight.

And believe it, or not, these fractious Colts from Mirenville will be tough brenches to corral here tonight. Actually the game means a four-pointer, so to speak, for both clubs. with the Colts creeping in within three points of the slumping Brockville Magedomas.

Brockville's chances of reaching or displacing the second-place Kingston Goodyears are about as remote as a Sunday picnic on Mars. They trail the Goodies by eleven points and nine games with six of their remaining eleven games while the Goodies are dropping five of their even dozen.

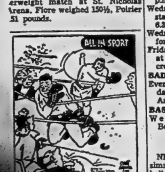
Meanwhile the Magpies are looking askance at the TPT's and Colts as the lower-bracket of the group narrows down to what sometimes is vulgarly termed a "real race." Then, too, they have that game to play with the Teeps in Memorial Arena which was postponed during Christmas week.

Seven of the Teeps' remaining games are slated for home-ice with three of them against the Colts, including tonight's tilt. They meet Kingston twice, Whitby once and Brockville once. On the road they tackle Kingston twice and Whitby, Cornwall and Brockville once.

The Maggies split their dozen games (12, if they replay the protested Colts' tilt), including that, they play three away against the Colts, and singles against the Teeps, Kingston and Whitby. At home they entertain the Colts and Goodies twice Belleville and Whitby.

The Colts have nine of their remaining games on "foreign" ice. Three of them will be played here, three in Whitby, two in Brockville and one in Kingston. At home they entertain the Teeps, Brockville twice (not counting 'the protested game), Kingston and Whitby.

If playing on home ice can be estimated as an "asset", then the Teeps have an edge in the ensuing home-stretch drive. They cannot afford to lose any within the confines of the Mosts, while two or three victories away from home will help considerably.



The Cornwall trail is a rough one, what with having to meet the Dunnies three times in Blairtrell and another trio here. They have yet to rack up a win against the Dunnies while they have lost four out of seven in Kingston. They have defeated the Teeps four times in six games.

So all is not lost despite the pessimistic attitude of some. Our side, if it produces it's full potential, stands a good chance of making a playoff spot.

So taking all into consideration tonight's tilt with the Colts should be a horn-dinger. Neither side can afford to lose, least of all the Colts. It should be a battle royal with all stops out.

OUTBOXES FIORE

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Poirier, Niagara Falls, N.Y., opened a cut over Carmine Flore's right eye Monday night and outboxed the second veteran of 73 fights to win a split decision in a 10-round welterweight match at St. Nicholas Arena. Flore weighed 150½, Poirier 51 pounds.

Force Canucks' Best Effort To Overcome Lead Twice; Russians, United States Win

By Ken Metheral
Canadian Press Staff-Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Still unbeaten but with an increased respect for the calibre of hockey played in Czechoslovakia, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen continue their quest of the Olympic title against the United States tonight.

The Czechs, who threw a healthy scare into the Canadians before bowing 6-3 in their opening game of the tournament's final round Monday, go against Sweden today while Russia, 4-1 victors over the Swedes, figure to have an easy time against Germany, which lost 7-3 to the U.S. squad Monday.

The all-important big scrambling Czechs proved quite a handful for the Canadians Monday, taking the lead twice and testing the Dutchmen to turn in some of their best kinks of the tournament before they finally fell behind.

IN SECOND PERIOD

Outplayed through most of the first half of the game, the Dutchmen flashed occasional bursts of speed in the second period and 11:41 of the end of the first period.

Zdenek Navrat, a Czech forward who looked as good as anyone in Olympic goal, slapped two past netminder Jesse Kasikonis to take away disdainfully from the entire Canadian team the second time while one Czech was serving a penalty.

Each of Navrat's tallies evoked a sustained Canadian offensive which eventually produced a tying marker. Vaclav Bubnik got the first, slapping in George Scholes' rebound to make it 2-2 at 11:41 of the end of the first period.

Jerry Theberge, the tournament scoring leader and the only Canadian to find the mark in every game, completed a play with Scholes and Kenny Laufman for his eighth goal to tie the score the second time at 7:26 of the second frame.

KEPT SCORING

This time the Dutchmen kept going. A pair of goals by Paul Knox fired them up again and gave them a 4-2 lead.

But the Czechs weren't through. With Canadian defenceman Art Hurst off for boarding, Vaclav Pantucek put them back within striking distance by poking the puck in from a goalmouth scramble.

It was still touch and go until halfway through the third period when Logan finished off a neat passing play with Knox and captain Jack McKenzie for the Dutchmen's fifth goal. Three minutes later Don Rope's first Olympic tally completed the scoring.

Each side collected six of the 12 penalties imposed by the Swiss and Swedish referees.

The Russians maintained their unbeaten string against the Swedes but for the first time a few hitches appeared in their smooth-flowing combination plays.

MAN-TO-MAN

Handicapped by the absence of first-string Lars Svensson and Erik Johnsson, one of their best forwards, the Swedes put up a man-to-man defence that bogged down the Russians for long stretches until their ability to capitalize on Swedish penalties paid off.

Russia's Alexei Guryshev and Sweden's Erik Brenna fired first-period goals but a slashing penalty to Russian defenceman Denz Zettenberg early in the second game Viktor Shuvalov the opportunity to put the Russians ahead. Another Swedish defender, Lars Bjoern, was penalized back to the ice after a penalty when Vasvolod Bobrov made it 3-1 in the opening minutes of the final session and a breakaway by Guryshev completed the final goal.

Obviously saving themselves for the big test against Canada tonight, the Americans breezed to a 6-0 lead over Germany in the first period. Then coasted home. Bill Cleary scored twice and set up two more tallies by Gord Christian to pace their offensive.

Markus Egen scored both Germany goals, one in each period as the Americans were two men short.

The Czechs have been a power in European hockey ever since they imported Mike Buckna from Trail, B.C., a native who had fled them to a world title in 1947. Under his direction they finished second and held Ottawa RCAF Flyers to a scoreless tie in the 1948 Olympics that was another world title in 1949.

Buckna then returned to Canada but the Czech team still shows the benefit of his coaching.

Vladimir Bouzek, the current Czech coach, paid tribute to the Canadians afterwards as the Easter team.

"It was a tough game," he said in a dressing-room interview. "The Canadian goalie was especially good. He was named manager of the New York Yankees' Binghampton club in the Eastern League Monday.

Bouzek didn't indicate whether he blamed the team's luck or goalie Denis Brodeur for a bit of larceny in the opening minutes as Vladimir Zabrodsky, one of the veterans of the Buckna era, skated down unmolested and Brodeur barely got a toe on his blazing drive.

Former Winners Favorites in Quebec Bonspiel

QUEBEC (CP)—The 43rd Quebec international bonspiel today entered its second day with last year's winners favored to capture the honors again this year.

Some 600 curlers representing a record entry of 128 rinks are competing for the Canadian Pacific trophy emblematic of the Canadian championship, including the main Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy. It was won in 1955 by Gaston Amyot's Quebec Jacques Cartier rink.

In order to qualify for the trophy rinks must reach the quarter-finals of either the Chateau International Trophy contest, the Omega International or the Francois Jobin International Gold Cup.

PRELIMINARIES BEGIN

The preliminary rounds of the Chateau and Omega contests got under way Monday, each competition accommodating half the 128 rinks. Losers in the first round games automatically entered the Francois Jobin consolation contest.

The bonspiel was officially opened at a civic reception Sunday night. Monday morning, the curlers were in for a welcome-curling breakfast party. Convict uniforms were worn by players from Kingston, Ont., rink skipped by Dr. E. E. Johns attracted the most attention.

One of the closest of the early matches saw a Sudbury, Ont., rink skipped by A. Dickie score an upset 9-8 victory over C. Vineberg rink of Ottawa West. Sudbury led after the seventh end but Ottawa roared back and almost pulled off the match.

Amyot's Jacques Cartier foursome, entered in the Omega competition, survived the second round Monday night with a 15-11 triumph over G. Trites' Campbellton, N.B., rink.

Last year's Omega winner, the Bathurst No. 1 rink skipped by Charles McAdam was curling in the Chateau contest this time. They graduated from the second round with a 9-7 win over the steelnerted Noranda, Que., team skipped by Maurice Fortier. The McArdle's team also won the grand aggregate in 1955.

Hamilton Holds Teeps to Tie; Marlies Nip Irish

By the Canadian Press

The race for playoff positions in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League is still close.

There were two games Monday night and neither changed the standings much. However, there were a couple of surprises.

St. Catharines Teepees, in front of the league pack by a comfortable margin, were held to a 4-4 overtime tie by the last place Hamilton Cubs. Toronto Marlboros upset the fourth-place Toronto St. Michael's Majors 4-3.

At Hamilton, before 1,350 fans, Cubs twice drove from behind the tie to score, Max Ellsworth, who had two goals, sent the engagement into overtime by beating goalkeeper Harry Edwards at 10:36 of the third period. Bob Rodenbury and Brian Smith each added singles for Hamilton. Gary Estough, Bob Hull, Art Stratton and Ed Hoekstra were the Teepee marksmen.

Teepees outplayed and outshot the Cubs but found Hamilton netminder Dennis Riggin too hard to handle. Riggin made 35 stops. Edwards handled 27 Hamilton shots.

The Marlies increased their lead to nine points over the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks. Marlies' night, Terps have 48 points. Cubs are last with 28.

At Toronto, Winnipeger Orale Nevin scored two goals, including the tie-breaker, at 14:30 of the second 140i victory of the season.

Nevin broke up the game at 17:35 of the third period when he unleashed a scorching blueline drive that left goalie Wally Kelly of the Majors beaten all the way.

Ken Girard and Bob Pulford scored the other Marlboro goals. Ginger Ubriaco, Dick Matthusi and Bill McMaster tallied for Majors. The loss, before 1,028 customers, left them in fourth place with 36 points, one ahead of Marlboros.

Undercurrent of Resentment Against Russians in Cortina

By Sterling Slaffey

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—An undercurrent of resentment against the Russians runs through much of the conversation in this Alpine village where the winter Olympics are being held.

You didn't have to walk half an icy block Monday night to hear a conversation along these lines:

"Amateurs with only a few days of intensive training can't win against Russians who train intensively the year round. It wouldn't be much longer such one-sided shows as the Olympics will go on!"

Many believe it won't be many years before something gives way. This group holds that either the Russians will kill the Olympics or other countries will forget the old definitions of amateurism and give their athletes all the training facilities and aid they need.

ANOTHER VIEW

Others believe that competition—not winning—is what counts and that the present situation will continue.

The seventh winter Games are almost half finished. With 19 of the 34 events completed, the Russians—taking part for the first time —already have 25 points, far more than any other team.

Team standings as such, are not recognized by the Olympic officials They maintain the Games are for individual competition. However, the press keeps team standings, based on the total of the first six six places in each event, and they are apparently of interest to the public.

No other nation has ever dominated the winter Games in the fashion of the Soviet Union. Such old time leaders as Norway, Finland, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States have been left far behind.

Russian official Roman Kiselev was asked recently: "How much do Russian professional athletes make." His reply was: "There are no professionals in Russia."

However, the Soviet athletes, particularly speed skaters, have admitted they spend as much as seven months a year in full-time training under extremely favorable conditions. Athletes of other countries, for the most part, confine their training to spare time and sharpen up in pre-Olympic competitions around the continent.

Kiseliev was asked: "If these athletes are the best in Russia, is the ice hockey team here the best one in Russia? Do you have better skiers than these?"

He answered: "Of course, these are the best of their kind."

Another question put to him was: "Who do you think would win, for instance, if Canada sent its best ice hockey players over here, men like Maurice Richard and Gordie Howe?"

His only reply to this one was: "Richard and Howe are not here."

While Canada's hockey team in the Olympics, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, is the senior champion at home, it isn't the best in the country when compared with clubs of the NHL, the Western and Quebec leagues. Thus, as Canadian hockey fans know, the games between Russia and Canada here are certainly no test of relative hockey ability between the two countries. But it's questionable whether many Europeans are aware of this.

REBEE EHLERS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Art Ehlers, first general manager of the Baltimore Orioles in 1954 after their move from St. Louis, was rehired Monday as their chief scout.

Ehlers was promoted to assistant general manager in 1955 when Paul Richards took the title as well as manager of the field. Ehlers' contract was terminated after the 1955 season.

Writers Honor Jimmy Peirsall

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Piersall, the Boston Red Sox outfielder who came back better than ever after a bout with a mental illness, held the title today of The Most Courageous Athlete of 1955.

The Philadelphia Sports Writers Association picked Piersall for its top award at its annual banquet Monday night.

Also honored were Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies ace pitcher, and Philadelphia outstanding athlete and Bob Pellegrini, Maryland's all-American football star, as lineman of the year.

Piersall overcame, through treatment, a mental disturbance which had made him unruly in competition and put him at odds with fellow players. He now is considered one of the finest outfielders in the American League.

No Shadow

Bruins Celebrating Brer Bear Day, Recent Hibernation Appears Ended

MONTREAL (CP)—While Montreal Canadiens were comfortably at the top of the National Hockey League standing and the merry battle goes on for individual scoring honors, it may be well to keep your eyes on the Boston Bruins.

The tail-end Bruins, making a belated bid for a playoff berth, seem to have found themselves in the last two weeks.

A study of the official NHL statistics released today shows that over the two-week stretch the aroused Bruins currently are playing the third best percentage hockey in the loop, picking up eight of a possible 12 points with four wins and two defeats.

For the same two weeks Canadiens and the second-place Detroit Red Wings have been clicking with percentages of .786 and .750, respectively.

New York Rangers, ousted from second place, have been playing only .417 hockey, Toronto Maple Leafs .286 and Chicago Black Hawks only .083. The Hawks' slump turned into a tailspin, one tie and five losses in two games. Gordie Howe of the Wings chalked up the hat trick against goal-tending-conscious Toronto Saturday night as a single point a week ago, Howe scored a goal and picked up three assists and one point in Sunday's Bellveau scored three goals to bring his total to 33.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal bagged two goals and two assists, breaking a third-place tie with Andy Bathgate of New York who had one goal and one assist. Richard now has 30 points and Bathgate 29.

Ted Sloan of Toronto, tied with Bellveau at 29 as top goal-getter, pulled into a point tie at 47 with Bert Olmstead of Montreal but gets fifth-place rating because of higher goal production.

Earl Reibel of Detroit, with a total of 45 points, followed by Dave Creighton and Dave Keon of New York with 41. Creighton had one goal and two assists in his three games last week.

Glenn Hall of Detroit pulled a little closer to Jacques Plante of Montreal as the top goalie. Hall's goals-against average now is 1.95, compared with 2.04 a week ago; Plante's is 1.82, compared with 1.78.

Turns Down Million and Half For Nashua

MIAMI (AP)—Leslie Combs II said Monday he and his partners have turned down an offer of $1,500,000 for Nashua, the world's most valuable race horse.

Combs said he was approached by an agent but did not know the identity of the intended purchaser. One source at Hialeah race track disclosed it was Horatio Murchos, British steamship magnate who has been investing lavishly in racing stock.

Murchos recently paid $126,000 for Nashua's mother, Segula.

Combs, a Lexington, Ky., breeder headed a syndicate which purchased Nashua from the estate of the late William Woodward, Jr., last Dec. 15 for a world record price of $1,251,200.

Olympic Notes

By STAN SWINTON

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The Olympic spirit of reconciliation is at work and today Norway and Sophia Loren are friends again.

Sophia is a shapely Italian film star who made Gino Lollobrigida and Marilyn Monroe back numbers in this Latin land.

In case you missed out on this international dispute, here's what happened:

A few months ago, the green-eyed actress was in Oslo for a film festival at the time a benefit was being held to send the Norwegian team to the Olympics.

Miss Loren was to be the benefit's big attraction, except that she didn't show up.

A storm developed.

FELT CHEATED

Miss Loren said no one told her about the date. Her manager said she was exhausted and had to go to sleep. Several thousand Norwegians felt cheated.

Questions were asked in the Italian Parliament.

The Norwegian and Italian press ticked up a fuss.

Monday night Sophia made amends.

She appeared at the Norwegian team hotel, shook hands all around and planted a big kiss on the cheek of Hallgeir Brenden, winner of the 15-kilometre cross-country ski race.

The Russians and the Japanese have brought their national spirit with them to the Olympics—vodka for the Russians and sake for the Japanese.

Athletes can't have it, but visitors to the team headquarters can. The Japanese are one-up on the Russians, though. They present each visitor with a fine porcelain sake cup to take home as a souvenir.

After watching his team in action against the Germans, Bob Bidder, the U.S. hockey coach, was jubilant.

"We're going to knock over at least one of the Big Three," he said. "I don't know if it is going to be Canada, Czechoslovakia or Russia, but we're going to lick one of them."

CHOOSE PRESIDENT

WINNIPEG (CP)—I. H. Hall of Montreal was elected provincial president of a National Association for Retarded Children by representatives of organizations from seven provinces who met here during the week-end. The organization will apply for a federal charter as soon as six provincial organizations have ratified a constitution.

Hornets Pointed For League Mark; Whip Reds 3-1

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Despite the loss of his star goaltender in the melee leagues—perhaps for the rest of the season, Horrach Horrie Meeker is pointing his Pittsburgh Hornets for an American Hockey League record.

The Hornets have won 19 in a row and are within six points of league - leading Providence, but Meeker seems not a whit worried that Gil Mayer is now playing with Toronto of the National Hockey League. Mayer was called up in a hurry to fill in for the injured Harry Lumley. Rookie Gerry McNamara of Toronto is replacing him for the Hornets.

McNamara was in the nets Saturday night when the Hornets won their 19th in a row from Providence 3-1. They can match the league's record of 11 consecutive victories—set by Cleveland in the 1943-44 season—if they get by Hershey Wednesday night.

"There's no reason why we shouldn't win," said Meeker. "I've got a team which goes all out for team play. But what I'm worried about, instead of a streak, is how to overhaul Providence. I think we can do it, though."

The Hornets, who won the league championship and the Calder Cup playoffs in Meeker's first season as coach in 1954-55, have played only 97 games to the 54 completed by Providence. Each victory counts two points. Providence has a 29-13 record and the Hornets 38-11.

'Y' Basketball

The Had Skyrockets defeated the Blue Bombers in the Junior "Y" Basketball House League Saturday by a score of 35 to 23. Rob Anderson led the Skyrockets playing a brilliant game both on defensive and offensive scoring 28 points. Whitfield went well for the losers scoring 13 points.

Teams — Red Skyrockets: Captain, Jr. Skinner 11, T. Potter 16, B. Anderson 28.

Blue Bombers: B. Pope 6, L. Doxzee, H. MacDonald, D. Whitfield 13, J. Peoples 4.

Schmidt Wins Over Campbell

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Schmidt of Toronto, Ontario welterweight champion, Monday night scored his third win in a row over Pat Campbell of Guelph in the main event of an amateur boxing card.

Schmidt produced a fast-swinging attack that kept Campbell on the defensive in all five rounds. The decision was unanimous. Both weighed 147.

Other results:

145 Pounds—Tommy McCoy, Niagara Falls, Ont., awarded a five-round decision over Al Moss, Toronto.

175 pounds—Johnny Morgan, Toronto awarded three-round decision over Don Smyler, Niagara Falls, Ont.

147 pounds—John De Gazzie, Niagara Falls, Ont., awarded a technical knockout over Reg Bender, Toronto, at 1:35 of second round of scheduled three-rounder.

Mighty Nashua Million-Dollar Wise Prods Trainer for Special Attention

By GAYLE TALBOT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The sum of $1,251,200 is not quite the dignified lump that it once was, when you could have bought a small railroad for that amount, but there still is a thrill in saying a few words to a horse that fetched such a figure.

Nashua is a beautiful animal, even when interviewed at Hialeah Park in the chill of the very early morning, when the Florida sun is struggling to work its way through the pines of the stable area. One could almost swear he knows what his new owners paid for him as he gazes majestically from stall No. 45 and thinks up new ways of getting attention from his groom, Art Robinson.

Nashua stomps and stomps while an expensive foreleg until Robinson jumps up in pretended exasperation with a "No, Mick! No, Mick!" and drives him back a step or two into the deep straw. Or Nashua nips at the spring which holds shut the special cage door of his stall to make it "whang" and, he knows that will bring Robinson, too.

JUST PLAYING

"Mick," Artie says, "you'd run a person crazy." He pretends to land a cuff-on the handsome animal's nose, and Nashua plays like he's biting back. You can tell that neither one is fooled, and that they are, in truth, extremely fond of each other. The difficulty with his charge right now, Artie explains, is that he's back in shape and wants to race.

For five weeks between the tragic death of Nashua's original owner, William Woodward Jr., and his record sale to the syndicate headed by Leslie Combs, the colt and his groom camped out on a farm near Paris, Ky. Nashua ran loose in a pasture and Artie says that he, Artie, nearly froze to death.

"It got down to 11 above once," he recalls, shuddering.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the 81-year-old trainer of Nashua, recognizes that the showpiece of his extensive stable is ready to run again, and he would like to let him stretch out for about seven-eighths of a mile before he goes in the $100,000-added Widener Handicap here Feb. 18, but it is not too easy to find exactly the right event and the right conditions, even with the track management offering its eager co-operation.

NOT ANY OLD RACE

"We'll have to wait and see how things turn out," said Fitz. "Nashua isn't going to run in any race, not even in the Widener, if the track is really bad, the way it was a couple of days after last week's heavy rain. His owners, of course, will have a say about that, too."

All Nashua knows is that every time he gets out there in the early morning and starts to show all those other horses how to really fly, there's a fellow sitting on him and hauling back on the bridle. This is Bill McCleary, the former famous jockey who now works the stars of Fitz's stable. Nashua is about to wear the veterans out. He was breathing heavily after he had worked Nashua—or vice versa—for a mile and a quarter.

"Some horses you can hold their heads up," McCleary said, "but not this one when he wants to go. He's too strong."

BEL AIR BEAUVILLE—4-Doors, 9-Passengers

Chevrolet offers you a choice of 4 sprightly new Station Wagons, including two new 9-passenger models!

"TWO-TEN" BEAUVILLE — 4-Doors, 9-Passengers. Section of middle seat folds for easy access to rear!

BEL AIR NOMAD — 2-Doors, 6-Passengers. Rear seat back and cushion fold level with floor!

"TWO-TEN" TOWNSMAN—4-Doors, 6-Passengers. Washable, all-vinyl interior lasts and lasts!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

THESE CHEVROLETS can knuckle down and work as hard as the next wagon — and they've got the linoleum-lined cargo space to prove it. Nearly 9 feet of it with the end gate down. But, let's face it, they'd much rather take off for a good time — and they've got the power and performance to prove that! A zippy, exciting kind of power that's fun to handle. And the closest thing to sports car performance — split-second steering reaction and the knack of holding fast around corners and curves — that you'll find in a full-size automobile. Utilitarian? Yes. A real road car? Most emphatically yes! And safer because of it. Come in for a ride and see.

Snead Edges 'Sliver' in Fish Duel

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) Ted Williams went 1 for 2 in the Silver Salifish Derby Monday but golfer Sam Snead held a 1-up lead after the first day of their private duel.

Snead had four strikes and brought two of the fish to the stern of his boat. Williams also had four strikes but could hold on to only one of the fish.

Williams, an amateur angler who has never caught a world record fish, said after arranging the match he never dreamed he was tired of reading about Snead's 12 pound bonefish which is a record catch.

Their catches during the two-day match also will be entered in the Silver Salifish Derby and any record-sized fish will be eligible for derby awards.

Russian Press Not Raving Over Olympics

MOSCOW (AP)—If the Russians have excited about their fine Olympic team, it's not the result of Soviet press coverage.

The newspapers have been playing down the Games, and only Pravda of the big dailies today gave any detailed coverage. Pravda ran thumbnail sketches of the Soviet athletes, but they were buried far down on the back page.

Radio Moscow merely announced the bare scores.

But there was one indication Monday night that the Russian citizen has more than a passing interest in the Games. A small group of men rallied silently in front of newspaper offices waiting for the paper to come up.

AT THE BELLE — Jayne Lewis and Jeff Richards, share romance, adventure and fun in "It's A Dog's Life", featuring the new cinema acting find, "Wildfire", M-G-M. comedy drama in CinemaScope and color, based on the classic story by Richard Harding Davis now showing at the Belle Theatre. Cornel Wilde, Ann Francis, Michael Wilding and George Sanders co-star in The Scarlet Coat, companion feature. A Tom & Jerry color cartoon is an added attraction.

AT THE McCARTHY — About Face is done by Shelley Winters who drops her glamour for a performance in the new Israeli film "I Am A Stranger" which also stars John Derek. DCA's provocative film "I Am A Stranger" which also stars John Derek, and is now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Milnteer

The purpose of an opening bid of two in a suit is to tell your partner your pair should keep going to at least a game. An opener of such a bid says, "I have and contains at least nine tricks.

With nine tricks you should try for a game even if it does not finally make. If you refuse to attempt game with so strong a hand of your own side will in the long run lose too many points in the long run.

You may say to yourself: "My partner may have an absolute worthless holding and if so he may not make a game." But there is no way for you to know this without a long count.

Frequently you do find partner with a complete bust. But this is no excuse for refraining from starting with a two bid when you have the value for it. Percentage favors you.

Partner may not have an ace or king or queen. Or even a jack. And still there is a chance that you may make game if you start with a hand of your own that contains nine tricks.

Take the south hand shown here:

♠A Q 10
♥A K J 7 5 2
♦A 3
♣6 5 4

You have six aces and kings and queens; three shorts in clubs. This is a long count of nine tricks. Without a picture card your partner may still help you make a game with length in some suit.

If not, there is still a chance that you will get a favorable lead. Such as an opening lead of a diamond or, a spade. Either of which will bring you close enough to expect game.

There is never any certainty that you will make any contract you reach in bridge. The game is so geared that any sound bidder will meet defeat under certain circumstances.

All you can hope for in bridge is to make the biggest number of hands you contract for. Expect defeats. If you do not you are playing for safe. Which, in bridge, is a losing game.

No Complacency Among Dodgers Says Manager

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Alston sees no danger of complacency stealing over his Brooklyn Dodgers.

"They all know they had to hustle to get up there and they'll have to keep hustling to stay," Alston said Monday after signing a new contract to manage the world series champions for a reported $22,500 salary. "They all realize this is another year."

Alston pointed to catcher Roy Campanella, pitcher Don Newcombe and third baseman Jackie Robinson as he spoke of his hopes for the new season. He discounted the problem of the Dodgers' advancing age.

"Campy, Newk and Jackie look pretty good to me," he said. "I think they all lost weight since the end of the season. Although they're getting older, they still get in plenty of runs.

SUSPEND DETECTIVE

HAMILTON (CP) — The chairman of Hamilton's police commission, Judge William F. Schwenger said Monday that detective Dexter Parsons has been suspended and asked to resign. He said Parsons was convicted under the Police Act of receiving a present without the permission of chief Len Lawrence. Parsons gave notice Monday that he will appeal the case.

Tony Curtis Says Europeans Chained to Tradition in Style

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie actresses are often bouncing back from Europe with views pro and con on fashions over there. Now Tony Curtis files a report for American males.

His verdict: They dress better over here.

Tony is no slouch when it comes to male attire. He has won awards for being best dressed and is one of the few real stylists in men's clothing to arrive in Hollywood since Cary Grant, who is Tony's idol.

Tony returned recently from five months of swinging on "Trapeze" with Burt Lancaster and Gina Lollabrigida in Europe. His observation of male styles rates the countries this way:

1. Italy.
2. England.
3. France.

DON'T COMPARE WITH U.S.

"But none of the countries can compare with the United States," he said, "and that's not merely because our living standards are higher. The average European may earn less than an American, but don't forget that the cost of clothing is much less over there.

"No, it's a matter of style, and the Europeans are chained to tradition. The Italians are the most adventurous. Some of their sport clothes are good-looking, though not as stylish as ours. And the cut of their suits is just flattering.

"The English will occasionally wear sport clothes, but they don't have any dash to them. In town, they wear the same thing —the bowler hat and double - breasted suit. They all want to look like Sir Anthony Eden. But that style went out of date 10 years ago.

"The French are the worst-dressed men across all over the same uniform, as if they were all members of the Doubled-breasted suit with narrow shoulders and pegged trousers. The colors are nothing to them.

Incidentally, he said, the double-breasted suit never did look good on a man. It didn't keep anyone any warmer and it did not conceal a paunch if one was there.

President Eisenhower Is Not Avid Viewer of Television

By CHARLES MERCER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like many another busy male citizen of the United States, President Eisenhower is not an avid viewer of television. He simply hasn't the time.

But he is deeply interested in television and watches a variety of programs whenever he can. Available to him and Mrs. Eisenhower when they are home at the White House are four black and white TV sets and one color set. They have a color set, also, in Gettysburg, Pa.

It would be interesting news if one could report the specific favorite programs of the president and his family whenever one can. But that's top secret. As the Eisenhowers and their official family are keenly aware, their personal likes and dislikes would make much public interest in certain programs that the results could be most unfair to many other programs.

SPECIAL INTEREST

Naturally the Eisenhowers always are interested in seeing newsprogram pickups of the president's televised press conferences, to television — chiefly, perhaps, because the medium has grown so immensely since 1952.

"The president thinks of television as a great medium of both entertainment and education," says his press secretary, James C. Hagerty. "He believes it should be applied to government and the news events of the world. It helps keep people informed every day."

When he watched press conferences to television because we believe it is one more way of keeping people informed on the views of the president of the United States. Television supplements the excellent news coverage of the newspapers which present read in detail at their own convenience."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed. Feb. 1, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Helpful, stimulating days. Accomplishment in all wholesome endeavors favored. It should be a happy day for family relations, romance. Guard principles.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't attempt more than you can handle and so unfit yourself generally to do a good job in matters prominent. Back wise plans with careful action.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Today's aspects should give further impetus to your clever thinking. Your adaptability and general attitude of cooperation. Tolerance of others will be a big factor.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be as mindful of courtesy in the home as you are among strangers. That thoughtful word will build the good will needed in emergencies. No day for dallying.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Just all as you would be treated, but where you have given the benefit of the doubt and found a person truly wasting in good judgment, then be firm and do not cooperate with him.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take care of small tasks, of course, but do not let important matters suffer for lack of coordination or system. Keep fit.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A better day than you may suppose. And you will achieve more than you think if you are busy, practical, and your usually well-rounded capable self — though results may not show till later.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — It is as important to blend to the minds but necessary matters on time as it is to give your best to the bigger tasks. Know when to stop for rest, too.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — A day for possible alterations, revising of schedule, etc. Do you wish to achieve faster, or would—the stepped-up tempo and-airish be too much? Be a careful judge.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Although aspects were against erratic moods and moods, they could help the best efforts. You can make progress, profits, gain pleasure. Don't brood; be happy.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Don't guess, or take foolish chances. If not sure, listen, observe. Then proceed "on your own." Be careful whom you trust in personal matters. Protect your interests.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — It may take you longer to accomplish today than anticipated, but don't be upset or disappointed. Have some wholesome fun.

You born today are a happy combination of intellectual interest and practical ability. And you like a good time and the association of high-principled, happy friends. You are a congenial spouse, earnest worker and family provider. Sometimes you give too much time to others' interests and, when your own affairs suffer, you are blamed. You can be appealed to through quiet reasoning, but resent quick criticism. You are suited to teaching and caring for the ill because of your tolerance and understanding. Birthdate of: Victor Herbert, composer; Sir Edward Coke, noted Eng. jurist.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking to himself comfortable, and ma said, William, What would you say if I told you that you're looking a little pale?

I'd say I just happened to remember that it's about time for the munth's bills to start poring in, pop said. It's a wonder I didn't slide off the chair in a faint, he said, and ma said, Now William it's serious. What would you say if I told you that you are quite pale? she said.

I'd say you must have talcum powder on your eyelashes, pop said, and ma said, I meen it, William, suppose I told you that you was definitely pale? What then? she said.

Then I'd tell you that you ought to have your eyes examined by a optick specialist, pop said. Yes gosh, I'm blooming with helth and herrlding with vitality. I'm as hard as nales. I'll let anybody punch me in the stumick if they wanna not to sue me if they brake their nuckles. I'll bet you a hundred dollers to a dime I'll outlive all creations that I could go and get a check up tomorrow and my metabolism would be over 20 and my blood count would be a million to the square inch, he said.

That wouldn't mean a thing, ma said. The very fact that you're considering seeing a doctor is ample proof. I was reeding an article on the nerves of men and mentale medecine, and it seems that 9 tenths of the sads and ailments spring from baseless imagination. I assure you there is nuthing pale about you, William, except, perhaps, for land sakes dont start worrying about it, or gosness knows what will happen, she said.

I think I need an aspirin, but I'll take your advice and do without it, pop said.

Which he did.

Wins 10,000 Metres

Swede Breaks Russian Hold On Speed-Skating Monopoly

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—A Swede broke Russia's speed-skating monopoly on the Olympic Games today as the Soviet Union's march to the unofficial team title was slowed.

Sigge Ericsson, 26-year-old mill-hand from Sundsvall, broke the Olympic record for the 10,000-metre speed skating event in 16:35.9. It was the first victory for anyone but a Russian in the four speed-skating events to date.

Austria's Tony Sailer made two daring descents down the treacherous Canalone slope to win the men's special slalom and his second gold medal of the winter Games.

Sverre Stenersen, 26 - year - old Norwegian, overcame a Russian athlete's lead in the figure skating blend to win the event with a big margin in the cross-country ski race. Russia's Yry Moschkin has been ahead after Sunday's jumping event of the double-barrelled competition.

HOLD BIG LEAD

United States figure skaters maintained their 1-2 lead in the women's compulsory figures while Carole Jane Pachi of Seattle held sixth place and Toronto's Ann Johnston moved up to seventh. The last two of the five compulsory figures were held today. The free skating, which counts for the remaining 40 per cent to the scoring, will be held Thursday and the Americans are almost certain victors.

Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., the world champion, increased her lead in the figure skating despite considerable pain from an ankle injury suffered in pre-Olympic training.

Ericsson's victory broke the Russian monopoly on speed-skating honors. Soviet athletes had previously won the first three events—the 500, 1,500 and 5,000 metres!!

Olympic Standings

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP) — Unofficial standings by countries based on a 7-5-3-2-1 traditional point score for the first six finishers) after final events for six days at the winter Olympics:

Russia	89
Austria	46
Norway	42
Sweden	39
Finland	27
Switzerland	18½
Italy	18
Germany	10
United States	9½
The Netherlands	6
France	6
Japan	5
Poland	4
Spain	2
Canada	1

breaking world records in the first four Olympic marks in all three.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen face the United States tonight after pulling out a tough 6-3 decision over Czechoslovakia Monday in their opening test of the final round of the hockey tournament.

Russian skaters sped to their third victory Monday as Mikhailov and Eugeniy Grishin shared the 1,500-metre gold medal with identical times of 2:08.6. The official world record, Grishin's 2:09.8, also was bettered by Finland's Juhani Salonen, who finished third in 2:09.4.

Canada's only point-winner in the Games thus far, Lucille Wheeler of Oak Bovile, Que., met disaster in her bid to repeat.

Competing in the women's slalom, the Canadian combined champion fell on her first run and was disqualified. She had finished sixth last Friday in the giant slalom. Renee Colliard of Switzerland won the event.

Premier Mollet Tells Assembly Of His Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet today announced his new cabinet before a packed National Assembly from which he seeks confirmation in office.

Deputies of all parties, including Communist leader Maurice Thorez who now rarely appears in parliament, crowded the floor of the chamber.

Pierre Mendes-France (Radical-Socialist), was named minister of state without portfolio.

The completion of the cabinet and the reporter Mollet planned appeared designed to woo support of Mouvement Republicain Populaire as a substitute for Communist backing. The slightly left of centre Catholic group is the French equivalent of "a Christian Democrat party."

Mollet's platform was said to stress both France's ties to the Atlantic alliance and the few drive for West European unification. This, plus the pro-peace record of pro - Europeans in the cabinet, would make it difficult for the Communists to vote for Mollet. MRP leaders are among the chief French backers in the European unity movement.

Russ Will Foot Canadian Bill, Or No Hockey

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Canada served notice today that she does not intend to continue footing the bill for sending a team to the world hockey championships in Europe.

Jmes Dunn, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, told a special meeting of the International Ice Hockey Federation today that a Canadian team will visit Moscow next year only if the Russians pay the guarantee.

The CAHA paid out more than $30 last year to bring Penticton Vs to the world hockey championships in Germany. It is estimated the cost of the tour of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's entry in the Olympics, will exceed the CAHA the same amount.

Russian delegates at the meeting offered to pay travelling expenses for 20 Canadians from the Soviet Amateur Athletic Union to turn plus all living expenses for 15 days in Moscow.

Dunn replied that Canada "would not even consider sending a team" to the Moscow world championships unless all expenses were guaranteed from Canada to Moscow and return.

Daring Rescue Made in Alaska By Two Planes

NOME, Alaska (AP) — The injured commander of the Alaska national guard and a disabled commercial pilot were removed from the shattered remains of their plane Monday in a daring rescue by three pilots and a druggist.

Brig.-Gen. John R. Noyes was reported in fair condition with numerous injuries and extreme exposure. Maj. Harold Roth, pilot of the crashed plane, suffered minor injuries and exposure.

Noyes' injuries remained in the same position it took Friday when the plane hit a mountain. Roth were riding with two other men crashed into the top of a high mountain and slid 300 feet down its icy slopes, 25 miles northeast of this bleak northern outpost.

The two men riding with Noyes and Roth, Sgt. Robert August of Nome, the mechanic, and Maj. Francis Slegward, commander of the Alaska air national guard's 1st scout battalion here, started the long walk to the nearest house to Nome Sunday, two days after the plane crashed. They were spotted from the air and intercepted on the ground shortly after a Civil Air Patrol plane piloted by Phillip Lancaster of Nome located Noyes' downed craft.

CARRIED UP SLOPE

Lancaster and his flying companion, Martin Olson, landed their light craft at a level spot near the isolate mountain and were soon joined by Bill Munz, another bush pilot, and Nome druggist Boyd Harwood, in another plane.

Two para-medics accompanied by radio administered first aid to the injured men. Then, with a slight meaning a tumble down the three bush pilots and Harwood started a tortuous climb to the summit of the mountain with the injured men on stretchers.

From the top of the mountain the two injured men were flown to Nome.

Prophet Jones' Home Disturbed By Gunman

DETROIT (AP) — Tranquility returned today to the 34-room Detroit home of self-styled "Prophet Jones" following its invasion by a gunman who terrorized the household by firing a shot.

Nobody was hurt, but pandemonium reigned for a time Monday in the home of the Negro religious leader.

A spokesman said the gunman, white, forced his way into the pastorial residence and demanded an audience with Jones. The intruder fired a single shot over the heads of attendants after one of them ducked upstairs to warn the preacher. The gunman then fled.

Jones, whose congregation has shunned him with courtly gifts including diamonds and ermine, later said the incident could mean God wanted him to move from Detroit to New York. He has been shopping for a home in Queens in New York where he has a large following, associates said.

ORDERS DISMISSAL

MONTREAL (CP) — A police disciplinary board Monday ordered the dismissal of constable Jacques Cloutier, who was arrested during elections Saturday for questioning in connection with a recent series of automobile thefts and looting of automobile accessories.

British Soldier, Greek Students, Hurt in Clashes

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Several British soldiers were injured along with at least five Greek Cypriot students and two civilians as new clashes flared up in the Cyprus towns today in support of Greek Cypriot demands to end the island be united with Greece.

The biggest of the clashes occurred in the normally quiet north coast port of Kyrenia where hundreds of students battled troops who charged at the demonstrators with nightsticks and tear gas.

Another clash occurred at Morphou, 25 miles west of here when 500 students, including some hurling teen-age girls, battled with British troops after students barricaded the main road and stoned a British patrol car.

SUSPECT SABOTAGE

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Fire Monday night destroyed nearly a quarter of Sweden's biggest oil refinery. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. Officials of the refinery at Nynashamn, 25 miles south of Stockholm, said sabotage was suspected, as the fire had started in a hermetically sealed tank filled with 3,200,000 gallons of crude oil. A police investigation was ordered.

Oppose Jamming Athens Radio

LONDON (AP)—The Eden government today faced snowballing opposition to its plans to jam Albanian radio broadcasts to riot-torn Cyprus.

Both Labog and the government's own Conservative support is joined in the criticism, asserting that jamming would violate one of Britain's most cherished principles —freedom of speech and of the air waves.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons Monday that the government considers Athens radio as "accessory" to murders of Britons on Cyprus. Britain's east Mediterranean colony where Cypriots of Greek descent are waging a violence campaign for union with Greece.

Accused of Libel

MONTREAL (CP)—Two individuals and a printing company accused of libelling the chief of the city morality squad were ordered Monday for trial Feb. 14 before a judge alone.

Jacques Saurioi, member of the provincial censorship board, Gaston Houle, editor of the weekly Nouvelles et Potins, and the Hebdo Printing Company have been charged with libelling inspector Armand Courval in an article published last Sept. 17 in Nouvelles et Potins.

It's expensive.

First, you have to start with lessons.

A good coach usually charges $10 an hour.

How many lessons?

Some boys and girls have won championships with only one half-hour lesson, a week. Others take five half-hour lessons a week. Costumes.

If you're handy with a needle, that's simple. If not, they range from about $50 to $100.

Skates?

You can get an ordinary pair for about $20, but at the Olympic level, they'r $35 and up. And two pairs, one for compulsory skating and the other for free skating. Each pair must be attached to boots, which can cost up to $30 a pair.

What does this add up to?

A few years back, the proud father of a pair of top-flight figure skaters said it cost him more than $20,000 to bring his children into Olympic competition.

Toppazzini Tops American Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — Zellio Toppazzini of Providence, who has averaged better than a point a game in his American Hockey League career, is still the big man in scoring this week in the AHL.

The Reds' winger added five points last week for a total of 77—on 32 goals and 45 assists—and a healthy 14-point margin over runner-up Ken Wharram of Buffalo, who had 63 on 16 goals, 47 assists.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh, who was a stand-in last week for Toronto's injured Harry Lumley in the National Hockey League, retained his goaltending with an average of 2.57 goals allowed a game.

The quaint religious and social system which governs the Hutterites' way of living is practically the same as it was 400 years ago in the Swiss Alps in the 16th century. Three of the younger girls at the Wilson Siding, Alta., colony said they feared punishment at having this photo taken but then asked the photographer to send prints to them. They attend school at Wilson Siding, 20 miles south of Lethbridge. (CP Photo).

Quaint Religious and Social System of Hutterites Prevails

By DAVID GANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WILSON SIDING, Alta. (CP)—The impact of modern civilization is changing the Hutterites' way of earning a living. But the quaint religious and social system which governs the colonies still is practically the same as it was 400 years ago.

The sect now is enjoying greater prosperity than at any time since it was founded in the Swiss Alps in the 16th century. The Hutterites have advanced rapidly from the primitive methods of farming they used a few years ago and now have reached a stage where their colonies are among the best-equipped, large-scale farming operations on the continent.

Christ and the Bible are the Hutterites' guide. Theirs is a life well-insulated from the stream of community life around them. They refuse to vote in elections or take part in community activities and only within the last 20 years have they bowed to the law which compels children to attend school.

PATRIARCHAL HEAD

"We would rather be burned at the stake than go out and live the kind of life most people lived in the world," said Rev. John Wurz, 77-year-old head of the Wilson Siding colony, 20 miles south of Lethbridge. He is the recognized head of the world's 10,000 Hutterites, half of whom live in Alberta.

Mr. Wurz speaks and understands a German dialect better than he does English. He bears a striking resemblance to the ancient prophets as depicted by medieval painters and he dresses simply in the standard black garb of his people. He has an unkrimmed grey beard and long, white hair which hangs straight over his ears and collar.

He makes an urgent plea for freedom for the Hutterites to practise their religion and way of life without outside interference.

"We are the only true Communists in the world," he said. "We have the spiritual idea in our organization. The Bolsheviks are tyrants who do not believe in almighty God and who want the whole world for themselves."

The basis of the Hutterite philosophy of life is a verse from the book of Acts: "And all that believed were together and had all things in common. And sold their possessions and goods and parted them to all men, as every man had need."

HUTTERITE LEADER

URGE RESTRICTIONS

In Manitoba some groups of citizens call for legislation to restrict expansion of Hutterite colonies. They describe the sect as a "body of strict practising Communists under a strongly organized, semi-alien, self-seeking and aggressive Communist system."

In Alberta a law restricts land purchases by the sect.

The main criticism seems to have developed from the rapid increase in recent years in Hutterite land holdings and the sect's determination to remain aloof from community and public life.

"They don't do anyone any harm," said one Albertan. "They mind their own business and pay their taxes and bills promptly without haggling. But on the other hand what good do they do?"

"We do everything the people and the government ask of us," said Mr. Wurz.

"We pay our taxes and are always willing to help others. Through the years we have always extended a helping hand to non-Hutterites in need. But we don't want to do anything that is forbidden by God."

WANDERING GROUP

The Hutterites' way of life has kept them at odds with their neighbors since the 16th century. Through the years they moved from country to country seeking a haven where they could live the life they thought was right.

Roughly 75 years ago the world's 400 Hutterites left Russia to settle in the Dakotas of the United States. Since then their number has increased roughly 25 times.

The members of the sect were described by the U.S. population reference bureau as being among the most prolific people on earth. If the present birth rate continues the Hutterite population will double every 16 years.

It was the Hutterites' refusal to bear arms during the First World War that brought resentment in the U.S. and started the movement of colonies into Manitoba and Alberta in 1918.

The federal government welcomed them and gave them a guarantee, withdrawn a year later, of exemption from military service. There was no open hostility to their coming in either Alberta or Manitoba. They settled on generally poor land, and as a result of their industriousness, frugality and simple life, this land was rapidly developed into splendid farms.

Now there are 61 colonies in Alberta, 22 in Manitoba and six in Saskatchewan. Others are in the United States, Paraguay and England.

Hutterites regard their most economical unit as a colony having 90 "souls", but through the years the number of residents on a colony has risen steadily and some have as many as 200 "souls." Normally when a colony reaches this size, it "swarms" and a "daughter colony" is formed.

Early in the Second World War troubles again beset the Hutterites.

REFUSED TO FIGHT

Public indignation against the Hutterites increased as other residents of Alberta joined the armed forces and farmers were left to carry on their operations without their sons. The Hutterites flatly refused, because of their religious views, to work in any job which was connected with the war effort.

To ease the hostile situation and in 1944 passed the Land Sales Prohibition Act, which forbade any existing holds of land by purchase, lease or rental.

After the war this legislation was modified, but Hutterites now can buy land only if it is located at least 40 miles from the nearest Hutterite-owned land. Before the purchase can be completed, the land must be offered for public sale for at least 90 days. Legislation also limits colonies to 6,400 acres.

This restrictive legislation forced the crowded colonies to find new areas and many overflowed into Montana and Saskatchewan where no such laws exist.

Mr. Wurz claims the Alberta law as discrimination.

"I still feel that Christians would never have passed such a law. The men who have been our government professed to be Christians and I defy any of them to show me where Christ has ever forbidden any of his people to buy land."

He is bewildered by the oft-repeated suggestion that Hutterites leave the province and the country.

"Where can we go? What country is prepared to give us the religious freedom and the right to live as our forefathers taught us?"
